Candidates in Races for Supervisor Posts

By BILL SANFORD

The newly-created Lenawee County Board of Supervisors has lured 61 candidates into the races for 21 district seats. The primary will be held Aug. 6. A total of 23 Democrats and 38 Republicans have filed for the posts.

In District 6 of Tecumseh City, Democrat Frank Laskey is running unopposed. Two Republicans have filed for the nomination, Fay Whelan and Delbert King.

In District 7 of the city, Wallace Whiting, Democrat and Terrence Wagner, Republican, are unopposed for their party's preference.

District 1, composed of Clinton and Macon townships, find the present supervisor from Clinton, M. M. Halley, Republican, seeking the new position. He is opposed by Harold Gasner. On the Democratic side, Joseph J. Conklin is the lone candidate.

District 8, Raisin and Tecumseh township, find Democrat Shirley Van Sickle and Republican William Mackey unopposed for nomination. Both Art Eaton, Tecumseh township and James Mitchell of Raisin, decided not to seek the new post. Mitchell had filed with the county clerk, but withdrew at the last moment.

Deerfield and Ridgeway townships in District 9 find Stacy Zilke, Republican, as the sole candidate for either party in the primary. Zilke is a veteran of the present board.

District 2, Cambridge and Franklin Townships, Ronald Brown, Republican, and present member, is assured of election, due to the lack of competition, either Republican or Democrat.

Many of the other veterans of the board have decided not to run for the newly-created office. The new board is not to be confused with the present board. Present township supervisors will still remain in office, but they will not be allowed to serve in the new capacity.

Ray Jackson of Franklin township has resigned from the board and did not seek the new post due to his election as president of the Products Workers Union.

Some of the other veterans running for election are John Keller of Fairfield. Keller is chairman of the finance committee and often the object of criticism from members of education and other areas of county interest for his conservative policies.

Present chairman of the board, Harry Dusseau, of Palmyra, is facing Merrill Hull of Blissfield for the supervisor post in District 10. This might prove to be the closest of the contests in the out-county area.

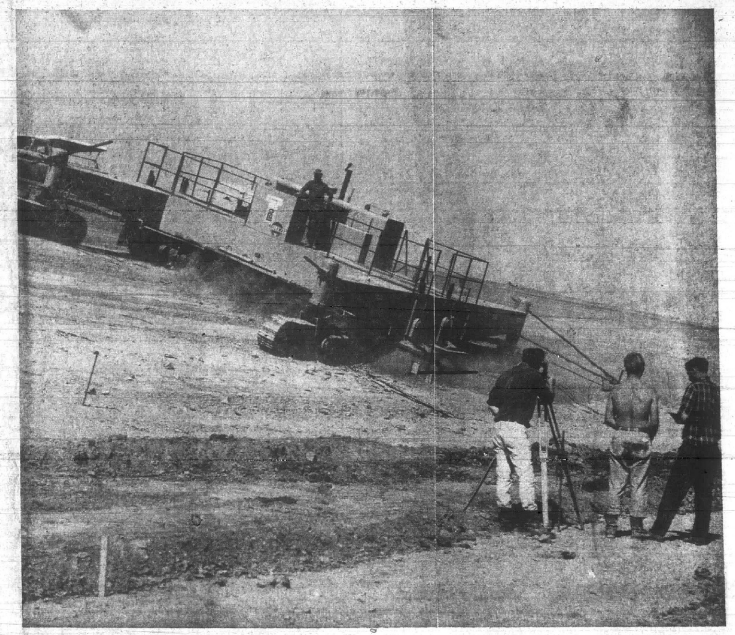
Some races in Adrian city will also be close as several candidates have filed for individual districts. Democrats have high hopes of picking up two of the seats from Adrian.

Districts 3 and 4 are also high on the list insofar as the Democrats are concerned with Ralph McRoberts in 4. Rome and Dover and part of Rollin, a present member of the board, seeking the seat and Kenneth Nicklov in 3, Woodstock and half of Rollin, another Democrat in hopes of winning election.

None of the present members from Tecumseh city will be present when the new board convenes. Mayor Harold Easton, City Manager Cal Zorn, Don Sunderland and the Rev. R. O. Bashore will all be ineligible for membership.

The old board which is in its last stages, has been a part of the county scene since the State of Michigan was instituted. The new state law concerning boards ruled out township supervisors and other city and township officials from the board as being in conflict of interest.

The salary of the new board is undetermined. According to the legislature, the new board is authorized to establish its own salary scale.



ELECTRONIC GRADER — Michigan International Speedway officials are certain of a grade with a variance of less than an inch with this giant machine. At the present, the final grade is being put to the MIS track with six and a half inches of asphalt scheduled for topping next week. Paving is expected to last about a month but will be finished in plenty of time for the track's inspection on Sept. 1. The first MIS race is set for Oct. 13 with a $75,000 purse expected to attract the top national and international drivers. Ticket orders are being taken at Flanders Music Store and William M. Powell Real Estate.

Earn-A-Bike

Earn-A-Bike Promotion for new subscriptions to The Herald starts next Monday — as many youngsters already know.

The promotion will run for two weeks, ending Aug. 2. Prizes, new bikes or transistor radios, will be awarded at the newspaper's office on Aug. 3.

For over 10 years, The Herald has sponsored the promotion and has given away approximately 150 new bicycles. Youngsters must sell 15 new subscriptions for a bike, and 10 to 14 for a radio.

Complete details — including forms for parents to sign and receipts — are now available.

Hill 2nd, Wins $15,000 at Buick

If TV surveys are somewhere near accurate, upwards of 20 million were watching the tube Sunday afternoon, watching the finals of the Buick Open at Warwick Hills, just south of Flint at Grand Blanc.

Center of attraction was Mike Hill, ex-Tecumseh Country Club pro, making a bid to capture the first place bonanza of $25,000 plus.

Unfortunately, as hundreds watched here — plus the millions elsewhere and plus 40,000 fans surrounding the 18th green — Mike pulled a five-foot putt which would have sent him into a sudden death play-off with Tom Weiskoff, the winner.

However, the 29-year-old pro, who calls Jackson his home, picked up a "mere" $15,000 to boost his earnings to nearly $25,000 in just four tournaments.

For two years, he failed to qualify for the pro tour, and then about two months ago he passed at the PGA school in Florida.

In four outings since he has been superb — finishing second to famed Billy Casper at the Indy 500, and then second Sunday at Warwick Hills. Casper, of course, is leading all pros in earnings.

Many local golfing fans attended the tournament to watch their favorite. Those we talked with also commented that the fans were pulling for Mike to beat Weiskoff, the second leading money winner on the circuit.

Hill was the sentimental favorite.

Vandals Hit Park, Area

City officials were sickened Friday morning when vandalism was discovered at the new Tecumseh Park, formerly the Pit.

Two windows were broken in the new $54,000 building. A bike rack was thrown into the water. Picnic tables, chained to the ground, were ripped out, stacked over an incinerator with the apparent thought of setting fire to them.

New sod also was lifted from the ground and thrown into the lake. One picnic table was even placed on the raft in the water.

Repairs were made in time for the dedication ceremony Saturday morning, but the vandalism is known to have troubled local officials.

Other vandalism has occurred there.

Police Chief Murell Clark says the department has suspects, but no grounds to pick up the youngsters.

Retaining Wall 50 Feet Long, Costing $7,000

Architectural plans for a new, 50-foot long retaining wall at the River Raisin bridge on N. Evans St. have been submitted to the city with an estimated cost of $7,000.

Cal Zorn, city manager, hopes to have bids for the construction at the Aug. 5 Council meeting.

Other work now being contemplated includes covering a portion of the slope, beneath the bridge, also with concrete.

New pavement for the street will not be installed until after all other work is completed, Mr. Zorn says.

Change Lifted

Tecumseh's swimming pool at the high school was entered late Monday night or early Tuesday morning with the loss of some small change.

Entry was made by climbing the fence and then entering through a dressing room. Money was taken from a wooden cabinet, which was pried open.

Council To Hear Dump Proposal

Dee Stucker, owner and operator of Lenawee Disposal, is scheduled to attend Monday night's Council session and to explain his proposal for residents here to use his landfill, or dump, at Palmyra.

City officials, faced with the possibility of closing the local dump, discussed using Stucker's landfill at the July 1 meeting.

Officers from townships, using the city dump, have also been invited to the meeting.

Vandals on Rampage

Complaints of malicious destruction of property have soared early this month with the local police already investigating over 20 incidents.

Besides the vandalism at Tecumseh Park last week, other destruction included automobiles, apartments under construction, schools, residences and other buildings.

A summary for some of the vandalism this month is:

July 1 — Buck Maynard, Fleet-Wing station operator, reported damage to three cars at his bulk plant on S. Maumee St. Damage included broken headlights, taillights, theft of two radios and damage to another, theft of a battery, damaging outside mirrors and other breakage.

July 1 — Robert Miller, 410 E. Logan, reported air valves taken out of all four tires, resulting in flattened tires to the vehicle.

Neighbor William Becky, 414 E. Logan, had one flat tire.

July 4 — The Milford Loars, 1100 Sunset Dr., had a screen kicked in but no entry to their home was made.

July 8 — Window broken at high school.

July 8 — John Birchfield reported eight windows either broken or shot out at the Tecumseh Tire Exchange building on E. Cummins St.

July 8 — Several large holes were discovered in walls of the new apartments under construction on S. Evans St. Mrs. Mable Mack, 209 S. Evans St., reported seeing two young subjects enter the apartments and called the police. They had fled before the officers arrived. William Powell, real estate businessman and owner of the apartments, had previously reported other vandalism there.

Dike Diverts Flow But Dam Uncertain

A 40-foot dike was built at the head of the River Raisin race to Globe Mill Pond Saturday, diverting all river water around the now near-barren pond.

Perry Satterthwaite, president of Hayden Fuel and Supply, which owned the Globe dam, washed out by heavy rains two weeks ago, says an engineer inspected the site Monday but has not yet filed any reports.

He says another engineering inspection will be made and expects to have information relative to replacing the dam in 10 days or two weeks. He is still undecided about replacing the dam, however.

Only water now flowing into the pond comes from Evans Creek. Normally in July, the creek is at a very low stage but continuous rains have resulted in a far larger than normal flow.

Rain Total Tops 7 Inches Last Month

Tired of rain? Records at Tecumseh's disposal plant will tell you why.

Since June 21 — less than three weeks ago — the city has recorded a total of 7.26 inches, almost enough for an entire summer.

During June, we had 16 days of rain for a total of 6.38 inches. Over five inches fell in a four-day period, and on June 25, when Globe Mill Pond dam went out and water closed the N. Evans St. bridge, 3.74 inches fell.

Last Friday, July 5, records show a fall of .97 of an inch, all in just over a half hour. So far this month, Tecumseh has had 1.45 inches of rain.

Ray Jackson Resigns Post

Ray Jackson, Franklin Township Supervisor for the past three and a half years, has submitted his resignation, effective July 15.

He was recently elected president of the union at the Tecumseh Products.

His letter of resignation was submitted at a recent board meeting, at which time members accepted the resignation of Melvin Smith from the zoning board; learned that an investigation is being made regarding two illegally parked trailers; and heard a report that the township's appeal against increased equalization for tax assessments had been denied.

$97 Is Taken At Hayden Mill

Hayden Mill was broken into late on the night of July 4th or early Friday morning with $97 taken from a cash box, Joseph Hayden, general manager, reports.

Burglars pried open a locked door on the third floor of the mill, entered the room and then climbed a small ladder to a shelf where the cash box was kept.

Both cash box and money bag were taken.

Chamber's Annual Sidewalk Sale Planned Aug. 2

Tecumseh's annual Sidewalk Sale will be held Friday, Aug. 2, with a rain date set for the following day, D. J. Martin, Chamber of Commerce president, announces.

Some promotions for the public are being considered, including large balloons for the children.

In recent years, the city has promoted a "Battle of the Bands" involving numerous local and area combos. It will not be held this year as many folks complained of the loud "noise".

Hire Counselor at High School

Thomas Muncie, of Milford, has been employed by the Tecumseh schools as a high school guidance counselor. He replaces Robert Benham, who resigned.

The high school still needs a woman guidance counselor.

BEHIND PAGE ONE

Tecumseh teens are tops.

Last Saturday the floats from the park dedication parade were parked on Cummins Street. Neighborhood children proceeded to make a general mess of the nearby lawns and the street, by tearing tissues from the floats and strewing them around. Later that afternoon some teenagers came along, surveyed the mess and cleaned up all the litter.

Raymond VanTuyle, 509 West Cummins extends a hearty "Thank You" to those young people who tidied up his lawn and those of his neighbors.

Jim Fielder narrowly escaped injury when a large rocket exploded as he was igniting it at the Tecumseh Fourth of July fireworks display. All that was left of the noise-maker was a big hole in the ground. Now, it appears likely there will be some sort of electrical mechanism worked out for discharging the fireworks next year. Sounds safer.

Bruce Corley, candy chairman for the Little League, said Tuesday that the report of the sale is not yet complete and winner for top sales award has not been determined but he hopes to have the result for next week's issue of The Herald.

A new contest, "Governor's Cookie Jar" will be held at the Michigan State Fair August 23 - Sept. 2 this year. Governor George Romney will be presented with the winning cookie jar, filled with six different kinds of cookies, along with the winner's name and address on Governor's Day.

Christmas in July came Tuesday without a snowstorm for Mike Bates and Brian Des Ermia. A representative of the Thomas-Vox Co., William Winstrom, played Santa Claus when the two boys were mooning over a top record album at Flanders Music while trying to figure out who needed a lawn mowed to earn the necessary amount for the albums.

VOICE of THE HERALD

Pulling for Mike

Unfortunately for the hometown, we have little to crow about in boasting of national sport stars. We still don't, but we'd like to steal a little thunder from nearby Jackson.

In 1966, Mike Hill became the golf pro at the Tecumseh Country Club. That spring, he tried to join the pro tour by qualifying at the annual PGA school in Florida. He just missed.

In 1967, it was the same old story. But, Mike's good. Hits the long ball, hits the green, can chip, and is a pretty fair putter. But, he just couldn't quite get over that big hurdle.

When he finally qualified this past spring, some folks here said he would probably starve on the rough pro circuit. Some said he would be lucky to win a 1,000 bucks. He would have a tough time qualifying on Tuesdays and Wednesdays before the big tourneys start.

Some of us — including us — can now eat our hats. Mike has made it. We knew he was good, but didn't think his temperament suitable for the pro grind and pressures.

Perhaps, he was a frustrated Tecumseh Country Club pro who knew he was good enough to make it with the top pros — and just needed a little help, some encouragement, a break or two.

Regardless, that is past. Mike should know now about the hundreds here who were pulling for him to sink that five-footer, bank away that $25,000, and join equal status with Weiskoff, Casper, and the others.

Here's hoping we will be seeing Mike frequently on TV — and among the leaders.

Parents Help Needed

Parents, Tecumseh needs your help — and badly.

Last week, vandalism nearly spoiled the dedication of Tecumseh Park. Vandalism is suspected at the pool at the high school. Vandalism is also suspected of breaking and entering at Hayden Mill.

Vandalism is responsible for painted obscene language on some city street signs.

It has got to stop before we — Tecumseh — get a bad name. Don't say, "Why don't the police do something?"

We say, "Why don't the parents do something?"

After an evening out, would it hurt to ask your kids where they've been and what were they doing? Is this mistrust of your youngsters? We think not, we think it is parental responsibility. You should know.

Some youngsters are getting out of hand, and it should be stopped now. It would be best for the youngsters and best for the town. Perhaps, the youngsters should police their own age group, with the help of the law.

If we could support a 20-man police force, then we could look to the police for help. They seem to be a crutch, however, for all of us to excuse our responsibilities.

Vandalism is not smart. It is not being big like a grownup. It's small, cruel and malicious. It's a sign of a "rough town."

Tecumseh a rough town? We hope not. Can you, a parent, help?

Tecumseh Gals Whoop it Up

The Tecumseh gals started the game out right with three runs, sending nine men to bat in the first inning. Blissfield managed to get one man on base, but failed to score.

Loretta Vogel started the second inning with a single. Jackie Rodgers also got a single, both came in and gave the Indians a three-run lead.

Blissfield held the Indians scoreless in the third. Blissfield scored five of their eight runs in the third.

Tecumseh led the way through the rest of the game, adding three more runs in the sixth. Loretta Vogel got the big hit of the night with a triple in the final inning. It was followed with singles by Peggy Martinus and Mary Jo Rosacrans, and a double by Jackie Rodgers. They also scored and gave the Indians a total of 14 runs against the eight scored by Blissfield.

Jackie Rodgers led the scoring with four hits, and was also the winning pitcher.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bailey spent the July 4 weekend at Fort Knox, Ky., with their son, Pvt. Albert H. Bailey.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG

"The entire family was togther for just an hour," Mrs. Perry Hayden remarked Tuesday as she told of the wedding in Beaumont, Tex., of her granddaughter, Deborah Wells, to Luther Pierce Linden II.

John Hayden, home on leave, wasn't able to attend the ceremony. He had to leave the day before for Oakland, Calif., and then on to Thailand where he is stationed as an interpreter. Mr. and Mrs. William Hayden and family flew to Beaumont, arriving just about an hour before John had to leave. Bill Jr. played his violin for the wedding and his sister, Deborah, was one of the bridesmaids. Mr. and Mrs. Kenyon Sprunger and Brent and Sue Anne were there from Berne, Ind. Sue joined her cousin as junior bridesmaid. Jane Woodward, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Woodward of Lansing, and Beth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hayden, were the flower girls.

The Sprungers and the Joe Haydens with Beth and Philip went to the HemisFair in San Antonio, Tex., before going home. Mrs. Woodward and Jane and Mrs. Perry Hayden returned home by plane.

"Barefoot" is Funny Hit

(Editor's Note — Sister Rose Gilbert, O. P., is a visiting member of the faculty in the speech department, of Siena Heights College in Adrian. Sister taught last year at Midland and in the fall will be at the new Lumen Christi High School at Jackson.)

By SISTER ROSE GILBERT, O.P.

Neil Simon's spontaneous and humorous three - act comedy, "Barefoot in the Park", created a heart-warming experience sprinkled with delighted laughter. And the Croswell Repertory theatre season opened with a deliciously funny hit.

From curtain-up, the delightfully different cast of six, breathlessly arrived on the top floor of a five-story walk-up apartment. Staged on two levels, the room positions added spice and juxtaposition movement for the cast. Taken sight unseen by newlyweds Paul and Corie Bratter, the inconvenience of the apartment, the "way out" neighbors, and the repair and delivery men created hilarious dialogue for a most appreciative audience.

Guy Miller and Susan Wentz as Paul and Corie were exact opposites. Both were easy to identify with and convincing, both did a fine job and were equally funny.

Corie, the bubbly, excited typically teen-age wife, continually complicated-matters for her husband, a steady young lawyer, for her mother, a staid correct widow (Judy Vanzo) when she decided to play cupid, and invited a mountain climber, Roimed (Bill Sanford) to supper.

The first lover's quarrel with Paul results in an equally funny reversal as Corie becomes sensible and Paul gets drunk.

The supporting cast, Mrs. Vanzo and Sanford, did an excellent job. As a master of the understatement, poker face, extremely proper and thoroughly funny comment, Mrs. Vanzo is bewildered by the colorful, smooth-talking neighbor, Velasco, whose eccentric behavior adds much to the comedy.

The two supporting roles of telephone repair man and delivery man set the pace for the comedy, since Mike Metzel, the telephone repair man, brought the exhaustion of five flights of stairs into his acting each time he appeared. Jeff Wagner continued the breathless tempo. Some hilarious acting and clever lines delighted the audience.

Directed by Glen Harbaugh and Deborah Schrock, with set and lighting directed by Raymond Dage, the total result was an evening of pure joy for the Adrian Community.

Teen Club in Baseball Action

After the first four games in the Adrian Area Baseball League, the Tecumseh Teen Club stands with a one win and three loss record.

The Teen Club nine defeated the Morenci Merchants in their first game 5-3 with Dean Hebb getting the win.

Hebb slashed out two singles and Mensing doubled to pace the Tecumseh team to victory. Mike Kane and Jack Greenfield singled to get the other Tecumseh hits.

In the second game Jim Hunt had the misfortune of being shaded by the Blissfield American Legion 4-2. Blissfield scored two runs in the second and two in the sixth.

Jim Mobley drove in Mike Kennedy to give Tecumseh a first inning advantage but could not hold on for the win.

In the third game against the Adrian American Legion, Jim Hunt's teammates made the score much higher. Several errors allowed runs in the 10-2 romp by Adrian.

Tecumseh scored their only runs in the fourth inning on a fielder's choice, an error and a single by Wendell Petty.

Adrian scored in all but the second and fourth innings.

In the fourth game the team was defeated by the Morenci Merchants in a re-match with that team by the score of 3-2.

Morenci scored one run in the second and two in the third for all the runs they needed.

The Teen Club plays a make-up game with Gordon and Docs July 14 and a regular schduled game July 17 against the Blissfield Amrican Legion.

Letters to the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

I was one of the drivers picked to take Cub Scouts to see the Tigers' game, July 6.

I just want to say that I was proud of the way the boys acted, they were well-behaved, (but boys will be boys) no smart or back talk, when told to do something it was done.

I saw other groups that ran all over the stadium but not my boys. Thanks to the parents for letting them go and my deep thanks to the boys who rode with me for being such gentlemen.

Little League Games

Union, 3, Police, 0

John Getz, Police hurler found last Monday frustrating — he hurled a no-hitter at the Products Union— and lost. His pitching rival, Rick Brooks, allowed only one safety to Esterline. Getz and Brooks both struck out 12.

Mark Withrow went five innings to pick up the win in relief for the Kiwanis. Bob Williams provided the big bat for the winners, collecting a pair of doubles in two at-bats. Tim Rutherford had two singles in three trips.

Withrow relieved starter Bob Williams in the second inning with no one out. He went the rest of the way, holding Rotary scoreless and allowing two hits.

During the past week the Jaycees little leaguers picked up two wins. Last Wednesday they downed Kiwanis, 6-1, and came back Monday to trip the Union, 9-4.

Against Kiwanis, Kent Jacoby picked up the win, Louis Gonzales and Mike Duhan each picked up a pair of hits to lead the team to victory.

Jacoby gave up one hit in a fine performance.

Against the Union, the bat of Allen Shaffer with four hits, led a run parade in clobbering the Union, 9-4. The Jaycees got off to a shaky start, giving up two runs in the first to trail, 2-0, going into the third. From then on it was all Jaycees as they picked up three in the third, two in the fourth, three more in the fifth and topped it off with a single run in the sixth.

Bevy of Runs In Slo-Pitch

The base paths and players of the slo-pitch softball teams last week were worn out when 62 hits and 68 runs were banged out in two separate contests.

Jaycees were squashed by Ruhl's Citgo, 23-4, in one game, and Stauffer I eked out Stauffer II, 21-2, in a family feud.

Vern West picked up the win for Ruhl's Citgo and Doug Osworth took the loss.

Three hitters had a perfect day at the plate, Allan Vallad and Clarence Champanois both went four for four and John Turner was three for three.

John Moore hit a tremendous blast in the fifth inning that cleared the fence and landed in the middle of the football field.

West gave up three hits in going the distance.

Ruhl's rattled the fences for 22 hits.

In the Stauffer feud, the number I team came out number one by one run.

The game was close all the way. The winning run was scored in the bottom of the seventh with two men out.

City Dedicates Tecumseh Park

"Tecumseh is quite fortunate to have an organization such as the United Foundation which is interested in the citizens of their community and encourages the development of this beautiful recreational facility," said Harry Doehne, land and water administrator for the State of Michigan, when he spoke to several hundred persons at the dedication of th Tecumseh Park building. Mr. Doehne's remarks emphasized the value of providing areas for people to relax and enjoy the out of doors.

Mrs. Doehne and their two children, Tom and Helen, accompanied their parents for the day. Prior to the Park ceremonies a half hour parade of unusual and fun-filled floats proceeded from city hall to the Park led by the city fire truck and the Tecumseh Junior High School band. Other music was provided by an active group of Senior Citizens with their old time band and picnic float. The Centennial Cornet Band from Ida rode a truck and continued playing for an hour or more at the Park.

The judges — Mrs. William Flanders, Mrs. Harry Doehne, Mrs. Harold Easton, Cal Damon and Elmer Eberhardt — had a difficult time in awarding the prizes. A combination first prize was awarded to the Rotary Club with their theme of the Little League and the Little Garden Club emphasizing a beautiful and clean Tecumseh Park and adding their contribution of six gayly decorated litter barrels which will remain at the Park. Third prize went to the V.F.W. Auxiliary for their Lite-a-Bike float.

Robert French, president of the United Foundation, was master of ceremonies at the Park, introducing the Rev. Donald Porteous, who offered the invocation, and Harold Easton, mayor, who welcomed the guests and thanked all the city officials who have worked so hard to bring this building and Park to its present condition.

The Donald Young family, ribbon cutters, were surprised by receiving two season tickets for their family — one from the Foundation for this year and one from the Parks and Recreation Department of Tecumseh for 1969.

The Rev. Frank Hawthorne delivered the benediction.

In the afternoon hundreds returned to the Park to watch three expert skydivers try their skills at parachuting into the water at the Park. In spite of tricky wind conditions two successfully completed the task. The third landed on the upper edge of the beach area.

The Tecumseh United Foundation Advancement Committee, composed of Frank Beck, chairman, Ray Dollison, D. J. Martin, Duncan Oliphant, Mrs. William Steele, Jr., George Stewart and Mrs. W. Winfield, were responsible for the day's events. Ray Aylesworth was parade marshal.

A Pastor Mourns Death of a Man

By H. FRANK COLLINS
Pastor, Calvary Baptist Church,
Bellflower, California

Last week a man fell in battle. A man dedicated and devoted to peace and freedom. A man who was man enough to give his life for a cause that he believed in.

"I MOURN FOR him today. He did not die in a plush motel in one of America's most beautiful cities. He died in the horrible steaming jungles of a filthy, rotten, poverty-torn nation, thousands of miles from his home and country. He died in the arms of a buddy who believed in a country where free men could assemble in worship — where little girls and women felt free to walk to Sunday School in their new frocks and bonnets. He died to give the men of all color, the right for a free education in a state that would provide it with small cost — and limited only by the self-limitations of the individual.

He died defending a country that has done more for the individual than any nation on earth. He did not curse the parents that bore him, loved him, and provided for him, and gave him far more than they ever had themselves. He did not curse the society that taxed itself to the hilt to care for its poor and its aged. He did not defect from the country that provided its scenic highways, parks and luxuries that he and his fellow-man might enjoy the good things of life. He died as an example of civil obedience.

NO SELF-SEEKING POLITICIAN sent a chartered jet for his widow to accompany his body home. He was shipped home in a government-provided casket, and Uncle Sam provided one non-commisioned serviceman as an escort.

He did not have a large funeral. A soldier sounded taps on a nearby slope as his body was laid to rest.

No cities were burned and placed under martial law because he was shot. Our nation's capital was not endangered by his death. It was, rather, made a little more secure by the supreme price that he paid to make it safe. The flag of our country was not lowered to half-mast. In the eyes of those who know the true value of such a sacrifice, it seemed to fly higher than ever over the "Land of the free and the home of the brave."

Those who would vindicate his death today can be heard throughout the land as they organize into what patriots have always called our Military service. They take up arms — rifles — bayonets — tanks and planes — but they aim them at the enemy — NOT their own country.

I MOURN FOR HIM today. There were no newspapermen nor TV crew to cover the events of his death nor his funeral. No dignitaries cancelled trips that might save the life of his buddies, to attend the funeral. BUT every statesman and politician ought to take at least one moment to slip silently to his knees and say "Thank God for a great man. His contribution to our country's freedom is not known by his own generation. It is known only to God.

A GREAT MAN fell in battle. The victim of a sniper's bullet. I mourn for him today — The American fighting man killed in the service of his country.

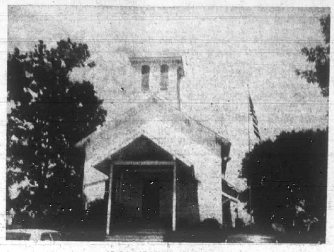
Church Celebrates Centennial

The congregation of the Iron Creek Church at Sharon Hollow and English Rds., northwest of Clinton, celebrated the centennial anniversary of the edifice in which they worship, Sunday.

Nearly 100 persons came from far and near to attend the festivities.

The Rev. Ralph Janoski, pastor of the church, gave the morning sermon. Featured during the service was an all-male choir, reminiscent of 100 years ago. The Musical Betts family, an instrumental group, played several numbers, favorites of a former pastor, the Rev. Alvin Brazee, who was unable to attend. Gloria Fox sang a solo.



IRON CREEK CHURCH

Special event of the afternoon was an old-fashioned potluck picnic, featuring charcoal-broiled chicken, prepared by the men.

At 3 o'clock, a service was held with former pastors, the Rev. Leonard Solden of Flint and the Rev. Forest Cook of Grass Lake participating.

Thomas Cushman read the Church History compiled by Mrs. Alvin Brazee of Tecumseh.

Lemonade and cookies were served at the close of the afternoon service while many stayed to reminisce.

Esch Campaigns for Cupid

"Well, then I'll contact the commander-in-chief," replied Mrs. Lawrence Cote as she talked with the secretary of Congressman Marvin Esch in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Cote was somewhat perturbed when the leave already granted three times of her future son-in-law, Sp/4 Bill Chandler, was cancelled after careful preparation had previously been made with his superiors to assure his coming home for his wedding to Onalee Cote.

Frustrated because her letter to Rep. Esch had been handled rather lightly, Mrs. Cote was told that he was not commander-in-chief of the armed forces.

Promptly she wrote via certified mail to the White House to see that justice was done. Sp/4 Chandler had been suffering from various reverses since he was wounded in Vietnam last fall, records fouled, shortage of his pay, etc., his mom-in-law-to-be decided that this was the last straw.

She wanted to obtain enough time for him to come home from Indian Gap, Pa., be married to her daughter and then return if his services in training men for riot control were so absolutely necessary.

Two inquiries were in Congress at the time, one from Congressman Esch and another from the President.

Then came the telegram June 21 from Mr. Esch that the leave had been granted again.

"We appreciate the help that Mr. Esch gave us. He apparently was working on it but he certainly didn't say so and I just couldn't see the kids disappointed after we had taken such care to make sure that the wedding date was secure," Mrs. Cote remarked.

June 27 Washington called her and one of President Lyndon Johnson's aides confirmed a seven-day leave for Sp/4 Chandler.

With the blessing of the president, the wedding of Onalee Cote and Sp/4 Bill Chandler will be solemnized July 27 in St. Elizabeth Church.

Jaycees Plan To Double Numbers

The Tecumseh Jaycee Membership Drive is under way with team captains, vice-presidents Jim Bashore and Bruce Corley, squaring away for a spirited battle.

Since June 1, 11 new members have been added, and the goal is to more than double the present membership. This will mean an increase from 50 members to 119, one more than the organization had when it was founded here 15 years ago next March.

Ron Albert, assistant to the president for membership, is chairman of the membership drive, which will be climaxed Aug. 1 with a steak and beans dinner and swimming party to be held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Murray.

As is customary, the members of the winning team and all new members who have been recruited, will eat steak and the sorry losers will be served beans.

Memberships are $12 a year and are open to any young man, 21 through 35 years. For information phone Dave Schoonover, 423-4690 or Ron Albert, 423-3390.

Our Readers Write

TO THE EDITOR:

I, Mrs. Michael Godin, a taxpayer in this community, feel that a voice should be heard on a topic of very little interest or importance to most people of this town, but also to a few it is very important.

I'm referring to the candy sale recently put over by the Little Leaguers ball teams. We don't have a child on any team, but we took an interest in our friend's son who plays on the Jaycees' team. The candy was to be sold for new uniforms and equipment, and I know before the candy had been passed out and _____ or four boys had been to our door.

They had one week to sell the candy and most boys were very earnest and really started selling. The money and remaining candy were supposed to be handed back on the following Saturday which was a week ago.

The coaches were to get together to select the winner and the winning team. So, very anxiously we waited Sunday night.

No word, and to this day all we can hear is no one knows anything. Some of the candy has not been turned in or the money. To me this is a very poor way to handle a campaign like this.

If the children that really worked to make this a sellout, had stayed around like this, I'm sure this would have been a complete failure. I'm sure the boys who have neglected to get their money and candy in should be disqualified and the deadline should have been it.

I really wonder if we will ever know who really won? Better yet, the money will even be used for equipment and uniforms?

Time will tell, eh!!

Pamela Creger is among 233 junior high school musicians presently attending Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp near Muskegon. Miss Creger is shown with Garrett Grant, director of intermediate band. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Creger, 708 S. Occidental Rd. The second session, which will continue through July 14, offers instrumental training in strings, brass, woodwind, percussion, and piano for students in the seventh through the ninth grades. The students are studying playing techniques, music theory, large and small ensemble performance and conducting. In addition to their musical study, students take courses in other areas of the arts, including drama, art and dance. Students perform in concert with the camp faculty and staff each Sunday afternoon. The public is invited. Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp, now in its third year, is affiliated with the Youth Music Program of Michigan State University.

LIGHTS AND ACTION AT M-50 TEE — Powerful lights flood the area of M-50 Tee for night-time golfers. The lights carry far out onto the driving range as well as lighting the putting course. Yellow balls are used to give the driver a good view of his ball in flight. The driving range is open until 11 p.m. to give those who work later a chance to keep a keen edge on their driving and putting. The late spring rains deterred the opening of M-50 Tee. When the new range was finally opened Mr. Greenwald advertised that he was no longer renting boats. A great deal of enthusiasm has been shown toward the range as one drives down M-50 most any time of day, golfers can be seen trying to correct the errors of their ways.

A Smashing Good Place For Swinging Swingers

By BILL SANFORD

If you have a crooked driver or have been experiencing lop-sided golf balls lately, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Greenwald of Tecumseh have brought a place for you to drive away frustrations.

The Greenwalds decided to build the M-50 Tee Driving Range west of Tecumseh due to the fact that prior to their decision they had to drive to Ann Arbor or Toledo to work out the kinks in the swings.

M-50 Tee is the recently-opened driving range and putting course on M-50 four miles west of town. It is a modern well-lighted range with a depth of 350 yards.

You can go to the range, even if you have a bad back or feel Father Time's growing pains. The Greenwalds have installed automatic ball setters.

The range has 24 individual fenced stalls, also an area for ground play. Mr. Greenwald has introducced two mock greens for would-be Palmers and Nicklauses to aim at in their driving.

Another feature of the range is an 18-hole putting course. It is an Arland course and not to be mistaken for a miniature course. The course is designed with added features to at times frustrate even the most avid and affluent golfer. It is a par 50.

Added difficulties include a 2' rise on the 18, you have to putt well or the ball will roll away. Some holes have traps and other obstacles where many at times have verbal discussions with that little white ball.

The course was started in August of last year and Mr. Greenwald was hoping for an early May opening. Rain and bad weather postponements delayed that until June 6.

The course is open daily until 11 p.m. for all duffers and pros alike who have hooks, slices, dribbles and other troubles to have a swinging time correcting.

By SUSAN BOTTORFF

The Evans Lake Trading Post is located on the corner S-12 and Breyman Highway. It is owned and operated une and "Van" VanCamp. Mr. VanCamp has been in rocery business for 25 years and is always glad to serve VanCamp's took over the business three years ago, buy- he real estate from Jim Moore and the grocery business Fred Hadley. They have completely remodeled and rnized the business, adding many storage units and rs in order to better serve their customers.

The store carries everything from groceries, meats and e supplies to drugs and Mobil gas and oil. This year Mr. Camp has added ready-mix outboard gas to his line of s.

He has even provided a dock on the lake for boaters e up to while they purchase their needs at the store.

The Trading Post features County Line cheese. This se is brought in from Indiana, and Mr. VanCamp cuts it ease the customer. Quite an unusual service nowadays, dn't you agree?

The VanCamps lived in Tecumseh 22 years before moving to Clinton.. Mr. VanCamp has worked on many newspapers in southern Michigan including the Tecumseh Herald and the Adrian Telegram. Since leaving the newspaper business, Mr. VanCamp has owned and operated five grocery stores.

He was once in the contracting business, once operated an appliance store in Tecumseh and while in Clinton, a men's clothing and shoe store.

The VanCamps have two children: Bill, who is married and lives in Ypsilanti, and Sherry, who attends Eastern Michigan University.

Mrs. VanCamp retired this year from school teaching. She has taught in Clinton, Tecumseh and Britton.

The VanCamps plan to close their store in the late fall and "do some traveling".

The Evan's Lake Trading Post is open seven days a week, from 8 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

This summer the Evans Lake Land Owners' Association will hold its third annual Lake-A-Rama. Once again the VanCamps have offered their large asphalt parking area for the dance that will be the final event to the big day.

UCC Congregation Chooses Carpeting

CLINTON — Matters concerning the proposed carpeting in the sanctuary of the United Church of Christ were discussed at a special meeting following the service, Sunday morning.

Approval was voted to carpet the entire sanctuary, entry and stairways, removing the pews to do so, and four families present pledged a total of $500 toward the cost of the additional carpeting.

Bids are to be decided upon immediately and recommendations were made on carpet color for consideration by the carpet committee.

In order to make it possible to use the sanctuary for scheduled August weddings, it was voted to temporarily use folding chairs as soon as painting and carpeting are completed.

James Heimerdinger volunteered to study the feasibility of rearranging the pews to form a center aisle arrangement, which can be completed at a later date.

Clinton Fires Hint of Arson

CLINTON — The State Fire Marshal from Jackson was called Sunday to investigate the circumstances of three strange fires which kept Clinton firemen hopping from 4 a.m. until after 7 a.m., Sunday.

The first fire was in a house and barn on the former Jacob Luckhart farm, now owned by Mrs. Donna Linden, on Fisk Rd. First noticed by State Police about 4 a.m., both buildings and a big dead elm tree, were ablaze and beyond saving when firemen arrived. The buildings had been unoccupied since the death of the residents, several years ago.

While still at the scene of the first fire, firemen were notified of a second fire in an empty former migrant worker shack on the Raymond Bellmore property, on Arkona Rd. This was about 5 a.m.

About 5:30 a.m., as the fire truck was returning to Clinton, firemen noticed a fire on the roof of a garage beside the abandoned Allen School building at the intersection of Fisk and Allen Rds.

An oil-soaked cloth and the peculiar close proximity of the three fires, all within a few miles, east of Clinton, led authorities to call the Fire Marshal to investigate.

Not a Wiggle But a Waltz

Band Director Richard Perkins and the Clinton High School dance band are planning a tennis court dance Saturday, July 20, for folks who learned to dance when that word meant "togetherness" and music was more melodious than loud.

For those who get a nostalgic twinge whenever they hear the old favorites such as "Stars Fell On Albama", "Stardust", "Moonglow", "I'm Getting Sentimental Over You", and "Moon River", the 16-member dance band is brushing up on some tantalizing tempos to entice them to the dance floor.

There won't be any rock and roll, but the younger generation will be welcome if they'd like to try a waltz instead of a wiggle, Mr. Perkins said.

These talented musicians made a real hit when they performed for the recent band show, "Up, Up, and Away", and this summer night outdoor dance will offer another opportunity for their many fans to hear them play.

The dance will begin at 8 p.m. and there will be refreshments. Admission is $1.00 and proceeds will benefit the band.

Teresa Lickfelt Weds Charles Cutler

CLINTON — All Saints Episcopal Church at Brooklyn was the scene of the nuptials uniting Teresa Anne Lickfelt and Seaman Apprentice Charles Robert Cutler, Saturday evening. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Robert Willoughby.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Lickfelt, of Vineyard Lake, formerly of Clinton, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cutler, 507 Sunset Dr., Clinton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. As she and the bridegroom approached the altar, each carried a lighted candle, and as their vows were completed, they lighted their own candles and lighted a single candle, symbolic of their nuptial status, as they partook of their first communion together.

The bride wore an empire gown of summer satin brocade with long sleeves and scooped neckline, and a panel from the shoulders ended in a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of white chrysanthemums centered with a white orchid.

The bridal gown and the gowns worn by her attendants were fashioned by the bride's mother.

The bridesmaids, all sisters of the bride, wearing similarly styled gowns, were Janet in blue; Debra, in yellow; Nancy in a deep pink. Their bouquets were chrysanthemums tinted to match their gowns.

Warren Starks was the best man. Guests were seated by Duane Oliver, brother-in-law of the groom and William Lickfelt, brother of the bride.

A reception was attended by 300 guests, at the home of the bride's parents, at Vineyard Lake, where a buffet supper was served.

The bride is a June graduate of Columbia High School, and the groom is a 1966 graduate of Clinton High School. He enlisted in the Navy in April.

The couple left immediately to make their home in Virginia, where he is stationed.

Township Board Holds Meeting

CLINTON — Raymond Bellmore reached an agreement with the Clinton Township Board concerning property owned by him after the township's ordinance on abandoned buildings was explained to him at a meeting of the board, July 1.

Sites are being arranged for the erection of signs which will advertise the desirability of the township for residence and industry.

The lighting of various rural intersections awaits the receipt of final plans and bids, Clerk Ben Mahrle reported.

Charles Wilson presented several building permits for approval, indicating an increase in building activity in the township.

Board members and guests paused in memoriam to acknowledge the long and faithful service of Thomas Pence as Township Clerk.

LIFE HEALTH

Stroke

Apoplexy or cerebral hemorrhage — stroke — is third behind heart disease and cancer as the cause of natural death.

But, unlike heart disease and cancer, it receives very little attention.

Stroke is characterized by a sudden loss of feeling, consciousness and power of voluntary motion. It is caused by internal pressure on the brain resulting from cranial congestion or effusion, or rupture of an artery in the brain or blocking of an artery in the brain.

The chiropractor, with his scientific knowledge of the spinal column and the operation of spinal nerves, is excellently equipped and trained to combat stroke. He is able to remove nerve obstructions, to remove pressure of blood from the brain, and restore equalized blood circulation to the brain.

Once the offending pressures are removed and normal cranial circulation is restored, the chiropractor is able to continue necessary adjustments to assure the flow of nerve energy to all organs and to insure proper blood circulation through the brain, restoring normal health. Through My Window

THE RAINS CAME

Even from the vantage point of several weeks the events of June 24, 25 and 26 are hard to believe. We should be used to hard storms but that rain was "something else again". There was so much damage done to dams and bridges, so much inconvenience and actual hardship that I hesitate and wonder whether I should really talk about the storm. We were so very fortunate — the downpour did little damage here but it certainly afforded us some interesting looking.

The rain was different right from the very beginning, wasn't it? Hard summer storms are not at all uncommon but when it rains and rains and rains and then rains some more —. And it was such a steady, hard, seemingly unending downpour. The mood it created was even uncommon.

Although I can spend all year ranting and raving about dark, gloomy days, a rainy day is not depressing. This rain, however, broke all patterns and by Tuesday evening, after having heard nothing but the steady tattooing of the storm, I was almost ready to climb the walls.

THE TROPICAL disturbance played havoc with our outdoor friends, too. Few of the birds were eating. Several bluejays and a pair of cardinals tried to brave the storm but they were soon drenched and oh, what bedraggled sights! Grackles, the bane of our birdwatching lately, were marvelously noticeable by their absence. The cowards.

It was our littlest squirrel who had the serious troubles — he was hungry, starved almost unto death, and he was wet. It was so apparent that he simply did not know what to do. He thought about seeking shelter in the covered feeder but the post was wet, his paws were wet and all he could do was slide.

He even tried jumping at the window several times and finally, in sheer desperation, I am sure, he scrambled up the post of our near-the-window feeder. There was a little spot just under the feeder shelf that was slightly protected and this is where he stayed. You never saw a young squirrel snuggle so tightly to a feeder post.

Wednesday morning Mom and Dad saw the creek before I did — their eyes pop open with less toothpick propping than do mine. Never had they seen the water so high. The lowland across the creek was a mass of green weeds floating in muddy water: Dorothy U. was not inundated but the spillover was edging well up towards her terraced flower bed and, on this side of the creek, the ugly water was splashing against the tie work on Cameron's bank.

ABOUT THIS time I came into the picture. Ever so gradually the water began to recede, it was almost as though someone had pulled the plug on a slowly-draining bathtub. As we soon learned, that was almost what had happened — as Perry's dam gave way and the dirt washed out from under the south approach to the Red Mill Pond bridge, the pressure was relieved and the backed-up water rushed through. Thus our little creek started going down.

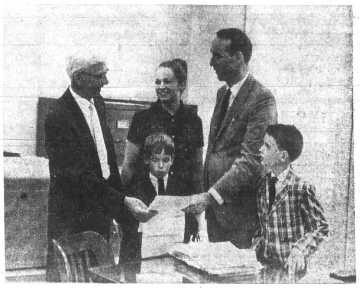
But what force water has. It is an old cliche to talk about a "wild, ferocious monster gone mad" but for a while Evans Creek was wild and ferocious and, to look out and see Evans Creek looking almost like Evans Lake, it was not hard to believe that it had gone more than slightly mad. And the sound — it absolutely roared as it raced along.

By afternoon the excitement was still at a fever pitch although the fever was a bit lower than in the morning. In shocked disbelief, Gertie T. and I watched three yellow slickers wading — the boys were having a fine time splashing through the water.

It was a dangerous sport though: the current was fast and strong, the underfooting treacherous and, when our creek is in flood, it carries debris which could so quickly topple anyone over.

In that kind of water, it would be mighty hard, if not downright impossible, to regain one's footing. It was a somber sight and one which brought home how very fortunate we were that there were no accidents.

So it is that most of June was wet but each of us, in our own way, will long remember the last storm of the month because that truly was when the rains came.



FOLEY FILES — Court of Appeals Commissioner John F. Foley, right, hands State Elections Director Bernard Apol nominating petitions for judge of the Court of Appeals in the Second District. The 9,144 signatures collected for Foley, first to file, were the most for any candidate for the judgeship in the Aug. 6 primary. Shown with Foley are his wife, Joan, and two of their six children, Patrick, 9, and Sean, 10. The Court of Appeals has been expanded from nine to 12 judges. One new judge will be elected in each of the court's three districts on Nov. 5, 1968, after a primary election, if necessary, on Aug. 6, 1968. Foley is seeking election in the Southeastern Michigan district made up of the counties of Huron, Tuscola, Sanilac, Shiawassee, Genesee, Ingham, Lapeer, St. Clair, Livingston, Oakland, Macomb, Jackson, Washtenaw, Hillsdale, Lenawee and Monroe.

Earling-House Nuptials Spoken

At home in Spokane, Wash., after a honeymoon trip across the United States are Airman 1/C and Mrs. Elmer Carson House III. Following their marriage June 26 and a detour to visit relatives in Indiana the couple drove to Spokane where Airman House reported back for duty Sunday.

The bride is the former Deborah Dian Earling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Earling, 6250 Rogers Hwy. Parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. E. Carson House Jr., 708 Outer Dr.

The couple exchanged vows and rings in a candlelight ceremony in First Presbyterian Church before the Rev. Julian Gresham, pastor. Escorted by her father, the bride approached the altar in an exquisite gown of Chantilly lace. The sleeves were long and closely fitted, and the lace lightly skimmed the bride's slender figure from a high neckline to the knees, where it flared to floor length.

The bride's ebony hair was piled on her head in Spanish style with tendrils of Victorian curls at the nape and framing her cheeks. White organza flowers were sprinkled over her hair and she carried a single, long-stemmed pink rose.

The bride is a former model and seamstress for Evel-Dean Exclusives, creators of the bridal costume.

Maid of honor was Susan Life of Indianapolis, Ind., a cousin of the bride, and bridesmaids were Charmaine and Vicki Earling, her sister, and Debbie Blanchard.

They were gowned alike in white nylon frocks with empire waistlines, floor-length skirts and squared necklines framed with accordion pleats. A pink bow with long streamers fell from the back of the neckline. Their hair was styled alike, with high crowns of curls caught at the nape by white organza roses. Each carried a single white rose.

White roses also decorated the church, and petals were carried by the flower girl, Tracy Life, cousin of the bride. Ring bearer was Gerald Earling, brother of the bride.

Serving as best man was Airman Timothy Mapes of Highland, Fla. Ushers were Michael W. House, brother of the bridegroom Airmen Robert Powell of Bloomington, Ind., and John Montgomery of Wilmington, Del. Organ music was provided by Devero Franze of Coldwater.

Mrs. David House was in charge of a reception for some 300 guests in the church basement. Punch, cake and ice cream were served from a table skirted in pink netting with lily of the valley roping.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents at Hathaway House.

The bride is a graduate of Tecumseh High School. In addition to her work with Evel-Dean, she was a dispatcher for the Tecumseh Police Force.

A graduate of THS and Stautzenberger College, Airman House is a surgical training instructor with the 3636th Combat Crew Training Group at Fairchild Air Force Base in Spokane.

After sharing some wedding cake with the bride's grandparents in the Muncie area of Indiana, the couple went to Washington via the Black Hills and Yellowstone National Park. Their home is at 726 S. Jefferson, Apt. A, Spokane.

MRS. JON T. WEAKLY

Doris Whiteford and Jon Weakly are Wed

Doris Marie Whiteford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Whiteford, of Winnebago, Minn., and Jon T. Weakly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weakly, 206 S. Oneida St., were married June 29 at St. Matthew's Catholic Church in Long Beach, Calif.

The bride wore a street length gown of lace with an empire waistline. Her veil was held in place by a crown of pearls and she carried a bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

David Weakly, of Long Beach, was best man and the bride's sister, Mrs. Joyce Styve, of Martinez, Calif., was matron of honor, dressed in a gown of rose crepe and lace and carried light pink carnations.

Bouquets of white summer flowers were used to decorate the church.

A champagne luncheon was served immediately following the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of Mankato State College and was employed by the Los Angeles County Library as a regional children's librarian.

The groom is a graduate of the University of Michigan and is currently employed by Honeywell, Inc., as a field personnel representative.

Following a wedding trip to San Francisco and Yosemite Park, the couple will live at 2511 University Ave., Denver, Colo.

Speedway Nears Completion

Michigan International Speedway is coming down the home stretch. Within two months MIS' facilities — oval track, road circuit track and grandstand — will be completed.

In less than two weeks engineers expect to start blacktopping, a job that will take four weeks to complete. Most of the fine grading on the oval track is already finished.

In the meantime, since Feb. 4, millions of yards of sand, gravel, muck and plain old dirt have been moved for what could be one of the state's largest attractions.

Diane Carter, MIS publicity officer and former racing driver from Canada, says ticket sales for the first race on Oct. 13 are now upwards of 10,000, and officials believe the first MIS race could attract as many as 50,000. The purse is $75,000, second only to Indianapolis.

At the present, MIS facilities are nearing completion. A 2,800-foot-long retaining wall should be finished this week. This wall, to be topped with a five-foot section of cyclone fence, runs in front of the grandstand.

Footings for the grandstand have been poured and is now ready for the steel work. The original stand will hold 25,000, but plans for a much larger stadium are ready for the future.

Four tubes, or tunnels, for traffic going into the infield have been installed. The tunnels will run beneath the oval track near the grandstand.

Although the area was soaked with heavy rains last week, one would never know it at the MIS site. A complete drainage system allowed a runoff as fast as the water came down.

Within the next 10 days, engineers hope to have the infield readied for seeding, which will also include numerous other areas at the site.

Skeptics who found it difficult to believe that a speedway would ever be built, or a race ever held by MIS, should take another look.

MIS is for real!

So Long . . . . . Farewell

Mrs. Earl Mason and Mrs. Fred Oberlin entertained informally at the former's home for a farewell party Tuesday evening for Mrs. Ray Sommers and Mrs. Orrie Gilbert who, with their families, will be leaving the community soon. Other guests were members of the Tecumseh Music Club and friends. Going-away gifts were presented to the guests of honor.

Mr. Sommers plans to teach in Huntington College in Indiana and Mr. Gilbert's new work is that of administrator of the Medical Care Facility in Hillsdale.

SLOW MOVING VEHICLE SIGNS LEND MODERN TOUCH TO BUGGIES PARKED AT SHIPSHEWANA SALE.

Their World Is A Peaceful One

By MAXINE CALHOUN

Just a hundred miles away there's a little community with the fairy-tale appearance of another world, far removed from the 20th century. There live the Amish and Mennonite "plain people".

Horse sale day at Shipshewana, Ind., finds more than 50 horse-drawn buggies tied beside the Shipshewana Livestock Auction barn.

It's a visiting day for the simple, industrious farm folk, whose religious tenets forbid many other forms of diversion. Whole families come with little boys and bearded fathers dressed alike in roomy, sailor-styled, buttoned and suspendered trousers and somber wide-brimmed hats. The little girls are garbed as their mothers in long-skirted and sleeved gowns in plain colors and even the littlest ones wear full-brimmed, black bonnets.

Some bearded men-folk stand about and chat, while others are busy handling the 350 horses, which will be sold between noon and nightfall. Horse sales are held every other Friday, the next one is July 19. Livestock sales are held there every Wednesday.

There's stout walk-ways inside, where prospective buyers can walk above the many pens of draft horses, riding horses or ponies, perhaps, selecting one on which he plans to make a bid when he goes into the auction ring. There's room inside for more than 150 persons to perch on stair-step seats, where the audience is more fascinating to watch than the sale, unless one is really planning to buy a horse.

Look around outside and one sees a truck already loaded with several double-seated sleighs, sold earlier in the day, a reminder of the mode of travel used by the Amish folk when winter halts their buggies.

Across the street, some of the business-minded Amish families have built a fine new shopping center, containing grocery, hardware and dry-goods stores.

It's a bit startling to see the neat piles of black-brimmed hats and black-banded white straw hats stretching down a long table, and the visitor soon finds himself seeking other evidence of the unusualness of this simpler way of life.

Buttons, buttons — blacks, browns and greens, are heaped in small boxes, in every size imaginable, for folks who shun the newer zippers.

Only today's newest midi-length coincides with the Amish women's dress style, so counters are amply filled with bolts of yard goods. One counter holds a variety of pale denims to fashion the men-folks' work pants, which are seldom ready-made.

No bikini-clad "Barby" dolls are in sight, but a counter holds an enchanting collection of small, family-figure dolls clad in "plain" clothing, authentic to the tiniest black-brimmed hat.

Even as our sons might ask for a model kit of the raciest new automobile, the Amish boys can have fun assembling a horse-and-buggy model kit.

Dad fingers the buggy whips, ponders the refrigerators, marked "Used-Kerosene", while their two little boys sit decorously waiting on a bench nearby. Their shopping trip complete, the family strolls outside and climbs into a buggy. Undaunted by the speeding traffic, they move onto the highway and clop-clop homeward.

Follow the buggy tracks down any side road and marvel at the well-kept farmsteads, many with spacious double-houses, connected by a screened summer-kitchen, where two generations live comfortably together. Most every open barn door reveals two buggies, his and hers, perhaps.

Already the hand-shocked wheat dots the fertile Indiana landscape, and the red-cheeked farmer strains to fork the new-mown hay onto the barn floor. No grinding tractor sound disturbs the quiet afternoon.

It's reassuring to know that such [illegible] people can continue to flourish in our world of conformity.

Walk softly if you go there . . . their world is a peaceful one.

LANSING REPORT

By GIL BURSLEY

What is a VETO?

Both the President of the United States and the Governor of Michigan have the constitutional right to veto — or disapprove — a bill passed by the federal or state legislative body.

In Michigan these procedures are all carefully spelled out in the state constitution. A bill which is passed by the Senate with at least 20 affirmative votes and by the House of Representatives with at least 56 affirmative votes is then presented to the Governor for consideration. He has 14 days in which to act. If he signs the bill it becomes law. If he takes no action during the 14 days it still becomes law without his signature. If he disapproves the bill within the 14-day period he then returns it with his veto message back to the legislature. This disapproval process is a veto.

It is possible to enact a bill into law in spite of the Governor's objections. To do this two-thirds of the Senators elected and serving and two-thirds of the Representatives elected and serving must vote again in favor of the legislation. This means a minimum of 26 Senate votes and 74 House votes. This is called "overriding the veto".

Governor Romney has just permitted the "Sunday liquor" bill to become law by taking no action on it for 14 days after it had reached his desk. In a public statement he indicated dislike for this legislation but felt perhaps the potential convention business and the provision limiting it to food establishments were offsetting factors. Personally, I voted against the measure.

The Governor also permitted a bill to become law without his signature which involves mining properties in the upper peninsula. The original bill was unquestionably bad because it gave private companies the same power of eminent domain as a public authority would have. The bill was amended and the Department of Conservation is the only body with such power in the revised version. I think the final bill was acceptable.

Governor Romney vetoed a bill where members of the Legislature would not pay the Lansing city income tax. I think this action by the Governor right. I, too, opposed the bill.

Manchester Folks Prepare Dinner

This is Chicken Broil time in Manchester! Plans are underway for the 15th annual Chicken Broil Thursday, July 18 on the Athletic Field. The broil attracts people, not only from Manchester and the surrounding cities and villages, but from many other states as well. The community of 1,800 sets out to serve 10,000 dinners starting promptly at 4:30 p.m. The 300 workers expect that by 8:30 p.m. the last of the 10,000 chicken halves will be on the grids.

Over 130 pounds of country fresh butter is used for basting the chicken that arrives in refrigerated trucks and sprinkled with ice. But the chicken is not frozen. During the cooking each half is lightly salted.

There is a special gate for take-outs. The line moves fast.

"We expect to serve in the same organized fashion that we have in the past. This year we have added another item for your convenience," said Lutie Klager, co-chairman.

Klager explained that people will be parking their cars at the High School parking area and a shuttle bus will take the visitors to the Athletic Field. A second bus will run a route from the parking lot at the Double A Plant. The free bus service will return the guests to their parked cars later. This will eliminate people having to stand in line.

Tickets are available at the gates as well as from any of the 300 men working out the details. Just as the profits from the first broil went toward the Athletic Field fence, the ensuing years found the money always devoted to youth activities. The children of Manchester reap the rewards. It is the way the committee wants it. It is the prime reason everyone is so willing to do his part.

The Chicken Broil committee has pledged $5,000 for the track at the High School this year.

With the theme "Jesus Christ . . . the chief corner stone", representatives of the church followed the Rev. Paul Brantingham, in turning the sod with a shiny, gold shovel. Construction is expected to be completed in approximately 330 days.

Scouts Court of Honor

Troop 22 of Birdsall had a double reason for holding its Court of Honor last Tuesday at the Lenawee County Conservation Clubhouse.

The boys earning ranks were honored, their mothers received miniature pins. Jane and Veryl Stephenson were honored guests of the Troop for the evening. They flew back to Florida July 10.

Since retiring to Florida, Veryl is on the Commissioners Staff of the North Florida Council of Ocala, working with four troops.

Scoutmaster Dick James presented Veryl with a "Polar Bear" patch earned by the boys and men of Troop 32 while camping out in Michigan at 50 above zero, to be contemplated by Mr. Stephenson as he basks in Florida's balmy weather!

Patrol leaders were recently elected and presented with their double green bar patches. These boys with their assistants meet with the adult leaders at "Green Bar" meetings and plan and manage their troop.

Bob James is leader of the Buffalo Patrol; Steve James leads the White Dragons; and Kevin Skinner heads up the Beaver Patrol.

These boys are elected by their fellow scouts and it was interesting to note how, husky, nearly grown young men readily took orders from their pint-sized leaders!

Allen Breckel earned the Swimming Merit Badge and was presented an emblem as the Troop Quartermaster. Mailfics received Tenderfoot pins from Bob James, Scott Griewahn and Jack Elliott.

First Class rank miniature pin was received by Vivian Sager who with husband and Assistant Scoutmaster Bob Sager sponsors Steve James in Scouting.

Star rank was a double award event in that John James who earned the honor had the unique pleasure of presenting a pin to his present "Sponsor Mom", Arlene Griewahn and former mom, Jan Stephenson. Rick Blohm pinned his miniature pin on his sister who stood in for his mother.

Mrs. Stephenson was also made "Lifetime Honorary Scout Mom" and received an emblem worn by the group, a red felt heart with a gold scout emblem pinned in the center.

Nearly everyone in the troop received year pins ranging from one year right on up to the three Eagle Scouts who have had six years in Scouting. They are Steve Griewahn, Rick James and Joe Sprow who now qualifies as an adult scouter and is an active assistant scoutmaster.

Original skits were presented by each patrol with only a brief "bull session." Some surprising, often corny, but always amusing antics are put on by the boys. A good training in extemporanous speaking is developed along with a good deal of poise.

A good movie reel of the recent canoe trip down the Rifle River was shown by Glen Richard who took the film.

Refreshments in the form of decorated cakes for the honored guests and cool drinks were served by the Scout Moms, dressed in their originally designed uniforms.

Clever booklets, the handiwork of Mrs. Buford Johnson and her daughters, were distributed to welcome the people. They told of the organization's motto, song, purpose and explained and described the colors and uniforms, also listing present members.

This was the first group of its kind in Lenawee County, started by Veryl Stephenson approximately three years ago.

Plans were announced before dismissal of Summer Camp July 14-20 at Atlanta, Michigan.

He called for the people to put a representative in Lansing who would be willing to represent all the people, farmer, factory worker, and businessman alike. Dump Offers Given Officials

Tecumseh's search for a new landfill, or dump centered on one about a mile east of Adrian Monday night when Dee Stucker, owner, explained his proposals to Council.

Mr. Stucker, who operates Lenawee Disposal, told officials that his landfill could handle Tecumseh and nearby townships and offered three proposals to cover the costs.

One suggestion was that the city pay for everyone, commercial and industrial pay their own, or everyone pay at the gate as they use his dump.

His price to the city for paving for residential dumping was $200 per month or $2,400 a year. However, he favored everyone paying upon entering his premises.

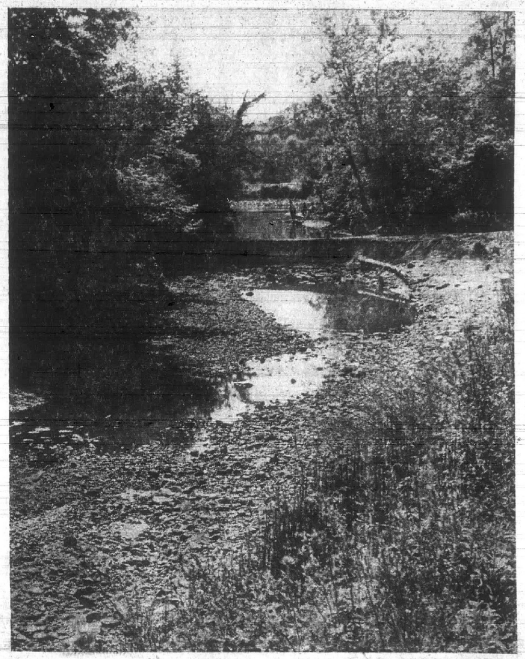
Such a fee would be 50c per car, $1 for a pickup up to two cubic yards, and 50c per cubic yard over two cubic yards. Residents here would be able to use the dump Mondays and Saturday mornings if the city paid a flat fee of $200 a month.

One apparent problem was the distance.

Councilman George McCombs said he checked the route, driving on hard pavement, and found it to be 24 miles round trip. A shorter route over gravel roads would be nine miles one way.

Mr. Stucker, who already does considerable local business, said a transfer station could be established, but pointed out that it would be more expensive.

Council took no action on his proposals and asked that he conduct a survey of the amount of refuse going into the Tecumseh dump, which must conform to state health regulations.



HERALD PHOTO BY BILL WHITING

IT'S ALL DRIED UP — A small, earthen dike is all that is holding back the mill race branch of the River Raisin, but it's enough to dry up a river bed and produce a drying, dismal, swamp. What little water left is stagnating and leaving water lily beds and muskrat burrows high and extremely dry. No decision has been reached yet to replace Globe Mill dam.

Board Supporting Fixed Millage Plan

By BILL SANFORD

The tax allocation board met last Thursday and went on record as supporting a fixed millage of 15.55 for the county. In a previous meeting the board had supported a resolution calling for the maximum millage of 18.

A technicality in the board's previous decision was the reason for the meeting. In the May session of the board they had given .25 of a millage to the county road commission. According to William Birchfield, county road engineer, this was illegal. The money had to be collected by the county and budgeted to the roads.

The primary purpose of the millage was to repair and replace bridges in the county which are outdated and inadequate for present-day travel.

The board took action to follow the recommendations.

Also discussed was the 15.55 mills. Morris Rosenthaul of Manitou Beach had introduced the original resolution of 18 mills, withdrew and replaced it with the 15.55 proposal.

He was supported by John Keller, chairman of the supervisors finance committee, John Herring and Willis Moore, county treasurer.

Charles Gross, representative of the Adrian school district argued against the increase in millage of .55.

The school superintendents association is circulating petitions to have the county millage fixed at 15. A fixing of the millage automatically does away with the allocation board. The board meets annually to divide among the county governments and schools the present 15 mills.

At times in the past the schools have been cut in the county appropriations. A cut occurred at the May meeting prompting the actions of the superintendents.

In order for a school to participate in state aid school payments a minimum millage of 10 is needed by the districts.

By having a fixed millage, the schools, according to Gross, would have a more sound basis for making decisions on seeking more funds at the polls. Gross also added that in order for the superintendents to support the 15.55 millage some indication would have to be shown by the supervisors that a majority backed the proposal and would work for the November passage of the resolution.

It is necessary for the proposition to go on the ballot. If it fails, the allocation board would still have the authority to divide the millage of the county.

Fears developed, Gross commented, that the 18-mill issue was too much of an increase to guarantee passage. Although the schools would receive their 10-mill guarantee for the state aid, they felt the 3-mill increase a greater risk than it would be at the present 15.

Gross and Board Chairman Milton Porter were to present the 15.55 package to the superintendents for their consideration. It depends on the support among the school officials on whether or not the petition drive will continue or be dropped in favor of the board's decision.

A meeting was considered between school officials and supervisors to attempt a meeting of the minds. John Keller rejected the idea saying that the allocation board should maintain its

$16,000 Loss at Golf Links

The recent flood caused by the collapse of the dam at the Globe Mill Pond and the washout of the Evans St. bridge caused approximately $16,000 damage to the golf course construction on the Willis Porter property on Comfort Rd.

The course, which has been in the making since early this spring, was flooded in the lowlands bordering on the River Raisin. The high water washed up two greens and two tees which are located in the flats.

Also destroyed by the water was irrigation pipe which had just recently been laid. Some of the pipe was washed down the river with the flooding waters. Other pieces were destroyed by stones and debris which was awash by the high water, ripping holes and slicing the plastic tubing.

The estimate of the damage was given Mr. Porter by a professional golf course planner.

The two holes were completely destroyed, fairways, tees and greens.

Work is underway on the remaining seven holes with seeding to begin shortly.

Backing Car Hits Two Automobiles in Products Lot

A three-car accident occurred in the Tecumseh Products parking lot Friday when a driver apparently panicked after backing into a passing auto.

Howard T. Atkin, Adrian, was backing when he struck Emil Fulop, 104 N. Division St. He then continued backwards, jumping two curbs and traveling over 110 feet before hitting the front end of a parked car, belonging to Walter Kinsman of Hudson.

Atkin's new model automobile sustained extensive damages to the rear and under carriage.

Waivering on Pact

Although no action was taken by Council Monday night, officials briefly discussed a fire protection proposal offered by Fish-Body Plant.

The local GM plant has offered $1,000 per year for standby protection plus $500 per call. Tecumseh originally sought $4,000 a year, a figure reached on the plant's valuation and the amount of millage paid by city residents toward fire protection.

Mayor Harold Easton told his colleagues that he felt the city should accept GM's proposal and mentioned being "good neighbors" with the folks to the south.

Councilman Carlton Cook inquired why he had changed his mind. Easton explained the city's recent flood had altered his thinking.

At that time, much volunteer help was given Tecumseh. Both men and equipment from Raisin Township assisted at the city's wastewater plant where rising waters threatened to flood a building.

Council and Fisher Body officials have discussed their proposals in the past, and Fisher is scheduled to inform Council of their decision after reviewing the city's proposal. No official word yet has been received.

Relative to fire protection in Raisin Township — which cancelled its pact with Tecumseh last year — Councilman Donald Sunderland questioned the city's reported price of $1,000 per year to protect a new Sutton elementary school.

He said that the new school will be in the Tecumseh school district and will be as much our responsibility as the folks living in Raisin Township. He indicated that Tecumseh should protect the building as though it were located within the city limits.

Such protection, therefore, would probably be free to the schools.

City Manager Cal Zorn told Council that he recalled discussing protection for the new school with Supt. James McDowell, but did not recall a specific figure of $1,000 a year.

Supt. McDowell had reported that a charge of $1,000 per year was suggested. Since, the School Board had to alter its plans slightly for the building to conform with fire regulations.

According to the police report, Charles E. Shandley, 18, 6541 N. Adrian Hwy., pulled out of the Drive-In and into the path of the Britton youth.

Britton Rider Badly Injured

A motorcycle operator from Britton suffered serious injuries last Thursday night when his bike crashed into a car on W. Chicago Blvd., in front of Bud's A & W Drive-In.

Treated here at Herrick Memorial Hospital and rushed to St. Joseph Hospital, Ann Arbor, was Dennis F. Bryan, 25, 131 College Ave., Britton.

His right leg was broken in five places between his knee and hip, and several stitches were necessary to close a laceration over his right eye. According to his mother, Mrs. Fred Bryan, injury to his nose will necessitate plastic surgery.

He is expected to be confined in the hospital for about three months. His room number is 319.

Riding behind Bryan on the motorcycle was Carol Bailey, 18, also of Britton. She suffered a sprained ankle, wrist and abrasions when she was thrown over Bryan and onto the hood of the automobile.

$40 in Damages

Don Maves of Paul's Trailer Court reported vandalism to the Tecumseh police Saturday after a set of seat covers had been slashed with a knife and a tractor's spark plug wires had been removed.

Halley Proposes Local Opposition for Gun Control

Martin Halley, Clinton Township Supervisor, introduced a resolution to the Board of Supervisors Wednesday of last week to oppose anti-gun legislation.

He cited the state's constitution, which allows a person to keep and bear arms for protection of himself and state, and other examples which have been deterrent to crime.

Mr. Halley is running for County Supervisor on the Republican ticket at the Aug. 6 primary. His district includes Clinton and Macon Townships.

Donkeys Taking To Athletic Field

Donkey Ball comes to Tecumseh July 25 at 8 p.m. at the athletic field.

The Jaycees announced its line-up as follows: Ken Beevers, Ron Albert, Larry Girard, Dr. S. E. Adams, Dave Henning, George Heeman, Denny Harrison, Doug Osworth, Jon Schuch and others.

They will be opposed by the Michigan All-Stars, who announced they will use Mayor Harold Easton, U. S. Jaycee Director George Potter, Dyke Helms, Bill McCrumb, Del King and a number of other local celebrities.

Tickets are now on sale at Flanders Music or Helms Furniture or from any Jaycee. Tickets will also be sold at the gate.

Firemen, City Council Disagree on Vehicle

Council and several representatives of the Tecumseh Fire Department discussed — and argued — for nearly two hours Monday night over a proposed purchase of a new rescue vehicle for the city.

The firemen originally proposed a new vehicle at the July 2 meeting. It was tabled and not discussed again until Monday evening.

Wallace MacGeorge, fire chief, told the city fathers that such a vehicle would basically transport firemen, equipment and if necessary, victims to the hospital.

Estimated cost of the truck or van-type vehicle ranges between $22,000 and $25,000. It was evident during the discussion that Council does not have such monies, and several times Councilmen inquired if a less expensive vehicle would not suffice.

At the present, Tecumseh employs a 1955 station wagon as its emergency vehicle, and Council admittedly said it was inadequate and should be replaced.

Besides the cost, officials accused the firemen of wanting to get into the ambulance business, especially if they acquired a vehicle which could transport victims or patients.

Mr. MacGeorge and other firemen said this was not so and was not their basic goal. They explained that it was impossible to take all of their equipment to a fire or an emergency with present equipment.

In regards to transporting victims, they stated that the department did not have the means even to take one of their own firemen to the hospital if he were hurt at a fire. They said that if their proposed vehicle were purchased and a situation arose that a victim had to wait for an ambulance, the firemen would be able to transport him to the hospital.

In remarks relative to ambulance runs, Councilman Carlton Cook said he would like to see how the sheriff department service works out. Since July 1, the sheriff's department has taken over making ambulance runs in this area.

Councilman Gene Tuckey said the firemen should not be in the emergency run business and if residents need assistance, they should call the sheriff's department. He said it was not the city's business or responsibility to respond to emergency calls.

According to Cal Zorn, city manager, the city has allocated $3,000 each year for the past five years for new equipment. The last major equipment purchase was for a new pumper in 1962.

Mr. Zorn was asked to check with the Municipal League and obtain any information available relative to rescue vehicles for a community the size of Tecumseh.

Firemen, who have spent six months inspecting various types of emergency vehicles, were asked to check with a Sturgis firm about costs for a similar vehicle.

There is also a possibility that matching funds could be obtained from the Civil Defense.

Thefts Fail To Pay Off for Burglars

Elmer Phillips of 11087 N. Adrian Hwy, reported a breaking and entering at his home, Saturday, in which $20 and a gold ring were taken.

A suspect was picked up, who admitted the theft and police recovered the ring and $13. The name of the suspect was withheld pending preparation of a warrant.

Another breaking and entering Saturday, at the David Cook residence at 13469 E. Michigan Ave., Clinton, was interrupted when a police vehicle drove by.

Four young men had entered the Cook garage and carried off an automobile transmission, intake manifold and shock absorbers, valued at $370, and were back of the garage when they saw the police car. They dropped the stolen property in the weeds and got away.

Some time later, Milan police stopped one of the men for a traffic violation and he told them all about the breaking and entering at the Cook garage. The investigation is continuing.

Approval OK'd

Permission to move a septic tank at their home on W. Chicago Blvd. was granted by Council Monday night to Yale and Eltha Kerby.

Mr. Kerby explained to officials that it would cost him over $2,000 to hook up with the sewer across the highway. A planned addition to the house would extend over the present septic tank.

Permit Denied

A request to park a trailer at 501 E. Pottawatamie St., was denied by Council Monday night.

Some objections to its parking there were voiced, mostly on the grounds that the trailer would be used for living quarters.

$295,215 Budget OK'd for Center

Submitted to the allocation board for their approval at a meeting last Thursday was the inaugural budget of the Lenawee Area Vocational-Technical Education program. The total budget is $295,215.

The revenues include the vocational tax, voted in June 10, of $207,215. This represents .71 of the 1.5 mills. The remaining 7.9 mills will be used toward building a surplus toward the construction of the new center.

By have money toward the construction the bonds can be sold on a shorter term basis, therefore, reducing the interest payments which could amount to a substantial savings to the project.

Funds amounting to $38,000 come from state and federal agencies for the operation. $50,000 revenue was returned through the sale of two houses constructed by students in the county vocational training at Hudson.

Salaries for the coming year have been set at $102,200. Much of the curriculum is still in the formulative stages, according to William Ross, county vocational director.

Space for the classrooms, must be determined and equipment purchased to start the program on a county-wide basis, until the area center is built. For the past year pilot programs have been successfully operated in the county.

A sum of $54,200 in instructional supplies has been budgeted for the coming year.

The board accepted the budget.

Surratt Appointed to City Board

John Surratt, local manager and officer of Adrian Federal Savings and Loan Association, was re-appointed to the city's retirement Board by Council Monday night.

After the appointment, officials set the salary for election board at $1.25 per hour plus meals.

BOARD

The 15.55 mill issue will be proposed to the board of supervisors at their August meeting. Their support would more than likely end the petitions by the schools. If a great deal of dissention were to emerge among the supervisors the schools would continue to seek a vote on their proposal. Both sides of the Thursday debate agreed that this would be detrimental, having two propositions on the ballot at the same time. In all probability one will be dropped in favor of the other.

A breakdown of the millage as proposed by the allocation board is 5.75 for the county; 8.5 for the schools; 1, townships; .3 for the intermediate school district of which Porter is superintendent.

You Told Us

Some of the things bright little girls know: that swinging high is more fun on a windy day, that lemonade tastes better with a big, red cherry, that grown-ups can stay up late, go to the circus and have all the ice cream they want — but they hardly ever do.

Little girls also like to sit on Grandma's lap even though the weather is stifling hot and Gram's about to melt but wouldn't say "No" if she did. Weather continues but the grandchildren soon turn into adults. Best to love 'em while we can.

Mrs. Thomas Rice and children, of Peebles, O., have been spending a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Rebottaro. They will return home the first of the week.

Airman Terry Keith arrived home last Tuesday evening from Bitburg, Germany, on a 24-day leave with his mom and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Carpenter. He likes it over there but he told his mother that the USA looks "real good". He will return there August 3 for another 21 months.

A family reunion was held last weekend at the McConnell Cabin at South Branch. Mr. and Mrs. Russell McConnell of Eliot, Me., left here after visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted McConnell, and joined Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell of Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Wyman Campbell of Milan and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Packard. The Lawrence Packards and the Russell McConnells went on for a trip through the northwestern states and Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. James L. Mangrum and son and baby have returned from Texas to live in Michigan again. He is employed with Hoover Ball and Bearing in Ann Arbor and the couple is looking for a home.

The Riordans made it before deadline (move out in the street) time. They have purchased a home west of Jackson in Spring Arbor township and Tom, Cherie, Caryl and Bernie will move there Saturday. Boo Hoo.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Baxter and daughter, Linda, entertained at a family dinner and supper Sunday. Guests were Mrs. Arthur Blakey, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Blakey of Decatur, Ind., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Doctor of Ft. Wayne, Ind., Mrs. Rose Scaer of Van Wert, O., Mr. and Mrs. Dean Craig and daughters, Tecumseh and Mr. and Mrs. Ron Baxter and son, Sand Lake. Mrs. Arthur Blakey remained at the Baxter home for a visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Stoell, 5120 Milwaukee Rd., and her sisters, Mrs. [illegible] Bateman and Mrs. Frieda Kretschmer of Allen Park have returned from a 12,000 mile trip through California, Canada and Alaska. While in Alaska, they visited another sister, Mrs. Elnora Fulihan and a niece's family, Dr. and Mrs. Winston Laughlin, of Palmer, Alaska.

Sgt. and Mrs. Richard Moon, accompanied by his mother, came from Waukesha, Wis., to visit Mrs. Milton Meyer, Sunday. Sgt. Moon, a former Tecumseh resident, will be going to Vietnam shortly.

Mrs. Robert Kerr and children of Holloway spent the first week of July visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Bova, of Warren, Pa. July 1, Mr. and Mrs. Kerr and children attended the baptism of her nephew, Ned Louis Salerno, son of Dr. and Mrs. Ned Salerno, of Mount Clemens. Also attending were Barbara and Elaine's mother and aunt, Mrs. August Bova and Mrs. Jo Knoll, both of Warren, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wolf and Melanie were in Midland over the weekend to visit his parents.

Lorna R. Engel Also Seeking Supervisor Post

Lorna R. Engel, Academy Rd. resident, is seeking a County Supervisor post from District 10. Her name was omitted last week when it was reported just Harry Dusseau and Merrill Hull were running in the Republican's Aug. 6. primary.

Hoyt Emerson is the lone Democrat on the ballot for District 10 and will face the winner in November.

Arthur Collingsworth, brother of the groom, flew home from Washington, D. C., Thursday for the wedding and accompanied his mother. He left again for the capital Monday.

Weds Young Couple Candlelight Ceremony

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Yancy of Toledo are parents of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. William Spreeman, 414 Center Dr., are parents of the groom.

MRS. GARY SPREEMAN

The bride wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle, designed with fitted bodice of lace, long tapering sleeves and scalloped neckline re-embroidered with iridescent sequins.

Her veil of illusion was secured to a crown of braid and pearls and fell to her shoulders. She carried a cascade arrangement of glamellias and ivy.

Mrs. Robert DeJonghe of Britton was the matron of honor in a floor length gown of rose brocade with detachable train of white.

Sharon Livingston and Barbara Towe, both of Toledo were the bridesmaids in gowns of rose brocade and carrying Elegance carnations.

VOICE of THE HERALD

Good Neighbors

For the first time in years Monday night, one had the feeling that public relations was an important part of our city government.

When Tecumseh was hit by high waters and a flood recently, officials here were grateful for the number of out-of-town volunteers who worked side-by-side with local folks.

At that moment at least, the past was forgotten. Differences failed to prevent one from helping another.

One councilman indicated a change in attitude, perhaps, when he remarked about being "good neighbors." He reminded others about the volunteer help and assistance — a neighborly gesture in time of need.

If one official is taking another look at our neighbors, perhaps all will do so. After all, one can't knock a helping hand.

Maybe someday, Tecumseh can repay in some form of gratitude what they did for us. Then, it's neighbor helping neighbor, the way it should be.

Cost Too Much

Council and representatives of the Tecumseh Fire Department were in agreement Monday night that the city does need a new rescue or emergency vehicle.

They differed over the cost of the vehicle, and to a certain degree over its possible use. Both parties had sound arguments.

The cost of the vehicle, as proposed by the firemen, sounds excessive. It also does not seem realistic that such a vehicle should take a year or two for assembly.

Council inquired about a similar type vehicle, one which could do the job and one which would cost less. Such inquiries were in order.

The local fire department should have a rescue wagon to transport men and equipment — and we believe also the means to transport victims, whether it be an injured fireman or an accident victim.

Such means, however, should not insinuate to the public that the fire department is in the ambulance business. Neither Council nor the firemen apparently want any part of this.

For the good of the community and the fire department, the two parties should reach a decision soon, and one within the department's equipment fund of $15,000. The fund is to have $18,000 for the current fiscal year.

Tecumseh's Fire Department should be complimented for wanting the best department and equipment possible and providing outstanding service — but isn't $22,000 or $25,000 a bit too much for a rescue wagon?

SECOND IN THE STATE — The waterball team of the Tecumseh Fire Department was awarded this trophy at state competition the latter part of June in Alpena. Cassopolis was first place winner with Tecumseh's best coming in second.

Swimmers Find Cool, Cool Water Under Shower

Boiler problems at the swimming pool near the high school has given some youngsters — and adults — a chilly reception.

Don Moffatt, recreation director, told Council Monday night that the boiler heating water for the showers is defunct; and, sheer water a recent morning was below 50 degrees.

Possible solution is a heat exchanger, which would allow pool employees to heat pool water at night and water for the showers during the day.

A heat exchanger is estimated to cost $400.

Twenty guests played Bridal Bingo and unscrambled spices and flavorings with prizes won by Mrs. Murray Day and Mrs. Robert Hunt. They presented them to the guest of honor.

The bride-elect was also given a cleverly-constructed maid of the kitchen with appropriate verse telling of her skills.

The gifts were presented from a table centered with a tall taper surrounded by tulle and tea roses from the garden of Mrs. Harley McConnell.

Michelle Woodbury and her friend, Cassie, assisted with the gifts.

Mrs. Ben Merry, Mrs. Eugene Oss and Mrs. Harvey Bristol, mother and aunts of the bride-elect, of Vassar, were among the guests.

Miss Merry will become the bride of Marvin Grigg August 3 at the Catholic Church in Vassar.

The Tecumseh Police won two and lost one in action last week.

They dropped a 3-0 decision to the Union and nipped the Credit Union, 8-7, then swamped the Kiwanis, 10-2.

In the loss to the Union the Policemen were blanked by the fine pitching of Richard Brooks, as he allowed only one hit, a double by Dave McLoughlin, while fanning 14.

The Police came back on Monday to even their record at 3-3 as they held off a Credit Union rally in the last inning. The Police came up with a run in their half of the inning on some fine base runing by Dave McLoughlin as he reached first base with a walk, worked his way to third on a fielder's choice and a passed ball. He then came in with a game-winning slide at the plate on a passed ball.

The Police had a 7-2 advantage going into the last inning but failed to hold the lead as the Credit Union put five runs across to tie the score.

Paul Lynch rapped a home run to help the Credit Union in their hitting attack, while John Getz and Frank Bock each had two two hits for the winners.

Dave McLoughlin fired a two-hitter and struck out eight in the Kiwanis win. The police scored in every inning as they rapped out a total of eight hits.

Leading the Police hitting attack were Jim Martin and Frank Bock and Glenn Posky each collecting a pair of hits.

Williams' "Summer and Smoke" Is A Fine Evening of Drama

By BILL SANFORD

The smouldering passions and torments of Tennessee Williams come to life last Thursday when the Croswell Summer Theatre program presented Summer and Smoke as their second offering of their first season.

Like most of the work of Williams, Summer takes place in the South, Glorious Hill, Mississippi. The tale involves a spinster and a young virile doctor who live side by side in the dusty town shortly before World War I.

The spinster, Alma Winemiller, played by Lynn Miller, since childhood has loved the doctor, John, as portrayed by Leonard Skwarek, Jr., but the love has been thwarted by the upbringing of Alma by a hypocritical minister father and a mother who has withdrawn from the world, voluntarily it seems.

Miss Miller handles the frigidity of Alma with assurance at first but does not disclose to the audience the smouldering volcano of tempestuousness which is hidden by her upbringing. Alma remains throughout the play the fading star in the antebellum skies of a South that failed to live up to its own visions.

Skwarek, in the role of the doctor, plays the role well, although he, too, comes close to the involvement of the character with the audience but shies away it seems in the closing scenes of the play from the guilts and depressions of his youth that were glimpsed by the audience in a prologue between young John and Alma. Skwarek does well with the talk and antics of John which are just a mask for a sensitive, suffering soul.

Joseph Balsanek, as Rev. Winemiller, brings believability to the role of the narrow, unbending father. Janice Schierhorn as the mother does a fine performance. The role is difficult and could be a constant upstaging of the drama in the way of comedy. She kept it under control and the audience did not run away with a mockery of mental illness which could happen.

Jeffrey Wagner, as John's father, Dr. Buchanan, fits the role well. He has a resonant voice and provided balance and contrast among the characters in the scenes in which he appeared.

Deborah Schrock plays Nellie Ewell, the girl whom John finally decides to marry after Dr. Buchanan, Sr., is killed by the father of his Mexican girl friend. Miss Schrock complimented the cast; she was, however, too school girlish at times. Nellie is to the talents of the playwright the unsophisticated innocence in sin. Her performance could have been enhanced by a deeper probe of the character.

Chris Ferguson as Rosa Gonzalez, the Mexican girl friend, is from Western Michigan University, her husky voice and movements were completely convincing. Paul Schierhorn as her father was also well cast, although the age problem could have been more convincing with better make-up.

One particular scene is worthy of a paragraph all its own. In the prologue young John, played by Jim Cunningham, and young Alma, played by Irene Mudgett, set the mood for the smoldering drama and did so in a poignant, sensitive way. Miss Mudgett gave Alma a haunting premise that remained with the viewer throughout the play, no small feat. Cunningham was a match for the elder John in his performance.

Others in the supporting cast who lent the touch of Williams to the entire production, gave it depth and meaning were Jerry Andrews, Judy Vanzo, Raymond Dage, Marianne Wagner, Allan Rust all as faithful denizens of Glorious Hill. Their performances made it more than just a figment of an imagination. Guy Miller also appeared as Archie Kramer in the final scene. He performed capably.

Williams stands head and shoulders above any other playwright native to America, save two or three exceptions. You could easily notice this if you stopped in for so much as five minutes during a performance of Summer and Smoke. You would be struck by the far greater liveliness of the dialogue, a liveliness that the American theatre has rarely heard from.

It is dialogue caught from actual life, and then submitted to only the gentlest treatment at the playwright's hand. In such a dialogue some approach to American life is possible. Life is not enclosed in wisecracks. Its subtle and changing contours are suggested by the moody rhythm and passion of active speech.

Summer and Smoke seems to be on the borderline of really good drama. If it is never safely across the border, it is because there are the sentimental patterns at work which cramp most honest efforts.

The final scene of the play is episodic and overly sentimental. The audience must look there for the answer to the question how deep does the play really go? The ending of Summer and Smoke compels the answer: not very.

Summer and Smoke is serious viewing. It is commendable of the group to do it during their inaugural season. If you wish to find an evening that will present a challenge and food for thought, it is well worthy of your time. Williams is rarely done in the area and it somehow seems a shame.

The play will run for three performances, July 21 and August 2 and 4.

TO THE EDITOR:

Parents! Help DESPERATELY needed! We would like to add our opinions to that of the editorial in the July 11 Herald, entitled "Parents' Help Needed". The evening of July 10, 1968 gave us the answer to the editor's question — "Tecumseh a Rough Town". Basically, we do not believe it is, after last night particularly, but it does need parents to keep it the good town it is. The occasion we refer to is the Teen Club Dance at the Tecumseh Community Center on July 10, 1968. Now here was an excellent opportunity for teenagers to work off some of the excess energy of youth — but of course adult supervision is necessary at any such gathering. But where were the adults to provide this supervision? Only the parents of the nearly 300 teenagers that attended know the answer to that. Perhaps whatever else they found to do with their time was more important to them than their own most precious possesion, as well as of the community and America itself — their children.

We had no previous connection with, or even knowledge of, the Teen Club — our own two teenagers have pretty much kept themselves occupied with Church and school activities, and with us, since we moved to Tecumseh one year ago. However, late in the afternoon before the dance, we received a call from a member of the Club asking for our help. The band had been engaged, (a very fine decent group from Detroit, this time) and plans made, but the dance could not be held, would have to be cancelled at the last minute unless chaperons could be found. We did volunteer (?) and what a frightening, yet rewarding, experience that turned out to be. We arrived at the dance somewhat apprehensive, as neither of us had any experience as chaperons of such a group. Apprehension turned almost to dismay when we discovered that of nearly 300 teenagers present, not ONE other parent could be found to assist us. So there were we responsible for that entire group by ourselves. During the course of the evening, apprehension and dismay turned to admiration for the fine group of teenagers from Tecumseh and the surrounding area that we were responsible for. We noted only two minor incidents during the entire evening—both of these were settled by fellow teenagers immediately, without our intervention. Even the manager of the band made it a point to comment to us on what a fine group we had.

But why go on — these are not the groups that the public or the press are interested in. Nobody even hears about Sam or Paul or Rick, Nancy or Judy or whoever that does a fine job like that. That is, not until one of them makes a mistake and does something bad enough to gain the attention of the Police and the Press. Then watch their names make the headlines, along with the rough and brutal Police that are sworn to uphold the laws of our land as best they can — regardless of the consequences to themselves or their families. Let only two rowdies — less than one per cent — disrupt a gathering of that nature and the whole thing is labeled nothing but a big mess — a trouble spot — order the police to clean it up as soon as posible.

That is where the teenagers do make a big mistake — the same one their parents do — LET THE POLICE OR THE OTHER GUY DO IT!! The police need even more than the backing and financial support of their community — they need the whole-hearted cooperation as well. "Squealing" on a vandal or other criminal seems to be even worse almost than the crime committed in the first place. Policemen are not mind readers, and without the information locked away in some good citizens mind are powerless to do anything. In the meantime, that same good citizen is a part of that "Rough Town"; that teenager that might have some information but refuses to tell his policeman is a part of those "modern young roughnecks" that make that "Rough Town", both possibly even joining in that cry of "Why don't the Police do something"?

Will it ever be possible to find parents to help the boys and girls that "got away" with their first mistake and are now getting out of hand, if they are unable or unwilling even to help supervise the wholesome activities of normal, energetic teenagers? We certainly hope and pray that it will.

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to know what a City Manager is for, if not to help the city in its planning and to help the people therein? I have very little use for people holding a public position in which they have no common sense and no courtesy to be polite with people.

To start with there have been a large discussion as to the rightful ownership of the property along Shawnee St. Many feel differently about this piece of land — that the school should maintain it — that the city should have it or that the property owners should be able to obtain a quit claim deed to it.

The other day at 11:00 a.m. we went to City Hall to see the City Manager, Mr. Cal Zorn, as to how to obtain a quit claim deed to this property. Mr. Zorn saw us standing at the reception window waiting nearly 15-20 minutes for him to finish talking with a couple of other people. Mr. Zorn knew and could see that we were waiting, however, Mr. Zorn did not have the common courtesy to tell the receptionist to please have us make another appointment to see him or that he could not see us at this time, but instead he went sneakingly out a back door. Mr. Zorn has no tact or courtesy at all and surely not the way for a person to act who is working with the public.

Tecumseh is a fine progressing city and I have lived all my relatively young life here. However, what kind of a city are we going to have if we let people in the management like Mr. Zorn, just have it their way. Property owners usually sit back and take most for granted and never fight back.

Let us get people like our City Manager OUT before it is too late and we have too many mistakes upon the taxpayers!

TO THE EDITOR:

Is this JUSTICE or INJUSTICE?

During the severe rain storm and the damage that was caused to the Tecumseh bridge North Evans St., in the north section of Tecumseh, Clinton-bound traffic had to be detoured on Brown St. to North Union, and North Union to Newburg and then east back to Tecumseh-Clinton Rd. During the time of the storm and the following days until Friday afternoon, there were no speed limit signs posted out North Union to the city limits. At this time, the county posted the remainder of the detoured route towards Clinton.

Apparently, city police decided that this was a good time to set up a speed trap and prey on unsuspecting motorists approximately one-quarter of a mile from residential area through farm land and just short of the city limits. To my knowledge, this is the only road leading out of town that has an unposted 25 mph. speed zone.

On the morning of Friday, June 28, my girl friend went to Tecumseh for the first time on the detoured road since the storm. On returning home, she was caught in above speed trap and was fined $20.00 for increasing her speed after leaving the residential area.

I rode back to Tecumseh the next day with her to plead this offense with the police department to no avail. The Chief of Police told her that she would have to discuss it with the local Justice of Peace, also to no avail.

Results were an unfairly-paid fine in my opinion.

Why are all streets leading from Tecumseh to other areas posted at different speeds?

In all fairness to the City of Tecumseh, I believe they should properly post speed limits on all streets and roads leading out of town, whether it is 50 mph. or 25 mph., as it seems to vary now. This would clarify the confusion to all residents living both in and out of Tecumseh.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

With all the theological ferment these days there is more unrest in our churches than we have known in many years. Issues divide the congregations and sometimes the whole debate seems endless. It would be easier to stay home in bed on Sunday mornings.

But through it all, the houses of God stand, because regular churchgoers know that men are inconstant, that they are subject to numerous temptations and influences. They also know that God is omnipotent, is omniscient. His care is constant. His creative spirit continually sustains the earth, and His love is always sensitive to the plight of man.

It is not easy to be a Christian: it never was. Houses of God stand because there are those who are willing to be channels of God's care—who assume responsibility for church schools, missions, social justice, and—oh yes—that roof.

Sauva To Represent U.S.A.

Dave Sauva, senior jump master at the parachute club at the Tecumseh Airport, has been selected as a member of the U.S. parachuting team which will compete in the world championships in Austria during August.

For the past two years Mr. Sauva has been Michigan State champion. This was the 28-year-old chutist's fourth try at the United States team.

At present he is in Zephyrhills, Florida, training for a month prior to the trip to Austria. Approximately six jumps a day are a part of the training, accuracy and style being the series which a parachutist must complete.

The United States tryouts for the team were held in Tucson, Arizona, the last week of June. Part of the jumps were televised for Wide World of Sports. Several shots of Sauva were taken and have a good chance of being shown with the program sometime in September.

In the style jumps it is necessary for a parachutist to manipulate a series of turns in a certain length of time. The world record is 6.9 seconds held by a Russian, Sauva qualified with an 8 second mark. The accuracy jumps are aimed at a 10 centimeter disc from 2500 feet.

This is the first time that a parachutist from the state of Michigan has competed on the U.S. team. In the world event he will be competing against jumpers from Russia, Austria, Switzerland, England, France, Germany, Hungary and other nations.

In qualifying for the team, the East Lansing elementary teacher placed among the top five out of some 45,000 jumpers throughout the United States.

Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean

Editor's Note—Bonnie Hoover of Clinton is spending two months in Denmark as a member of the "Youth for Understanding" program. Her home for the summer is a farm named "Solbjergvard", home of Mr. and Mrs. Sigvard Vestgard, Voldum Pr. Randers, Denmark, and daughter, Sonja.

Host families were matched for similarities. Bonnie, an all-A student at Clinton High School, was placed with a Danish sister who is an all-A student in her school. Each girl is the youngest of her family and they share similar hobbies and interests such as music, language, studies, travels, sewing, cooking, pets, reading and writing.

The Niels Hansen Memorial Foundation of Tecumseh made grants to six students this year which made this summer in Europe possible.

The following is a compilation of excerpts from Bonnie's first two letters, beginning June 16, while she was on the plane.

BONNIE HOOVER

June 16, 1968
World Airways plane N370
Intercontinental Boeing 707c

Dear Family,

We did not get a wink of sleep! We chased the sun around the North Pole I guess and everyone was too excited to sleep.

You wanted some statistics? We flew at an altitude of 33,000 to 37,000 feet at 535 M.P.H. for 7 hours and 40 minutes. The trip covered 4300 miles and would have taken 8 to 9 days by boat from New York City. Our fully loaded plane weighed 320,000 pounds at take-off.

Denmark at last.

It was 6:30 in the morning there and that great city was just waking up from a night that we had never seen, and suddenly everyone around us was speaking Danish!

We kids were labeled for our destination for the summer, whether Denmark, Sweden or Finland. We walked off the plane, behind glass partitions, through customs — some said they knew what animals in a zoo felt like — but I thought it was fun and exciting until I had to carry my own 44-pound suitcase, plus my purse and flight bag! Sort of like carrying a 65-pound bale of hay with me — both dead weight!

My group was split up into reds and greens. Danish families met the greens here at the airport and we red-tags boarded a bus. Finnish-bound kids boarded a plane for their hour and a half ride to Helsinki, and Swedish-bound went their way.

We were so lucky! We had a wonderful guided tour by bus all the way across Denmark, letting the kids off at their host towns as we came to them. I went a long ways north on the Jutland Peninsula to my town of Randers, but others went on farther north and saw even more.

I couldn't sleep, I couldn't miss anything, I figured that this was the chance of a lifetime to see every bit of scenery from Kobenhavn (how about that?) to host town. Other kids dozed off from time to time but our guide, Svend Wilhelm, sat right in front of me all the way except when unloading students and baggage and pointed out everything of interest so I was busy looking and listening. Svend was a 20-year-old college student from Palbourg (go find that on the map, no hints allowed) who looked like a character right out of "Sound of Music".

We were impressed by the bright colors everywhere. Each set of curtains in the apartment buildings seems to be a different color and there were window boxes on porches and windowsills everywhere filled with bright flowers. The grass along the very modern main highways had been allowed to grow to hay length and was carefully piled up to cure.

Houses, no matter how close together, seemed always to have a garden tucked in somewhere. Often there is no lawn, but fruit trees fill the yard right up to the front door of little "summer homes" used by the city people at this time of the year.

I was very much surprised to find American gas stations such as Shell, Mobil, Gulf and Esso, along the route, and even more surprised to hear American "music" on the bus radio, some the latest hits like "Honey", others a bit stale. I tried to take notes on everything I could in my trusty little brown notebook!

We were having so much fun that I lost all track of time. Suddenly we were on the mainland of Denmark, the Jutland peninsula, letting off more students, and then, way up north, it was my turn to get off, in the city of Randers. Sonja was waiting for me and her best friend, Beth Hoiz, was waiting for Gayle Ver Hoef of Holland, Michigan. We were so busy getting our luggage and saying Hello and Goodbye that I am not sure who else got off the bus there, but I'll find out later.

Sonja's mother, Frau Vestgaard, picked us up in her little red, black-topped European car and we went directly to the farm. It is about a mile south of Voldum and Voldum is 17 Km. or about 11 miles from Randers. This is a fairy-tale country, indeed! The highway is new but the country is very old. Right in Randers is a very large old windmill on a high hill above the road. The narrow, winding, shop-lined streets of the town are as darling as any story-book illustration!

Before you reach Voldum you see a pretty little lake far down below the road. Then, about a mile and a half across the green fields Sonja pointed out their home, my home for the summer. It shines like a white castle on a mountain. The name "Solbjergaard" means Sun mountain, and indeed it is on the highest hill around. I am reminded of our beloved Irish Hills, but no place in all Denmark is as high as Prospect Hill.

Sonja is blonde and short-haired. The top of her head comes about level with my eyes. Her English is not as good as her writing indicated and we get mixed up a lot when we talk. Sonja's mother speaks just a little English, but we get along fine because she knows everyday phrases that she might use in her shop.

Sonja's father is very nice and very friendly and goes quietly about his work but does not speak a word of English. He is always near because the buildings are arranged in a neat square with an enclosed central courtyard. He raises the famous Danish pigs and at present has 250 of them. They are quite odorless unless you are right with them in the hot part of the day. The big boars are in 2½/5 ft. stalls, lined up in rows with chains behind, iron bars in front and boards between. There are little pigs of all sizes. They are cute but the mothers are very protective and shake straw in all directions if you get close.

We went to the pasture to see the horse. She should have her foal while I am here and everyone is excited about that event.

I'll have to describe the house when I figure it out myself. It has many rooms and I get confused just trying to find the kitchen.

Tuesday, June 18, '68

This was the day I saw the shop in Randers for the first time. Frau Vestgaard calls it a "Millinery" shop, but it might be called a leather "Boutique" in the U. S. Everything in the shop is made right there by Frau Vestgaard and one helper and I think everything is of some kind of leather. She says it is the finest leather work in all Europe, and I don't see how it could be finer. There are gloves, belts, hats, coats, jackets, shorts, bolero jackets, culottes, skirts, jumpers and entire dresses of butter-soft leather. There are about 100 outfits in stock right now. Every seam junction meets exactly and linings are of good quality satin. There is a great deal of hand finishing which is perfect. The outfits are priced from $40 to $200 and well worth it in time alone. I just love that shop and hope to learn something about working with leather as well as European fabrics.

Sonja had her final German exam while I visited the shop. Then I went with her to her choir rehearsal. It is all girls, and very good, indeed. Beth is in the choir, too. After the rehearsal I was introduced to the conductor, who speaks very good English. I told him how much I enjoyed the music and he asked if I would like to sing with them. I only wish I could! He invited me to go with the choir when they sing at a town near the German border on Saturday. Maybe Gayle can go, too, with Beth.

Now I must stop and mail this at last.

Your Bonnie lies over the Ocean!

Voldum, Denmark
June 21, 1963

Dear All —

This is the greatest experience anyone could ever have! Sonja and I get along beautifully! Remember when Mr. and Mrs. Hans Schmidt playfully reminded me that hospitality in Denmark was so wonderful that I would probably gain weight? Sonja and I talked that over and agreed to control each other's eating and get lots of exercise to make up for the wonderful food for which Denmark is so famous.

About twice a day we walk from the farm to Voldum (a mile each way) to take the bus to Randers where her mother's shop is or attend choir practice or take back books, etc.

The evenings are long and warm and wonderful! We walk somewhere every evening so that I can meet people and see everything possible. Last night Sonja and I walked a few kilometers to the town of Aarslev to watch Mr. Vestgaard play nine-pins. It is like bowling as described in the story of Rip Van Winkle, I suppose. Anyhow, the men of several small towns got together and put a long, smooth wooden alley in a very large but unused chicken coop. They throw wooden balls at 9 wooden pins and some little boys pick up the pins and call out the number knocked down. I even tried playing nine-pins!

On the way to Aarslev Sonja and I stopped at the local Athletik (sportsfields) to watch teams of girls playing teams of boys at what they call Handball. To me, it looked like a mixture of hockey (endnets), volleyball and dodgeball. I have not tried this game, yet, but I will when I get it figured out.

Bonnie

I told you that Sonja is in a girls' choir which has been rehearsing almost daily and the director had asked me to sing with them. I knew they were great, and now I have learned that the Randers' Girls' Choir is famous for being the finest in all Denmark. Tomorrow I will go with the choir by train or bus down to Varde, near the German border. Next weekend the choir will go for a concert at Aars, northwest of here, and I will attend the concert with Beth's family and their American student, Gayle Ver Hoef, from Holland, Mich.

The people here are so very nice, so friendly when you get to know them, but the school kids and bus passengers are very shy and quiet and reserved.

Clothes of all kinds are ridiculously expensive here. More on that subject later when I make some dresses for Sonja and get to looking at fabrics.

I tried baking once, so far. After looking over the available supplies, I ended up with oatmeal cookies. Vanilla is dry and powdered, so I just threw a little in. There is no powdered sugar, no baking soda, no canned shortenings (vegetable oils). Baking powder is sold in very small quantities in a little paper package. There is no peanut butter, no graham crackers, few bananas or dates, but plenty of coffee!

Our dessert was a fruit-soup last night, made from some berries I cannot find an English name for. They are somewhat like green gooseberries and have a brown skin or husk sometimes which must be scraped or rubbed off. Look that one up somewhere!

Golly! I just realized how long I had been writing. It is 2:15 a.m. and it is light already. Midsommer-Nat (the long light night of the year) is Sunday night and we will have a great bonfire in the valley below the house. It really does not get dark at all, although the sun sets at about 10:30 or so. More about that later!

Almost forgot to tell you that this afternoon, after Sonja's school graduation, we were guests of a young artist and his wife who live in a house built in 1643. I took a picture (slide) of a leaded-glass window, among others, and I am very anxious to know if my pictures will be any good. We had the inevitable coffee and open-face meat sandwiches for refreshments.

Sonja was valedictorian of her graduating class and the ceremony was out of doors.

Love,
Bonnie.

Reunion

The Pocklington Reunion will be held Sunday, July 28, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Rieve, 5151 Feller Rd., Tipton.

A potluck dinner will be served at noon with everyone furnishing his own beverage.

LIFE HEALTH

Those Silly Tonsils

Inflamed, swollen tonsils knock little Susie out of that so-important recital; Johnnie misses a vital day at school because of "sore throat" which turned out to be "tonsilitis".

The tonsils, strong, lymphatic tissue around the air passages in the throat, protect the respiratory organs from the attacks of undesirable organisms entering the mouth and nose.

The normal activity of the tonsils, like other parts of the body, is directed by nerve energy messages from the brain routed through the spinal column. So long as the strong flow of nerve energy remains unimpaired, the body functions properly and radiant health is the result.

The chiropractor with his knowledge of the nervous system, uses gentle spinal adjustments to insure proper transmission of vital nerve energy to all parts of the body so nature's healing Power within can overcome the attacks of undesirable organisms.

As in so many other ailments of mankind, gentle, competent chiropractic adjustments can bring lasting results to the sufferer of tonsilitis. Another Health and Life Article from the Office of:

NEWS OF IH

HERALD PHOTO BY BILL WHITING

SEE! IT DOES RUN UP HILL — Dave Hall and Tom Smith, Tecumseh boys working as guides at the Mystery Hill demonstrate the amazing force of gravity that seems to make the water from the pump run up the trough at a rather unusual angle. "Come, see it for yourself," the guide invites Herald readers.

Legend of Leprechauns??
Gravity Gone Berserk??
Mystery Hill is Mystery

By MARVIN GRIGG

Shrieks of amazement are heard from the Mystery Hill building as the guide places a chair against the wall and proceeds to sit there with the front legs in mid-air.

The law of gravity seems to have gone berserk and one's sense of balance is entirely upset. Nature's amazing force of gravity, combined with the wonders of science, create a natural phenomenon that is almost unbelievable.

Legend has it that leprechauns tilted the earth and joined the hills to make this topsy-turvy area in the Irish Hills.

Although the floor is "flat as a pancake", the gravity is so strong that it pulls everything toward the front wall. The strange sensation will astound and intrigue the wildest imagination, as demonstration after demonstration is presented of the powerful gravity.

"It is just like leaning into a cloud," said Miss Mary Andres of La Grange, Ill., after mastering the crazy way you have to stand. Many people call this unusual feeling a "cheap drunk".

Bill Pettit and Bud Rogers, owners, urge visitors to bring their cameras to take many interesting pictures.

Many theories have been offered. Such as: mineral deposits, earthquakes, fallen meteorites and others.

If the world seems a little off balance to you now, you can really find things lopsided at the Mystery Hill in the heart of the Irish Hills, across from the entrance to Hayes State Park on Wamplers Lake.

You are invited to Mystery Hill to experience these natural sensations and offer your own theories. Tours are conducted by courteous guides and last about 15 minutes.

A Million Years of Wonder

By BILL SANFORD

ve you ever thought of what it must have been like n the world a million years ago? Probably every child time or another has pondered that question. What aveman look like? What really was a dinosaur like? h childhood imagination you conjured up, perhaps, a f them.

ss Sidwell with the cooperation of the Smithsonian e, designed and made such figures for Prehistoric in the Irish Hills.

just a few moments you can board the scout train urney back through time and view some of the inter- phases of man and animal life as it grew into what w it today.

the Scout Train each young adventurer, ageless as be, is armed with an automatic weapon to insure a urney through the forest of living antiquity.

ungster and oldster alike can be awed by the gigantic that menacingly appear on the journey throughout est. A shelter from the danger is the first stop; from guided tour leads you through the stages of animal e first stop is the Neanderthal Man. By historical in- on he lived some 600,000 years ago. His remains were y anthropological expeditions by the Neander River in Germany, and thus his name the Neanderthal Man. He was the first to show signs of intellect.

Another interesting beast is a big bird. Diatryma, a bird-like creature, sometimes grew to weigh as much as 800 pounds. Can you imagine the caveman taking him on with a sling-shot? Diatryma lived during the cretaceous period as did most of the animals exhibited.

Also exhibited is Tyrannosaurus Rex. He is really a bad one. This ferocious looking beast was considered the most destructive King of the Forest, long before Mr. Lion took up the mantle.

When the train returns you through the tunnel back to the 20th century, and you are greeted by civilization again, there is the Mammoth Gift Shop. Browsing here can be a great deal of fun. You can even buy a box of popcorn to munch on as you look at all of the souvenirs, displayed for sale.

If you remember childhood or have young people experiencing it, Prehistoric Forest is educational as well as fun.

Even though Prehistoric Forest is located in the Irish Hills, don't expect any leprechauns to be hiding in the bushes. "The Little People" have turned that part of the Irish Hills back to dinosaurs, big birds and Tyrannosaurus Rex.

The Prehistoric Forest is located just west of the entrance to Walter J. Hayes State Park on US-12.

Troopers Pay Increased

Higher Michigan trooper pay levels starting at $7,120 a year greatly improve the benefits and advantages of the challenging careers offered eligible young men 21 to 30 years of age by the State Police, Sgt. Henry Louwerens, commander of the Clinton post, states.

Opportunities for enlistment in the department are excellent, he said, as there are many trooper positions open due to an increase in authorized personnel approved some time ago by the Legislature. Application for enlistment may be made at any State Police post.

"The new yearly trooper pay base is effective for officer candidates beginning with the very first day of recruit school. This figures out to be $593.34 on a monthly rate," the sergeant added.

The upgraded trooper rates are part of the pay increase program effective July 1, 1968, for state employees as approved by the Civil Service Commission.

Trooper pay increases automatically by yearly increments until the new annual maximum of $10,001 in this rank is reached starting with the seventh year of service. This is figured at $883 on a monthly basis.

The State Police as an equal opportunity employer are actively seeking officer candidates from all groups, Sergeant Louwerens emphasized.

To be eligible for enlistment, young men 21 to 30 must have a high school education or the equivalent, be at least 5 feet 9 inches tall and with weight in proportion to height. They must be of good moral character and free of any serious arrest record. They may be married or single.

Troopers normally work a 40-hour, five-day week, but get paid for any overtime. They receive free uniforms and equipment. Annually they receive 15 vacation days plus credit for eight holidays and accumulated paid sick leave. Longevity pay begins after six years. Both longevity pay and annual vacation time increase with years of service. Upon completion of five years of service officers are eligible to take promotional exams. Promotions, of course, mean increases in both regular and longevity pay.

Sergeant Louwerens pointed out that the State Police pension plan, one of the best, enables an officer to retire at half pay after just 25 years of service. The same pension also protects the officer's wife should he die in retirement.

Those young men unable to contact a State Police post for further information on trooper enlistments may write instead to the Michigan Civil Service Commission at Lansing.

"Odd Couple" is Enjoyable

By JOHN RAYMOND

There is so much natural hilarity written into "The Odd Couple" by Neil Simon that any capable production provides and enjoyable evening of comedy. The Clark Lake Players production which opened last weekend was well-staged and directed and capably performed, though many of the performances were little more than recitations.

Considering the short rehearsal schedule, the heat and opening night jitters, it was a smooth and entertaining production.

The opening poker game in the messy apartment of Oscar Madison, a divorced sportswriter, set a good pace but was disorganized and featured some unnecessary shouting by Warren Blanchard.

Oscar, a carefree slob, was represented by Bob Murray of Tecumseh, whose steady surliness gave some punch to Simon's biting dialogue but gave no depth or dimension to the character. Murray also kept staring at the floor between his speeches, possibly looking for his next line, and reacted more than once to his own funny lines.

Oscar's messy life changes when he invites newly-divorced Felix to share his apartment. Felix is a quiet, gentle introvert who practices neatness with religious fervor.

In the role, Don Tate enters the story just after his attempted suicide and his portrayal is so subdued that at times there is some suspicion he may have succeeded. Tate's first attempt at comedy is very effective, with his lack of animation overdone by Simon's material.

In a few weeks, Oscar and Felix become as unhappily married to each other as they were to their wives, each embodying the same opposite [illegible] habits as the women they were unable to live with.

When Felix makes a fiasco of Oscar's plans for an evening with the kookie Pigeon sisters, the relationship between the men moves through the hilarious stages of brooding, argument, recognition of incompatability and finally "divorce". Felix is adopted by the Pigeon sisters and Oscar returns to his sloppy, poker-playing life.

Walt Gabel and Ted Wood contributed lively, consistent characterizations. Dave Howard seemed uncomfortable in his role and Warren Blanchard couldn't quite decide how loudly to deliver his lines, but both sustained the proper mood of the irritated poker players.

Shirley Harrison and Andy Hall were properly kookie as the Pigeon sisters, with Miss Hall less successful at sustaining the English dialect.

"The Odd Couple" is a penetrating comedy that provides a fast-paced evening of entertainment. The Clark Lake Players production will play again this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 at the Eagles Point theatre.

QUESTION:
"Is it possible to give us one reason why we should not select the funeral home with the lowest charges?"

ANSWER:
There is no service available which somebody can't cheapen to sell for just a little less; and those who choose for price alone are legitimate prey. Ironically, those who select by price alone are usually just as disappointed.

TECUMSEH'S GRAND CANYON — It didn't take a hundred thousand years to create, but Tecumseh is well on its way to having its own popular tourist attraction. Although the Raisin River no longer supplies Globe Mill Pond, Evans Creek is swathing a deep path through the muddy swamp. Maybe it's being selfish, but the drying mud flats bear little resemblance to its peaceful, if polluted, self.

Waltz is Elected Board President

CLINTON — The board of education of the Clinton Community Schools met recently to organize, electing Roger Waltz as president.

Others elected are:

Vice-president — Donald Geiger.

Secretary — Mrs. Marilyn Vogel.

Treasurer — Thomas Carlton.

The trustees are Lester Proctor, Harlon Ruhl, and Carl Woodward.

Text book rental fees were established at the first regular meeting last Wednesday. They are:

Kindergarten — $4.00.

Grades 1 through 6 — $8.00.

Grades 7 and 8 — $9.00.

Grades 9 through 12 — $10.00.

The board formally accepted the gift of a display case by Mrs. Rick Sparks, in memory of her husband, Rick Sparks, a graduate, who lost his life while serving in Vietnam.

The board accepted the athletic report and a policy was adopted to place all after-school athletics in the regular budget, with the budgets for these activities to be submitted to the board for approval. All students who participate in after-school athletics will be required to carry insurance with an accepted company.

Bids will be requested for a new roof on the rest of the 1925 building.

Bids were opened and granted to McFadden Corp. for a Wayne body and Driscoll Bros. for a Dodge chassis for a school bus.

Walter Frazier, consulting engineer, is surveying the new school site. The finance consultants have prepared a report to the state for the $2,280,000 bond issue to be presented in late August.

Board members are circulating initiatory petitions to recommend the passing of a 15-mill fixed tax limitation in the county. Although the proposition does not affect the Clinton district, it is necessary to have 8% of the Clinton township voters' names on the petition, in order to place this proposition on the November ballot.

Heimerdinger-Mann Vows Spoken

CLINTON — Janice Eileen Heimerdinger and Roger Dale Mann recited their marriage vows at a lawn wedding at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. David Heimerdinger, of Pennington Rd., Saturday.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at 3 o'clock by the Rev. Paul McKenna, pastor of the United Church of Christ, Clinton.

The bride is the daughter of Clarence J. Heimerdinger, 3908 Clinton-Macon Rd., and Mrs. Janette Miller Heimerdinger, W. Michigan Ave.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Mann, Coller Hwy., Tipton.

Greenery ropes, interspersed with candles in hurricane lamps, outlined the area where 200 guests were seated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Chantilly lace, styled with a fitted bodice, long sleeves and a bouffant hooped skirt, featuring tiers of bordered lace and a chapel train. She wore an elbow-length veil held by a floral headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. William Flanders of Tecumseh played an organ prelude of nuptial music and accompanied William Dean Heimerdinger, who sang "One Hand, One Heart," and "The Lord's Prayer" as the couple knelt at the altar.

The bridal attendants were gowned alike in rainbow shades of crepe. Their empire-styled gowns featured ribbon - laced white crocheted sleeves and panels accented the long A-line skirts. Matching veiled headpieces were held by Dior bows. Each carried a basket of glamellias and carnations matching her gown.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Ernest Rangler and maid of honor, Mary Jane Miller, wore gowns of turquoise; and bridesmaids, Jacquelin Proctor, Teresa Heimerdinger and Joyce Heimerdinger, wore shades of apricot, lilac and pink, respectively. Teresa is a cousin, and Joyce is a sister of the bride.

Tiny flower girls, Brenda Lape and Joanne McMichael, gowned alike in yellow and carrying bouquets of daisies, were accompanied by ring bearers, Mark Caruso and Jeff Heimerdinger.

Ernest Rangler was the best man. Ushers were seated by Jerry Heimerdinger, brother of the bride; Randy Mann, brother of the groom; Eugene Brown and Roger Porterfield.

A dance reception and buffet supper was held immediately after the ceremony at the Tecumseh Products Union Hall, with 250 guests attending from the Irish Hills, Adrian, Tipton and Tecumseh.

Mrs. James Heimerdinger, aunt of the bride, cut the cake; punch was served by Debbie Benschoter of Jasper and Sandra McMichael poured coffee. The bride's cousins, Marilyn and Sherry Richardson of Onsted passed the guest book and assisted with the gifts.

MRS. ROGER MANN

The bride is a June graduate of Clinton High School. The bridegroom is a 1965 graduate of Clinton High School and is a sheet metal apprentice at Young & Ost, Milan.

For the present, the couple will reside at the home of the bridegroom's parents.

Through My Window

SUCCESSFUL, VERY SUCCESSFUL!

One very young flicker and an adult, five tiny downy woodpeckers, two large hairy woodpeckers, a tiny mite of a wren, numerous bluejays, some copycat sparrows and hordes of uninvited grackies and starlings. These are the daily patrons at our suet feeder. This is our first serious venture into regular summertime suet feeding and what a ball it has turned out to be.

The feeder which holds the suet hangs from a limb of the walnut tree thus eliminating many of the problems we have encountered in past attempts. After all, during a prolonged hot spell, a chunk of suet on the close-to-the-window feeder becomes a "bit much"! Surely there is no need to go into detail. Our Smokey Mountain feeder has solved all . . . Now the birds are happy and so are we.

Most baby birds are fed a diet high in animal or insect matter. Some, of course, are stuffed exclusively with buggy snacks. I am sure that having a reasonably fresh supply of suet available must help the poor overworked parent birds.

When they rely entirely on insect hunting to satisfy the almost unsatisfyable appetite of their screaming broods — well, no wonder they look haggard and worn.

THE FLICKERS are, perhaps, the most fun when they visit the hanging restaurant. They are big birds anyway, about 13 inches long, but at first the youngster's feathers were so soft and fluffy that he looked much larger. For a while he would not eat for himself.

The older bird parked him on the limb nearby, within walking distance of the feeder, and chiseling out a good-sized bite, she merely had to hop from feeder to limb and stuff it into that big, wide open and screaming mouth.

There was never a stabbing, but to see her long bill poke far down the youngster's throat was rather terrifying. Junior Flicker eats for himself now, his feathers are beginning to smooth down and look quite trim, but he still hangs onto Mother's apron strings.

Often they dine together, he bangs away at one side of the suet and she the other — the two of them make a very full feeder.

WITH SO MANY baby mouths to be fed, there is apparently no time to waste in chasing other birds away from the banquet board. Oh no, there is nothing as dramatic as a hairy woodpecker inviting a bluejay to snack with him him, but, at least, there is no selfish fighting, either.

While one bird eats, he is quite content to let others queue up and they can come quite close as long as they are patient about waiting their turn. It is cute to see five grubby little downy woodpeckers all lined up in a row.

And young downys are grubby little guys. Their feathers are rough and ragged, their black and white colors are dingy and drab, their heads look undersized and their necks are scrawny.

Five of them seem to get along well together — just one big playful family. Speaking of unnattily-attired birds, two young nuthatches are in almost as bad shape as are the downys.

Occasionally they drop in for a scratch-feed snack and we have a good look at the black speckles on their dirty gray breast. When at the suet feeder, they show us their backs which are quite respectably adult-looking.

So it is that our summer suet feeding program has been successful, very successful.

"MIS Challenging" Gordon Johncock

Gordon Johncock, one of the top contenders on the USAC Championship car circuit, recently visited the site of Michigan International Speedway, now under construction in the Irish Hills of Michigan.

Johncock, a resident of Hastings, was returning from Langhorne, Pa., where he took overall honors in his turbo-charged Offy and also set a new world lap record for qualifying on a one-mile track.

"This new speedway will be very challenging and fast," said Johncock. "It will certainly be a test of driving ability and should separate the men from the boys!"

"We've needed a track like this in Michigan for a long time. I'm really looking forward to that October 13th race."

Construction is right on schedule for the $4.5 million racing complex. One of the major projects recently completed was the installation of four ARMCO Steel Multi Plate tunnels — 14 feet high, 200 feet in length. The tunnels will provide passenger car and pedestrian access to the infield area.

Also well under way is the construction of the main grandstand, erected by Standard Steel of Three Rivers, Michigan. Spectators seated in the grandstands will have 100% visibility of the 2-mile banked oval. Paving of the oval started Monday.

To date, 2,000,000 cu. yds. of earth have been moved by the major general contractor, Holloway Construction of Wixom.

On October 13th, date of the Speedway's inaugural championship car race on the oval, drivers will be competing for shares of a $75,000 purse, plus lap and accessory monies. The second largest purse on USAC history — surpassed only by the Indy 500.

Tickets are now on sale for the first race. Information can be obtained by writing the Speedway office at 2990 W. Grand Blvd., Detroit, Michigan 48202.

Totals Auto

Clarence Almaroad, 52, 14601 Sharon Hollow Rd., rural Manchester, totaled his automobile at 12:30 a.m., Sunday. He was driving on US-12, east of Sharon Hollow Rd., when he swerved to avoid an oncoming car in the wrong lane.

Almaroad's car went across the highway, flipped end over end and landed in a ravine. The driver was taken to Herrick Memorial Hospital.

Head Librarian Resigning Post November 1st

Mrs. Murray Day, veteran Tecumseh librarian, has announced her plans to retire on Nov. 1.

Unless the schools can find and employ a replacement, Tecumseh Public Library will be without a qualified librarian.

Supt. James McDowell says both a head and assistant librarian are needed, plus two school librarians. With an A.B. degree, a head librarian starts at $6,750 with a maximum salary of $10,000.

The assistant salary scale is from $6,500 to $9,750, which is approximately the same for school librarians.

Mrs. Day has been employed at the library for 14 years with 12 years under contract. Last November, she succeeded Julie Fosbender as head librarian. Mrs. Fosbender resigned to accept a position in Kalamazoo.

For the past 10 years, Mrs. Day has conducted story hours for children during the summer months, besides filling her other duties.

She reports having no definite plans for the future, but in reference to resigning from the library, she has "found the work load there tremendous" and desires to discontinue working nights.

MRS. MURRAY DAY

Contractor for Center Is Selected

The architectural firm of Samborn, Steketee, Otis & Evans of Toledo, O., has been selected as the architect for the proposed Lenawee Vocational-Technical Education Center.

The decision was reached by the Lenawee County Intermediate School District Board of Education at a special meeting on Monday night.

The Board's action followed a recommendation by the Vocational Administrative Advisory Sub-Committee. This committee interviewed 16 architectural firms. It visited the home offices and on-going construction sites of the two firms which were under consideration in the final decision.

Members serving on the committee were: Milton C. Porter, Intermediate School Office; Richard Malson, Onsted; Clayton Wilson, Blissfield; Elwood Little, Onsted; Howard Sliker, Blissfield; Jerry Gaviglio and Carlo Heikinen, Adrian; Bob Duncan, Hudson; and Jim Brown and Bill Ross of the Vocational Office staff.

The firm Samborn, Steketee, Otis & Evans, Engineers and Architects, has 170 personnel on its staff. They designed the new Toledo Community College Technical Buildings. Their experience includes schools, office buildings, hospitals, industrial buildings, elderly houses, fire stations, banks, post offices, churches, retail buildings and others. The firm was organized in 1948.

City Receives $25,417.76 Check

A partial payment, amounting to $25,417.76, has been received by the city from the Federal government for payment on the new building at Tecumseh Park.

The Federal grant, which passes through state authorities, is for $27,500.

Burglars Strike High School, Pool

Burglars broke into the high school and the nearby swimming pool Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning with little to show for their efforts.

Entry to the high school was gained by breaking a window in the library. A soft drink machine was tampered with, but it contained no money.

Rain Tops Inch, City Gauge Shows

Tecumseh and area have had their share of rain this summer, but they received a bit more Tuesday evening and Wednesday.

According to the city gauge at the disposal plant, we received .95 inches from 7 p.m. Tuesday to 7 a.m. Wednesday.

The downpour continued sporadically here Wednesday, giving the area well over an inch in a 24-hour period.

Tuesday evening's rain was accompanied by strong winds, but little damage was reported.

Two Boy Scouts Enjoy Jamboree

By GREGG BURNS and BOB McKEE

We took a train from Ann Arbor to Chicago, changed trains and went on to Denver, Colo.

We then chartered a bus which took us to Colorado Springs Air Force Academy for lunch and a tour. We arrived at Philmont, N. M., at 6:05 p.m.

We had an opening campfire, at which we were told how New Mexico was founded.

The next day we put our gear together and packed our packs, which weighed 40 pounds. About an hour later we set out on our 10-day journey into the wilderness.

During these 10 days we hiked a total of 55 miles to different campsites. We did such things as Paleontology, survival, archaeology, panned for gold and took the National Rifle Association safety course.

We also gathered as much western lore as we could.

We saw plenty of wildlife and beautiful scenery.

This trip could not have been made possible if it hadn't been for our fine adult leaders, George Martinal and Walter Zook, both of Adrian.

We also enjoyed this trip with 20 great guys from Lenawee County.

And we also owe great thanks to our parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKee and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burns.

Keith Bailey Moving Olds to New Site

Tecumseh's Oldsmobile agency will soon have a new home — across W. Chicago Blvd. at the former Ford site on the corner of W. Chicago Blvd. and Occidental Rd.

Keith Bailey, Olds dealer, has purchased the building and property along with Larry DuShane, salesman and assistant to the dealer.

Since buying the site last month, the entire property has been blacktopped and improved. At the present, the interior is being redecorated and improvements being made in the service department.

The move across the street will occur in about a month, and well before the new car showings. The property was purchased from James Finch and Robert Valliancourt, former Tecumseh Ford dealers, who quit the dealership here about two years.

Mr. Bailey acquired the Oldsmobile franchise here about 14 years ago from Jack Osburn and has operated it at the present site since.

Louis Schneider, Chevrolet and Buick dealer just east of Keith Bailey Olds, has purchased the present Olds building and property.

Earn-A-Bike

Tecumseh Herald's Earn-A-Bike promotion enters the home stretch next week with an Aug. 2 deadline for turning in new subscriptions and renewals.

With over a week to go, 11 youngsters have earned new bicycles. Several are within a subscription or two — 15 new subscriptions are required — and several already have enough for a new transistor radio.

All prizes — bikes, radios and money earned — will be given away at The Herald office on Saturday morning, Aug. 3, at 10 o'clock.

As of Wednesday, total new subscription sales had reached 258, and 32 renewals. The youngsters who do not sell enough for a bike or radio, will receive $1 for each new subscription and 25c for each renewal.

Although sales have been concentrated in the Tecumseh, Britton and rural area, many youngsters are doing well in Clinton.

Boys and girls who have yet to report their sales are Vernon Bennett, Deborah Bruggenwirth, Jeffrey Bryant, Randy Butler, Rickey Butler, Mike Clement, Marilyn Cook, Thomas Cook II, Dana Dahlke, Lynn DeJonghe, David Esterline.

Occidental Rd. Paving Is Nearing Completion

City officials hope to wrap up one of its major street improvement projects within the next 10 days with blacktopping of S. Occidental Rd.

One section of the street, from Shady Lane to Russell Rd., was blacktopped just recently, completing about half of the street from Russell to W. Chicago Blvd. A considerable portion of Occidental has also received new curb and gutter.

Officials have planned for Occidental to handle a large amount of north and south-bound traffic.

Other city streets which have received bituminuous concrete include sections of S. Union, E. Kilbuck, E. Logan, W. Russell and S. Van Buren.

City Manager Cal Zorn says the total cost of blacktopping will run to about $40,000.

Sections of Murray Dr., Shady and Orchard Lanes are scheduled for seal coating in August, and some work is planned for Seneca and Rogers Hwy.

Seal coating costs, including patching of many streets, will be approximately $7,000.

Girl Watcher Is Arrested

A 17-year-old Tecumseh youth, dressed as a girl, was arrested Tuesday afternoon in the girls' dressing room at Tecumseh Park.

Dale A. Burch, 17, of 406 S. Maiden Lane, was picked up by the police and then released to his parents. He will be turned over to Probate Court, according to Murell Clark, police chief.

Discovery of the youth in the dressing room was made when several girls became suspicious.

Burch reportedly sat in the dressing room for about a half an hour, completely dressed as a girl with a babushka over his head.

$10,000 FOR HEARTS — William Groover, hospital administrator, accepts a $10,000 gift from the Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary for equipment in the intensive care unit for cardiac patients. Mrs. Albert Caesar, left, and Mrs. W. W. Higham with Mrs. Neville Hart and Mrs. Stella Hubbard have spearheaded the drive to acquire and develop the unit for the local hospital.

Auxiliary Donates $10,000 for Unit

Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary continued its financial assistance to the local medical center Tuesday when a check for $10,000 was presented to William Groover, hospital administrator.

Since 1965, the Auxiliary has pledged its support for an intensive care unit for cardiac patients, and with Tuesday's gift, its support now amounts to $24,000.

Tecumseh's intensive care unit now consists of four monitored coronary beds and one medical bed. Additional equipment is planned, estimated to cost between $4,000 and $5,000, and the Auxiliary plans to acquire it in the near future.

Mr. Groover reports that since June 22 "there has not been a day when someone was not occupying the unit." At one time, another bed could have been used.

The Auxiliary project started three years ago when Mrs. Neville Hart was president. It continued for two years under the leadership of Mrs. William Higham and now during the presidency of Mrs. Albert Caesar.

Dr. Richard Coak has aided the Auxiliary. He has lectured and showed movies about intensive care, enabling members to become better acquainted with the unit.

At the present, Dr. Joseph Bachman and Dr. Richard Dustin are working with him on the hospital's coronary care committee.

Last year, the Auxiliary sent two registered nurses, Mrs. Norma Mull and Roberta Deranek, to Butterworth Hospital, Grand Rapids, for special training.

Money to finance the project has been raised through many programs: bridge tournaments, fruit cake sales, holiday balls, salad luncheons, TV rentals, cart service, cook book sales and through donations to the Heart Fund.

The recent Tag Day resulted in $2,600. Memorial contributions amount to about $4,000.

Mrs. Caesar says, "Auxiliary members have pledged continued support of the intensive care unit until it is rated the best in the whole United States."

Patients have nothing but praise. Cost of one day is $65, providing around-the-clock care by registered nurses plus continuous monitoring.

Soil Borings Taken for School

Supt. James McDowell says the schools have completed their plans for the building and are now waiting for the building trades to end their strike.

Although the School Board is not scheduled to meet until Aug. 19, a special session undoubtedly will be held in preparation for advertisement of bids.

Foot in Cast

Mike Tilton, 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tilton, 506 Stacy St., suffered a broken right foot Friday while playing ball.

He is expected to wear a cast from five to six weeks.

$1,400 Profit Is Realized

The Herrick Memorial Hospital Auxiliary Bridge and Euchre Tournament for the 1967-68 season has now been concluded. The winners were Mrs. Robert Karle and Mrs. Kenneth Munger in the Euchre division, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goretti in the Couples-Bridge division and Mrs. Allen Brooks and Mrs. Lester Proctor in the Ladies-Bridge division.

The Auxiliary members wish to thank all who participated in the Tournament, as this is one of the major money-making projects of the year and this year the profit amounted to approximately $1,400. This money is used for payment on equipment for the Coronary Intensive Care Unit at the Hospital.

Organization of the Tournament for the 1968-69 season will start in August. All players will be contacted at that time. Anyone not having played in the Tournament and wishing to do so for the coming year may call Janet Vaillancourt, 3-2012, Flora Meyers 3-7221, Ruby Caesar 3-7228 or Jean Merz 3-2457.

Only 3 Accidents Are Recorded

Although mid-summer's heavy traffic is with us, Tecumseh recorded only three mishaps during the past week and none was serious.

Saturday, Beatrice E. Hunt, 41, Adrian, struck a pole just north of Van-Mer's and damaged a left rear fender and bumper.

Wilda E. Kelley, 33, Clinton was cited for failure to control a vehicle after turning off N. Union St. and striking a street sign on W. Chicago Blvd.

Sunday, an unidentified driver struck Nancy J. Lopez, 20, of 4253 Billmeyer Rd., while waiting at a traffic light in downtown Tecumseh. Her car sustained minor damages.

Two Wins for Teen Club

By RUSS HYATT

Win number two finally came for the Teen Club last Wednesday night in a big way when they defeated the Blissfield American Legion 9 to 0.

Singles by Wally Quinn and Dean Hebb accounted for Tecumseh's first run in the first inning.

In a big third inning Tecumseh plated six big runs to put the game out of reach for Blissfield. Hebb singled home two runs after a one out walk to Quinn and a single by Denney Lewis. Walks to Jim Mobley and Mike Kane, and singles by Wendell Petty and Jim Hunt accounted for four more runs to climax the inning.

Adding insurance in the sixth inning an error to Ken Pieh, a triple by Quinn, and a single by Lewis, Tecumseh ended the scoring for the night.

Tecumseh finally put on their hitting shoes coming up with 10 hits. W. Quinn had a triple and a single, while Lewis, Henry Mensing and Hebb had two singles each. Petty and Hunt added the other two hits, both singles.

Hebb picked up his second win allowing Blissfield three scattered singles and striking out nine. Crist took the loss for Blissfield.

Monday, July 22

In a rematch of the game eight days ago with Gordon & Doc's when Tecumseh blew a seven-run lead to lose in the eighth, the Teen Clubbers gave Hebb an eight-run lead early in the game and held on for an 8-1 win.

Tecumseh jumped on loser John LaSalle for four runs on three hits and an error. Mike Kennedy led off with a walk, and Wally Quinn was safe on an error by the first baseman. Jim Mobley drove in Kennedy and Quinn from second and third with a sharp single to left, and he scored on a single by Denny Lewis. Henry Mensing singled Lewis home with the final run of the inning.

Tecumseh scored two more runs in the third inning without the benefit of a hit. Walks to Mensing and Mike Kane, ended up in scores for Tecumseh with some good base running.

Tecumseh's final two runs came in the fifth inning. Mike Kane led off with a walk and was safe at second when Gordon & Doc's tried to force him at second on Wendell Petty's infield grounder. Both runners moved up to second and third, and scored on Wally Quinn's single.

Dean Hebb again was very sharp not allowing a hit until the fifth inning when Gordon & Doc's got their only run. Hebb struck out nine and allowed only four hits in picking up his third win.

Tecumseh has a very important game this Thursday night against the Adrian American Legion who defeated the Teen Club very badly, 10-2. The game will start at 8 p.m. at Riverside Park in Adrian.

Finally the gals get the opportunity to enter the World's Championship AuSable Canoe Marathon, August 3 and 4 starting at Grayling at 11 a.m. Saturday. Rules have been relaxed from 16 hours or longer over the two day racetime to six hours on Saturday, night stop-over in Mio, followed by four hours the next day. At least one or two mixed teams from Indiana and Illinois are expected.

Havelock Ellis once wrote, and today's office seekers should remember, "What we call progress is the exchange of one Nuisance for another Nuisance."

Wear sport clothes, good walking shoes, bring an umbrella or a raincoat. This is the reminder for women to join in on this year's County Mystery Tour. It happens on August 6, a reminder don't forget to vote first, meeting at the fairgrounds and caravan from there. Lunch is $1.25 and guaranteed not to be hard on the waistline. If the weather is too bad listen to WABJ in the a.m. It starts at 9:30 and ends at 3 p.m.

Men, remember what it was like to be young when some women blushed when they were kissed; some called the police, some swore, some bit but the worst were those who laughed. Honesty kept the writer of that from being anything but anonymous.

Do you have band? Want to play? The Rev. Robert Handley of St. Elizabth Church is inviting teen bands to register with him to play for teen dances in th parish hall. "The Contempts" played recently. Are there more?

Trechunch. Know what it is? Well, it's another silly way to spell the name of our fair city. John Kachur caught the largest blue fish, 8 lbs., 3 oz., on the Miss Take II, a boat going out into the Atlantic from the Highlands, N. J., and won the pool, $17. When it was reported in the Newark Star Ledger, he was amazed to see the strange spelling. The Kachurs returned Monday from New Jersey.

The Herald's gal at the helm has "flown the coop". Mrs. Robert Hunt, husband Bob, son Corky, daughter Bobbie, are spending the week on Beaver Island, Sand Bay to be exact. It was ruled by the only King ever to hold sway in the United States, King Strang. He ruled his Mormon flock as a cruel and severe despot until shot to death by members of his own colony. Deer and jack rabbits have taken over at the popular resort and Almina sez, "They are too numerous to count."

This particularly applies to veterans planning to enter school this year under the G. I. Bill, Robert M. FitzGerald, Manager of VA's Regional Office in Detroit, said today.

Veterans already in training under the G. I. Bill, who plan to change programs or schools this Fall must obtain new Certificates of Eligibility from VA.

The principal advantage to the veteran of heeding advice to apply now is that he can be certain that his G. I. Bill education allowance will be dated from the day school begins. If he fails to apply for the certificate until after school has started there may be a delay in payment of his allowance, according to VA.

To obtain a Certificate of Eligibility, a veteran planning to enter school or training for the first time under the G. I. Bill should get in touch with his nearest Veterans Administration Office.

A veteran who requires another certificate because of a change in program or school should contact the VA Regional Office which maintains his records on file.

A veteran who is not changing programs or schools need not obtain another certificate.

Ballots Are Available

Absentee ballots for the August 6 primary are available at City Hall.

Usually, such ballots are seldom used but with the primary falling in the Tecumseh Products vacation period, many are apt to be used.

Local, county and district races will be on the ballot, including several candidates from Tecumseh and area seeking spots on the November ballot.

Girls Win One, Lose One

Last week the girls Senior Softball Team lost one and won one. On Wednesday they faced Monroe.

The Monroe game started out pretty slow. At the end of the third inning the score was tied 2 to 2. Monroe picked up one more in the fourth, two in the fifth, two in the sixth, and one in the seventh to win the game with a final score of 8-6.

On Thursday the Tecumseh gals defeated Milan by an 11-3 score. The Indians lead all the way through the game. At the end of the third the score was Tecumseh 5, Milan 1.

—o—

Mr. and Mrs. Lonal Bishop were in Elsie Tuesday afternoon to attend the funeral of his aunt.

The leading hitters for the Indians were Brenda Welch and Nancy Dustin, each reaching base runs with a double and a single.

Young Local Musicians Are Part of Interlochen Music Camp

The National Music Camp at Interlochen is many things to many people. Interlochen is renowned beyond the boundaries of Michigan, and even the United States for the quality of its musical education.

What started as the dream of Joseph Maddy, is known throughout the world.

It is the artist clamoring for expression; the student striving for perfection; the teacher who knows he has something of value to offer the world and his students through his music. It is a dedication to music, and all the performing arts.

Three young musicians from Tecumseh recently took part in the festivities which are a part of Interlochen. Bonnie Flanders, Kathy Maninno and Bob Merz. They represented Tecumseh in the forty-first season of the U. of M. All State Intermediate Band. They performed in the Kresge Auditorium at the National Music Camp.

The young musicians collected enough money among themselves to form a scholarship for Nicholas D. Cannici, who is the conductor of the orchestra.

The Tecumseh musicians went to Interlochen on the David Day Scholarships supported by the local band boosters.

This is ice cream weather. Remember when this cooling confection was not a year-around treat but was only available in the summer time. All right, your not that old, well, I wasn't very big but I remember — standing while my Dad talked on Tecumseh's main corner with a friend and I impatiently pulled, tugged and begged for a luscious, double dipper.

Later on, nothing topped the soothing cool of watching the "soda jerk" conjure up a tall fizzy, pink and white strawberry beverage behind the counter of Wright's Drug Store or at Meadowridge Dairy. Now we have delicious soft ice cream and just this past week, Lenawee Brand Dairy has incorporated a counter in their store where one can purchase the "real McCoy" in several inviting flavors. Davis-Thomas Vows at St. Elizabeth's CLINTON — St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church, Tecumseh, was the setting for the marriage of Shirley L. Davis and Seaman Gary Joseph Thomas, Saturday afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Harlan L. Davis, 205 Jackson St., and the late Harlan L. Davis. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thomas of 2340 W. US-12, Clinton.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Robert Handley.

Rosepoint lace and appliqued organza formed the bridal gown, styled with a lace bodice, square neckline and long sleeves. The A-line lace skirt was covered with an overskirt of organza, banded in lace ending in a chapel train.

Sequin trimmed flowers held the bride's veil of illusion, and she carried a bouquet of daisies.

Pamela Thomas, sister of the groom, was maid of honor. Her gown of Kortie was floor-length, in a pastel yellow shade.

Bridesmaids Roxie Ostrander and Diana Arter wore matching gowns in mint green, and carried bouquets of daisies.

The best man was James Becker of Detroit, cousin of the groom. Guests were seated by Harold Hunt and Dennis Thomas, brother of the groom.

A reception was held at the IOOF Hall, Tecumseh, immediately after the wedding, attended by 200 guests. Mrs. Delores Cook assisted at the reception.

The newlyweds are graduates of Clinton High School and Mrs. Thomas was employed as a waitress. They will go to SanFrancisco, where Seaman Thomas is stationed with the Navy.

Letters from Tanzania

(EDITOR'S NOTE — David Porteous, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Donald Porteous, 404 Seminole, is spending seven weeks in Tanzania, Africa this summer as a member of "Operation Crossroads Africa".

David's address is Box 640, Morogoro College, Morogoro, Tanzania.

We arrived in Dar Es Salaam, Tanzania, after a two-day stopover in Nairobi, Kenya. There are 12 in our Tanzanian group, five men (including myself), six women, and David Lee, our leader.

The members of our group are from areas scattered across the U. S. and Canada. We have a girl from California, a fellow from Georgia, and a girl from British Columbia. With our varying backgrounds and interests there is as much to be gained from our experiences with other persons in our group as there is to be gained in our contact with the people of Tanzania.

The country of Tanzania was formed by the union of the countries of Tanganyika and Zanzibar. Our project in this country is to assist in the community development projects in some of the villages near our residence. The work we are doing is very gratifying in several ways.

First, we are helping to fulfill genuine needs by doing what is asked of us and not telling them what we think their needs are.

Second, we are not here to work for them, but we are here to work with the Tanzanians in these villages and demonstrate to them the value of everyone working together for the betterment of the entire community.

Third, as we work with these Tanzanians we come to know them as individuals with needs and values as real as those we ourselves hold. It is only as we begin to know the people of Tanzania during our brief stay here that we can start to appreciate the meaning of Uhuru (the Swahili word for "freedom") and self-determination for the citizens of this country.

It is impossible for an American to realize how totally isolated his country and fellow countrymen are from the real conflicts, needs, and aspirations of most of the people of the world unless he leaves the Western European world.

Before coming to Tanzania I read all the right books and considered myself to be quite knowledgeable on Africa and Tanzania. Now it is clear that I am just beginning to see what freedom means to Africans.

Our work, so far, has involved the clearing of roads and fields and the building and repairing of homes. Our tools are a large five-pound hoe and a machette.

We strong and healthy Americans were quickly humbled as we worked next to women who had children on their backs and still were hoeing at least as much ground as we were. It takes time and patience, but we are learning.

Last Sunday (July 14th) was a full day for us. We started out with a dinner at noon in the home of a head man in one of the villages we have been working in. Only 10 of the 12 in our group could make it to dinner. The other two were sick. In the past week nine of us, including myself, have been mildly sick from our attempts to adjust to a new diet and a new way of life.

We sat down to dinner around three small tables. The 10 of us, along with two guests and the host, literally filled up the long narrow room right to the walls. The wife of the host did not eat with us. She remained in the kitchen throughout the meal, except for the time before the meal when she came out to meet and greet us all.

Our host brought in three heaping platters of rice, three bowls of spinach, and three bowls of meat in a spicy sauce which was poured over the rice. At this point we were given the opportunity to eat as our host usually ate, or to use forks, knives and spoons. We chose to eat as he ate.

There is a definite technique involved in eating this way. You mold some rice and meat, and some spinach, if you like, into a ball. Then scoop the ball into your first three fingers and push the rice into your mouth with your thumb. If you know what you're doing it's a clean operation and you wash off your fingers in a finger bowl. But since we're just learning, the table was quite sloppy where the Americans were eating.

After dinner we went to witness the "coming-of-age" rites of a girl in a nearby village. This mainly consisted of dancing and some ceremonial drinking of the local brew afterwards.

Our hosts encouraged us to take pictures of everything, but we soon discovered they wanted instant results. Fortunately each Crossroads group has a Polaroid 210, loaned by Polaroid Corporation, and our leader used three packs of film that afternoon.

With the three-mile walk back home, it was a full day.

David Porteous.

DON WITHROW
American Legion
Underwood-Orr Post No. 34
Tecumseh, Michigan 49286

Dear Don:

Hi there. I received your letter the other day, and was glad to hear from you. I understand that I cannot join the post till I'm out. Well I hope to be out in November, but if not, I'll join as soon as I'm out.

You asked me what I thought of the U. S. participation here in Vietnam. Well, it is hard to say, Don. I have been here since Sept. of '66 and in that time I have seen a lot happen.

We moved out here in Oct. of '66 to Red Beach and were never hit with troops or rockets in itself.

Since I have been here I have seen my share of combat, and it is hard here, Don. I believe that we are doing our best in preserving our home land, but I do think that the government could leave us alone more.

This so-called police action that they call it is a war, not a police action. Guys are sacrificing their lives here every day. And for some of the Vietnamese it is appreciated, for others it isn't.

We try to get these people to confide in the Americans, but all they want is what we will give them and then they turn right around and so called "stab us in the back". What I mean by this is to say that they refuse to help our service in locating the Viet-Cong, and in doing this, they are only helping kill more servicemen.

But for the 10%, you can't say that they are all bad, because then you would be wrong. For the most part the people want our help, and in turn will help us all that they can.

As far as the United States being here, I would rather fight here, than on our own door step. And I say this for all the men in Vietnam.

I hope that I have helped you in seeing what we are doing over here, Don. And hope that others will see and read this and understand a little better what is going on in Vietnam.

Thank you for your time.

Respectfully,
James O. Wallace, Jr.

LIFE HEALTH

Bursitis

The searing pain of bursitis appears to flow through the entire body. There seems to be no time, no position, no situation where the body can enjoy a second of real comfort.

But, the chiropractor, skillfully and using scientific methods, traces the pain to its source — a microscopic section of the body's vast nerve system. A tiny pressure, or impingement, is affecting the proper function of an important part of the body's nervous system. The area served by the impinged nerve is not functioning normally and properly.

Through gentle, scientific adjustments, the chiropractor's skilled hands adjust spinal alignment and free the nerve from its restricting pressure. Vital nerve energy begins to flow through the released nerve to the affected area, enabling it to resume its normal function.

Released from the pressure imposed by the obstructed nerve, nature goes to work from within to restore health. Another Health and Life Article from the Office of:

QUESTION:

"My father belonged to several lodges. Why did our funeral director suggest that we select only one lodge to participate?"

ANSWER:

If several lodges participate, by each conducting their ritualistic service, your friends are deprived of an opportunity to visit with you. Too many ritualistic services can become very depressing to an already exhausted family.

OFF the TOP

"You just need to get organized," stated friend husband, after I complained about the hectic summer schedule around here.

"Get organized! Are you kidding? I'd like to see you or anyone else organize this motley crew we call a family," I replied. I had already threatened to run away from home, but nobody seemed to care, so I stayed around. But I finally got hubby to listen to my domestic difficulties, and I was ready to really list my troubles.

"In the first place, it's mealtimes, or rather, the lack of it. A regular mealtime, I mean. These kids want to eat at the most inconvenient times, mostly anytime but the regular hour. I mean, how can I get organized in the morning, when I can't even get the breakfast table cleared off in time for lunch? Someone is getting out cereal and milk or burning toast from 6 a.m. until almost noon.

"First our oldest son gets up, and must have breakfast and his lunch packed in time to punch in at 7 in Tecumseh. Then Dad and I eat, and maybe Miss Ten. Then Number Two Son — he may get up to go to work with his Dad, or he may beg a couple hours more sleep. But as soon as I have the kitchen clean, he'll come straggling down and mess up the whole works.

"Lunchtime isn't much better, especially if I have fixed a well-cooked, balanced meal, in which case our red-headed son announces that he isn't very hungry — just had a malted and some french fries a little while ago. It never fails."

"Honestly, dear, it can't be all that bad," says hubby.

"Well, it is, and that's not the half of it," I continue. "Your daughter is getting into dill pickles or ice cream bars or cheese and crackers all day — I wonder if they make refrigerator doors that revolve?

"Then it's time for supper, and I hate to plan for it. I'm never sure what time everyone will show up, and whether the boys will bring along a friend or not — I guess I'm supposed to be a mind reader. And the grocery bill is sky-high — you wouldn't believe how much it costs to feed this mob in the summertime!"

"Is that all that's buggin' you?" queried hubby.

"No, that's not all!" I replied. "That's only the beginning. There's also the washing and ironing of all these clothes, towels, sheets, socks, etc. These kids seem to think I run a 24-hour laundry — they always want the shirt that isn't ironed yet, or the cut-offs they dropped on the bedroom floor two days ago.

"Also they're always running around, using up gallons of gas, and coming home late. No wonder I'm getting gray hair — anyone with two teen-age sons is entitled to a few."

"Is that all?" yawned hubby.

"No! and thanks for the sympathy. There's also the time I spend taking daughter to swim lessons, and collecting village taxes twice a week, and all the racket in this house, either from those dumb cartoons on TV, or that horrid noise the boys call music on the radio or record player. And I'm sure it's damaged their eardrums — they never hear me when I tell them to turn it down."

"Gee, is it really all that bad?" inquires hubby. "I know what you need, wife. How about lining up a sitter and I'll take you to some nice quiet place for dinner Saturday night?"

"Ummm, sounds lovely," I purr. Guess I won't run away from home after all. But I must try to get organized, if it's at all possible.

Shop At Parkview For All Your Needs

Whatever your needs, the Parkview Market in the Irish Hills is the place to go. The market, located directly across from the entrance to Walter J. Hayes State Park on US-12, is handy for campers, picnickers and summer residents of the lakes nearby.

Parkview Market carries just about anything and everything you need in the line of ice, gas, and fishing supplies.

The store is owned and operated by Raymond Shepherd. His son, Dan, assists him as the manager of the store.

Mr. Shepherd has a franchise which permits him to sell a complete line of guns and ammunition. A traveler can also purchase park permits and fishing licenses at the store.

Boats are another item of purchase at Parkview Market. Smokecraft and Schumancraft boats are available and fishing enthusiasts can browse amongst the fishing tackle and bait to be found at the market.

College and high school students assist the year-round customers in their selection of meats, groceries and produce to make vacations more fun. A beer and wine take-out license enables the vacationer to select his favorite beverage when he chooses.

Sounds of music are also available from a large selection of records on hand at the market.

Parkview Market is open seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

When any vacation need arises, Raymond and Dan Shepherd are ready to assist you.

The Top of the Hills original Irish Hills Tower was built in 1924 by the n Observation Company (MOC). The proposed site ower was atop Brighton Hill. However, at the peak property line, and the western portion was owned rd Kelley. Mr. Kelley did not want to see the area cialized.

bitterly opposed the building of the tower that ome right up to the edge of his property line. But higan Observation Company went ahead with the ction of the tower, making it 50 feet high. Mr. Kelley, pite, built a tower of his own right next to the MOC nly he went 10 feet higher.

e original tower then added 14 feet to its tower. Mr. not to be outdone, went four feet higher, thus making wers an even 64 feet high.

might not have stopped there, but the MOC told Mr. that if he added any more to his tower it would tear s tower and put up a much higher tower of steel. This ley didn't want, so an end was put to the raising of towers.

e two towers were in keen competition (for the tourist until 1944 when Frank Lamping bought the orig- sh Hills tower from the Michigan Observation Com- nd in 1955 bought the other tower from a Kelley heir. ey are now joined together on the first floor to provide a larger display of gifts and souvenirs. The top of the towers is 1400 feet above sea level, and makes the towers the highest point in southeastern Michigan.

The present owner, Anthony Moustakas, bought the towers in 1966 and has expanded the area into an amusement park.

The towers will always remain a landmark of the Irish Hills, and every year thousands of people from all over the world climb to the top to enjoy the scenic view which is so reminiscent of the Killarney Lakes region of Ireland.

For 45 years over 2,000,000 people have climbed the towers to view its scenic wonders. Within 60 minutes driving time there are 7,000,000 people who can visit the towers.

Mr. Moustakas has added many spots of interest to this "little bit of Ireland in our own dear USA," including the blarney stone of the Irish Hills.

One may also see the largest Irish flag in the state of Michigan, the House of psychedelic lights, take various rides and toss a coin into the J. P. McCarthy wishing well before enjoying a lunch in the picnic grounds.

The towers provide an educational, interesting and enjoyable outing for school, scout, club, church or other organizations.

Through My Window

A HARD TIME GROWING UP

The young birds who just a short time ago were so utterly dependent upon their parents are now out on their own. In most of the bird world the kids leave home early and then, after a few days of instruction, it's up to them. But there is so much to learn, so many skills to perfect — well, this year, as has been true for so many years, we are thoroughly enjoying this growing up process.

Junior Flicker is finally mastering himself but, oh, it has not been easy. In the first place, he was so big and, like so many oversized youngsters, clumsy. He simply could not manage those large feet, that enormous bill and the funny things attached to his sides which, when flapped right, let him fly.

By the time we started watching Junior his flying was fairly good, that I will admit. His landings, though, were sheer disaster.

One day, for example, he started for the hanging suet feeder, which should have presented no problem as he was well familiar with the techniques of suet eating.

For some unknown reason he tried to land, not on the larger limb from which the feeder is suspended, but on one of the smaller branching-off limbs. Small — it was almost tiny. Poor Junior! He zoomed in much too fast, lowered his landing gear much too late — his brakes did not hold, his landing field was far too small to afford any kind of a foot-grasping hold. He fell off.

A BIT SUBDUED by this embarrassing experience, he decided to try a little feeling at ground level. There was a tempting pile of scratch feed on the top of the creek bank so down he came. The old problem plagued him, though. These crazy kids simply cannot handle speed. Junior, almost as usual, came in much, much too fast and went flat on his face.

Another little clown who had landing problems was a very young nuthatch. One day we laughed at his attempts to master the near-my-window feeder. The flat surface of the tray was something new, he could not figure out how to "put down" on it. Landing on a tree trunk was okay but this was horizontal — he kept fluttering and almost hovering over the tray.

Finally he found the feeder post and ah, here was something he understood. He lit near the bottom, walked up and was suddenly confronted by the bottom of the tray. Now what? After several trips up and down the post, he summoned up his very last ounce of courage and made it to the side of the feeder.

Not quite the same as a tree trunk, it was certainly better than the flat floor, however. It was several days before he gave up this hanging-on-the-side eating and discovered that his big straddling feet could flatten out to accommodate feeder station dining as it should be done.

BUT EVEN funnier than the nuthatche's actions was his appearance. An adult nuthatch is trim and dapper with smooth feathers and beautiful true colors. The little one, though, was unkempt and all mussed up.

His feathers were almost ragged and, even if he had not just shampooed, he could not do a thing with them. On his breast and upper throat they were not even full-sized. And in their just growing-in stage, they looked rough and dark. Our little nuthatch had a mottled or speckled or spotted front.

So it is that all birds suffer through teenage troubles but this year we have especially enjoyed watching Junior Flicker and poor little nuthatch who are truly having a hard time growing up.

Camp Out in North Woods

Troops 32 and 16 combined efforts this year to successfully complete a week of summer camp in the beautiful setting of the Northern Michigan woods near Atlanta.

The large caravan left Adrian Sunday morning, July 14, and returned late Saturday, July 20.

Some parents drove up and stayed overnight and different parents came up to bring carloads home.

Troop 32 had a total of 30 out of 32 registered boy scouts attending under the direction of Scoutmaster Dick James and Assistants Bob Sager and Joe Sprow. Troop 16 had 6 boys along under the leadership of Scoutmaster Cliff Piper.

Abundant wildlife and the many species of plantlife gave the boys unlimited opportunities for advancement and merit badges.

The Pioneering class under leader Leroy Sprow constructed a large tower complete with a rope ladder that provided fun for all during free periods. In addition to First Aid merit badge and 1st and 2nd class first aid, Bob Sager taught Woodcarving merit badge. Mr. Sager has a handsome array of carved neckerchief slides.

Nature, Conservation and Semaphore lessons were capably handled by Glen Griewahn. Dick James taught Cooking and Wild Life Management.

The four Eagle Scouts, Steve and Rick Griewahn, Rick and Dennis James not only camped as a patrol unit but also acted as counselors in First and Second Class requirements and handled the Life Guard and instructor duties at nearby Rush Lake during waterfront activities.

The weather was hot and dry most of the week with the starlit sky outlined by the tops of the lofty pines a thing of beauty as well as a classroom for boys needing to be passed on compass and constellation identification. Mother Nature did challenge the Scouts with a summer storm that sent them to the woods to cut down sturdy trees to replace broken tent poles and a drying out session gave the Scouts a lesson in coping with all types of crises.

Senior patrol leader Dennis James and his assistant Randy Richard conducted the retreat each evening followed by a campfire where songs, skits and announcements were presented.

Troop 32 had the following patrols other than the aforementioned Eagles: Buffalo—Robert Frank, John James, Scott Griewahn, Bill Sauter, Allen Breckel, David Yoder, Rick Blohm and Kevin Skinner.

White Dragon — Mike James, Steve James, Randy Richard, Jerry and Jack Elliott, Danny Sprow, Steve Schneider, George Gartee and Henry Voss.

Beaver — Ron Pierce, Bob James, Bob Cissney, Carter Johnson, Brad Dillon, David Cook, Rusty Hiser, Doug Schnikder and Gary Griewahn.

A group of six scout Moms and six children spent the week in Charles Ruesink's cabin in the same area, enjoying side trips and joining the Scouts at the nightly campfire. They also provided a Trading Post for the benefit of the scouts.

Departure was delayed due to the 25 rank advancements and 22 Merit Badges that were earned and checked by the Board of Review set up by the committeemen at camp. These awards will be presented at a Court of Honor in the near future.

Comedy Opens at the Croswell

The Croswell Repertory Theatre season takes on an added dimension with it's presentation of "Once More With Feeling" by Harry Kurnitz.

The original Broadway cast starred Joseph Cotton and Arlene Francis and was reviewed as "explosively funny".

The story revolves around a symphony conductor, Victor Fabian, who is a perfectionist, but is also possessed of a temper that causes him to break instruments and batons on the heads of his musicians and to tear the shirts off his violinists as a form of constructive criticism.

Victor Fabian has a wife, Dolly, who turns out never to have married him legally and now wants a divorce. He also has an agent, Maxwell Archer, who is addicted to larceny, perjury and skullduggery, all in the interest of his client and his commission.

Archer realizes that Dolly is the only one who can tame Fabian long enough to get him to sign for a symphony engagement. The method and their results prove to be an evening's worth of laughter.

Starring in the role of Victor Fabian is Joseph Balsanek; Archer is played by Jeffrey Wagner. Dolly Fabian by Lynn Miller, Chester Stamm by Skip Skwarek and Luigi Bardini by Paul Schierhorn.

Mr. Wilbur is played by Mike Metzel, Gendel and Jascha by Bill Sanford, the interviewer by Janice Hoffer and Richard Hilliard by George Spelvin, Jr.

Performance dates will be July 25 through 28 and August 8 and 9. Curtain time for all performances is 8:30 p.m. For further information about tickets, please call the box office at 263-7450.

Chiropractor Attends Jamboree

Dr. W. C. Elwartowski attended a Chiropractic Jamboree, Saturday and Sunday in Marion, Ind. The Jamboree was organized by Dr. D. Oliver and Dr. Denton of Marion.

The master of ceremonies was the famous Kentucky Fried Chicken founder, Col. Harland Sanders.

COLONEL SANDERS AT CLINIC — Colonel Sanders of Kentucky Fried Chicken fame attended the Chiropractic Clinic along with Dr. Walter Elwartowski last weekend.

The Colonel's main reason for coming was to promote the Kentuckiana Children's Center for Handicapped, in Louisville, Ky. He became interested in Kentuckiana, he said, after he found that they weren't receiving any funds from all these fund drives in Kentucky.

He likes children and enjoys helping when he can. They had on sale some Col. Sanders dolls with all proceeds going to Kentuckiana. Dr. W. C. Elwartowski brought a few home that were left. Should anyone care for one they are available.

The Colonel, who has been a faithful chiropractic patient for about 53 years, says he is 78 and just getting started. He stated he usually gets one or two adjustments a week when he is home, to keep him from getting sick.

Mrs. Stella Harbaugh, age 92, received an award from Drs. Oliver and Denton for being the oldest patient in their clinic. Mrs. Harbaugh stated she has been under chiropractic care for about 76 years.

Dr. Reginald Gold delivered the keynote address. His topic was "Chiropractic Philosophy".

The Jamboree was open to the public Saturday night and the doctors heard lectures Sunday.

"The Marion Jaycees were on the scene in full force. It just goes to show no matter where or who you are, if you need help, the Jaycees are there," remarked the local chiropractic doctor Monday.

By BILL SANFORD

"Oliver" burst upon the stage of the Croswell Theatre in Adrian when the Croswell Summer Repertory Theatre opened their third offering of the season.

The musical, by Lionel Bart, is loosely based on the Charles Dickens classic tale of Eighteenth Century England, "Oliver Twist."

There is humor, music, gaiety, tragedy, a bit of all things glorious to the theatre in this play.

When the Croswell group opened the play, after only 11 days of rehearsal, signs of weariness appeared in their acting. The chore of presenting a play such as "Oliver" in such a short time is quite a feat.

Despite the lack of vitality in spots, the production was fast-paced and most of the opening night audience did not suffer from eternities between scenes.

Oliver is a young boy who is orphaned at birth by a woman of the street. He is taken in by a workhouse for boys which is run by a zealous churchman, Mr. Bumble. He is sold and finally winds up in a gang of young pickpockets, supervised by Fagin. Nancy and Bet, pupils of the master Fagin are the female interests in the musical.

Bill Sikes, the sinister head of the thieves and cutthroats of London's streets, and the boy-friend of Nancy, appears in an ominous scene. Oliver, in his first assignment, is caught by the police for trying to remove some of the possessions of an old man on the street.

The old man, Mr. Brownlow, takes him into his house and along with his housekeeper, Mrs. Bedwin, "adopt" young Oliver.

Sikes demands the return of Oliver and sends Nancy to do it. She has qualms about her task. She meets with Mr. Brownlow and agrees to return the little boy, who as it turns out is his grandson.

In trying to take the little boy back to his grandfather, Sikes kills Nancy Fagin, without boys or friends, attempts a new life. Oliver goes home with his new family and the play ends.

Oliver was played by Tom Aldrich, an Adrian High School junior. He does an admirable job as the young hero of the story. He is small and looked and acted as Oliver should. Fagin was played by Alan Rust. Rust's performance of the miserly old man who used the young pickpockets could have been more convincing, he seemed too nice at times. His singing of "Reviewing the Situation" was well done.

The Artful Dodger was played by Russ Ford, who often became too engaged in his role to transmit his lines to the audience. He either spoke too softly or let the dialect interfere with what he was saying. His dancing was unique and graceful. He needs more body control in the performance.

Chris Ferguson as Nancy was exceptional in the role. She looked and acted as Nancy should. Her rendering of the song "As Long As He Needs Me," was the highlight of the show. It is a difficult song to sing with the pitfalls over-sentimentality being present. She sang it with just the right amount of tenderness and despair.

Mr. Bumble was played by Charles Wise. He was excellent in the role. Wise and Sherri Smith as Mrs. Corney sing a song together which was done exceptionally well. "I Shall Scream." In all of their scenes the humor of Wise and Miss Smith came off well.

Lynn Miller and Joseph Balsanek were Mr. and Mrs. Sowerberry, undertakers, to whom Oliver is sold by Bumble. "It's Your Funeral" is sang by the two. This is one of the funnier moments of the play. Balsanek and Miss Miller with Wise for the butt of the song are exceptional.

Skip Skwarek plays the role of the benefactor, Mr. Brownlow, he does very well in the cameo role. Also worthy of mention is Deborah Shrock as Mrs. Bedwin. A scene in the bedroom of the Brownlow house where Oliver is asleep, Miss Shrock sings a few measures of "Where Is Love," is a particularly touching and beautiful scene, the mood and effect were perfect. Miss Shrock and Skwarek, though young, were convincing as the elderly couple.

Many of the other members of the resident company at the theatre performed well. It was a good showcase for the multi-fold talents of the group. Guy Miller appeared in several sequences and added another plus to his abilities for the audiences of the Croswell. Mike Metzel also appeared in various roles and gave them characters and personalities of their own.

Paul Schierhorn who portrayed Bill Sikes was sinister and convincing as the villain of the piece.

Bet was performed by Maggie Betz of Adrian. She was particularly cute and convincing as the young version of Nancy. Her singing and flirtations with Oliver came over very well.

Others in the cast which added greatly to the performance were Jim Cunningham, Thelma Hollenbeck, Mark Cunningham, Chips Greenfield, Karen Kishpaugh, Nancy Swiderski, Cathy Bell, Tim Locke, Dan Locke, Joe Swiderski, Phil Diller, Jim Swiderski, Andy White and a member of Tecumseh's acting Vanzo family, Mark.

Any criticism of the music of "Oliver" by me is impossible. This particular person was going to say that outside of being melodic there isn't anything there. However, every time I started to write my humming got in the way of the concentration. They are too cute, tuneful and applicable to the story to be criticized.

"Oliver" is a fine evening of entertainment for young and old alike. The orchestra under Wayne Shaw's direction is capable. The production directed by Glenn L. Harbaugh is well thought out, planned and staged.

Sets and lighting by Raymond Dage are effective and true to the plot and times. Allan Rust's choreography is adequate to the script.

The play will run August 1 and 3, 10 and 11 to round out the season at the Croswell in Adrian. It is well worth the time and effort of seeing. "Oliver" is great fun and they do a good job with it.

DILLARD ATKINSON

School Days School Days

Dillard Atkinson, 1533 E. Munger Rd., retired as custodian from the Tecumseh School system July 1.

He was employed in the Junior High School building and had worked in the Tecumseh schools 17 years, seven months and 15 days.

David Dick, principal at the Junior High building, presented the retiree with some fishing tackle and he received an engraved cigarette lighter from the school board.

Mr. Atkinson used his tackle on a two-week trip to the Upper Peninsula with Richard Lent, returning recently.

Mr. Atkinson said that he enjoyed his work in the schools and would like to find some lighter, part-time work now.

Garden Club Has Taste of Old England

A taste of England in the Spring was savored on a hot July night by members of the Little Garden Club of Tecumseh. Mrs. Neil Pearson welcomed the members to her home for a tour of her garden and a talk on her trip to England.

Mrs. Pearson's own garden is reminiscent of an English country garden with a myriad of plants of many forms and colors mixed informally to provide a succession of bloom throughout the season.

Originally scheduled to go with a tour group, Mrs. Pearson wasn't daunted when the tour was cancelled. She set out alone on a pilgrimage to the home her father had left as a boy in the 1880s. She visited a church where her grandfather had preached as a lay minister nearly a century ago in Bedford.

She spoke of the many private and public gardens she visited in England, a land whose people like to surround themselves with flowers. Even in the poorest sections of London she could see from her train that the railroad embankments were completely planted with flowers and vegetables by people living in the tenements above them.

Club members will not meet in August. Instead, they will be busy with members of the Tecumseh Garden Club planning for the annual district conference scheduled in Tecumseh Sept. 25.

Plans for the conference will be laid Monday during a visit here by Mrs. A. J. Kohler of Monroe, district chairman. The meeting will be at 1:30 p.m., in St. Peter's Church, where the conference will take place.

Merchants Plan Biggest Sale Ever

Tecumseh merchants will hold their 11th straight Sidewalk Sale here Friday, and if past attendances are indicative for the event, 4,000 to 5,000 patrons will throng the downtown streets.

It is the biggest, single day sale of the year for the businessmen, and likewise for Tecumseh and area folks. More shopping bargains are listed in ads in this issue of The Herald than ever before.

Some other highlights of the day will be free, helium-filled balloons for the youngsters. Chamber of Commerce will have two clowns distributing the balloons to the kids in the downtown area, according to Don Moffatt, Chamber secretary.

In the evening, the Shawnee Squares will perform in the city parking lot behind Adrian Federal. The local, western style square dancers have danced in the past and have drawn large crowds.

Other western style square dancers are urged to join them, starting at 7 p.m. A two-hour performance is planned.

At the swimming pool near the high school, demonstrations of swimming and synchronized swimming will be held under the direction of Mrs. Charles Gross and her assistant, Karen Brown.

Youngsters, who have been taking lessons for the past four weeks, will perform.

Downtown, the VFW Auxiliary is planning a food and bake shop on the boulevard near Ottawa St. A local restaurant is also planning an outdoor cafe.

Others are expected to join in and make Friday a big day for downtown Tecumseh.

Gray Leaving, Faraday Sold?

Unless there's a hitch in the final stages, reliable sources say Gray Manufacturing Company will be leaving Tecumseh in the near future, and that Faraday, a division of Gray, has been sold.

Faraday's electric operations, including production of alarm systems, will remain in Tecumseh at the present plant on S. Maumee, but under new management.

For the past several weeks, some top Gray personnel have been re-assigned to New York. It is not known whether all key personnel will leave or not, with some staying with the Faraday oparations here.

Purchasers of Faraday include two newcomers, one of whom is a founder and director for Servicemaster, Inc., national chain of janitorial services.

Both men, about 40, will reportedly take over management of Faraday next Monday.

Papers finalizing the transactions will probably be signed Friday. This will include approval of the Tecumseh Area Industrial Development Association, a group of local businessmen who were responsible for bringing Faraday here from Adrian and building a $425,000 plant in 1962.

At the time, TAIDA obtained financing for Faraday, which was employing about 150 in Adrian. Work for a new 94,000-square-foot plant started in the spring and was completed in August.

Faraday moved its equipment and personnel over in August and started operations here in September.

About a year later, in 1963, Gray Manufacturing purchased Faraday from Teletronics, parent company of Faraday, through Federal courts in Philadelphia.

Al Caesar, then vice president and in charge of Gray Mfg. here, took over local management. He was later made executive vice-president and appointed to the board of directors of Gray by the company's president, James Ashman.

Mr. Caesar was not available Wednesday morning for any comments regarding the [illegible] sale.

The new owners of Faraday, although now here in the city, were not available to confirm or deny their purchasing the electronic operations.

City To Have District Judge

By BILL SANFORD

Establishment of the new district judgeships for Lenawee County has moved forward in small degrees. The process is slow for acquiring the necessary buildings to house the new branch of the judiciary.

At recent meeting of the Board of Supervisors, several ideas were submitted for consideration.

Tecumseh will undoubtedly have one of the judges in the city. Whether or not he will hold court full time here is still an unknown factor. Support was shown at the meeting for a full time court. The alternative would be a judge sharing his time between Adrian and Tecumseh with the other permanently holding court in Adrian.

County Prosecutor Harvey Koselka appeared and voiced some opposition to leasing or purchasing a structure in Tecumseh for a full-time court. Koselka's main arguments were, the law library is in the county court house in Adrian and that the distance from Tecumseh to certain other areas of the county was too far.

Melvin Rodesiler, Riga supervisor, commented on the library. He felt that it would be cheaper to purchase a library for Tecumseh than to spend over $80,000 for separate structures for two courts.

Cases that will be tried in the courts will not be submitted to judges on an area basis, both courts would draw their dockets at random.

The district judgeships will replace the present circuit court commissioners and justices of the peace.

Justices of the peace sought signatures on petitions in a drive for a referendum vote on the constitutional amendment which does away with their offices. The new judges must be attorneys.

Part of their argument was drawn from the fact that a new law has been written which states that a probate judge must be a qualified attorney. In the law is a clause which allows present judges the right to seek re-election even if they were not lawyers.

The justices sought a clause in the lower court reorganization bills giving them the same right as the probate judges.

The Board of Supervisors are at present studying sites in Adrian for the post in the county seat. One building was presented to the board but the supervisors felt that the price, which the owner was asking, was too high. It is still being studied with the board considering making another offer. The property is the former Miller's Ice Cream parlor on the corner of Maple and N. Main Sts., across from the court house.

Suggestions were also made to use space in the present county offices, which is highly improbable due to the fact county departments have often complained of a lack of space.

Other possibilities are leasing of space from private owners for the new court.

The board, which will disband in favor of a smaller, revised board, will be responsible for the new lower court's initial set-up. The judges will be elected in November and they will resume their duties on January 1.

Candidates Vie for New Posts

By BILL SANFORD

For the first time in history, political parties in Tecumseh will be directly casting ballots next Tuesday for representatives on the county Board of Supervisors.

Reapportionment and legal opinions from the attorney general's office have separated the former township supervisors and city representatives from serving on the county board.

Since Tecumseh has been a city, supervisors have been taken from the mayor's office, one at large, one representing council and the city manager. With the new offices being created, the city electorate will have a voice in the county government through a vote of the people.

The only race on the ballot in the city is between Delbert King and Fay Whelan for the Republican nomination in District 6 of the city. Frank Lasky, Democrat, is unopposed in the primary.

In District 7, Democrat Wallace Whiting and Republican T. J. Wagner are unopposed and can be declared virtual winners in the August 6 election.

Tecumseh and Raisin Townships, joined for a supervisor district, have unopposed candidates on both ballots. William Mackey, Republican, and Shirley Van Sickle, Democrat, can safely be considered the November candidates from District 8.

In District 1, Clinton and Macon Townships, a race for the Republican nomination is underway between Martin M. Halley and Harold Gasner. Democrat Joseph Conklin is unopposed on his party's slate.

Franklin Township voters will find only one candidate on the ballot, Ron Brown, a Republican. No Democrat filed for the seat.

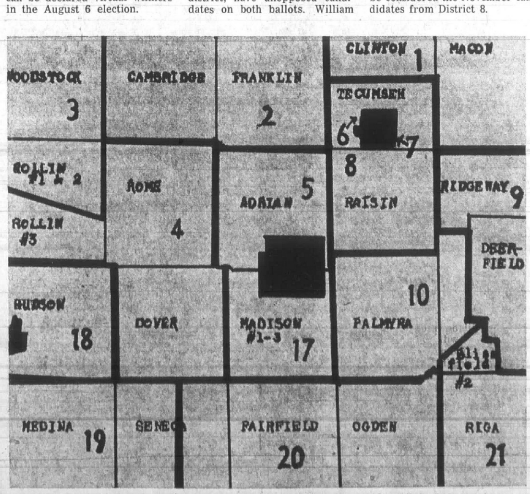
Ridgeway and Deerfield were combined under the new apportionment plan and Stacy Zilke, Republican, is the lone candidate for nomination. He will find no Democratic opposition on the ballot in November.

Confusion has arisen as to where and for whom voters will cast their ballots on August 6. District 6 is composed of Pct. 2 and that part of Precinct 1, north of Logan St. on a line east from Evans St.

District 2 is composed of Precinct 3 and Precinct 1 south of Logan St., east from the Evans St. boundary.

Voting machines for the three precincts in the city will be: Precinct 1, Council building on East Chicago Blvd.; Precinct 2, fire barns, on S. Evans St.; Precinct 3, fire barns on S. Evans.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m., at all polling places. Any one in line prior to the 8 p.m. closing will be given a chance to cast their vote.



LENAWEE REAPPORTIONMENT PLAN — The districting for the new 21-member board of supervisors gives the City of Tecumseh two members of the new board, districts six and seven. The City of Adrian has four members and share a district with the second precinct of Madison Twp. They are districts 11 thru 16 not shown.

Installing New Pastor

Installation service will be held Sunday afternoon at four o'clock for the Rev. Kenneth W. Strack, new pastor at Grace English Evangelical Lutheran Church.

He succeeds the Rev. Kurt F. Koeplin. The Rev. John A. Westendorf will conduct the installation service.

Mr. Strack and his family, of Merritt Island, Fla., were expected to arrive in Tecumseh Wednesday.

Checking Sweeper

City officials have been watching a demonstration of a new street sweeper the past couple of days. Council asked the city manager to investigate replacing the present sweeper.

Bikes, Radios To Be Awarded

Earn-A-Bike winners will receive their prizes Saturday morning at 10:30, and at the last count 21 youngsters had earned new bicycles.

So far, the youngsters have sold 410 new subscriptions of The Herald with approximately 60 new subscribers coming from Clinton. Most of the subscriptions were sold in Tecumseh, Britton and Clinton.

Several radios will also be awarded.

The Earn-A-Bike campaign started July 15th, and over 70 youngsters have participated. Final day for turning in new subscriptions and renewals is Friday.

Next week The Herald will print pictures of all the winners.

New Members

New members of the Tecumseh Chamber of Commerce are Osborne's Dept. Store, D&C, and Tecumseh Office Supply.

Officers are hoping that many other businesses will also join. Dues may be paid at Flanders Music or to D. J. Martin at Gambles.

Rifle Meters Downtown

Eleven parking meters in downtown city parking lots were pilfered Sunday evening, or early Monday morning, with damage to the meters greater than the loot.

Police Chief Murell Clark estimates change taken from the meters to run between $20 and $25, based on what the city has collected in the past.

Damage to the meters has been estimated at $85 to $90.

Breaking into the meters was apparently an easy trick. Police believe a screw driver was jammed into the lock, breaking the lock and allowing the pilferers to merely lift the cover and remove the change.

Enforcing City Curfew

Tecumseh's 10 p.m. curfew for youngsters is going to be enforced, according to Murell Clark, police chief.

It is an apparent move to curb vandalism.

According to Clark, youngsters under 18 must be off the streets by 10 p.m. or they will be picked up and taken to the police station. Parents will then be called to pick up their children.

Only exception to the curfew will be youngsters accompanied by their parent, or parents, or guardian.

The curfew on Friday and Saturday nights is 11 p.m.

OLD SEITZ HOME — Many in town will remember this place — the old Seitz home on N. Evans St. at Brown. The site is now occupied by Dr. Richard Dustin's medical office. Police Sgt. Eugene Skinner says this was his birthplace, and Supt. James McDowell recalls it as the "old haunted house." It was quite a place in its day and was located near the hub of activity many years ago. Several fine homes of its era — and earlier — still remain today and are considered Tecumseh landmarks.

Sharon Snyder Weds Walter Bradshaw

Sharon Mae Snyder, 311 S. Union St., and Walter Donald Bradshaw of Quimby, Va., were married July 5 at the Lower Light Church by the Rev. Matthew Harden and the Rev. Harlon Sannes.

Mrs. Lorraine Harden was the soloist.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Dale Matzinger. She wore a floor length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle with sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. The bouffant skirt of lace had tiers of tulle at the hem line.

Her elbow length veil of bridal illusion was caught to a rose on her head. She carried an arrangement of miniature carnations and white and yellow roses.

She carried a bouquet of daisies.

Mary Nodine of Chelsea and Mrs. Bonnie Autrey of Clinton were the bridesmaids gowned as the maid of honor in lighter hues of yellow.

David Elmore of Glasgow, Ky., was the best man, David Sutton of Cincinnati, O., and Herman Murphy, groomsmen and the guests were seated by Arthur Avery, Milan, and David Linville of Petersburg.

Susan Murphy was the flower girl, dressed as the other attendants of the bride, and carrying a basket of daisies.

Lila and Ada Murphy and Mattie Sannes assisted with the serving at the reception held at the Grange Hall for 75 guests.

The bride is a graduate of Tecumseh High School and studied three years at God's Bible School and College in Cincinnati.

The groom is a graduate of Quimby High School and is studying for the ministry at God's Bible College.

The couple will live at 275 Southern Ave., Cincinnati, O.

Collingsworth to Assist GOP at Miami Beach Session

Arthur J. Collingsworth flew to Miami from Washington Sunday, in order to assist members of the Platform Committee frame the 1968 Republican Platform. He was assigned to the staff of the National Security and Foreign Affairs Subcommittee under the chairmanship of Congressman Glenard P. Liscomb of California.

Meetings are being held at the famed Fountainbleau Hotel in Miami Beach.

Collingsworth, a Tecumseh High School graduate and a graduate student at Georgetown University in Washington, has authored some of the working papers being used by the Platform Committee. Mr. Collingsworth has long been active in Republican activities and has served as Issues Chairman of the National Federation of College Republicans for the past three years.

He is also a Fellow at the Center for Strategic Studies, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Niels Hansen Memorial Foundation and a Director of the Wolverine Fund, Inc.

He made trips around the world in the summers of 1965 and 1966 and spent part of last summer in Scandinavia and Russia.

He received a B. A. in political science from the University of Michigan in the spring of 1967.

Drivers Injured In 3 Accidents

Three drivers in three different accidents suffered minor injuries here during the past week in mishaps investigated by the Tecumseh police.

A resume of the accidents is:

July 24 — William H. Rodgers, 50, of 301 Maple St., was cited for failure to yield right of way after being involved in a mishap with a Short Way Lines bus, at the corner of N. Evans St. and W. Chicago Blvd. in downtown Tecumseh.

According to the police report, the bus was making a right turn and squeezed the car against the curb. Bus driver Glen G. Lautzenhiser, 49, Adrian, says his right turn signal was on.

July 23 — Duane H. Kopke, 30, Petersburg, suffered minor injuries when he lost control of his motor bike and hit a stopped car, driven by Arthur L. Jepson, 54, of 314 Adrian St. Accident occurred on E. Patterson.

July 26 — Stella M. Hubbard, 66, Onsted, was arrested for failure to yield right of way after she ran into the side of an auto driven by Hazel I. Murphy, 60, of 311 S. Pearl. Both ladies were injured and taken to Herrick Hospital for treatment. Mishap occurred at S. Pearl and W. Kil... [illegible]

Kiley People Raise Funds

Over 130 people attended a fund-raising dinner at the Holiday Inn in Adrian for L. Wayne Kiley, candidate for the 40th district house seat in the state legislature.

The 25-year-old candidate has been engaged in an active campaign for the seat since early in June. At the Holiday Inn gathering he told those assembled that he felt a complete revision of the state's tax structure was necessary to remove the burden of over-excessive taxes on property owners.

He also stressed a need for more improvements on the roads. He cited that Lenawee County was the "gateway to Michigan" and yet did not have roads comparable to other parts of the state. It was his contention that a stronger voice in Lansing would increase the county's chances of improved highways.

Happy Trails

BRITTON — Mrs. Walter Frakes of Britton and Mrs. Marie Hunt of Wyandotte expect to return home next week after vacationing with Mrs. Hunt's daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Thoms and daughters, Terri and Jennifer, of Waukegan, Ill. They crossed Lake Michigan on the Clipper from Muskegon to Milwaukee last week.

Park and Pool Attendance Up

Participation in the city's recreation programs for the summer is up, according to figures at the recreation and parks office.

Using figures of June, 1967, and June, 1968, the pool attendance is up from 2,767 a year ago to 2,800.

Tecumseh Park has had an increase of over 1,000 during the month of June. In '67 10,234 had used the park facilities. Last month 11,572 swam at the newly-dedicated park.

Playgrounds are up an average of 2.3 per day over the five playgrounds the city operates. Rain last month kept attendance down. Of the eight days the playgrounds were to be open, rain forced cancellation of activities on four.

Overall programs are up attendance-wise, including baseball and softball. One exception is tennis where a slight decline was noted last month.

Roberta Hunt and a friend left Monday for San Francisco, Calif., with another friend who is moving there. After a week's vacation, the two will fly home.

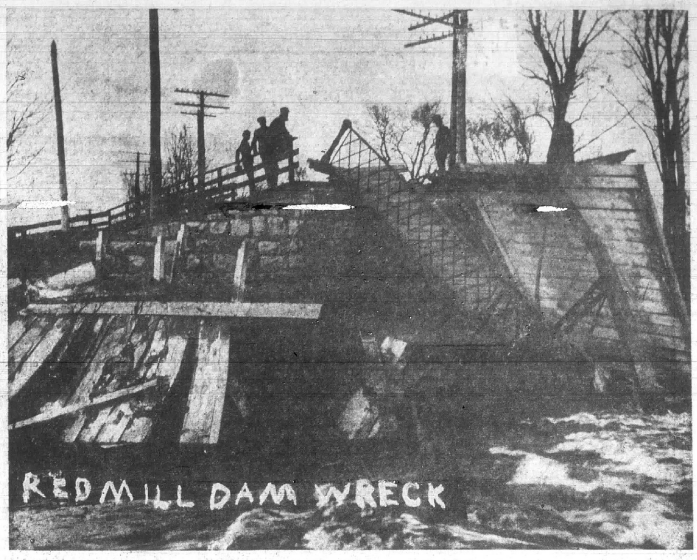
Tecumseh Scenes of 'Yesterday'

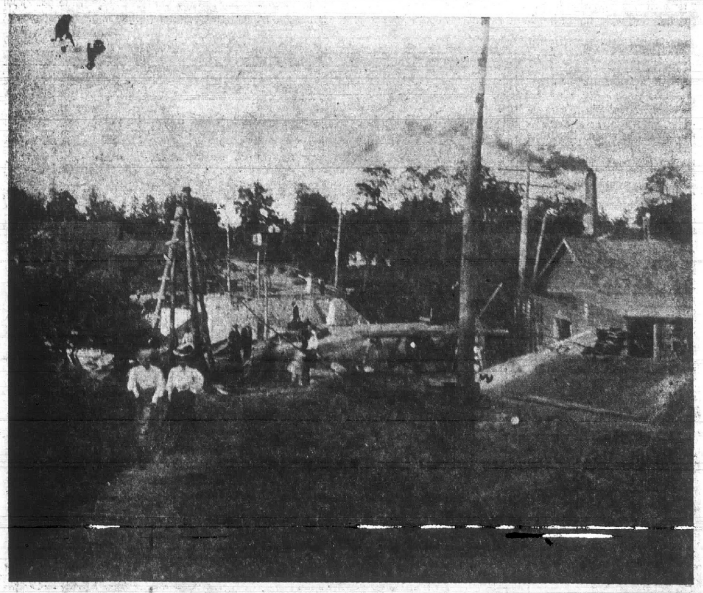
Only the old timers will remember these scenes of Tecumseh, and even many of these folks can't recall all of them.

Some time ago, Wilfred Waldron brought in glass negatives of these scenes. Photographer and darkroom specialist, Bill Whiting, ran them through The Herald's enlarger.

Most of the data about the photos is vague, especially as to the dates. We expect some of our readers to bring us up to date, and hope that they do.



1909 RED MILL DAM BREAK — This photo is reminiscent of Tecumseh's recent flood disaster. Nearly 60 years ago, a spring thaw wrecked the Red Mill Dam and bridge, which at the time was said to be the longest bridge span in Michigan. A bit of historical data says the old span was wide enough for two loads of hay to cross the bridge at the same time.



REBUILDING DAM — Work on rebuilding the Red Mill Dam started soon after it went out in 1909. Looking north, the old paper mill is in the front right foreground with the stack of the old power plant in the background. At middle left is Tecumseh's old ice plant. Mini skirts were not the order of the day, in case you notice the ladies coming up the path.

OLDTIMERS REMEMBER — In 1907 or 1909, floods damaged this Evans Creek bridge on N. Union St. The photo shows a breakage in the arch on the left side. Since, the bridge has been completely rebuilt. The era is certainly indicated by the horse and buggy at top left.

MILL ON GLOBE POND — This Hayden Mill was built around 1900, shortly after the original mill burned. When Henry Ford became interested in Tecumseh, he acquired the property and tore this mill down, using much of the lumber and stone in what is now the city's Community Center.

Croswell Offers Comedy

By T. H. BARD

"Once More With Feeling" was presented in repertory by the Croswell Theatre in Adrian last weekend. It is a funny play written by Harry Kurnitz.

Story revolves around a temperamental orchestra conductor, Victor Fabian (Joseph Balsanek) and his "wife" Dolly, (Lynn Miller).

The plot seems to say at first that they are a married couple who are temporarily separated, however, as the first act develops they have never been married at all. This twist that gives the play its humor, develops when Dolly falls for a professor (George Spelvin), at a college where she has gone to teach after the break-up with Victor. She returns and asks for a divorce from the man she was never married to.

Max Archer (Jeffrey Wagner), Victor's manager, is slightly dismayed when he learns his foremost talent is not really married. He suggests a quick marriage and an even quicker divorce so that Dolly can go back to her professor. The conductor's assistant, Chester Schramm (Skip Skwarek) stays around for the whole charade.

Fabian hasn't been able to hold a conducting job with an orchestra anywhere since Dolly left him, he therefore needs her back. But his temperament is such that he bashes a violinist over the head with his violin and tears the shirt off the back of another. They are brothers, Grisha and Jasha Gendel (Bill Sanford).

Other characters that came under the wrath of the bulldozing conductor were Mr. Wilbur (Mike Mezel) and Luigi Bardini (Paul Schierhorn.) Janice Hoffer appears briefly in voice only in an interview with the famed conductor.

"Once More With Feeling" is a playwright's attempt at sophistication, many of the punch lines were oriented to a certain part of the country or were personalized and were not understood by many in the audience.

The action of the actors were not at times in keeping with the sophistication. Mr. Balsanek was impressive in the role but as the play wore on, so did he. The character never really came across as being sophisticated, but more boisterous and overbearing.

Lynn Miller as the suffering "wife" Dolly was right for the part. Her acting and wardrobe were highlights of the show.

Jeffrey Wagner as the agent was funny and delivered his lines with good timing and humorous response. Mike Metzel as the orchestra sponsor, Mr. Wilbur, was humorous and eccentric and fitted the role.

Paul Schierhorn as Luigi Bardini was also well cast. Skip Skwarek as Chester Schramm was a good contrast to Victor Fabian. He made the audience believe that Fabian would hire someone of that degree as an assistant. He turned in a good performance in a scene with Dolly in the third act. Bill Sanford was adequate in the roles of the violin-playing brothers.

It was an all-around funny play. Room for improvement was there and it can be said that in future performances more confidence will come with the roles and the play.

"Once More With Feeling" will be run again on August 8 and 9. This weekend "Oliver" and "Summer and Smoke" return to the Croswell Opera House in Adrian.

Board's Office Broken Into

Burglars broke into the Board of Education office either Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning of last week, but failed to take anything of real value or any money.

Supt. James McDowell says the office was entered through a basement window. Some desk keys were taken and an attempt was made to enter the superintendent's desk.

Exchange	17
Rotary	10

Exchange Club and Rotary went on a scoring spree last Friday at Nelson Field. Exchange managed to chase more men around the bases and score a 17-10 victory.

Exchange scored nine times in the first inning. They collected the runs on two singles, one double, four bases on balls and three errors.

Roger Calzoda sparkled in the field for the winners, coming up with a sharp play at short. He knocked down a grounder and while on his knees, fired to first. First baseman Pat Connors, had to dig the throw out of the dirt but made the put-out.

Paul Lemanski doubled and singled in three times at bat and Joe Kaufman singled twice to lead at the plate for the winners. Kim Eggleston had two singles to lead the losers.

Kaufman picked up the win and Pearson took the loss.

Supply Officer Attends Course

Second Lieutenant Noel W. Kohl, 24, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Holcomb, live at 10564 Tecumseh - Clinton Rd., completed a supply management officer course July 9 at the Army Quartermaster School, Ft. Lee, Va.

Mrs. Kohl lives at Alexandria, Va.

During the nine-week course, he learned policies and procedures for supply activities and inventory within units. He also learned the capabilities and limitations of automatic data processing which are important in computerized supply systems.

The lieutenant received a B.S. degree in 1967 from Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti.

Happy Birthday, Big Brother . . .

A son, Robert James, was born July 26, to Mr. and Mrs. David Langham, 800 S. Occidental, at Bixby Hospital. The little fellow checked in several weeks premature, just in time to help big brother, Timmy, observe his second birthday anniversary. He weighed 5 lbs., 1½ oz., and is remaining at the hospital for a few days. Mrs. Langham came home Tuesday. The baby's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Russell Langham, 706 Outer Dr., and Mrs. Roy Haft, Clinton-Macon Rd., Clinton.

Projects Adopted Totalling $37,000

Mrs. Ralph Schafer and Mrs. Joseph Schafer represented the Emmanuel Lutheran Church of Britton at the 12th biennial convention at Concordia Lutheran College, Ann Arbor, July 16-18.

Projects totalling $37,000 were adopted as the goal for mite box offerings for the next two years. Included in these projects are the Concordia Tract Mission, the Alabama Lutheran Academy in Selma, Ala., the chapel furnishing at Mt. Pleasant, vacation Bible School materials for inner city churches, assistance for students in Hong Kong, and new missions for Michigan.

Safety Shoes Recommended

When today's working man puts on a pair of safety shoes, it is difficult to determine from their appearance whether he is headed for work or an evening on the town.

The modern safety shoe is a lightweight, comfortable shoe which is not easily distinguishable from an attractive dress shoe. But they're capable of preventing smashed toes, and with an average of over 4,500 on-the-job injuries in Michigan each month, protective equipment is important.

In the last 20 years, many new materials have been developed to allow manufacture of a wide variety of better quality, better looking pieces of safety wearing apparel for the working man — and woman. At the same time, the toes of safety shoes have been developed to a point where they can withstand 75 ft lbs. of impact and 2,500 lbs. of compresion.

Specialists in Michigan's Bureau of Safety and Regulation advise all workers to wear Safety shoes where recommended by their employers or when common sense indicates that their use is a step in the right direction.

The shower was attended by former classmates of Kay, her mother, Mrs. John Becker, and her younger sister, Melissa, and Mrs. Jack Brown.

Games were played and marriage concentration proved to be the most interesting. Little jars of homemade jellies and jams were given as prizes.

The bride-to-be opened many linen items.

The guests were served a pink punch which boasted of floating dips of sherbet, frozen fruit mold (guaranteed to be low in calories) and a variety of crackers.

Features at Dawn Patrol

The annual Dawn Patrol will be held at the Hastings Airport Sunday, Aug. 11, according to Jack Osgood, president of the Hastings Flying Association, sponsor of the event.

All kinds of aircraft, including antiques and homebuilts are expected to start arriving from Michigan and neighboring states after dawn.

Breakfast will be served at the airport for visiting pilots and the general public from 6:30 a.m. until 10 a.m. Breakfast will be "On the House" for pilots arriving in antique or homebuilt aircraft.

At 10 a.m. the Flying Cowboy will put on an aerobatic show and other flying exhibitions will be performed. At 10:30 a.m. all attention will be focused on the band stand where special honored guests will be introduced including Miss Michigan, who will draw tickets and hand out over $1,000 in prizes, contributed for the event by Hastings business and industry and including a strobe light (installed) as a first prize for a lucky pilot and a General Electric color television set for the general public, including pilots.

Airplane rides, helicopter rides and, for those so inclined, stunt rides will be conducted all day as well as a kiddie-type airplane ride on the ground.

In addition to the hundreds of aircraft to look at (don't touch) on the ground, there will be lots of antique aircraft, homebuilt aircraft, antique automobiles, Gordy & Johncock's "Gilmore Broadcasting Special" Indianapolis "500" race car and many other displays.

Transportation will be available for pilots and passengers who wish to go to church or to town for any reason.

Officers are Elected By Walther League

The Walther League of Emmanuel Lutheran Church held their regular monthly meeting July 28, 1968 at the church.

President Tom Schroeder called the meeting to order and David Bush had opening devotions which consisted of a responsive reading of the 1st Psalm.

The Leaguers decided to go to Cedar Point August sixth. This will be the first of several trips they plan to make this summer.

New officers were elected and they will begin their duties in August. They are as follows: Dick Schroeder, president; Grace Tiede, vice-president; Dianna Joachim, secretary; Martha Tiede, treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Joachim of Tecumseh have volunteered to help counselor Jerry Schultz and the newly elected officers in the coming year.

Three new members were officially accepted. They were Keith Schafer, John Schmidt and Michael Miller.

The meeting was closed with the Lord's Prayer led by Martha Tiede.

The Leaguers enjoyed home made ice cream and shuffle board after the meeting.

August 18 is the date for the next regular meeting.

Everything's Coming Up Flowers

By BILL SANFORD

A fire on January 7, 1967, destroyed three greenhouses and a shed at the Tecumseh House on Blood Rd. Ollie and Susie Musch have rebuilt out of the ashes of the fire: geraniums and petunias are blooming again under the glass ceilings.

Mr. Musch, along with his son-in-law, Richard Niedermier, and a hired man, rebuilt most of the greenhouse with the exception of the electrical wiring and the pipe work on the boilers.

At the present time things are quiet at the greenhouse. Most of the plants are out of season with the exception of geraniums and petunias. Mr. Musch stated that the summer is the rest season. In the fall planting will begin for the snap dragons, calla lilies and bulb plants that will grow during the winter and be sold during the spring rush season.

There are a total of 50 types of flowers grown by Tecumseh Greenhouse. Ninety different varieties of petunias are on hand.

Vegetable plants are also grown by Mr. Musch and his wife, Susie. Thirty varieties of tomatoes are grown in the sheltered gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Musch. Some 40 varieties of vegetables in all are grown and retained at the greenhouse on Blood Rd.

Mr. Musch has installed two boilers used in heating the greenhouse during the cold winter months. The ideal growing temperature for most plants is between 55 and 65 degrees.

The boilers are capable of 3,600,000 BTUs. The temperature is kept at 55 at night and 65 during the day. The heat of the boilers is also used in heating the Muschs' house.

Last year they produced over 700,000 individual plants. This figure does not include the potted plants which are retailed at the greenhouse.

A portion of the shed used for repainting is also where the soil mixture is made. Compost, sand, soil, and peat are used to give as close as possible the ideal soil conditions for the plants.

The greenhouses are colorful with over 10,000 blooming geraniums and pansies.

The Muschs hope to work out a way of allowing the customer to serve himself or herself by browsing through the greenhouse and selecting the potted plants of their choice.

It is hard to believe when you look at the greenhouse with the flowers blooming and the sun filtering down through the glass roofs, that such a short time ago, they had been destroyed by fire.

The greenhouses, which were destroyed by fire in 1967, have been rebuilt and year-round flowers bloom in the glass houses.

Uncle Sam Wants You Too, Girls

Sergeant Fint, local Air Force representative, announced today that an urgent requirement exists for women high school graduates to enlist in the Air Force. He added, "Today many WAF are serving their country in Southeast Asia, as well as in the United States and other overseas areas."

He continued, "Women in the Air Force have the same opportunity as the men to attend technical training schools of 4 to 22 weeks duration, and upon completion they are assigned duty side by side with their male counterparts."

Sergeant Fint listed some examples of jobs some WAF are performing: WAF trained as medical specialists, are helping care for wounded men returning from Vietnam to Andrews AFB, Maryland.

A WAF who started earning college credits while in an enlisted status now has her college degree and is back on active duty as a lieutenant at Randolph AFB, Texas, as a personnel computer programmer.

Sergeant Fint urges all Tecumseh women high school graduates interested in more information, to contact him at the Eagles Club, 205 N. Winter Street, Adrian, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

FLYCATCHERS AND ORIOLES

A few weeks ago Gertie T. and I almost took turns begging each other, "Oh, quick — look." The bird did not stay in one spot for long and he seemed to take preverse delight in darting away just when one of us had called the other. Poor Mother and Dad — he never showed himself when they were around.

Gradually the clues as to who the new bird was accumulated. Using the 10-inch length of a robin for comparison, our bird was slightly smaller. When flying, he showed a yellowish breast and when perched on a limb, his tail and wings were definitely cinnamonish in color. His head was darker and looked large, slightly crested. He was noisy and quarrelsome. A check of the bird books — the newcomer was a crested flycatcher.

What an interesting bird. His behavior was so close to what the books said it should be that I am sure he must have read them. Flycatcher is an apt name as insects provide the main part of their diet and most are caught on the wing.

They prefer treetop dining and use the leafy branches as lookout perches. When a tasty looking bug flies by, the flycatcher zooms off and snaps up lunch. Part of the darting back and forth, which so frustrated Gertie T. and I, was undobutedly this fly catching.

OUR FLYCATCHER was a noisy character, too. Noisy and quarrelsome. Just let a hapless sparrow or innocent robin venture too close and oh, what a commotion. With loud, angry screams the flycatcher told the the world of his displeasure and, to emphasize that company was unwelcome, he did a mighty fine job of chasing.

This action proposed another possibility — could there be a flycatcher nest nearby? According to the books they are fierce defenders of 'hearth and home'. Some of the 'inviting to leave' we watched could be called fierce. Certainly we could offer the crested ones ideal homesites.

The many dead elms across the creek must be full of holes and, if they could not find a natural cavity to their liking, there would be woodpecker and flicker homes to be rented. A dead tree is a sad thing but at least it is a slight consolation to realize how many birds turn them into nurseries.

But Marda, back to your flycatcher. Occasionally they can be enticed into a bird house but their preference is, of course a tree home. The nest itself is made of any convenient material — grass, weed stems, roots, feathers, rags, string, hair, etc. Until recently, the one item found in each and every flycatcher's nest was a newly-molted snake skin or at least part of it.

Our modern civilization is changing everything though and either snake skin is becoming harder to find or perhaps it is just that our tendency to be litterbugs makes aluminum foil or cellophane much handier but anyway, flycatchers are sometimes using these things instead of the skin.

ABOUT THE time we had settled ourselves into a routine of flycatcher watching, another brand of excitement took over.

A bright flash of color closely followed by a duller streak — Lord Baltimore Oriole had parked one of his youngsters in the big elm and was feeding him mulberries.

Junior Oriole, and we have since seen him more than several times, strongly resembles his mother in that his back is dark tan and his breast a greenish yellow. He does not have her dark head though and, for some strange reason, he does not share his parents' fondness for oranges. He likes mulberries.

So it is that one thing follows another and just lately the bird thrills have been provided by flycatchers and orioles.

NEXT WEEK:
"Twenty-four Hours a Day."

Six Injured in Two-Car Mishap

Six persons sustained injuries in a collision at 10:25 p.m. Sunday, on Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., just north of Pennington Rd.

Darlene L. Kittle, 20, of 7370 Clinton-Macon Rd., was the driver of a car owned by Philip Zick, which collided with a car driven by Robert Starkey, 47, of 729 S. Union St.

Miss Kittle told Clinton State Police that she had started to pass another vehicle when she saw the approaching Starkey car. When she applied her brakes she skidded sideways in the path of the Starkey car.

Miss Kittle was admitted to Herrick Memorial Hospital with head injuries. Others treated and released were Marr Nichols, 16, and Carl Nichols, 18, of 14222 E. Michigan, Clinton; Debbie Graff, 17, of 10925 Ford Rd., and Ben Thompson, 17, of rural Clinton.

Once Upon A Time

The Abi Evans Chapter, DAR, will meet at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Paul Kaiser, Maiden Lane. The hostess will be assisted by Mrs. Kenneth Hall.

Program leader Marion Whelan will present a collection of pioneer stories of early Tecumseh.

River Rats Rough It

(Editor's Note: Robert H. Moore, veteran boater, and Glenn Driscoll who writes of the adventure, recently made a loop from Kingston, Ontario, Canada, north through the Rideau Canal to Lake St. Louis and then southwest down thru the St. Lawrence River to Kinkston again. They used Moore's 16-foot "Mist Sipi" with 75 h. p. motor. The boat has a total of 19,000 miles of "river ratting" to its credit. Mr. Moore offers his library of navigational charts of rivers in the eastern United States and some as far west as Montana to interested persons.)

As no third party showed evidence of any interest in the venture, Captain Robert H. Moore and First Mate Glenn Driscoll took off from Tecumseh to Kingston, Ontario, July 18 at 9 a.m., arriving about 6:30 p.m.

We put the "Old Glaspar" into the Rideau River and retired at the Lord Nelson Motel though I doubt if the Lord ever slept there.

Friday was a damp poor day but we kept sailing like a sailor should, arriving at Jones Falls for a lock and missed it while we were having lunch.

Once through we took off like a big bird and stopped for the night at Merrickville (700 people and a saw mill and pulp mill). Here we stayed at an old stone hotel with a fire escape of one inch hemp construction.

Saturday through to Ottawa where we tied up under the Ottawa River Bridge and through the last eight locks, making a total of 50 we had navigated, then merrily down the Ottawa to Lake St. Louis and into the St. Lawrence.

We met two other known Rotarians on the voyage, each of whom agreed to exchange flags.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Pitman were also navigating the Rideau River. We met at Smith Falls, a combination lock and bridge. As we overtook their cruiser for the second time, it was then that we discovered that he was also a Rotarian. He was from Soudis, N. Y. We agreed to exchange flags.

While waiting to navigate the Eisenhower Locks, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Guay were waiting, giving preference to a larger ship, which, of course, you do.

He was a dry cleaner from Montreal and a newlywed of a week on his way to the Thousand Islands.

Captain Moore asked him if he could direct us to a marina. He said "Yes, follow me." It was dark by now and Captain Moore does not sail after dark.

We passed "The Martin Schroeder," a German ship aground and a quarter of a mile farther, "the Cruiser," also ran aground.

Mr. Guay radioed for help, the captain of the Schroeder answered and as they came with help, the bridegroom decided to go ashore with the Tecumseh party.

After being greeted by a flock of officials, we went to bed at 2 a.m.

People Need People
Is A Lesson For All

By THE REV. JOHN LOVER

Hardly awake, but ready to begin, members of the Junior High and Senior High MYF of the Grace Methodist Church began to journey north to Grayling Friday morning, July 26. With 24 sleeping bags, tents to sleep 24, clothing for all sorts of weather, and food for all meals, the question was asked, how are we going to get all that in the truck and cars? When we arrived at Grayling, the same question was asked. I don't know how we are going to get all that in these canoes. But we did with room to spare, but not much.

The Friday weather was beautiful. Sun was shining as we started out. We left Grayling at 12:30, and our first campsite was 5½ hours of paddling time down the river. 6½ hours later, we arrived at the campsite, set up tents, prepared the evening meal of homemade vegetable soup, enjoyed moments of recreation, devotions, and then went to bed. About four in the morning, we heard a few drops of rain on the tents, but that was all.

After a breakfast of pancakes, the group started out in a light drizzle. It was surprising how easy the canoeing went the second day. About ten minutes later there was a hard rain. We and the equipment got wetter than wet, but after three hours, the skies began to clear, and we had decided to go on. A few minutes later, the heavy rains came again, and with our equipment too wet to continue, we had to cut the trip short by one day.

Some things we learned and experienced:

We learned that so much of life involves cooperation with others, and that each one needs to cooperate and to do his or her share on the canoe trip and in life.

We experienced our dependence on one another. If the person in the stern didn't steer properly, then the canoe would be on the bank; if the person on the bow didn't paddle on the right side, the canoe would end up in the bushes. We learned that when people work together, with patience and love, life is much more enjoyable, and the work as well as the play is much more meaningful.

We experienced God in our midst along the shores of the Au Sable. [illegible] was seen in the lovely trees that arched over us along the river; God was seen in the fish that evaded us below; God was seen in the peace of the moment when our canoe was alone, with no one in sight; God was seen in the water snake sliding along toward the safety of the shore or the beaver preparing for his winter. God was to be seen everywhere.

We experienced the joy of the campsite; the community of Christians waiting for dinner to be prepared; setting up the tents; walking to get water, each one doing his share so that the entire group's work could be accomplished.

We experienced the joy of the campfire and worship of God. Camposongs expressed our love of life and love of God; prayers of dedication and thanksgiving.

We learned that we need to live with others in God's world, as several raccoons kept the counselors guarding the food during the night, and chasing the coons away from the food.

We learned to accept the disappointments that come with life when the decision finally reached that we were too wet to continue.

We learned that often our worship makes a stronger witness than we think, and that in sharing, God witnesses through us and to us. One evening, a father and two of his girls came down in a canoe. They paused to listen to our singing and worship, and later asked for some of the coals from our fire. In the morning, he brought over some freshly caught brown trout for some to enjoy.

We experienced the joy of dedicated church leaders, who gave of themselves to accompany the youth on this venture, and who gave guidance and help along the way. Since the rain cut short our trip, our Saturday evening plans were made on Saturday noon, at a rest area on the way home.

The youth expressed their appreciation to Tom and Phyllis Smith for their dedication as Senior High counselors for the past two years, and presented them with a gift. It was announced that the new counselors who will begin in the fall will be Stewart and Cassie Niblock.

Finally we experienced the joy of arriving home safely, and attending church as a group on Sunday morning. With anticipation, everyone said, "Let's plan for next year."

Those who attended include: counselors: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Haas, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hamilton, John Lover, Miss San Dee Bailey.

Senior High Youth: Sue Smith, Dave Kennel, Kathy Jewell, Connie Irwin, Russell Johnson, Diane Bishop, Tom Bailey.

Junior High youth: Barbara and Tom Johnson, Tom and Scott Smith, Jack Colson, Brad and Gregg Hamilton, Richard Frazier, James Rayburn.

The bridegroom was graduated from Tecumseh High School in 1959. He attended Adrian College and was employed in the Tecumseh Post Office.

Mr. Woodward moved to Long Beach in 1963. Currently he is employed as a cast and traction technician at Los Angeles County Harbor General Hospital in Torrance, Calif.

The new Mrs. Woodward is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett McGee of Lake Orion.

After a honeymoon at the beach in Malibu, Calif., the couple will reside at 1928 Dawson St., Long Beach.

Attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Woodward, Mr. and Mrs. Everett McGee, Lake Orion; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodward, Gardena, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Woodward and family, Orange, Calif.

The engagement of Marjory Ann Matzinger to David Howard Elmore is being announced by her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Matzinger, 5 Occidental Rd. Mr. Elmore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Elmore of Glasgow, Ky. Miss Matzinger is a 1965 graduate of Tecumseh High School. Her fiance is a 1966 graduate of Glasgow High School. Both are students at God's Bible School and College, Cincinnati, O., where he is employed as an assistant cook. An August 3 wedding is planned.

Health Director Urges Water Test

Recent flooding may have caused further complications for individuals in flooded areas, according to Dr. Tom Hamilton, Lenawee County Health Director. Surface water is usually polluted and when excessive may contaminate even property constructed wells by running down the outside of the casing, and will usually get into dug wells or shallow driven wells.

The health department urges that persons using well water should have their water tested. Bottles for testing to be sent to the state laboratory, are available at the County Health Department.

There are two types of test, one for bacteria and one for chemicals. The bacteria test is for the type most common in sewage and requires a sterile sample.

The chemical test is for iron, chloride and hardness. All of these should be checked on the form and additionally, nitrate and nitrite should be written in as they are tests for pollution.

There is no charge from the state for doing these tests. Dr. Hamilton urges all well users in the areas where flooding occurred and all well users to test their water and to do the tests annually.

Romance of the Old West Lives on at Frontier City

By BILL SANFORD

One shot of red-eye at the old saloon at Frontier City and you look up at the wall, lo and behold, there is a jackrabbit sprouting horns. It isn't really the red-eye which caused the horned rabbit, the jackalope is just one of the many fun interests at the old west town built on M-50 just south of US-12 in the Irish Hills.

The romance and the glory of the old west is authentically displayed in many ways. The old West Museum has the modes of transportation and necessary equipment of that day.

The city was built in a scenic little valley with a small lake and surrounding woods and trails.

Stage coach runs are a familiar sight around the western town. Certain pitfalls lie ahead of anyone who wishes to travel via the old frontrunner of the Greyhound bus—things like a hold-up in the woods. Who would believe in this day and age?

Frontier City has become one of the leading spots for the Grand Ole Opry. County and western entertainers appear each Sunday and on holidays.

Frontier City which is open seven days a week has entertainment for all of the youngsters, one to one hundred. Train rides and a mule train take you around the lake. It's a peaceful journey except that masked desperados hold up the mule train or stage coach. Ever since the opening of the city, a capable young man to ride shotgun has been sought by Frontier City's Wells Fargo.

Just when things seem to be peaceful in the streets, a shoot-out occurs or some "skunky drunk" ornery creature is hauled off to the Frontier City hoosegow.

You can walk around the grounds of the western town as much as you like. You can even bring a picnic lunch and use the spacious facilities which is located in a shady grove. Children's playground rides are available to keep the little people busy while you rest and enjoy the peace of the valley.

Another of the many places to visit is the old fort, you can climb to the top and view the town from high in the air. If you are young or just young in spirit you can ride the

LIFE HEALTH

Constipation

There is no such thing as "a little constipated" and there is no true measure of its effects on the individual, his family life and on his relations with his associates in the business world.

No explanation of constipation is necessary. Everyone at one time or another has "enjoyed" the condition. Most measures adopted for relief are of a temporary nature. Relief may be obtained, but the condition recure.

Chiropractors have learned that the vital working parts of the body respond to nerve energy impulses transmitted from the brain. When pressure on a nerve prevents the proper flow of energy to a vital organ or gland, it cannot do its job. In the digestive tract, functional failure can result in constipation.

The Chiropractor, through scientific knowledge, locates the offending nerve, frees it and restores the vital flow of nerve energy to the affected organ. With normal function restored, nature works from within to restore the digestive tract to normal efficiency. Another Health and Life Article from the Office of:

QUESTION:

"You recently conducted the services for my sister and I would like to know why your charges were higher than we expected?"

ANSWER:

To often the family quotes the entire burial expense as the funeral director's charge to them. In the expenses for your sister's funeral, the cemetery expenditure, cost of family flowers, obituary notice charges and clergy honorarium exceeded the entire charges for the casket and services.

A New Life for "Lil"

By CHUCK BUTLER

This old 1928 Ford Touring car came home to a city she wasn't familiar with, although she had been a part of it through the tales brought back of the exploits of those who drove her in upstate New York since 1939.

The old Ford had been purchased by the Pine Creek Club of New York in 1939.

It was like new then, it had been the property of an elderly preacher — with 12,000 miles on the speedometer. The speedometer still works as she turned up 630 miles while we towed her home to Tecumseh. There are 42,000 miles on her now.

The top curtains and upholstery are gone, but not the spirit. At first she was known as "Lizzy," but Paul Breitenwischer, and a historic recitation he was known for, named her "Lil."

She starts and runs good yet and uses little oil. The only repairs have been minor — the rear spring had to be replaced, because we loaded her too heavy. She hadn't seen pavement for 25 years. The last license was in 1948. She was driven mostly on logging trails thru wooded areas, during annual October deer season.

She was the most loyal and durable thing ever, withstanding any members' attempt to prove otherwise. She stood every new assault.

Loaded to the 'gills' sometimes, 6 men in the small seats, one on each front fender, 2 on the rear bumpers and two or more standing on the running boards, plus gear, guns, etc., she plodded on through mud, mire and holes axle deep, growling and groaning at times. She was seldom out of low or second gear, but always willing and ready.

Many are the stories of her prowess and impossible feats.

"Lil" actually seemed jealous when a 4-wheel front end winch-equipped Jeep was brought in to camp. But she smiled again as she pulled the Jeep out of its first mud hole, when the winch broke to pieces.

There are rumblings of remodeling her. Hurrah!! She deserves the best. There never was a tougher more durable machine made, we all say.

Who is the Pine Creek Club, anyhow?

Although the original By-Laws are dated May 26, 1943, The Pine Creek Club, Inc., was in use starting in 1939.

Charter members were: Frank K. Smith of Tecumseh, Mich., Lawrence C. Smith, Lyons, N. Y., George W. Smith, Lyons, N. Y., James A. Smith, Lyons, N. Y., Daniel W. Mason, Lyons, N. Y., Bert B. Turnbull, Tecumseh, Mich., Ned N. Baldwin, Tecumseh, Mich., Curtis M. Brown, Tecumseh, Mich., Robert H. Moore, Tecumseh, Mich., Dr. Merwin R. Blanden, Tecumseh, Mich., and Karl M. Schneider, Sr., Tecumseh, Mich.

Later joiners were: Jens Touborg, Joseph Rohweder, Chas. O. Butler, Clarence Gilman, Paul Breitenwischer, Marc Schantz, George Turnbull (all from Tecumseh) and Carl A. Deuchler and Saxton A. Schreiber of Lyons, N. Y. The following sons of members have been taken in: G. Kirk Smith, Karl R. Schneider, Jr., Robert D. Moore, Jack (Curtis B.) Brown and James L. Spooner.

The property purchased was nearly 2,000 acres of land near Brandingham Lake, 65 miles north of Utica, N. Y., for 75c per acre, $1,200.00. It is a rugged, stony, swampy area, with unusual formations of rocks (some as big as houses) caused several to take on pet names such as Bert's Meadow (he took a nap there daily); Baldwin's Bog; Frank, Lars and Doc's Rocks.

A land full of deer and abounding in small streams, Pine Creek, for which the camp was named, ran near the cabin, and was always dammed up by beaver, making an island and lake around the cabin. Spring Brook was up in the middle and joined Pine Creek out west. Across the top of the property runs Otter Creek, a beaut, with falls, etc.

Foot trails were b[illegible] years and named The North; The East-West; The New West; Route 66, 44, etc. Logging companies later left trails, followed by a rugged old Model A touring car and a 4-wheel drive 'Jeep', saving a lot of walking.

The cabin was originally about 24 by 26 feet, made of pine logs from the area. It was built in 1939. The sleeping quarters took up the west one-third of the space, with double bunks up and down, sleeping 15-20. A large fireplace, the only heat in the beginning, filled the east end.

Later improvements had a kitchen added, then electric light plant, heating stoves, springs and mattresses, ice freezer, radio and finally TV. Several comfortable lounging chairs and davenport surrounded the fireplace; tables full of old and new sports and hunting periodicals. A bar and ping pong table filled the rest of the space.

All around the table were benches whose tops lifted up to show separate compartments for each person's personal effects.

The lower wall separating the sleeping quarters was made into a gun rack, above which were posted bulletins, historical photos and yes, calendar girls galore.

A cook was usually hired, but noon cook-outs were held whenever venison was available. These were held at any of the watering spots, and usually ended in a bottle or can toss-up, shot by the crack shots. The woods resounded for hours.

Time for a snooze.

Members and guests tried to out-do each other with the latest of hunting or camping equipment, guns, etc.

The King Pin was the last to shoot a buck. He sat at the head of the table, with the others in their order down the table from him.

Just outside the door was a "buck pole", hung between two wild cherry trees. Usually full as the annual kill was about 40%.

A small buck's horns over the fireplace was the depositing place for the 'daily must' a one dollar bill, for the first to shoot a buck tomorrow. If more than one was shot you were automatically assessed. Soon every bill had a hole in it.

This dining table, ping-pong size, was the scene of many a hard fought ping-pong battle.

Of course, poker was a favorite nightly. The favorite game—"Up and Down the River". Doc Smith said, "The chips were 3 feet high"; Ned Baldwin says, "I'll Pumper".

Of course there were many bridge battles. Ned bid 5 spades and Lar Smith bid 6 without looking. Gin rummy took over in later years.

The greatest contests were just plain snoring; Butler wins.

An aerial map of the property was posted on the north wall and was "x'ed" where every buck was shot. Big Bob Moore kept the records corrected.

The annual business and election meeting was always held the night before the New York deer and bear season opened, namely Oct. 25th. Everyone made a big effort to be on hand. Tecumsehites driving some 650 miles to make it. This annual 2-day trip was looked forward to for years. Making Lyons and the Smith boys that first night was a must enjoyed by all.

In the early days most of the members planned to stay two weeks. The next day got us in Greig early for N. Y. licenses, $2.50, and then a stop at The Cat's Paw to see Peg and Joe for libations and some of Peg's home-made pies or bread and get the low-down on hunting with the natives.

Many episodes, funny, embarassing, even serious, happened, but time and space are too short to enumerate them all. Missed shots, falling in creeks, etc., led the list. One or two were: the time that the boys inserted glass eyes in a tree by the dump to get Brownie's nerve up to shoot at it. Gilman nearly died laughing the shooting to death of the old upright phonograph at a hundred yards. Everyone shot at it until it quit playing.

Outstanding episodes and tales became legends told over and over to new members and guests, who listened in awe and with foreboding.

So many years of association together brought about a kind of nostalgia beyond the belief of a stranger, but real to us all. It became a true love for every stone, tree, swamp, person and thing. The greatest love, however, had to be for 'LIL', the "never-say-die" Ford, always ready and willing.

An occasional visit to the small country towns around was a must.

The Burr brothers led us to the interesting spots. They hunted with us every day and watched over our property when we were gone. Thanks to these great friends and helpers. They enjoyed our heritage, too.

Why, then, was the New York property sold? No one really knows now, except that —

- We were using it only a few days each year;
- The local taxes became unbearable, almost $1200 per year;
- The county threatened to put a road through the area;
- All of the New York members resigned or were dead;
- Younger sons' stays were short;
- The trip got too long for the "oldies".

Few Tecumseh wives and families ever visited the club often. But they have heard the tales and told them so often themselves that they believe them, too.

There never was a camp like this one, or people, either.

Linda Graham and Clark Griffin Are Wed

BRITTON — The Bethel Baptist Church was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Linda Graham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Graham, Jr., of 6917 Colonial Drive, Tecumseh, and Clark Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Griffin of 394 Oak Street, Britton.

The 2 p.m. ceremony was performed by the Rev. Duane McNeil, pastor of the church.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, approached the altar wearing a gown of white Sacki, styled with an Empire waistline and A-line skirt. The elbow-length sleeves were trimmed in scalloped lace edging, and the waistline featured matching lace overlays. Her elbow-length illusion veil was attached to a headpiece petaled with seed pearls.

The maid of honor was Suzanne Graham, sister of the bride. She was attired in pastel yellow Empire waist dress with flowing skirt. She wore a yellow petal headdress, and carried daisies and roses.

Bridesmaids were Janie Griffin and Cindy Griffin, sisters of the groom. Their dresses and accessories were identical to that of the maid of honor.

Tom Watkins of Wayne, cousin of the groom, was best man. Ushers were Kirk Crutchfield and Michael Jordan of Britton.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the church for 200 guests. The bride's table was decorated with yellow roses.

The bride, a graduate of Onsted High School in 1967, has been employed at Faraday. The groom was a 1966 graduate of Britton-Macon High School and is in the Army at the present time. The couple expect to leave for Japan within a few weeks.

The rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's parents Friday evening in their home for 15 guests.

To Much To Do, No Time for Play

BRITTON — You might think that there's nothing doing at school from Memorial Day until Labor Day, but it isn't so — there's been a hum of activity all summer long.

Forty-one students in the first to sixth grades have just completed a five-week session of morning summer school. The summer school, which emphasizes remedial reading and remedial math, is planned to aid educationally and culturally deprived children who need help in reading and math improvement. Needed physical and psychological services are also provided. The program is voluntary on the part of the students, and the session is completely financed by the Federal government.

Director of the summer school was Edgar Ericson. Teachers include Mrs. Rosemary Schroeder, first grade to third grades; Mrs. Rosemary Niblack, remedial reading for grades four to six; and Mrs. Doris Forsythe, remedial math.

Last Wednesday the group enjoyed lunch at school, then went on a field trip to the Prehistoric Forest and Stagecoach Stop.

For 52 fifteen and sixteen-year olds, this is the long-awaited summer when they have been learning to drive. Sam Hamilton, driving education instructor, reports that the group has almost comleted its specified driving time, and the fledglings will soon receive their permits to drive.

Art VanWormer, head custodian at the school, and his staff have not been idle. They have been cleaning and painting inside the buildings, including the interiors of the Home Ec. and Vo-Ag rooms. Exterior work includes the freshly-painted belfry and bell, and now that sandblasting is completed on the concrete block additions, repainting will begin this week.

So things have been pretty busy at the old school house, even if it is vacation for most of the students!

Classmates Meet

BRITTON — A group of former schoolmates from the Holloway School attended a cooperative luncheon at the home of Mrs. Melville Bowen in Palmyra Tuesday.

Guests included Mrs. Charles Howe of Tecumseh, Mrs. Walter German and Mrs. Carl Gritzmaker of Holloway, Mrs. Harvey Lewis of Adrian and Mrs. Clyde Brown of Britton.

The afternoon was spent socially.

Gustav Hannevik's family in Norway, whom the ladies had visited.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Eberhardt were hosts to the 18 members and five guests who were present for the cooperative ham supper and meeting. Devotions were given by Leland Bush from the 14th Psalm, and also a reading by newscaster Paul Harvey entitled "Diluted Religion is Uninspiring."

Mrs. Lillian Buttolph invited the class to meet at her cottage at Evans Lake in August.

PONY LEAGUE CHAMPS — Capping first place in the local Pony League race was the G&J Woodworking team with a fine 13-1 record. They made it a near-perfect year, sporting only one broken foot and one broken arm. Taking pride in a great team are: top row, Chuck Gurtzweiler, Irving Gurtzweiler, Dave Gurtzweiler, Tony Lisenbee, Craig Smith, Randy Skinner, Mike Clement, and manager, Buck Smith. Bottom, Glen Posley, Craig Brown, Jeff Shelton, Bob Beevers, Kent Blumerick, Doug Clement. Those still celebrating the "pennant" win and not shown are Eric Myers, Dave Ryon, Greg Cote, Sam Brantingham and Jack Van Riper.

READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITOR:

Speaking about the good behavior of local teen-agers and the need for parents' cooperation, a recent letter to the editor stated, "But why go on — these are not the groups that the public or the press are interested in." What a mistaken idea! I read the same thing in a THS student editor's column last spring.

People do like to hear about teen-agers' good deeds and fine achievements. And I'm sure the press is happy to report such news items, but must first know about them before they can print them.

At present Sunday School students of Grace Lutheran Church are collecting trading stamps for Bethesda Lutheran Home in Watertown, Wis. The stamps are redeemable for much-needed equipment at this home for epileptics and mentally retarded children and adults.

I'm sure such instances could be multiplied if we knew all the worthwhile projects our Tecumseh youth are interested in.

Perhaps our parents and teachers need to shake off some of their modesty, and let the community know what our children and young people are doing.

Esther Fretwell.

T.A.R. Present Their Candidates

Tecumseh Area Republicans presented a "Meet the Candidates Night" for the information of the public at an open meeting held last Wednesday evening at the City Hall .

After a short business meeting, all of the candidates for the 40th District including the incumbent, Robert Stites, were asked to present their credentials on the requirements needed to qualify them for this office.

Each candidate was given floor time, and then answered their opponents in rebuttal or responded to questions from the floor. Those presenting themselves in hopes of winning the nomination were Dan Bruggeman, L. Wayne Kiley and Edgar L. Peavey.

Mrs. Patricia Johnston, County Clerk, presented a most illuminating talk on the recent re-apportionment of the county for a new board of supervisors. It was learned that under the new districting, Tecumseh is now allowed two county supervisors, from districts numbered 6 and 7.

It is planned to have another meeting after the primary to include both Republican and Democrat state level candidates from this district for the election in November.

Mrs. Faun Platt, Lenawee County Republican Chairman, was present to invite those in the area to visit the new headquarters located in Adrian in the former Holbert store.

Mrs. Stella Hubbard, Mrs. Charles Howe and Mr. Arthur Eaton, whose phone numbers will be found in the Tecumseh phone book, will try to be of service to the community with any questions the general public may have regarding the primary, absentee ballots, or other political problems. Also, anyone wishing to help with political work for the Republican party are invited to call one of the above named persons.

Minister from Sussex Visits St. Peter's

The Rev. Francis Outram of Battle Parish, Battle, Sussex, England, will be visiting St. Peter's Church, Tecumseh, this coming weekend.

Beginning in October the Rev. Mr. Outram will take temporary charge of St. Peter's Episcopal Church while the Rector of St. Peter's, the Rev. Frank W. Hawthorne, will officiate at Battle during a year's parish exchange.

Mr. Outram will assist at the 8 and 10 a.m. celebrations of the Holy Communion on Sunday, August 4, when he will meet the members of his new, temporary, congregation for the first time. There will be a coffee hour following the 10 a.m. family service.

Mr. and Mrs. Outram are visiting friends in Connecticut for a few weeks on a previously arranged visit on their first trip to the United States.

Peace Reigns On Beaver Island

By ALMINA HUNT

"If you've ever slept on an island, you'll never be the same" reads the poem by Rachel Field.

We recently had this privilege by spending some time on Beaver Island, the only kingdom in the United States.

Originally settled by the French, then taken over by the "Strangites," a group of Mormons led by Henry Strang, who set himself up as their king and after his assasination, taken over by the Irish.

Today one can explore the island and visit the ruins of the log houses built by the Mormons and vision their homes as they once were. Grown up to weeds and brush, the evidence is still there in the sweet peas, lilacs, honeysuckle and apple trees that made up a part of their yards.

The only town, St. James, is small and boasts of two grocery stores with one advertising "If we don't have it, you don't need it."

There is a medical center with a doctor and nurse in charge, a garage, marina, Catholic church, Episcopal church and a non-denominational Christian church with vacationing ministers as the speakers.

The island is 14 miles in length and six miles wide with seven inland lakes providing wonderful fishing. Wildlife is abundant with deer, jack rabbits, coyote, fox, black squirrels, turkeys, ducks, beavers and chipmunks.

The chipmunks begged for food every day by climbing the screen door to our cabin. We saw plenty of deer and numerous fawns. With no improved roads, we wouldn't recommend taking a new car on the island.

We were told there were turkeys on the island and began to doubt this until by accident they exposed themselves. Being curious when they heard voices in the field, one turkey followed by another and another began to raise their heads above the tall grass to see what was going on. When they spied the intruding humans, they quickly ducked and disappeared.

When we visited in the village, we were able to tell the regular inhabitants from the summer visitors.

Most, being of Irish extraction, were red-heads with freckles and typically "Cherie Riordan." We couldn't help but think of her as we were reminded so often when we met one of the natives.

Predominantly Catholic, everything revolved around the church. Any form of entertainment was usually sponsored by the church. Also the public school is taught by two Catholic nuns.

We had plenty of time to scour the beach and in some places walk for two or three miles without seeing another person.

We fear the island is due to change as a development company has purchased a tract of land on Donegal Bay on the western side of the island. They are putting roadways through the woods and staking out lots, 5,000 to be exact. From obsrvation, their methods are somewhat questionable. Prospective customers are flown to the island, bused to the development site and then whisked away again.

The natives have property along the lake which they are willing to sell for a lot less if given the opportunity.

We can see where it would be easy to lose track of time. There is no rushing about and one man failed to report to work Saturday because he thought it was Sunday.

The weather was perfect but Lake Michigan was cold.

We were sorry to bid adieu to this beautiful emerald isle Sunday morning as we boarded the ferry to take us back to the mainland but we shall always have a fond memory of this unspoiled island and remember that nature is a volume of which God is the author.

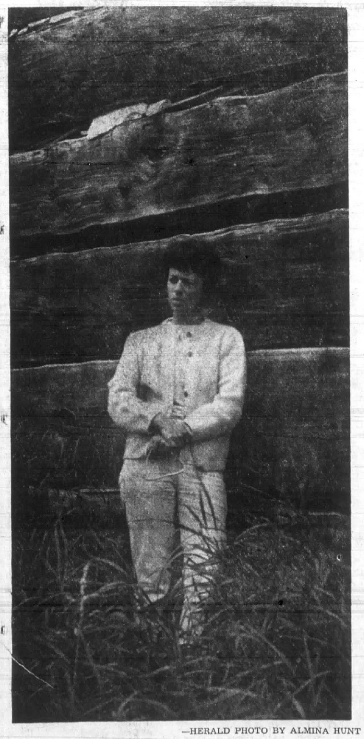
BEAVER ISLAND LIGHTHOUSE — Located on the south shore, helps light the way for skippers nearing the islands. Another lighthouse is located on the north shore near the harbor entrance. These are maintained by the Coast Guard. Due to radar, it is no longer necessary to employ a lighthouse keeper.



—HERALD PHOTO BY ALMINA HUNT

GIANT LOGS — Roberta Hunt stands beside a deserted Mormon house to help illustrate the size of the logs used in the building. In the Mormon print shop are boards 27" wide and 14' long used for siding. Although the area has been timbered there is still plenty of hardwood and pine.

Onalee Cote and Billy Chandler Exchange Vows

The Rev. Fr. Robert Handley performed the double ring ceremony and nuptial high mass uniting Onalee Maureen Cote and Sp/4 Billy Joe Chandler in marriage Saturday morning at St. Elizabeth Catholic Church.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence E. Cote Sr., 4393 Comfort Rd., and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Brown, 9453 Holloway Rd.

Mrs. Donald Johnson presided at the organ.

The four tiered finger tip veil of bridal illusion with re-embroidered lace was attached to a rhinestone tiara and she wore rhinestone earrings, gift of the groom.

Christine Cote, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Deborah Cote, another sister, Kathleen Sue Kenning and Judy Barnell, were the bridesmaids.

Lisa and Lori Henning, cousins of the bride, were the flower girls and Rickey Cote, also a cousin of the bride, carried the rings.

The bride's gown and those of all her attendants were made by Mrs. George Halberstadt.

The attendants' were gowned in white embossed cotton pique, styled with empire waist trimmed with pink shantung. Large bows at the back waist extended to the floor. The maid of honor wore a pink bow at the back and the maids' bows were lined with pink.

They wore bows on their hair and carried cascades of Elegance carnations centered with Happiness roses accented with ivy.

Duaine Chandler, brother of the groom, served as best man and the guests were seated by James Morse, Lawrence E. Cote Jr. and Randall Maynard.

The bridal dinner at Don's Beef Buffet was attended by 49. The bride's table was decorated with pink tapers and the maids' bouquets.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Cote were hosts for the recention. Bonnie Nichols registered the guests and Mrs. Thelma Henning, aunt of the bride, cut the five tiered cake, made by Mrs. Lawrence Nichols.

The cake featured a winding stairway with miniature dolls, dressed like the wedding party, and de...ing the stairway from a white steepled church.

Guests attended from Port Clinton and Toledo, Ohio, Beaverville and Bradley, Ill., Kentucky, and Flint, Ann Arbor, Birmingham, Detroit, Armada, Grand Rapids, Deerfield, Adrian and Tecumseh.

Both young people are graduates of Tecumseh High School and the bride is employed as an administrative clerk at Herrick Memorial Hospital. Her husband was employed with Ford Motor Co. before entering the Army.

The rehearsal dinner, held at the home of the parents of the bride and given by the parents of the groom, was also a surprise shower for the groom with 45 guests present.

The newly married couple will reside at Fort Campbell, Ky.

COME ONE, COME ALL — Shades of yesteryear! It looks like Tecumseh's had sidewalk festivities for quite a spell. Back in 1905, we put on a real bash for the Fourth Annual After-Harvest Carnival with balloon ascensions, baseball games, fireworks — you name it, we had it. Folks got such a kick out of it that some of 'em are still coming back for the Sidewalk Sale this week!

LAS VEGAS QUEEN — Visitors to Evans Lake last Saturday were treated to a real sight during the Lake-A-Rama parade. A lot of time and effort was put in on this float depicting an extravagant casino. The entire day was dedicated in memory of Jimmy Bowman, a frequent vacationer who was killed in Vietnam in early April.

Police Streak on to Victory

The Tecumseh Police recorded two more wins during the week to push their record to a fine 6-3 mark, as they crushed the Rotary, 16-2, last Tuesday, and then came back Thursday to win a come from behind 7-6 decision from the Lenawee Fuels.

John Getz started the successful week for the Police as he held the Rotary in check by allowing them only two hits, while receiving some fine hitting support from his teammates.

With Frank Bock and Dave McLoughlin pacing the way with three hits apiece, the Police rapped out a total of 12 hits, as they scored in every inning. Doug Clement and Dave Esterline also provided additional punch for the winners as they each had two hits.

In the Lenawee Fuels encounter the Police, after having a 3-1 lead after three innings, had to pull the game out in the last inning as the Fuels pushed across five runs in the fourth inning and eventually had a 6-4 advantage going into the final frame.

But the Police were not to be denied as they seemed to come to life as Joe Burns started the damage with a double to the center field fence and from then on, along with two walks and two more hits, and with the aid of a passed ball, they pushed across the necessary 3 runs to give them the margin of victory.

Dave McLoughlin, who pitched the entire game, and was credited with the win, helped his own cause by stroking out 3 safeties for the winners.

The engagement of Helen Frances Rudd to Glenn Bruce Barton is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Rudd, 506 Parkway Ct. The bride-elect is a 1967 graduate of Tecumseh High School and is employed at Fisher Body. Mr. Barton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barton, 515 W. Pottawatamie. He is a 1966 graduate of Tecumseh High School and has been aboard the USS Valley Forge aircraft carrier overseas in the past 10 months. The couple is planning a Sept. 14 wedding.

Teen Club is on the Ball

In the past weeks' action the Tecumseh Teen Club split their two outings by whipping the Adrian American Legion 6 to 5, and losing to the Morenci Merchants 2 to 1.

In Thursday's contest Manager Bob Kennedy's boys jumped on Adrian's Larry Lewis for four runs in the first inning and held off an Adrian rally for the victory.

A one out walk to Jim Hunt, a single by Wally Quinn, and an error to Dean Hebb let in the first two runs for the Teenclubbers. After forcing Hebb, Denny Lewis scored along with Henry Mensing who had walked, on a single by Mike Kane.

Singles by Quinn, Lewis and Mensing accounted for one Tecumseh run in the third inning.

Tecumseh concluded their scoring for the evening in the sixth inning with a single run which proved to be the winning margin.

A two out double by Dave Ward, and an error by second baseman Dave Peshke allowed Ken Pieh to reach first and Ward to cross the plate.

Adrian scored one run in the third inning on three walks and a single by Greg Arbaugh.

A three run outburst in the sixth inning cut the margin to six to four. A leadoff triple by Arbaugh, and a single by Bill Cunningham scored the first for Adrian. A base on error to Joel Hiser by Ward, a base on balls to Chuck Feltman, and a double by Dan Toole drove in two more runs before Hebb struck out Peshke with the tying run on second to end the inning.

However, Adrian was not finished yet. Tom Carlson led off the seventh with a walk and advanced to second on a wild pitch. Cunningham then singled Carlson home making the score six to five. With one out, Hiser hit a short fly ball to right field. Jim Hunt came charging in to catch the ball knee high, and fire to Jack Greenfield at first to double the runner Cunningham and save the win for Dean Hebb.

Hebb allowed five hits and struck out five. A fine double play in the fourth inning was started by Denny Lewis, who went far to his left to field a ground ball and flip it to Dave Ward at second, who in turn fired to Hunt for the double play.

On Monday night the Teen Club started the final round of league play meeting the Morenci Merchants.

The two teams had split their first two outings and the Morenci team squeaked by for a 2 to 1 win in the rubber game.

Morenci scored both their runs in the second inning on a single by Dane Nelson, and an error to Mel Pardee.

Mike Kennedy scored Tecumseh's only run in the third after his lead-off single and a couple of infield grounders.

Some of the fathers who were able to walk from the field after the game were Manager Bob Kennedy, Ed Hunt, Ken Pieh, Royce Durkee and Fred Wood. Some younger blood was added to the dads with addition of Coach Russ Hyatt, Max Quinn, Mickey Hunt and Frank Philo. Wally Quinn and Denny Lewis were kind enough to share the catching duties for the old men. The sons finally won a battle with their dads.

The next league battle for the Teen Club is against Blissfield American Legion Thursday, August 8, at 8:00 p.m. at Riverside Park in Adrian.

4-H Pre-Fair Tour Is Enjoyed By All

The Britton-Macon Community 4-H Club had their annual tour and pre-fair meeting July 29.

This year the tour consisted of 15 stops. The members viewed approximately 40 projects. They included: beef feeding, dairy, market lambs, sheep breeding, rabbits, poultry, swine and flower gardening.

Each member told something about his project and answered any questions which the others had concerning it. The leaders and junior leaders made suggestions concerning how the members might improve their project for exhibit at the Lenawee County Fair.

The tour proved to be a successful as well as an educational event which was enjoyed by young and old alike.

The Pre-fair meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Elwood Bush with about 70 adults, members and friends in attendance.

Mr. Fred Long briefed the members of the coming events that would take place at the fair. The members filled out their project exhibit cards with the help of the project leaders and junior leaders.

Home made raised doughnuts and Kool-Aid were served for refreshments.

AAAAAAGH! — One of the most exciting sports in Tecumseh must surely be watching the mothers' rooting section at a Pee Wee baseball game. More dust is aroused from the jumping up and down than both teams combined. And woe to that umpire that calls little Johnny or Billy out!

All-Stars Hope to Shine

Morenci All-Stars and Tecumseh All-Stars battled in a good game at Morenci last Saturday, but the local Little Leaguers came away losing a heartbreaker, 2-1.

Tecumseh was held to one hit, a single by Dave McLoughlin.

Tecumseh's run was scored by McLoughlin, he singled and stole three straight bases to post the tally.

Control problems forced in the winning run for Morenci.

This coming Saturday the Little Leaguers will have a chance to even things up as the All Stars will compete again at Nelson Field No. 1.

The team which played Morenci last week was made up of: Glen Posky and David McLoughlin of Tecumseh Police; Mike Gilpin and Danny Shaffer of Kiwanis; Dale Clark and Danny Bohannon of Lenawee Fuels; Terry Pearson and Chris Eggleston of Rotary; Joe Kauffman and David Allen of Exchange; Louie Gonzalez and Allen Shaffer of Jaycees; Tom Tilton and Ray Gould of Credit Union; Curt Beasley and Kevin Osburn of Union.

Lenawee Fuels 4
Kiwanis 2

The Lenawee Fuels out-scored and outhit the Kiwanis in Little League action this week to win their fourth game of the season, 4-2.

Greg Williams was the winning hurler and Mark Withrow suffered the setback. Rick Vealey and Dan Bohannon each picked up a pair of safeties to lead in the hitting department.

Withrow matched Williams in the strikeout column as each fanned 10 in the well played game.

The Fuels picked up seven hits and Kiwanis gathered three off the offerings of Williams.

Fuels committed two miscues in the game while Kiwanis was a little bit tighter on defense, allowing only one.

Credit Union 4
Jaycees 3

TPE Credit Union squeaked out a victory over the Jaycees 4-3 last week in Nelson Field action.

The winning run was scored in the seventh inning when Tom Tilton lead off with a double, stole third and came home on a single by Gordon Whelan.

Gordon Whelan and Tom Tilton also combined to pitch the Credit Union to the win.

Ken Jacoby, Cal Roll and Allen Shaffer shared toiling on the mound for the losers.

Whelan led both teams in strikeouts with 11.

Cops Cop Tie for First; Credit Union Shares Top

A fine season came to a climax for the Tecumseh Police last week as they defeated the Jaycees 10-0 on Tuesday, and continued their winning ways by topping the Union by a 7-3 count on Thursday.

Both wins were necessary as they enabled the Police to tie for first place in the Major League with the Credit Union in the final standings with impressive 8-3 marks.

The Police, who had been labeled "as the team to beat" at the start of the season, had to win their last six games to gain the tie for the championship.

In the 10-0 victory over the Jaycees, Dave McLoughlin pitched six innings of hitless and scoreless ball for the Police.

While McLoughlin was also helping out his own cause by adding two hits to his fine pitching performance. He received plenty of help from his teammates as they pounded out nine hits with Doug Clement and Jim Martin coming up with two safeties apiece. Frank Bock and Dave Esterline provided the long ball for the victors with back to back doubles.

In the all important final game of the season, Glenn Posky took the mound and pitched a fine game for the Police as he led them to a 7-3 decision over the Union. Dave McLoughlin paced the hitting attack for the winners with 3 singles, while Jeff Bryant added two hits and Posky contributed a double.

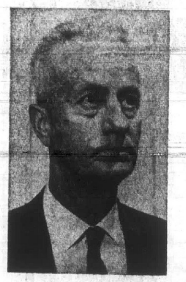
Oliver, Whelan, Halley Win Primary Races

ERNEST OLIVER

FAY WHELAN



MARTIN HALLEY

By BILL SANFORD

The tumult and the shouting are over in the first of the 1968 elections, the August primary is history. For some it was the last hurrah until another election, for others, their last hurrah.

Ernest Oliver defeated Gordon Bauschka for the Democratic nomination for State Representative from the 40th District. The unofficial totals are, Oliver 859, Bauschka 703.

Robert Stites incumbent Republican outpolled three rivals to seek re-election in November against Oliver. Dan Bruggeman, Adrian attorney, posed the strongest threat to Stites. L. Wayne Kiley was third in the vote column and Edgar Peavey trailed.

The totals were Bruggeman 2165; Kiley 1533; Peavey 321; Stites 2492. Stites' winning percentage was 38% of the total vote.

The City of Tecumseh gave overwhelming support to Democratic candidate Oliver, 169 to 35. On the Republican ledger, Stites polled 223 from the City, trailed by Bruggeman with 149, Kiley, 87, and Peavey, 22.

Local campaigns for county supervisors included a primary contest in district 6 of the city where Fay Whelan and Delbert King vied for the Republican nomination. Whelan won the right to face Democrat Frank Lasky, who ran unopposed. The totals were Whelan 205; King 46; Lasky 84.

In District 7 both candidates faced no opposition on the ballot. Democrat Wallace Whiting and Republican T. J. Wagner will square off for the county seat in November from the southern district.

In Clinton, M. M. Halley and Harold Gasner, Republicans, contested for District 1 representation. Halley won the seat over Gasner, 180 to 109. Clinton Township, which is joined with Macon in the new district, was a close race for the two. Halley garnered 20 votes more than Gasner, but out-polled him in Macon by 51 votes to give Halley a comfortable margin.

In Raisin and Tecumseh Townships the campaign was relatively simple for the contestants as both parties were unopposed. Shirley Van Sickle, Democrat, and William Mackey, Republican, polled 55 and 155 votes respectively.

Ridgeway, in District 9, found only one name in the supervisor column, Stacy Zilke, veteran board member from Deerfield. The townships were joined with Ridgeway under the recent apportionment.

Ron Brown, Republican, from Cambridge and Franklin Townships in District 2, also was the lone name on either ballot. Brown presently serves on the Board of Supervisors as do Halley and Zilke.

Council Requesting Landfill Contract

With only a few details to be worked out, Council took a step closer Monday night to obtaining dump or landfill privileges for Tecumseh residents.

City Manager Cal Zorn told officials that Dee Stucker, owner of Lenawee Disposal and a landfill west of Palmyra, or one mile east of Adrian, had submitted rates for residents and commercial and industrial users.

Rates, verbally agreed upon by Council, were $200 a month for residents and $540 a month for commercial and industry, with the city paying the bill. The commercial - industrial charge is based on a three-month trial period.

If these rates are accepted and a contract approved, identification cards will be given to residents.

Details yet to be worked out consist of days and hours which Tecumseh will be allowed. In Stucker's proposal, the landfill would be open 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Mondays, and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. to 12:00 noon.

Several Councilmen did not feel that enough days were allowed, nor the hours long enough on Saturday. Zorn was authorized to work out a contract with the possibility of adjusting days and hours.

The Tecumseh dump must be closed or comply with the law by Oct. 1. Costs necessary to comply with new regulations are prohibitive.

The Palmyra or Lenawee Disposal dump is nine miles south over mostly gravel roads, or about 11 miles via pavement. A couple Councilmen feared the distance would encourage folks to dispose of their refuse along the way.

Need New Law

Police Chief Murell Clark told Councilmen Monday evening that his department was having trouble obtaining warrants from the city attorney for curfew violators, and questioned the effectiveness of Tecumseh's present curfew ordinance.

Attorney Gregg Forsthoefel told officials that he would meet with the police chief Tuesday and review the ordinance. He said the present ordinance could not be used to take young violators into justice court, and it was a "waste of time to take the youngsters to Probate Court."

Chief Clark also agreed that Probate Court was not the answer, since the court was overloaded and had no place to assign the youngsters other than to their parents or guardian.

Forsthoefel said the city needs an ordinance which will make the parents responsible and allow the police to take the parents into justice court.

Some curfew violators have been picked up, according to Clark, and several parents either

Firemen Called

Firemen were called to the George DeCarlo residence at 518 Seminole at 4:30 p.m. last Friday to extinguish a fire which had started in the garage wall.

Damage was estimated at $100 to the building and $300 to the contents. The fire was of an unknown origin.

NEW FARADAY OWNERS — Fred Kluin and Frank Flack took over the management of Faraday Monday after purchasing the signalling and communications plant from Gray Manufacturing. Both are confident of increasing the company's volume and business activity. Mr. Kluin is president and chief operating officer, and Mr. Flack, board chairman and chief executive officer.

New Management

Faraday Division of Gray Manufacturing was sold to Frank W. Flack and Fred J. Kluin Monday with the two men taking over management immediately.

The company was sold to Frank Flack Industries, Inc., but it will operate under the name of Faraday, Inc., with corporate offices in Tecumseh.

No changes in personnel and operations are planned; however, a substantial increase in volume and business activity for Faraday is anticipated.

Besides increasing Faraday's work in the signaling and communications field, the company will continue, via contract, to manufacture and warehouse Gray's line of dictating equipment.

Under the new management, Mr. Flack will be chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

Mr. Kluin will be president and chief operating officer.

It will be the first time for Faraday to have home management. In the past, many management policies and decisions were made for the company by outside or absentee officers.

In analyzing the company, Mr. Flack said, "We hope to build and add to the fine organization which is already here."

MR. FLACK, 40, comes to Faraday after 15 years with Servicemaster Industries, Inc., at Downers Grove, Ill. He was a vice president, director and one of the pioneering founders of the firm. He will continue on Servicemaster's Board of Directors.

A native of Toronto, Canada, he has spent the past 15 years in Chicago. In 1965, he received an M.B.A. degree in business from the University of Chicago, and this year attained a degree in accounting and financing from Wharton Graduate School of Business, University of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Flack is married, has four children and plans to move to Ann Arbor from Merion Station, Pa., this month.

MR. KLUIN, 39, is formerly a vice president for the Edwards Company of Norwalk, Conn. Edwards is one of the largest suppliers of signalling and communication equipment in the United States.

At one time, he was also president and chief operating officer of Boom Sound Engineering, Chicago, a subsidiary, and like Edwards, a leading signaling and communication contractor.

Mr. Kluin's wife and three children are currently living in Ridgefield, Conn., and will also be moving to Ann Arbor this month.

Tecumseh's newest businessmen became acquainted through business connections in Chicago and are veterans in the field of communications and signaling equipment.

Last March, Mr. Flack first caught notice of Faraday while working as a consultant with an investment banking firm in Philadelphia. Negotiations for the company followed.

Both are confident about increasing production and utilizing the talent which Faraday now possesses in present personnel.

Lutherans Install Rev. Kenneth Strack

Last Sunday afternoon, the Rev. Kenneth W. Strack was installed as the Pastor of Grace English Ev. Lutheran Church by the Rev. John A. Westendorf. More than 325 people attended the Installation and remained for the reception which followed.

Both Rev. and Mrs. Strack come from Wisconsin, he from Germantown and she from Milwaukee. Pastor Strack attended Northwestern Prep and Northwestern College, Watertown, Wis., graduating from there in 1954. For three years he contonued his schooling at the Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary, Mequon, Wis. His vicarage year was spent in Manitowoc, Wis. In 1958 he was installed as Pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Naper, Nebr. During his five years there, a new church was constructed.

In November, 1963, Pastor Strack and his family moved to Merritt Island, Fla., adjacent to Cape Kennedy. While there property was acquired and a new church and parsonage were built. While there he also served as the Visiting Elder of the Florida Conference and co-director of the youth summer camp.

Pastor Strack and his wife, Charlotte, are the parents of one daughter and three sons. The family is especially interested in water sports, having spent five years in Florida. While in college Pastor Strack played on the football, golf and tennis teams. His wife is interested in art and gardening and served as vice-president of the Merritt Island Garden Club just prior to their departure.

THE REV. AND MRS. KENNETH STRACK AND FAMILY, SUSAN, SCOTT, BOBBY AND PAUL.

Many Report Biggest, Best

Biggest ever?

Best ever?

Many merchants think so when asked about Friday's Sidewalk Sale. It was Tecumseh's 11th straight summer promotion, and it could well have been the most successful.

Most significant was the size of large crowds throughout the day. Many ladies were downtown well before the shops were scheduled to open, and all four city parking lots were soon jammed.

Tecumseh's Sidewalk Sale has continually grown in recent years and has gained quite a following from local and area folks, many of whom await the big bargain day for family shopping.

Hundreds and hundreds of free balloons were passed out by the local Chamber of Commerce. Shawnee Squares, western-style square dancing group, performed in the evening.

No Parking Is Ordered By Council

Council, in a 5-2 vote Monday night, agreed to prohibit parking along the west side of N. Union St., from the Evans Creek bridge to Brown St.

It will go into effect on Sept. 1.

The no parking area borders Brookside Cemetery and is directly across the street from St. Elizabeth Catholic Church. On Sundays and many evenings, worshippers park cars on both sides of the street. Area has been considered by many as quite congested and dangerous to pedestrians going to and from church.

The church has constructed and completed a large, paved parking lot to the east and north of the building, with entry off Brown St.

City To Paint N. Evans Bridge

Council approved painting the Evans Creek bridge on N. Evans St., Monday night with city employees wielding the brushes and sprayers.

City Manager Cal Zorn says the bridge is in need of paint, and last year a bid of $3,200 was received for the job. It was considered high.

Thompson, Coak Are Appointed

John T. Thompson and Dr. Richard Coak were re-appointed to the Board of Appeals Monday night by Council.

Each appointment is for three years, and both are original members of the Board.

Rufus T. Gillam Resigns Post as Principal

Rufus T. Gillam, veteran school principal at Patterson Elementary, submitted his resignation Monday to the Board of Education.

The Board will act on the resignation at its Aug. 19 meeting.

Mr. Gillam has been a principal here for the past 12 years and has informed officials that he will be moving to Ann Arbor.

Bonsai, an Ancient But New Art Form

The ancient art form of bonsai is displayed in one of the greenhouses at Hidden Lake Gardens. The artful little trees that give the illusion of a forest and yet are no more than a few inches high, belong to Jack Wikle, recently hired by the botanical gardens to coordinate and develop a program of education in the art of landscaping and the care and pruning of ornamental plants.

Mr. Wikle has been at the Gardens since June 1, coming to the vicinity from Kent, O. When questioned for a definition of bonsai (pronounced bone-sigh), he defined it as an art form of wooded plants in small containers designed in such a way as to represent a miniature landscape dominated by aged trees.

He went into the aesthetic as well as plant culture involved in bonsai. The trees are found anywhere, as any type of tree can be made into a bonsai plant.

Sprigs are found in pastures, purchased from greenhouses or in any other way you can find a tree which would resemble as it grew, something of an ancient look.

The young trees are rooted in small pots or cans and as they grow the new growth is pruned back to keep the shape and appearance of the tree. Once every two or three years it is necessary to take the trees out of their containers and trim the roots back on all sides, leaving the soil around the roots intact.

Mr. Wikle became interested in bonsai when he was serving in the armed forces in Japan. Like most people, he explained, the first sight of bonsai is that it must have been handed down with years of tradition.

Feeling as though he were not heir to a family that could hand down the secrets of the art form, he temporarily forgot about an attempt to grow his own miniature trees.

When he arrived back in the states, he found people here were doing it and thus his interest grew. At present he has been growing the trees for about five years. He maintains his present specimens in the greenhouses at the gardens.

He is married and the father of a boy 6, and a girl 8. He was formerly associated with Davey Tree Experts on the Technical Service Staff. He is a graduate with a master's degree from Michigan State University.

The family at present is making plans for moving to Tecumseh.

He is interested in starting classes at the botanical gardens pertaining to the growing of bonsai. He expressed a desire to hear from people who would be interested in this art form or in any other area of landscaping or the caring of plants and flowers.

He considers his artistic field a challenge to learn about basic horticulture and plants in general when they are confined to smaller areas.

Mr. Wikle held aloft one of his small forests and remarked, "You can almost hear the birds singing up there." Which is true, the small artistic little gardens give a sense of seeing something which we do not notice when everything else involves us. Like for instance, the sight and sound of something small and yet growing, ancient and yet young.

The bonsai is a true art form, giving nature a lift. What people do, when they involve themselves in bonsai, is wish to see closer the miracle we pass daily and yet do not see. It is like holding the world in your hands for a close look. Thomas Wolfe once wrote something that could be said of viewing the trees, "A silver dollar, if held close to the eye, can blot out the sun." With bonsai you not only see the sun but the miracle it produces.

AN ANCIENT ART — Jack Wikle holds an example of his ancient art form, bonsai. The tree he's holding is Corpinus caroliniana, or to non-botanists, American Hornbeam. The trees are grown in small containers and have been known to live for a hundred years with periodic pruning and constant watering.

Ann Curran Returns From 'Old' Mexico

Ann Curran, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Curran, 9531 Newburg Rd., has returned from five weeks in Saltillo, Mexico.

The Tecumseh High School junior attended school at the Instituto De Estudios Iberamericano, where she studied Spanish [illegible]

The 170 students in the school came from eight countries and 32 different states.

Ann lived at the home of Senor and Senora Antonio Garza and their daughter, who is 21. Three other girls from the United States stayed at the same home.

The household included two servants, one was an eleven-year-old girl.

"The food was really marvelous," Ann said, "because they toned down the spices for us."

High in the mountains, the climate in Saltillo was most pleasant since the humidity was low.

The visitors took weekend trips to Monterey, where they saw Horsetail Falls and Garcia Cave, and to Guanajuanto, where they saw the areas of historical interest of the Mexican revolution.

The Mexican people were "most welcoming to us," Ann said.

Ann spent two hours each day with a tutor and she's pretty adept at speaking Spanish now. She's already talking about going back next year.

Unless "somebody steals the wedding bell so nobody can get married" by the time Herald Readers see this issue, Pa and I will be the proud parents of a lovely new pink and white daughter-in-law, Mrs. Marvin C. Grigg, and the Ben Merrys of Vassar will have included our handsome (listen to Mom) 6'3" 21-year-old-baby in their wonderful family.

Anyone inclined to "take off" with the ding dong should keep in mind that nothing, no nothing, pleases people as much as the knowledge that their children are supremely happy. Now, to remember — "keep your cotton pickin' fingers off those kids!"

Thomas Gregory Sears, 6507 Smith Road recently spent three days on the Western Michigan University campus for testing, orientation and registration.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Maves have returned from a trip for three weeks to Nova Scotia and on Prince Edward Island, "a beautiful place", she says. They returned home Tuesday, just in time to entertain son, Kenneth Maves, and his family, from Neenah, Wis., for the remainder of the week.

Kenneth Randolph, 701 S. Adrian St., was admitted to Veterans' Hospital, Ann Arbor, July 29, and underwent heart surgery yesterday.

Kaye and Bill Steele are on their own "See America First" effort. They are seeing the Wisconsin Dells and World Circus Museum in Wisconsin, the Badlands and Black Hills of South Dakota, and are taking in the wonders of Yellowstone National Park. "It's wonderful country!" she writes.

Due to declining health, Mrs. Lenore West, who formerly was assisting at the C. C. Richards home, has gone to stay at the home of her sister, Mrs. Miriam Sawyer in Hillsdale.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Whiting and son, Bill, are spending a week dabbling in the Lake Huron surf at Harrisville.

Thursday, Aug. 8 is clean-up and set-up day at the Lenawee Fairgrounds starting at 9 a.m. All 4-H youth are needed to help in this activity.

The Tecumseh Products Union retirees will meet Wednesday, Aug. 14 from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Union Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Insley and children and Linda Williams of Rock Falls, Ill., friends of Mr. and Mrs. William Hippert, are spending two weeks at Evans Lake.

Bright colored balloons, a mother's love, a clown and a smile are the joys of a child. This little girl is waiting patiently in the arms of her mother for the Chamber of Commerce clown to give her one of the bright-colored balloons that filled the streets of Tecumseh during Sidewalk Sale last Friday.

Musings

The Unforgettable Woman

"I only met her passing by, and yet I love her till I die." The poet who penned those lines knew the unforgettable woman. In recent months a female writer for The Herald, Christine Fairbanks, wrote a column on how men are not appreciative of women and their ways. The following is a bachelor's reply.

What really makes a woman unforgettable? Like explaining love itself, no one has ever been able to perfectly draw a conclusive answer to fit the universal question of all males.

The unforgettable woman is one who is not forever seeking to be understood. She draws a veil of mystery around her and only in brief instances does she draw it back to allow but fleeting glimpses of that which lies behind it.

The unforgettable woman is one who knows aloneness and privacy and can give to it others.

The unforgettable woman loves with all she is, unasked, gives without seeking something of the future or a scheme in what she does.

The unforgettable woman leaps into life with all she is, participates in it with fervor and determination.

The unforgettable woman is forgiving, for she knows a man who hurts, strikes pain to those he loves.

The unforgettable woman is knowledgeable of man and therefore she knows he lives daily with failure and the inevitable fate of death. She knows his weaknesses and protects them. Even when he's wrong, perhaps more so then, for in those moments when a weakness threatens what he is, that is when he needs her.

The unforgettable woman is the woman who is needed. Not to say she must be needed by all people, nor unforgettable to the vast majority of men. Only to one, that one to whom she is life. When he can't say what he needs to say, or what he should say, there is something in her that makes him say it.

The unforgettable woman is the woman in a man's life who is there when she is needed, when her man is humiliated, tormented, defeated. She knows how to talk to him, she tells him things about himself he has forgotten, he then can do things he never dreamed possible.

The unforgettable woman can walk into a room and see written in the lines of the man's face, whom she loves, that the world is crumbling down around his shoulders. With a simple "I love you" the giant earth is pushed back upon its pillars. He will sleep that night and awaken the next morning to challenge the world again. He will know that the hopes and dreams that had been dashed against the rocks of a seemingly senile existence are more than that, because he is loved by the unforgettable woman.

The unforgettable woman by simply loving and understanding him can make him strive for the most imponderable goals.

She is the woman in a man's life who makes him say the things he could not say to anyone else, can make him do things he never dreamed of doing, can bring to him, excitement in life that he never knew before, just because of who she is.

The unforgettable woman is a friend, she is striking because she seeks out the best in people and gives them friendship when that is needed, heals his wounds when the gallant knight has slain his last dragon. Then understands when the knight has hung up his lyre in some wayside inn and will no longer slay the vicious dragon nor awaken the sleeping princesses. She will forever be his, because of who she is. In spite of age or health or state of mind or station in life, she is his eternal Princess.

The unforgettable woman in essence is the woman who is needed, not by thousands but by one. It is she who can make a man see things in himself he never saw before, make him feel vibrant and alive and vital.

She is beauty, not because of hair, nor eyes, nor face, nor figure, she is beauty because of what you do not see. Most of the beauty in the world is unseen by many people and so is the beauty of the unforgettable woman.

I can grow old now without pathos for yearning for gone times, but with gladness for I have known the springtime and the unforgettable woman. And because I have known her, I never need to worry of growing old, for she has made life a youthful adventure.

Jim Springer Joins Gambles Partnership

A new partnership was formed here Monday when James Springer joined Don Martin and Son, D. J., as owners of the Tecumseh Gamble store.

He is a son-in-law and husband of the former Janet Martin.

The new partner, a native of Illinois, lived the past seven years in Denver, Colo., where he was a real estate agent and his wife, a school teacher. They will live in Coachlite Village, new subdivision just off Occidental Rd.

Gambles is currently adding about 12,000 square feet to its store, with the addition occupying property which was formerly the site of the Strand Theatre. Total square footage will be approximately 19,000 square feet.

Mr. Martin anticipates the construction to be completed in October with the addition's opening later in the month or early November.

He took over the Gamble operation here in 1947 in the building now used by Mary Sanchez Beauty Salon. In 1950, an addition to the rear of the building was added.

Three years later, Gambles expanded into the building now used by Bancroft Cleaners. In 1959 Mr. Martin moved Gambles to its present site, formerly the C. O. Butler Ford agency.

In 1961, upon completion of his military service, D. J. joined his father and became a partner.

Returns to Norway After 43 Years

Mrs. John Williams was accompanied by two eleven-year-olds, daughter, Debbie, and Julie Cook, on a whirlwind 21 days in Europe, returning home last Wednesday.

This was a first trip back for Mrs. Williams since 1925. She was born in Montana, but spent four years in Norway as a youngster, until her parents died there in a typhoid epidemic. Mrs. Williams visited several relatives in Stavanger, Norway, but missed a few because all workers in Norway have a whole month of July for a paid holiday.

A tour was taken to Hans Christian Andersen's home in Denmark, they cruised at Amsterdam, Holland, and visited the famous Gouda cheese factory there. They "climbed up" to the cottage of a relative on the Fjords in Norway, where the weather was a "gorgeous 70-72 degrees" which is unusually pleasant for that country.

There was even time for a Shakespearean tour at Stratford, England before they came winging homeward.

....And the Search Goes On and On

Council learned Monday night that its search for water is continuing and an option for 15 acres has been taken out, just north of the airport on the old Leo Robinson farm, now owned by William Powell, real estate businessman.

City Manager Cal Zorn told officials that two sites have been investigated, the other site just north of the area which is now being developed by the Friends Church, across the road from the Powell property.

Zorn told Council that he hoped that test wells would be made in the very near future. He indicated that unless a sufficient volume of water was found on the Powell land, the city may investigate the other site, reportedly now going through foreclosure. Powell's property is valued at $30,000.

During Monday night's discussion, the city manager reported that the water rights and property now owned by Hayden Fuel and Perry Satterthwaite might be available.

This property includes Globe Mill Pond — or what's left of it since the Globe Pond dam was swept away last month during a flood — and other land around the Community Center.

He said that Mr. Satterthwaite had inquired as to what the rights and property might be worth but did not offer a price. Mr. Zorn also told officials that the Hayden Fuel president had also discussed replacing the dam with John Sealey, consulting engineer for the city from Ann Arbor.

CLARA WALDRON'S GIFT DISPLAY CASE IS VIEWED BY LIBRARIAN MRS. MURRAY DAY.

Documents Are Given to Library

Tecumseh historian, Clara Waldron, recently presented a glass display case to the Tecumseh Public Library for the exhibition of precious historical documents.

Handicrafted of native birch by Bob-Craft of Clinton, the case has been placed in the front of the library for easy perusal by visitors.

The first articles to be placed therein are: an original first copy, first edition of the Tecumseh Democrat, the first newspaper in Tecumseh; the handwritten muster of Tecumseh volunteers in the Black Hawk War of 1832; road survey, handsigned by Musgrove Evans, Tecumseh's first settler; register of land transfers of 1824 in Tecumseh; and records of early town meetings which were held in homes prior to building of the county court house in 1832.

Thus the city has the nucleus of an historical museum.

Croswell Closes Season

The Croswell Summer Theatre closes out its season this weekend at the old opera house in Adrian. The summer theatre, in its inaugural season, has played to good audiences, giving reasons for the group which purchased the old theatre to rejoice.

While the season was not without its trials and tribulations, bright spots have arisen which will benefit the coming seasons at the theatre.

This weekend, "Once More With Feeling" returns to play on Thursday and Friday while "Oliver" takes to the boards on Saturday and Sunday to ring down the curtain on the six-week run.

Reduced prices for students are a feature of this weekend at the Croswell, students when accompanied by an adult, are admitted at half price to let the show end with a good finale.

Many of the young people who were involved with the theatre will be moving on next week to other pursuits. Lynn and Guy Miller will be going to Furman University where Guy will teach in the drama department.

Marriane and Jeff Wagner will be going back to Athens, O., where Jeff will finish work on his masters degree. Deborah Schrock and Allan Rust will return to Adrian College. Mike Metzel, who attended Otterbien College in Ohio, is like the "Graduate," a little worried about his future.

Joe Balsanek and Betsy Blackburn will be staying in Adrian to teach at the Junior High School. Skip Skwarek is going to travel to New York and whatever adventure awaits him there. Chris Fergason will be returning to Western Michigan University and some day to a friend in the Army.

Others who have worked at the Croswell will pack up their make-up and travel to home or wherever it is that they wish to go, taking with them fond memories of a summer at the Croswell.

All performances at the theatre begin at 8:30. The final four productions should be "better than ever," a sign that hung over the Croswell marquee once before.

Council Discusses Rescue Vehicle

Cal Zorn, city manager, reported to Council Monday evening that the Municipal League has no record or basis to judge what a community should provide or have in a rescue or emergency vehicle.

At the July 22 mission, Council asked Zorn to investigate and report back any information relating to a rescue vehicle.

Councilman George McCombs said that he has checked numerous communities — Ypsilanti, Saline, Dexter, Chelsea — and none has a rescue wagon comparable to a $22,000 vehicle being requested by the Tecumseh Fire Department.

He related that Ypsilanti officials asked him, "whom are you trying to impress?"

Mr. McCombs, in comparison to what other communities possess, said a three-quarter-ton truck would suffice here and such a vehicle wouldn't cost much more than $2,500 or $3,000.

City officials are hoping to meet with representatives of the fire department and reach an agreement for a new vehicle.

Fire Contract Is Approved

City Council appoved a fire pact with the Tecumseh Fisher Body Plant Monday night, although two officials voted against the motion.

The contract for fire protection calls for $1,000 per year, $500 per call and extra monies in case of excessive man hours. It is the same agreement offered by GM previously, and one which differed greatly from the city's proposal.

Council last spring suggested $4,000 per year. GM rejected it and then reported what it considered fair.

Councilmen Gene Tucky and Ray Puffer voted against Monday night's move, remarking that they felt Tecumseh should receive more money and that the company should pay the same millage rate as residents.

Leaders Offered Sewing Courses

Women who know something about home sewing and would like to volunteer as a 4-H Club leader can add to their skills through a program designed especially for 4-H clothing and home improvement leaders.

A certificate of merit is presented each woman completing the course. More information can be obtained from the County Extension office at the Court House in Adrian.

Jarts Anyone?

A bountiful picnic was enjoyed by 35 members and guests of the Wit and Wisdom Club at the cottage of Mrs. Herbert Munger at Sand Lake.

The evening was spent socially, and Mrs. Munger took some of her guests for a ride on the float.

The men played horseshoes and a new dart game called Jarts.

The next regular meeting will be in October. Officers are meeting Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Truman Rentsehler to plan the program for the coming year.

Missionaries Society Topic

BRITTON — The needs of missionaries was the devotional topic by Mrs. Milburn Preston at the regular meeting of the Ladies' Missionary Society of the Bethel Baptist Church.

The group met Thursday evening at the church with 16 women in attendance.

A love offering of $26.61 was received.

For the work project, 32 rolls of bandages were made to be sent to various lepersariums.

Mrs. Iva Caswell and Mrs. Jack Hintz served cookies and coffee.

Election of officers will be held at the Sept. 5 meeting.

Stauffer II 12

Slo-pitch baseball action saw Tecumseh Jaycees down Stauffer II by the score of 22-12 last week.

Clair Maynard swung a lusty bat for the winners, collecting five hits in five trips. Ken Beevers added four hits to the hit column. John Rion rapped out four hits in the losing cause.

QUESTION:
"We have heard that helpless widows are persuaded to spend more than they can afford, is that true?"

ANSWER:
The great majority of funeral directors are exceedingly careful in advising widows to not let their grief create overspending. The average widow is over-protected in her business dealings with us.

HAPPENS AGAIN AND AGAIN — Hugh Walter was not the first to tear out the rear end of his car on this railroad, located just behind Wright's Pharmacy in downtown Tecumseh. Motorists with trailer hitches simply can not pull straight out into S. Evans St. without the hitch catching the top of the rail. Drivers, who start turning their cars before they're all the way out into the street, escape the rail and extensive damages to their automobiles. Whose fault is it — the railroad or the city? Mr. Walter said he was going to sue — so maybe the courts will tell us who is at fault.

PATTERSON

For the past two weeks children at Patterson have enjoyed playing games, having races and making articles from plastic lacing.

WEST BRANCH

In addition to making crafts and playing board games West Branchers have become enthused over softball and kickball.

ZOO TRIP

On Friday, July 26 eighty children from playgrounds and softball took a field trip to the Toledo Zoo. They were accompanied by playground leaders Virginia Dollison, JoAnn Biscupski, Marta Puffer, Debbie Goldsberry, Brenda Watson and Melissa Sage. Jim Hunt and Jack Edwards also chaperoned the group.

GIRLS' PEE WEES

Girls' Pee Wee Softball ended last Thursday as the season's thirty-five participants enjoyed a watermelon picnic at Patterson Park. Ribbons were awarded to the first place Indians and the second place Squaws.

GIRLS JUNIORS

Another season has come to a close for Tecumseh's Junior Girls' Softball League. The final results are:

Jackie's Jokers: First
Linda's Lions: Second
Brenda's Broncos: Third
Debbie's Sluggers: Fourth

Forty girls attended the picnic at Patterson Park on Thursday afternoon.

Last Thursday evening the Junior Girls' All Star team traveled to Manchester where they bowed to a team comprised of older girls. The game went into extra innings before the Indians lost by a score of 13-12.

Cheryl Williams, Peg Aebersold and Julie Murphy shared the pitching chores, while Brenda Cangley was behind the plate.

Elaine Aebersold was Tecumseh's leading hitter with a single, a double and a home run. Sue Brown contributed three singles to the cause and Sylvia Lpng added two one-baggers.

BOYS' PEE WEES

The last week of Pee Wee ball found Hunt's Honchos holding onto the first place position, followed closely by Lewis' Lunkheads.

George Lynch led Lewis' Lunkheads to victory in their clash with Puffer's Puffballs on Monday, 7-2. Although some good baseball was played by Dave Bilkie and his teammates, Bret DesErmia and the other Honchos bested Pieh's Pumpkins 16-12 in a real slugfest.

On Wednesday Puffer's Puffballs came on strong as they rapped a 1-6 loss to Hunt's Honchos. Corley led his team to their second win of the season.

The Lunkheads barely slipped by the Pumpkins 8-4 in Wednesday's other game.

In the big event of the year for Pee Wee's Hunt's Honchos teamed up with Puffer's Puffballs against Lewis' Lunkheads and Pieh's Pumpkins for the All Star game. Six players were chosen from each team. Both sides played well but the outcome of the six inning game showed the Honchos and the Puffballs on top by a score of 18-7.

The final standings for the season were:

	W	L	T
Hunt's Honchos	12	3	0
Lewis' Lunkheads	10	5	0
Pieh's Pumpkins	8	6	1
Puffer's Puffballs	2	12	1

Physicals

Tom Fagan, Tecumseh High School football coach, announces that physicals for all prospective football players will be given Friday at 10:30 a.m. in the boys' locker room at the high school.

Britton Defeated In Double Header

After losing their last two games, the Tecumseh Senior Girls softball team came back to win a double header against Britton last Monday night.

In the first game pitcher Jackie Rodgers led her team to a 11 to 3 victory, scoring three times with a single and two doubles.

The Indians really boomed in the second game which they won with ease with a score of 26 to 4.

The play of the season was executed by the Tecumseh gals. With bases loaded, Judy Prochaska of Britton hit a bouncing ball to pitcher Jackie Rodgers who tosed it home to Wendy Ehlert who in turn fired it down to Linda Solarski at third. Miss Solarski then hurled it over to first but was a little late as Miss Prochaska, stretched flat on the ground, touched base with the tip of her hand. This was the second double play the gals have executed this year.

The Tecumseh girls face Blissfield Monday for their last league game. Later this month they will play in a Slo-Pitch tournament at Milan.

$17,000 Damage In Truck Crash

Two semi-tractor trailers collided at the intersection of State Rt. 109 (South M-52) and US-20, north of Delta, O., Saturday afternoon. The trucks were carrying auto air conditioner components from Tecumseh Products Co. for the Philco-Ford Corp. They were bound from Tecumseh to Connersville, Ind.

Both drivers of the semi-trucks were from Connersville.

Damage to the trucks was estimated at $17,000. The tractor of one rig and trailer of the other were completely demolished. No estimate was placed on the damage to the contents of the trucks, nearly 30 tons.

Drivers told Fulton County authorities that the parts had to be in Connersville by Monday or a layoff of many employees would have to be made.

REMINDERS OF CHILDHOOD — The sounds of these bells called many a hungry farmer in from the field and children in from a rugged afternoon of summer play. Mr. and Mrs. Zell McCarty stand beside the 20 bells which they will have on display at the county fair next week. Mr. McCarty would like to make a carillon of his bells but finds the task too strenuous to tackle alone.

Local Man Killed in Crash

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning in St. Elizabeth Catholic Church for Aureliano Mendoza, 22, 704 S. Pearl St., who was killed in an auto accident early Sunday morning, just south of Palmyra.

According to police reports, he was killed when his car missed a turn at the intersection of Robb and Sharp Rds., about one mile south of the village.

His car crossed a ditch, flipped and landed on top of him. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Bixby Hospital, Adrian.

Just prior to the fatal mishap, he is believed to have been a hit-run driver which damaged a car owned by Raymond Dennis, Jr., 7314 S. Adrian Rd.

Mr. Mendoza was born May 17, 1946, at Mesa, Ariz. He was employed at Peerless Gear Company, Clinton.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jose Mendoza; sister, Mrs. Miguel Guitar, and a brother, Trinidad, all of Tecumseh.

The Rosary was recited Tuesday evening at the Proctor Funeral Home. Burial Wednesday was in Brookside Cemetery.

DAR to Meet

The Abi Evans Chapter DAR will meet Friday at 2 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Paul Keyser.

READ THE HERALD IT PAYS

Childhood Memory Leads to Hobby

By DOROTHY GRIGG

A collection of 20 large farm dinner bells represent a number of years of pleasure for Zell McCarty and his wife who live at 315 N. Maiden Lane.

The couple have toured the United States, 10 times to Texas, and numerous other states, always looking for interesting items, bells especially.

When Mr. McCarty was small, he lived on a farm in the Deerfield area where his mother rang a big bell both at noon and supper time for the men to come in from the fields to their meals.

His brother got the farm and subsequently the bell and one day, Zell decided that he wanted a bell like the one of his childhood.

"It took some time to get the first one but then they came a little quicker," he said.

Now all 20 are mounted on an 11-foot platform built on rubber castors.

Two came from Missouri, two from Illinois, two from Ohio and one from Kansas where another daughter makes her home.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarty have also traveled to Florida and the New England states in their quest for bells.

As she dipped her brush into the white paint she was using on her porch railing, Mrs. M. said, "Well, it makes a good excuse to go some place."

When they hear that John Jones' brother-in-law knows someone that might still have a bell, this starts the adventure.

Surely there is a place to eat in the same area and "you have to eat and you have to take a ride once in a while." In no time, the McCartys are on their way to find another bell.

When Mr. McCarty retired from the Tecumseh Products Co. several years ago, he remodeled a building in the back yard into a workshop.

"I have more fun," was his remark about the many interesting items out there in various states of completion. One old 10-gallon milk can on a pipe peaked the interest of the interviewer but she was told that what that was to be is a military secret.

Like the bowling ball hanging from the ceiling that McCarty plans to convert into a holder for small tools, screwdrivers, bits, etc., the milk can is destined to be something useful or lovely to look at.

Yard lamps are one of his specialties from milk cans.

The bell man has displayed his chimers at the Lenawee County Fair in the hobby shop and expects to do so again this year.

The bells are not for sale "but they bother you to death trying to buy them," McCarty said.

He has restored each bell to perfect condition. There isn't a cracked, spliced or welded one in the bunch.

The one he seems to prize most came from Pennsylvania, used perhaps, to call people to the town meeting and the clapper came from Monroe.

If plans are completed, Mr. McCarty will move all 20 of them to the fairgrounds soon.

He has an ambition to make a carillon of his bells but he needs some help and thus far has not found anyone who is interested.

Maybe this year's fair crowd will produce just the person Tecumseh's bell collector needs.

Studies at New Center Guided by Industry

The first meeting of the Industrial Drafting Occupational Advisory Committee was held July 31 for the purpose of reviewing the proposed Industrial Drafting curriculum and equipment specifications for this Lenawee County Area Vocational Program.

This program, as all programs in the Area Vocational Center, will be guided by an occupational advisory committee made up of people involved in these particular areas in business, industry and agriculture. One of the main purposes of vocational programs in the Lenawee County Area Vocational-Technical Center is to simulate industrial, business or agricultural equipment and methods. By doing this the students will be trained on the type of equipment and in the methods used by their future employers.

Present at the July meeting was Ira Montague and Orin Murphy from the Tecumseh Products Company, Willard Whitcher from A.B.E. Supply, Glen McCaughey, Bohn Aluminum and Brass Company, Maurice Teachout representing Kewaunee Scientific Equipment Company and Harold Wild from American Chain and Cable Company, and Allen Day from M&S Corporation.

LIFE HEALTH

The Next Move

Untold thousands of people throughout the world live a life of misery because "nothing can be done" to relieve the unhealthy conditions which have beset their bodies.

Symptoms prevail, in spite of repeated treatments of one kind or another.

Those sufferers know that good health results when all parts of the body are functioning normally; but they can find nothing which restores that normal function.

A simple, wise move could bring an end to a vast majority of the suffering the people of the world endure. In many cases, it's simply a matter of enlightenment. They just do not know of the science of chiropractic and the principle of adjusting the body's nervous system so the body can yield to nature's healing from within.

In many, many cases, a scientific chiropractic examination followed by gentle, competent chiropractic adjustments can relieve nerve pressures which interfere with nature's proper function. By correcting the cause of the disorder, chiropractic makes it possible for nature to heal the affected parts by restoring normal nerve power.

Radiant health can result from one simple, wise move to chiropractic care. Another Health and Life Article from the Office of:

VERYL SCHILL STANDS ON THE BANKED TRACK AT MANCHESTER SPEEDWAY.

Speedway is Excitement

The thrill of auto racing is an excitement all its own. The roar of engines and the tense excitement of a car slipping on a turn and the skill of a driver to keep it on the track are just a few of the many thrills of being a spectator at an auto race.

Manchester Speedway has been in operation for seven years. It was started by Veryl Schill and three other men. Eventually Mr. Schill bought out the other men.

The speedway started first as a hobby, a place where youths could go on Sunday afternoon and test their cars, feel the excitement of speed and yet not be on the highway to do it.

One thing led to another at the Speedway. Gradually Mr. Schill began to enlarge the facilities at Manchester, adding more bleachers, improving the track and increasing parking spaces.

Drivers come to the Manchester Speedway from all over to participate in and share in the winning purses.

Friday night is race night and Sunday is the rain date, in case Mother Nature infringes on the racing world.

The night begins at 7 p.m. with the time trials. Racing begins at 8:30 p.m. with drivers and their cars arriving about six, getting to the track early allows the drivers to check their cars and get ready for the trials.

In the beginning only about 20 racers showed for the races. That number kept increasing as Manchester Speedway became known. Now often they have up to 80 cars registered for the races.

Two types of racers compete at Manchester, Sportsman Modified and Super Stocks. Modified cars are coupes that have been completely re-made. Super Stocks are cars off the road with only the engine fixed to race.

One of the popular features of the Speedway are demolition derbies, which are held occasionally. Drivers purposely wreck their autos, usually junk cars. Have you ever had car trouble and looked for a place to condemn tin lizzie to the junk yard? This might be the place.

Drivers' ages vary from 21 years to 50 years, those under 21 can compete with their parents' permission. Mr. Schill feels fortunate that most of the kids that participate are really nice kids, although occasionally a bad one shows up.

The racing season begins around May 1. The Championrace is held in the middle of September and is the biggest and last race of the season at the Speedway.

All drivers are eligible for the three big trophies which are presented. The trophies are valued at from $75 to $100, the Class A being the one of the biggest worth.

Drivers compete on a points system during the season. Points are kept for each race and the top point men will also receive a trophy.

Another trophy to be mentioned is the Sportsman Trophy voted by the drivers themselves.

Safety rules at the Speedway are rigid. All cars have safety belts and drivers must use them. Also used are shoulder harnesses and crash helmets. Brakes are thoroughly checked before a driver is allowed to race.

Insurance rates, through Lloyds of London, are quite high. No one is allowed in the pit during the races except the drivers and the mechanics of the cars.

For an evening of excitement, Manchester Speedway will assure you of that. Auto Racing has become a big sport in America and Mr. Schill recognizing this, has given to the area auto racing in Manchester.

TOUCH OF THE ALPS — The deck of the Alpine Ski Lodge at Irish Hills Sports Park offers a fine view of surrounding hills and valleys. From the deck an entire view of the golf course in summer and the ski trails in winter can be seen and enjoyed. If you have exerted on the course or trails, the lodge offers an excellent place to rest and relax before charging the course like Arnold Palmer or putting the skis back on or going home.

Fun in Summer, Fun in Winter With View and Charm of Hills

You can set out on the deck and view a small lake nested in a valley surrounded by green hills in summer, snow-covered in winter. The view is typical of the beauty of the Irish Hills. If you're more active than a view-watcher, grab your golf clubs and go tackle one of the most difficult nine-hole golf courses around.

Irish Hills Sports Park, located just behind the towers is a Swiss Chalet perched atop a hill with the surrounding hills in sight. The setting is perfect and you would have to travel quite a distance in order to find something comparable.

The golf course, located on rolling hills, can even be tough for a polished golfer. Many of the holes call for concentration and just the right shot. If you drive beyond the holes often you find yourself in ticklish golf circumstances.

Owner Gene Sell has found a way for the workers to go to the course and belt the old white pill around for nine after work. The course under lights, one of the few in the country, is an experience in itself.

On a warm summer night, with breezes blowing, it's a pleasure to play the course.

Golf is not the only advantage of Irish Hills Sports Park. Camping and trailer parking space is available with electricity and rest rooms with showers. One can park there or camp out summer or winter.

In the wintertime, with snow-covered hills surrounding the chalet, skiers by the dozens can be seen speckled on the hills around. The lights are turned on at night, the snow sparkling, the brisk air adds just another part of the romance of the Irish Hills of Lenawee County.

Whether you are young or old or adventurous or just like to sit and view beautiful countryside in quiet, clean air, Irish Hills is a good place to go.

The area is fortunate to have the sports park in the vicinity. It is complete and modern. Snow machines help out when nature rations our snow for the winter. Rope and chair tows help you back to the top of the slope after you make your run to the bottom of the hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Sell, with their four children, reside at the Sports Park and they thoroughly enjoy their residence as you would notice anytime you go there.

She was driving east on US-12, just east of Arkona Rd., when the tire blew out on her automobile. She lost control of the vehicle on a curve and skidded across the highway. The car traveled approximately 45 feet in the air and landed on its top in a deep ditch. Mail Boxes Bite Dust

CLINTON — For the second time in recent months the mailboxes of Albert Minor and Floyd Duncan, on Tecumseh - Clinton Rd., south of the village, have taken a beating.

This time Joseph R. O'Donnell, 46, of E. Michigan Ave., Clinton, was northbound when he saw a car coming at him on the curve. O'Donnell took to the shoulder to avoid the accident and his trailer swerved and struck the mailboxes on the east shoulder of the highway.

a real VACATION

They had waited for this real vacation—this long trip—for years. But this time it was different, this time he wouldn't be going back to his job.

At first, retirement seemed frightening, like being shut off from the mainstream of life. He had seen too many men age beyond their years, after their career ended. He had no wish to be on the sidelines. He and his wife could have moved to a warmer climate and just have taken it easy. He didn't want that. So, before he left home, he had a long talk with his minister.

He found that there was plenty a man his age could do. Financially secure, he could afford to volunteer for a job. In fact, through the Church there was work he could do that would spread to the farthest corners of the world.

Right now, he is enjoying this vacation. He is savoring every moment of it. Because, when he gets home, he's going to lead a full and useful life. And that's the way he wants it.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
. . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

30 Bike Winners

The most successful promotion ever sponsored by The Herald for local and area youngsters ended Friday with 30 brand new bicycles and one radio awarded.

The promotion started July 15th, and in just over two and a half weeks, the newspaper's junior salesmen sold 523 new subscriptions.

Approximately 90% of the new subscribers live in the Tecumseh, Clinton and Britton area, with a surprising number of new Clinton readers now taking The Herald.

In the past, the local paper sponsored the promotion practically every year, but this summer's event was the first in two years.

Press run for this week totaled 5,500, and with an exception of a couple merchant and other related projects, the press run is the highest in the history of the newspaper.

Included in the press run is a distribution of 1,000 newspapers to resorters in the Irish Hills Lake area.

Traffic Study

Lenawee County police recently received a detailed analysis of local traffic injury accidents which were part of a statewide, in-depth study of more than 1,100 injury accidents conducted by Automobile Club of Michigan. The samplings were based on an analysis of accidents occurring in July and August of 1967 and over the Memorial Day, July 4 and Labor Day weekends of that same year.

Lenawee County police and officers from 39 other Lower Peninsula agencies cooperated with Auto Club by filling out detailed accident research and analysis forms at the scene of each injury accident.

The 24-page study, entitled "Portrait of a Year," is a companion to Auto Club's 1966 study of Michigan traffic fatalities.

"One facet of this study is our investigation of ambulance service throughout the Lower Peninsula," said Fred Rehm, general manager of the Club and secretary of the "Bring 'Em Back Alive!" program. "We believe this is the first statewide study of this facet of traffic injuries."

Traffic victims in the Lenawee County area were worse off than in many other areas of the state. The average wait for an ambulance here was 10.1 minutes. The statewide average was 8.9 minutes.

The average for urban areas was 6 minutes; in incorporated townships it was 9.5 minutes and in rural areas it was 12 minutes.

"Without the wholehearted cooperation of law-enforcement officers in the Lenawee County area, this study and its findings and conclusions would never have been possible," Rehm said.

"We would like to take this opportunity to thank the Lenawee County Sheriff's Department publicly."

The USAF Needs Qualified Nurses

Sgt. Flint, local Air Force representative, announced today that there is a critical shortage of registered nurses in the Air Force and the Air Force is offering direct officer appointments to qualified nurse applicants.

"To qualify," he continued, "she must be a registered nurse, between 20-35 years of age, and have no dependent children under 18 years of age." He pointed out the initial tour of duty is two years with the opportunity to extend for additional periods of time or for career purposes.

Sgt. Flint pointed out that the Air Force nurses have the same functions and responsibilities as nurses in civilian hospitals, with the major difference being they are also Air Force officers. Air Force nurses often assist in the evacuation of patients by air, and assist in the United States space program.

The majority of Air Force nurses render general nursing care to medical, surgical, pediatric, orthopedic and obstetrical patients. They also perform duties in such specialties of operating room, psychiatric nursing, anesthesia, teaching and administration.

Sgt. Flint urges all Tecumseh registered nurses to seek information on how to better serve their country as well as humanity. His office is located at the Eagles Club, 205 N. Winter St., Adrian, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

Marda Gene Duncan's

Through My Window

TWENTY-FOUR HOURS A DAY

In the bird and animal world summer days are busy days. Of course, in the people world they are busy, busy, busy, too, but this is not our topic for today. And as far as that goes, Marda, you are not even sticking strictly to daytime activity. Please settle down to business.

Having the windows and doors open on these soft warm nights lets in much more than sleep-allowing breezes. Summer nights are noisy. Oh, I'm not complaining — the night sounds are marvelously interesting. It is just a shame that sleep is so important, at times it does seem a waste. Not a waste exactly but I know there is so much going on outside and I have never been one who likes to miss anything.

The loudest of the night time noises is the creek. It has a different voice when there are no daytime sounds to drown it out, no lawnmowers chugging, no children laughing or screaming, no baby birds begging to be fed, fewer dogs barking, etc. All of the hard rains have kept the creek high — much higher than usual and much faster than usual, too.

Evans Creek does not babble to us, it rushes by with the current so strong that it hits the bend and completes the turn just outside my window with a force that sounds like high waves lapping on the shore.

BUT THE CREEK talk is the constant type thing which quickly lulls us to sleep. There are sudden, unusual type sounds which sometimes do the opposite. The other night, for example, there was — well, I am still not sure how to describe it. Purring is not quite right but it was a deep-throated, high-pitched rattling sound. Not angry, not frightening. From what some of our books say, I think our night time visitor was a raccoon.

This probably solves the mystery of the missing corn. For some time now we have found, almost every morning, both ears of corn gone. Both the holder on the fence and the one on the near my window feeder would be empty. Not just the kernels of corn but the cobs were gone, too. Several times the spike which held the ear was bent. A raccoon would be big enough to do this, wouldn't he?

Perhaps I should say, wouldn't she? Early one morning last week Mom went to the west-facing window to see if the noise we heard was rain or the creek. She parted the drapes just enough to peer out and suddenly I heard a most surprised and excited exclaiming, "Oh — oh my — oh my goodness — oh my — oh!" I asked what was going on, what was happening? My only reply was more "Oh — oh my — oh my goodness — oh my — oh!"

FINALLY MOM turned and explained. The yard was full of little somethings. They were playing, running back and forth between the creek bank and the feeder station post. The light was too poor to see for sure but she thought they had bushy tails. We were playing host to a family of young raccoons!

It is not a dedicated effort, however, we are trying to make sure that each night something is 'put out' for the newcomers. Corn, bread or something and each morning whatever was put out the night before is gone.

We have not caught any more glimpses of the free-loaders but there are a number of interesting squeaks and squeals, there is much of that undescribable purring and occasionally even some scrappy and sassy clicking of teeth.

Oh, if only we did not need to sleep a few hours each night — it would be such fun to keep a vigil and play the Peeping Tom on the raccoon youngsters at play.

So it is that with bird and squirrel business to watch during the day and the raccoon and creek noises to listen to at night, there is something going on 24 hours a day.

NEXT WEEK:
"Let's Go Back To Sycamore St."

Happiness is a bright yellow balloon, a clown and a warm summer afternoon. This was a part of the scene at last week's Sidewalk Sale. This little girl seems to be pondering the extent of happiness which a bright yellow balloon can give. Such are the young and their joys.

THE LANSING REPORT FROM senator GIL BURSLEY

Interim or study committees normally operate during the time when the legislature is not actually in session.

These bodies serve a vital purpose. They obtain facts on key issues that may require legislative action. Sometimes confusing and conflicting statements on important matters — such as this year's parochial aid bill — are resolved by postponing legislative action until an interim committee has been able to sort fact from fiction.

Normally the interim committee's schedule and program is worked out by its chairman who also bears primary responsibility for preparing the committee's written report back to the next session of the legislature.

It has been my lot this year to be asked to serve as chairman of six of these committees.

The Joint Legislative Committee on Urban Mass Transportation, composed of eight senators and eight representatives, is determining what additional legislative action may be necessary to ensure that the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority comes up with the best possible mass transit system for the six county area. We are also studying the pros and cons of a state department of transportation within the state government.

Another committee which I head is concerned with pesticide controls. We have already had hearings at the Pesticide Research Center at Michigan State University and with the Dow Chemical Company in Midland.

Another committee is concerned with abortion law reform. I plan several hearings including one in the Ann Arbor area. We are looking at California and Colorado's abortion laws.

The Senate international commerce committee which I have been in charge of for the past three years is primarily ensuring that the State Commerce and Agriculture Departments promote vigorously overseas trade missions where businessmen can make actual dollar sales. Two bills which I sponsored this spring were signed into law by the governor and give the two departments more authority in the foreign trade promotion area.

I am chairman of an education subcommittee concerned with educational TV and radio. Senate bills 1049.50 and 51 which I introduced this year were held up for this committee study. The question of a statewide educational communications system is under review.

A committee to study and follow up on plans for a major stadium facility in the Detroit area — probably at the State Fair grounds — is another for which I am responsible.

In addition to these interim committees for which I have prime responsibility I am also a member of one studying the question of state aid to parochial schools and another on review of insurance laws.

Letters To the Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

Regarding the pictures in last week's issue, here is a little additional data.

What is referred to as the Seitz house was built about 1830 by Ira Pennock, himself a carpenter. For a short period it was used as a county court house, as Mr. Pennock was a county official and the local courthouse had not yet been built.

The wrecked Brownville bridge shown was the middle and longest span of three that then bridged the river. They were b[illegible] near the race of the paper mill, (on the south bank), the main dam and the race of the electric plant. After the flood they were replaced by one long bridge with a high steel superstructure. This was the one reputed to be the longest single span in Michigan and that was "wide enough for two loads of hay to pass".

The horse-drawn water tank was not part of the fire department's equipment. It was the street sprinkler that was used to "lay the dust" on main street. The team, however, did draw the fire engine when needed and the driver, who was Elmer Mellon, drove that truck. This picture was probably taken in the early 1900's.

Probably, the ladies who are walking up the hill had just come across the pond via the row-boat ferry that taxied pedestrians during the construction of the "big bridge."

Hoping someone else can tell us more,

Clara M. Waldron.

TO THE EDITOR:

While reading in today's paper, Aug. 11, 1968, I was looking at the pictures of the early days when I was living in Tecumseh. I well remember those days.

I remember when I and my uncle, Albert Hyde, had just come over the bridge when it fell in. We had just crossed it in time. We saw it fall in.

I also remember the North Evans St. bridge when it broke and fell in.

I also remember a lot more about Tecumseh. It would take a book to tell it. My grandfather came to Tecumseh in 1836. My Aunt Clair was one year old when she moved to Tecumseh with grandfather, Grandfather, in 1857, was village marshal.

I could write a book on my life and my travels through the United States. I was born and raised in Tecumseh in the year of 1889. I used to know about everyone in Tecumseh back in the old days. But, they are slowly passing away.

Tecumseh has changed a great deal in the last 43 years. I never thought it would change like it has.

I will be 79 the 19th of this month. I am retired from the vast Whirlpool Corp. at St. Joseph, Mich. I help my son-in-law on his fruit farm a little south of Hartford.

I have five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

I hope you will put this little writing in next week's paper. If there are any charges let me know.

Very truly yours,
Harry O. Munger
Rt. 2,
Decatur, Mich. 49045

TO THE EDITOR:

Your publication, in the July 18th issue of The Herald, of Carol Ann McClure's interpretation of Mr. Zorn's action when she went to see him without an appointment, her accusations of 'sneakiness' on his part when he left without speaking to her, and her call for his removal, is insulting to Mr. Zorn and implies support by you of Miss McClure's personal attack on Mr. Zorn based on nothing more than her evaluation of the man and his manners.

Every newspaper is the recipient of all types of correspondence containing critical attacks upon persons in public position. The responsible newspaper is as concerned with truth and the protection of persons from unsubstantiated criticism as it is with freedom of expression. In publishing this letter, you leaned over backwards for the latter while ignoring the former.

This is not the first time you have made it possible for one person's verbal abuse of another to be seen by an entire community. It should be the last.

Mr. Zorn deserves an apology from The Herald and such letters do not deserve the dignity of public distribution.

Sincerely,
Julian R. Gresham.

(Editor's Note — The Herald's columns are open to its readers for comments and observations, and any accusation that the paper agrees with a writer is merely a supposition on Mr. Gresham's part. The "Voice of The Herald" will continue as our column to express opinions.)

LIBRARY VANDALISM — Patty and Ricky Coscarelli stare at this broken window and seem to express the wonderment of many — why? Vandalism has increased here this summer with vandals relying mainly on eggs, molasses, rocks and bottles to damage and ruin property. They used to say that laws protect the innocent, but not now — vandals run rampant and there's little which can be done.

Peace Corps Test To Be August 17

Tecumseh area residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday, August 17 at the Conference Room, U.S. Post Office, Adrian.

The Peace Corps uses the Placement Test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. The test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

Persons interested in serving with the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before the test. Application forms are available from post offices or from the Peace Corps in Washington, D.C. 20525.

Visiting Professor Stays With Folks

BRITTON—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kuster, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., spent two days this week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Kuster.

Mr. Kuster, who is head of the Biology Department at Southeast Missouri State College, recently spent six weeks in Washington, D. C., attending a summer institute held at the American University on the History and Philosophy of Science. Mr. Kuster was one of 40 college teachers from across the nation attending the summer session, which is sponsored by the National Science Foundation Institute.

While there, they attended a number of lectures by science professors from Harvard and other noted universities.

They also went on field trips to the Smithsonian Institute, Walter Reed Hospital, the National Bureau of Standards, NASA headquarters, and the National Gallery of Art, where they heard a lecture on Leonardo Da-Vinci as a scientist.

The group also visited the National Institute of Health at Bethesda, Md., a government agency where 16,000 are employed in research projects; and the Library of Congress, where the scientific books were shown and explained.

A Happy Bride-to-be Is Served A Paradise

BRITTON — Sue Austin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gail Austin of North Britton Hwy., was the guest of honor at a miscellaneous bridal shower recently, given at the home of Mrs. Roger Gillespie. The event was given by Mrs. William Veeser, who is to be a bridesmaid at the coming wedding, and a group of friends.

The guests were seated at tables centered with rose bowls upon arrival, and served Paradise salad, crackers, and lemonade. The decorations were in yellow.

Bridal bingo was played, with the rosebowls given to the winners, and prizes of kitchen items given to the honored guest. The door prize was won by Mrs. Lyle Calhoun.

The 30 relatives and friends included Becky Austin, from Oak Park, Ill.; Mrs. William Veeser from Milwaukee, Wis.; and Mrs. Cecil Veeser from Brookfield, Ill.

Miss Austin opened many lovely gifts.

She will become the bride of Warren Leemgraven of Farmington on August 24 in the Holloway Presbyterian Church.

Two Britton Boy Scouts Earn Eagle Awards

BRITTON — The former Britton Methodist Church, now a meeting place for the Britton Boy Scouts, was the scene of a double Eagle Court of Honor Wednesday night, when Greg Dunbar and Gary Judkins each received their coveted Eagle Award. The boys have been together in Scouting for the past four and one-half years. The Eagle ceremony was preceded by a Troop Court of Honor.

Greg is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Dunbar, 434 North Main St., Britton. He began his scout career as a cub scout when he was eight years old.

Greg has been very active in Scouting, taking part in the 1967 Wolverine Council Campout Training for Senior leaders at Pinckney State Park. He has served as Senior Patrol Leader for one year. This past summer, he was tapped out for the Order of the Arrow at summer camp. He attends Britton-Macon High School, where he will be a junior this fall.

Gary is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Judkins, of 10649 Welch Rd., Britton. His scouting career began as a Cub Scout in Grass Lake. He attended the Junior Leader training camp-out in 1966. He has been an assistant Senior Patrol leader for a year. He attends Britton-Macon High School, where he will be a junior this year.

Greg and Gary are not through achieving for Scouting yet; they are both working towards the God and Country Award as well.

At the Troop Court of Honor Wayne Dunbar, troop committeeman, explained the requirements for the second class rank. Receiving that award were Rick Bactal, Jim Bennett, and Mark Maschino.

Stewart Niblack, troop committeeman, presented the Star awards to Tom Dick and Terry Hintz.

Robert Downing received the award for Life Scout, which is next to the Eagle award, from Scoutmaster Neal Judkins.

Each boy presented his mother with a miniature pin of his rank.

Following the ceremonies, the scouts and parents were served homemade ice cream, cake and Kool Aid. The cake, which was topped with a large Eagle scout emblem, was decorated and served by Jean Judkins, an aunt of Gary's.

After the refreshments were served, pictures were shown of the recent scout trip through Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

Tiger Stadium For Britton Cubs

BRITTON — The Cub Scouts of Pack 23 will travel by bus to Tiger Stadium Saturday, Aug. 10, to attend a ball game. Boys are to meet at the school Saturday morning at 10:30 a.m. Each person must pay 25c to cover cost of the bus ride, and bring a sack lunch.

Christine Fairbanks'

OFF the TOP

By CHRISTINE FAIRBANKS

Every household has its pet economies, and our is no exception.

For instance, Hubby was raised during the depression, and his pet form of savings, no doubt a holdover from the old days, is trying to lower the electricity bill.

He will prowl around, busily turning off lights left burning brightly in empty rooms, or unwatched television sets, or warm irons left idle on the ironing board, while his errant family is busy somewhere else in the house turning things on.

Lights left on upstairs in the kid's bedrooms aggravates him most of all. He doesn't notice them unless we go away at night, in which case he sputters, as we back out of the driveway, "Well, I see the hall light (or the bedroom light) is on again, as usual." He wages a losing battle, however; as he seems unable to impress the family members with the high cost of excess wattage, though he has tried for 21 years.

"How come the electric bill is higher for your house than it is for the garage?" questioned a customer the other day, noting the two bills on the counter.

"Listen, you wouldn't have to ask if you ever drove past our house at night," was the exasperated reply.

Even economical Dad has one little extravagance, if it can be called that; it is so minor. He just hates to use up the last sliver of a bar of soap. He says he can't get ahold of the slippery little bits, and throws them away when I think there is still some mileage left for a quick wash-up. Maybe I should try a compromise: if he will use up the last smidgeon of soap, I will try to remember to turn off the bathroom light!

Some people's penny-watching ideas are downright odd—(most everyone's but mine!)

One friend carefully washes off and saves used pieces of aluminum foil, instead of wadding it up and tossing it in the wastebasket.

Another will spend ten minutes soaking an uncancelled stamp off an envelope, and repasting it, when I would throw away the whole bit and spend 6c for a new stamp.

Still another buys children's clothes a size or two too big the first year, so they will have another year's wear; but by the time the clothes fit right, they are half worn out.

One family saves all their change for vacation spending.

The list could go on and on — each family has its own favorite way of saving a little here and there.

Except the offspring, of course; they don't practice any forms of economy. Their motto might well be "Why Save It? It's Only Money."

So while Mom and Dad try in many little ways to beat the High Cost of Living, the kids are undermining their efforts.

Anyway, to really make a dent in the H C of L, one has to practice ALL the economies, and that wouldn't leave any room for fun!

WIRE TELLS STORY — Almost three months after Rotary held its Safety Check project here, local chairmam Chuck Butler received the above wire, relaying the fact that Tecumseh had won its third consecutive national title for cities under 10,000. A plaque will be presented to the club this fall.

New School Budget Topping $2,280,000

As any businessman knows, costs to operate have skyrocketed. In the case of the Tecumseh schools, it still holds true.

Next Monday night a tentative budget, amounting to $2,285,268, will be presented to the School Board for review and possibly action. It is the highest school budget ever proposed here.

Last year, the budget was $1,953,000. That particular budget was approximately $250,000 larger than the 1966-67 budget, and about $500,000 bigger than the 1965-66 budget.

Increases in salaries for all school personnel have accounted for the record-breaking budget.

Breakdown of major costs is:

Instruction or teachers — $1,596,097.

Transportation expenses, including operation and replacement of busses — $170,861.

Operation of school buildings — $187,705.

Anticipated revenue for the schools, however, will more than cover predicted expenditures. Property tax, real and personal, will amount to $1,183,806. This includes both allocated and voted tax monies.

State aid is expected to provide $908,706. Last year, state aid amounted to about $222 per student, and this year the anticipated figure is $238 per student, an increase of $16 per child.

Monies from the state were based on an enrollment of 3,383 students, the official total for the 1967-68 term. School census showed a decline, but officials indicated that they would not be surprised if the total enrollment did not increase for 1968-69.

School officials will not know the amount of state aid to be received until after the official enrollment is taken, the fourth Friday of September.

Although the anticipated income is not expected to meet all school expenses, a balance of about $50,000 from the 1967-68 fiscal school year will more than make up an otherwise deficit of about $5,000.

Police Capture Fleeing Driver

A merry chase of some four miles ended suddenly Monday afternoon for Donald Edward Sines, 31, of 821 E. Maumee St., Adrian, who was fleeing not only the Tecumseh police but State Police and patrolmen from the Sheriff's Department.

Sines lost control of his car on E. Munger Rd., skidded through a ditch and finally stopped in the front yard of the Harold Isley residence, less than a mile from Tecumseh's city limits.

Patrolmen Jerry Anderson and Gary Anderson first took off after Sines when they stopped his car at the intersection of W. Chicago Blvd. and Union St.

Minutes earlier, the Sheriff's Department had radioed license numbers of a wanted car, which had reportedly tried to run down an Adrian youngster.

A state trooper at W. Chicago and Sunset Dr. swung in behind the Tecumseh policemen who were having difficulty getting around other traffic. In the meantime, Sines was passing cars on both sides of the street just avoiding several collisions.

Traveling at speeds upwards of 80 mph, the Tecumseh officers pulled even with Sines, who then attempted to run the patrolmen off the road. Seconds later, Anderson driving the local cruiser, completely passed Sines, who then slowed down, pinwheeled his car on the pavement, skirted the oncoming state trooper and then turned north on Matthews Hwy.

By this time, the two Tecumseh police officers were again in pursuit and followed Sines when he turned east on Munger.

He traveled less than a mile on the gravel road when he lost control.

Riding with Sines was Donna Maria Vaniman, 31, of 10030 Hawkins Hwy., Brooklyn. She told officers here that she was forced to accompany Sines, who was driving her automobile.

According to her, she said Sines came to her apartment shortly after 1 p.m. Monday and demanded that she accompany him north for a few days.

He allegedly said that he had beaten up an Adrian police officer. A local check found this to be false.

The Brooklyn woman said Sines had been drinking and threatened her if she did not do as he demanded. She packed a suitcase and left with Sines just moments before they were spotted by the police.

Tecumseh has placed two charges against him: reckless driving, resisting arrest or evading police officers.

When his spree came to a halt in the Isley yard, police had to restrain and then handcuff him. At this time, a sheriff patrol car arrived and deputies took him to the county jail, where he is now held.

During arraignment, Sines pled not guilty. It is understood that he will also face charges there resulting in his attempt to run down an Adrian boy on a bicycle.

Justice Ernest Oliver placed him under $500 bond on the two charges filed here by the local police.

Third 'Safety' First for Rotary

Tecumseh has won over thousands of other communities in competition for the country's top Safety Check award, handed down annually by the National Vehicle Safety Check Commission in Washington D.C.

It's the third straight year that the community has grabbed first place for cities of 10,000 and under, and it marks the 13th time that the local Safety Check project has gained recognition.

Tecumseh auto dealers first started the Safety Check of cars and trucks here in 1955 with C. O. Butler heading the affair. In recent years, the Rotary Club has been chief sponsor with assistance from other service clubs, Chamber of Commerce and Jaycees.

Under Rotary leadership and Mr. Butler, Tecumseh won five consecutive firsts from 1961 through 1965. In 1966, the community took its first national award and repeated in 1967, first time any city of any size accomplished the fact.

During the recent Michigan Week, May 20-26, 2,522 automobiles passed through safety check lanes here with 304 cars rejected. Seventy-six motorists returned for a re-check.

Trucks inspected numbered 399 with 124 rejects. Twenty-two trucks were re-checked.

According to local registration figures, the 2,921 inspected vehicles represented about 70% of some 4,200 vehicles on record.

Inspections required considerable cooperation, according to Mr. Butler, who cited inspection lanes at the larger industrial firms and the cooperation of the city and schools. Rotary conducted its lane on S. Pearl St.

Rotarians do not know when the club will officially be presented its winning plaque, but they have learned that representatives from Washington D.C., Lansing and Look magazines will be here.

Look is one of the co-sponsoring organizations for the national Safety Check inspection project.

Vandals Ruin 13

Vandals struck Patterson Elementary School for the second time within four days late Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning.

Damages discovered at 3:15 a.m. Wednesday by Tecumseh police include 13 windows, either broken by rocks or pitted by a pellet gun. Six of the 13 windows were large.

Last Saturday, police discovered three large windows and two small windows smashed by rocks at the same school building.

Vandals picked on an individual last Thursday when they tossed a rock through the windshield of a parked car, owned by Ben Dillon, 715 Seneca St.

Football Camp Starts Sunday for '68 Indians

Between 30 and 40 prospects for the Indians 1968 football team will begin conditioning Sunday at the annual Tecumseh camp, held at the Girl Scout camp in the Irish Hills.

Coach Tom Fagan will head the program which consists entirely of exercise and conditioning for the upcoming season.

Fawn Is Killed

Lendell Millheim, 7488 Billmyer Rd. struck and killed a small fawn Saturday on Burt St.

The young deer ran in front of his car. It was given to the Conservation Dept.

Millheim's vehicle sustained damage to the grill.

Earl Greene Is Principal

Earl Greene, former principal at the old Central Elementary School and once elementary supervisor here, has been selected by administrators to replace Rufus T. Gillam as principal at Patterson and Tipton elementary schools.

Board of Education is expected to take action on the appointment Monday night.

Mr. Gillam announced his resignation last week and his intentions to move to Ann Arbor. He will possibly teach there.

For the past few years, Mr. Greene has taught social studies at Patterson.

New Pupils To Register

Parnts of elementary pupils, kindergarten through the sixth grade, are urged to register their children now at the Board of Education on W. Chicago Blvd.

The Board office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

High School Principal Neville Hart will start registering new high school students on Aug. 19. Junior High Principal David Dick likewise will begin registering newcomers on that date.

Their registration times will be the same as at the Board office.

You say that you're seeing spots before your eyes? Well, don't worry, it may be a balloon sent up by Ken Meadows or his brother Bob. The boys, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Meadows, 1207 W. Russell Rd. set off their first balloon Aug. 5 at 2:30 p.m. Attached to the balloon, was a letter asking whoever found it to write and tell them where and when it landed. Ken received a letter from Mrs. Edw. Francis of Allen Park telling him that the balloon landed in her yard at 3:58 p.m. The balloon traveled over 45 miles in less than an hour and a half. Pretty good timing for a balloon, wouldn't you agree?

A classified ad placed in The Herald in July 1967 got unexpected results Sunday. Clinton State Police discovered an abandoned cash register in a field south of Tecumseh. No such article had been reported missing — and the only clue was a clipped copy of a classified ad in the drawer. The ad sought a girl singer for a rock and roll band and requested a reply to Box V, care of The Herald, dated July 5, 12,19, dates of 1967 editions of the paper. Sleuthing by a Herald staffer dredged up the source of the ad — Mrs. Merle Hunt of Clinton. Yep — the old cash register belonged to the Hunts, and it was discarded on the Clinton dump recently Case closed!

Marvel Neuman can be reached at 423-3314 temporarily. She would appreciate calls there for her Holloway Notes.

The engagement of Terrie Forrest McEnroe and Daniel A. Ozelis is announced by Mrs. Lucy Adams McEnroe of 210 E. Maiden Lane. Miss McEnroe's father is Kenneth D. McEnroe of Clinton. She is a 1963 graduate of Tecumseh High School and received her BA at Eastern Michigan University, where she was a member of the Delta Zeta Sorority. She is teaching in New Boston. Mr. Ozelis is the son of Mrs. Caroline Sanger of Chicago, Ill., and Albert Ozelis of Oak Park, Ill. He attended the University of Chicago, University of Vienna, Austria, and is a graduate of the University of the Americas, Mexico City, Mex. He is Director of Field Services for the American Association of Homes for the Aging, New York City. A January wedding is being planned.

It's Such a Big World

Some folks say that as we grow older the world grows smaller. Is that because of the wonders of modern communication and transportation? Or is it because when some folks grow older they become preoccupied with their own little orbit of life?

Junior certainly enters life completely preoccupied with himself. But once he begins to walk and talk—gosh how his world balloons!

That's why he needs the religious training our churches provide. His faith must keep pace with his burgeoning world.

And as grown-ups, in worship and Christian devotion, we need likewise the spiritual gifts our churches offer.

For it really is a big world. Full of challenges, opportunities, and promising tomorrows. It always looks that way to a growing soul.

You Told Us

By DOROTHY GRIGG

Herald Society Editor

A Lenawee County Michigan license and John Underwood's name above it can give your blood pressure quite a charge when you are far up next to the Canadian border just past the geographical center of North America at Rugby, N.D. We didn't know the gentleman, however, he lives in Saginaw and his name is Kalmga, but he, apparently bought his car from our area.

This is duram wheat country grown to make macaroni. Huge fields of flax also excited our curiosity.

We saw a lot of them (sun flower seeds) in the bird cases at the Minot City Zoo and, of course, bird feeding has become popular in all parts of the country, even people like to eat sun flower seeds.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Keyser recently returned from a trip to Maine. They accompanied Eugene Keyser of Clearwater, Fla., who had been spending the summer with them. They visited the family of Gordon Keyser who are at their summer home at the Kennebago Lake Club on Kennebago Lake near Rangeley, Me. The Gordon Keysers will be returning to Dearborn for the opening of schools in early September.

County OK's' Liquor Sales

Wednesday morning the Lenawee County Board of Supervisors passed a resolution that would allow liquor by the the glass sales in the county after 2 p.m. on Sunday.

Establishments which would be granted the right must prove that 50% of their business is in food sales.

Due to the close vote, 15-13, it is expected that a reconsideration of the motion might arise in the afternoon session.

ARTISTIC EFFORTS ON THE DARWIN CREGER HOUSE WERE CAPTURED ON FILM BEFORE THE RAINS CAME

Darwin And Mary Are Back

Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Creger returned home, Thursday evening, to 404 W. Brown St. but were hardly able to recognize the home place. It wasn't because they were gone so long—only three weeks to Europe, but because relatives and friends had pretty well hidden the house under an assortment of welcoming home signs and decorations.

The rainstorm had already damaged the signs considerably just before the Cregers arrived home.

The Cregers visited Sp/4 and Mrs. James Kirk, nee Sue Hammack, in Wurzburg, Germany, where Mr. Kirk was stationed with the U.S. Army.

Many points of interest visited by the Kirks and the Cregers in Germany were Garmisch and the Zugspitze in the Bavarian Alps, Berchtesgaden, where Hitler's tea house called 'Eagle's Nest" is located. They took a three-hour boat trip down the Rhein River, and saw Rotherberg, the entire city built within a stone wall. They visited Paris, France, Brussels, Belgium, "Moduradom, the world smallest city" in Den Hoag, Holland, and London, where they viewed the Crown Jewels at the tower of London and St. Paul's Cathedral, the site of Sir. Winston Churchill's funeral.

The Cregers also called on Mrs. Carole Ladd at Stutgart, Germany.

Scouts Plan Exhibition Day

Plans for an exciting day for every Scout in the city, as well as interested parents, friends, and young people wondering just what Scouting has to offer, were revealed Thursday evening by the Committee Chairman William Frownfelder to the Scout Cabin Association.

On Sept. 21, a day long exhibition will be held on the grounds of Elliott Park, site of the Scout Cabin. By that time a permanent sign will be displayed so that those new in the area or those new in Scouting can locate the building, which has been unmarked for some time since vandals destroyed the former sign.

Leaders of the Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts and the Brownies should notify Mr. Frownfelder by postcard of the space needed and the type of work that is to be shown. The first request for a particular entry will recieve priority. Mrs. John Robinson is assisting on this committee.

There will be further news items as plans are formulated. It is hoped to have the knotty pine cupboards installed so that in the new addition, each Troop using the cabin for regular meetings will have some storage space. Lights were installed in the new addition in time for the August 8 meeting which was attended by ten members.

The next meeting will be held on Sept. 12 at 8:00 p.m. All leaders should attend to finalize plans for Exhibition Day.

Standard Rep Offers Service

J. R. Barton, Tecumseh Standard Oil Agent, today said that his company is building farms in Chicago for customers of Standard's Farm Service Center in Adrian.

But the company does not plan to move fields and barns and livestock — and farmers — from the Tecumseh area to the city. The farms are being constructed as mathematical models, to be used in the latest application of computer techniques to agricultural management, said Barton.

Earlier this year, Barton announced availability for the center's customers of a computerized accounting system, to simplify the task of maintaining management and tax records. Now, Barton said the Adrian Farm Service Center will offer as a separate service Farm Operation Planning by Computer.

Keep It Beautiful

If America hired people for the job, it would take the largest sort of army to keep our country free of litter.

But there's no need to hire anyone. It's a job we can do for ourselves. All of us. Every family that spreads a picnic lunch. Every boatman who cruises the lakes and waterways. Every motorist who uses our roads and highways.

It is the pleasure of the U. S. Brewers Association each year to give its fullest support to the Keep America Beautiful Campaign. Remember: Every Litter Bit Hurts.

This is our land. Let's treat it right.

(EDITOR'S NOTE — David Porteous, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Donald Porteous, is spending the summer in Morogoro, Tanzania, Africa, participating in the Crossroads program.)

TO THE EDITOR:

July 29, 1968

Last Friday our group left Morogoro Teachers College, where we are staying, and got on a bus for Dar Es Salaam, a hundred miles away.

The road is a part of the road from Dar Es Salaam to Zambia (formerly Northern Rhodesia). Since the white minority of Southern Rhodesia, led by Ian Smith, seized control of that country, Zambia has had to receive all of its petroleum supplies through Tanzania. This means there are hundreds of oil trucks moving along this road day and night. On a road barely wide enough for two cars, it can become frightening to see a loaded oil truck rolling down the road toward your bus. The U. S. recently loaned the Tanzanian government several million dollars to repair this road, and it was well-spent.

In Dar Es Salaam we bought wood carvings, Katenge cloth (Java prints available only in Africa), and a variety of other things.

Friday afternoon, due to some very fortunate circumstances, I was invited into the office of Joseph Nyerere along with two other Crossroaders. Joseph Nyerere is a high government official and the younger brother of Julius Nyerere, President of the Republic of Tanzania. We had a thoroughly enjoyable and informative talk with him on many issues in both Tanzania and the United States.

Sunday morning I had breakfast at seven and then took off for the beach with three other fellows. The Indian Ocean was as warm as bath water and so soothing to a tired tourist. The beach was wide and sandy and lined with palm trees. A dream-like setting, and so relaxing.

Sunday afternoon we boarded the bus for Morogoro and left the life of a tourist behind us. It's not a bad life, but it's too rough, physically and financially, to take it for any length of time.

Dave Porteous.

Livonia Setting For Hoggarth - Welch Wedding

CLINTON—The Bethany Baptist Church, Livonia was the scene of the marriage of Roderick Welch II and Linda Hoggarth, both of Livonia.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joan DeVitis of Livonia and Charles Hoggarth of Taylor and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Janet Welch, 115 W. Franklin St., Clinton and Roderick H. Welch, Tecumseh-Clinton Rd., Tecumseh.

The vows were solemnized by the Rev. Bert Krellar at 7:30 p.m.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a bouffant gown of lace and organza, featuring a chapel train flowing from the shoulders. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white daisies and white roses.

Maid of honor Michele DuChene of Livonia, and bridesmaids, Susan Piepka, Janice Polidori and Shirley Langsdon, were gowned alike in yellow dotted Swiss, with wide sashes of green satin. They carried bouquets of daisies with green accents.

The best man was David Olson of Clinton. The guests were seated by James Schuler, Mark Iwanicki and Terry Hunt, all of Clinton.

Romantic Symbols Mark Speaking of Vows

CLINTON—Romantically symbolized by prophetic daisies, the nuptials uniting Geraldine Eddy and James Tallman were performed in the newly redecorated sanctuary of the United Church of Christ Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eddy of 108 Washington St. and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Tallman Sr. of 208 E. Church St.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Paul McKenna at 7:30 p.m., before a candlelight altar, setting enhanced with vases of white Shasta daisies.

A prelude of music was played by Mrs. John Fox and she accompanied William Heimerdinger, who sang, "One Hand, One Heart," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Approaching the altar with her father, the bride was attired in a silk organza cage dress. The yoke and cap sleeves of the Empire bodice were of Venice lace trimmed with sequins and seed pearls. Matching flower appliques were scattered over the front of the skirt and edged the gown and cathedral train.

A cluster of Venice lace and crystals held the bouffant bridal veil of silk illusion. The bride carried cascade of white chrysanthemums, Pinochio roses and white daisies.

Maid of honor Dede Meyers and bridesmaids, Diane Lauer, Nancy Doughtery of Detroit, and Melissa Mattis wore matching Empire gowns of yellow linen. The bodices and long, bloused sleeves were of white netted lace, trimmed with scattered daisy appliques, and daisies also accented their trains.

The attendants' headpieces were yellow velvet circlet veils trimmed with daisies. They carried nosegays of daisies.

Amy Waltz, the flower girl, wore a gown fashioned after the bridesmaids' gowns and she scattered yellow rose petals down the aisle.

The rings were carried by Thomas Eddy, brother of the bride.

Robert Tallman was his twin brother's best man.

Guests were seated by William Sage of Ann Arbor and Gary Anderson of Kent City.

The wedding cake, which was beautifully decorated by the bride's mother, was circled by a garland of daisies.

Assisting in the reception were Mrs. Leon Desbrough, Mrs. Roger Waltz, Mrs. John Shear and Mrs. Nick Karapas.

Later in the evening, lawn reception and buffet supper was attended by 70 guests at the home of the bride's parents.

Following a ten-day wedding trip to the New England states, the newlyweds will be at home at 927 L. Cherry Lane Apts., Michigan State University, E. Lansing.

Mr. and Mrs. Tallman are graduates of Clinton High School. The bride is a junior and the groom is a senior at Michigan State University. Both were employed at Ford Motor Company this summer.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner attended by 22 guests at the Country House, Friday evening.

PISTOLS 'N PETTICOATS — Old western Pistols and Petticoat Saloon is brought to life by owner Dorthy Bahlau. Several rare antique collections are on display. There's bison-and moose heads on the brocade covered wall, some old horned victrolas tucked high up on a shelf and a dozen priceless carved silver butler serves, and there's much more to make a bygone era "for real" at Stagecoach Stop.

Nickelodeons Set Tempo At Stagecoach Stop

By MAXINE CALHOUN

There's "something for everyone" at Stagecoach Stop. Mom and Dad will find the replica of an 1890 town just as intriguing as the youngsters.

The recreated settlement is located in the Irish Hills on US-12 just east of the Hayes State Park entrance.

Fred and Dorothy Bahlau haven't overlooked a single detail in their effort to present the public with a fascinating display of early American memorabilia.

The 1890 General Store has an incredible array of antiques dangling from the ceiling, just like it was when old-time shopkeepers had to make use of limited storage space. A tantalizing assortment of goodies may be purchased such as floppy licorice sticks, succulent Pennsylvania Dutch Candies, hardy chunks of cheese, German meats, fancy canned goods, gifts and souvenirs.

Recall the days when pickles came in barrels? Reach in and savor the delectable flavor of a juicy gherkin while you stroll about and browse.

A letter may be mailed in the General Store at a post-office originally located in Frontier, Michigan, over 100 years ago.

Glance into a window and you may see the barber gingerly wielding the straight razor as his bearded customer holds a pistol in readiness for any slip-up — in the barber shop where one used to able to get a shave and a hair cut for only two-bits.

Stop by a silent flicker house and thrill to a real bang-up western or a romance of yesteryear.

The Old Trail Shop offers drovers, just in from a long cattle drive, the finest in new boots, hats, and western gear, and modern-day visitors will want to be outfitted in true western fashion.

Original antique shelving, store counters, fixtures and furnishings lend authentically to all the stores.

Slake your thirst — as the cowhands did — at the Longhorn Saloon, where Red-Eye soda or Sasparilla root beer and many tasty snacks are served.

Over 200 rifles and pistols are on display at Stagecoach Stop, most of them in the Saloon and Pistols and Petticoat Room.

A priceless collection of nickelodeons offers entertainment in the Saloon. Through their clear glass fronts one can see the paper rolls operating the piano, accordian, tam-

t surely looks like "real" gold in that chunk of ore weighed at the end of the bar. While he's waiting to out, the old prospector has stepped up to the Black Jack for a little excitement. The dance hall girls, in their oyant costumes look on with interest and the visitor ts to see "Doc Holliday" or "Miss Kitty" sitting at the table.

A reproduction of an old steam engine pulls the rubber-train on an exciting ride out of town, through a trap- settlement, through Shady Junction, past Boot Hill around the Indian Camp. Young train riders are pro- with trusty rifles to ward off attacks on the trip while eputy sheriff goes along to protect them.

Tickets for the train ride may be purchased at the ement Arcade. There's nearly 100 antique coin-oper- machines and early "peep-show" boxes in working order e Arcade.

Take time for a tempting hot fudge sundae in the old- oned ice cream parlor.

Next door is Dorothy Janes Glass Shop, which has an ual collection of reproduced glassware and western jew- for sale.

Children are delighted to pet the friendly baby donkey t is roaming about freely, while mama donkey, "E- haws" nearby.

One of the most unique displays is the valuable collection of horse-drawn carriages in the Carriage Museum. Several glass-sided, carved, wooden hearses, broughams and surreys recalling an earlier, elegant era, are displayed along with a rare harness collection.

Although the atmosphere is straight out of a dusty cow-poke town, complete with an aroma of horse-flesh and leather, visitors marvel at the "spit and polish" of the shops, despite their great quantites of antique artifacts and merchandise.

Worthy of several visits just to take it all in—the general admission at the Stop is $1.00 for adults and 50c for children. Kiddies under 5 years are free. Opening is at 10:30 a.m. and the last hoof-beat is heard at 7:30 p.m., 8:30 p.m. on Sunday.

The Stop is open full time until Labor Day, then the resort spot is open just for weekends until Oct. 31.

Each year new scenes come to life at the Stop, and much has been added since it was opened in 1965.

The Bahlaus live in Jackson, where Mr. Bahlau owns the Electric Maintenance and Repair Company.

You may catch a glimpse of their sons, Randy and David as they go galloping off into the sunset—after a busy day at Stagecoach Stop.

—HERALD PHOTO BY DAVID S. BUSH

ACHE JUNCTION — It looks like the Apache village is on warpath and a scout hightails it down the hillside to head the Stagecoach Stop train going that way. Excitement mounts as the sheriff and his deputies prepare for action. Shoot, Pardner, it all comes out all right the sun sinks slowly in the west. West of the Irish Hills, that is!

LIFE HEALTH

Pinched Nerves

PAIN — headache, backache, shoulder pains, arm and chest pains, a multitude of assorted pains in all parts of the body — develops quickly when the spinal cord or one of its nerves is pinched.

Pain may appear at the point where the nerve is pinched, or it may make its appearance in that part of the body served by the pinched nerve.

A pinched nerve can, and often does, lead to the development of disease conditions in the kidneys, bladder, liver, lungs, heart or other vital organs.

The chiropractor is an expert in one of the most advanced healing arts known to man. Through his soothing professional spinal adjustments he restores the normal flow of powerful nerve energy through the spinal cord and the nervous system to all muscles, organs and other vital parts of the body to bring lasting, effective relief.

With proper nerve energy flow restored, nature heals from within, eliminating discomfort and banishing disease. Another Health and Life Article from the Office of:

Michael E. Kossey Attends Officers Candidate School

Michael E. Kossey has successfully completed his 1st six weeks' training increment at Officer Candidate School as a member of the Platoon Leaders Class (PLC) program.

The PLC program, designed especially for college students, leads to a commission as a second lieutenant in the Marine Corps Reserve upon completion of two six-week or one 10-week combined training periods at Quantico and graduation from college.

Candidate Kossey, a sophomore at Eastern Michigan University, will return to Quantico, Va., after commissioning for a 21-week Basic Officer Course prior to assignment to one of many posts and stations the Marine Corps maintains both at home and abroad.

During his six weeks at Quantico, candidate Kossey, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Kossey, 5472 N. Rogers Hwy., received intensive physical, academic and leadership training in preparation for the time when he will become a Marine officer. Some PLCs will eventually be accepted for flight training and after Basic School will report to Pensacola, Fla., for further instruction that will win them the gold wings of a Naval Aviator.

The show starts at 8:30 p.m., box office at the theater is open daily except Sunday from 4 to 8.

Hot Mustang

For a while last Wednesday evening Brenda Hannah of 311 S. Wyandotte had the hottest Mustang in town. Firemen were called to the Party Shop on S. Maumee to extinguish a fire in an automobile.

Firemen arrived at the scene shortly after 10 p.m., too late to keep Miss Hannah's car from a total loss.

Through My Window

LET'S GO BACK TO SYCAMORE STREET

These days the emphasis is all on politics. Everything one reads or hears refers to the conventions, the campaigns or the election. There is great importance attached to equal time — each party must be given the same opportunity to present its side of the picture. Well, the clamoring for equal time is contagious I guess. Each day I look through my south-facing window across Logan Street and Prettyman's yard to the north and south running street which is Democrat.

Where have the Republicans been all these years?

Actually, this whole street name bit is the General's fault. He surprised me one evening with the question, "Do you know where Sycamore Street is?" Tecumseh has some marvelous street names, it is nice that we are trying to abide by our Indian name and stick to Indianish streets but there was a short period when trees were used.

Maple and Pine come readily to mind — but Sycamore? It turns out that on old Tecumseh maps the street now known as Democrat was originally Sycamore Street. What happened?

WHO ELSE BUT the always helpful Clara Waldron came to my rescue. The General got to her first but finally I made telephone contact and, as suspected, there is a story behind the switch of names. On the old maps the street is indeed designated as Sycamore Street.

Probably around the turn of the century though the switch occurred. In our heavily Republican town there were a few misguided families who favored the opposition. They were strong-minded Irish Orrs and McClures; five families lived on the then Sycamore Street.

Who did it and why is pure speculation. Did the rabid Republicans lump their opponents together and talk about Democrat Street? Was it a rallying thing which the Democrats did themselves?

Where was a sign put up? The one for sure and positive thing — and thanks to Clara for verifying it — is that Sycamore became Democrat and there was a hotbed of believers in that political party living there.

There is still confusion about the street name, though. Most people say "Democrat" — for years, though, a few of us have fought an uphill battle and caused many raised eyebrows by saying "Democratic". That is nonpartisan, it does not rub the soul of a Republican the wrong way.

In the telephone book, however, the people who live on the once Sycamore Street, have addresses listed on Democrat. Just to add to the confusion, the street signs — or at least the one on the corner of Logan and by now I do not know what to call it — but anyway this sign, in the patriotic black and orange, proclaims DEMOCRATIC.

IT SEEMS grossly unfair to have a Democrat street in town if the Republicans are not given equal billing. And mustn't it rankle a staunch Republican to have as his home address Democrat Street? Just think how many times during the course of a week a person uses his address. It does not seem "quite cricket" to make Republicans advertise the enemy.

So it is that in our free society I think a campaign may have to be started, a campaign which will assure both parties equal time — I vote that we put politics aside and return to the original, let's go back to Sycamore Street.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Living in the 200 block of South Union Street, I would like to express my gratitude for the curb and gutter. These improvements, long anticipated and slow in coming, I feel justified in saying I "thank you" for the entire block.

However, concerning the private driveway approachments, I would deeply appreciate an explanation as to why the homeowner should be obligated to replace approachments that prior to being mutilated by council approved contractors were considered by private individuals to be in satisfactory, if not perfect condition.

The public benefits, also, from these improvements. Shouldn't a fair solution commit the city to assume at least a percentage of the replacement cost?

Having been compelled to assume 100% cost for the new curb and gutter, the never ending rise in local taxes for the very limited privileges on private property, causes one to seriously evaluate the disadvantages of home ownership.

Do I hear three cheers?, maybe one.

Respectfully,
Mrs. Ann Winstead

To The Editor:

I, too, am disturbed by the vandalism which is going on in our community. But isn't it just possible that we are also to blame? Just what do we offer our young people for recreation in this town? Oh yes, we have the teen club dances, for those in high school, at 75c a dance, and swimming at the park, period.

Do you want to roller skate? Go to Adrian. Do you want to see a movie at the show? Go to Adrian. Want to shoot a game of billiards? Go to Adrian to the O Cue N Bucket or the Coca Club. Want to see a drive-in movie? Go to Adrian at $1.25 a person. Don't have a car? Then thumb it or forget it!

Once a year at least, the kids had the battle of the bands at the sidewalk sale. Noisy, sure but the kids loved it! This year, forget how much the kids loved it, we parents didn't like the noise. So we shoved a bunch of squaredancers down their throats that even I, as an adult wouldn't watch if they paid me to.

So by all means, let's really slap a curfew law on the kids. We can't have them sneaking off to Adrian to enjoy themselves. No, I am not condoning vandalism by any means. But maybe we parents had better take a look at what we have to offer these kids. Of course, if we have to, we can always send them to the playgrounds to learn leather craft and how to play checkers.

Mrs. G. W. West

To The Editor:

It is very popular these days to criticize our young people but seldom do you hear words of praise and commendation. We would like the people of the area to know about our recent wonderful exprience with our much maligned youths.

In the sale of the Faraday Division of Gray Manufacturing Company to Frank Flack Industries, Inc., it was necessary to take inventory involving some 15,000 items under the supervision of Price Waterhouse and Company. We employed some temporary help to assist in this work, and for the most part, they were high school seniors and college students. This was exacting work and I am sure there was some apprehension on the part of both students and parents as to whether they would measure up to the requirements of the job.

We are happy to report these students performed their tasks beautifully. Their attitude, willingness to work, dependability and cooperation was outstanding.

As newcomers to the area, we were thoroughly impressed and the community is most fortunate to have such high-calibre young people living in the area.

4-H Fair Reports Needed By Mon.

Recognition for hard work and resourcefulness is certainly deserved by the youthful members and adult leaders of the area 4-H Clubs. Their outstanding exhibits at the Lenawee County Fair play a large part in making it such a successful fair.

The Herald will print reports of the awards won by the club members. They should be received at The Herald office in typewritten form by Monday, Aug. 19 for use in the Aug. 22 edition.

To avoid repetitious use of words, the following form is suggested for reports:

Club Name
Leaders
State Show Winners and their projects.
All other winners listed by project, then group by blue ribbon, red ribbon, and white, in each category.

Using this form will make it possible to send directly to our typesetter without retyping.

Quite A Girl!

BRITTON — Mr. and Mrs. Carl Auten attended a reception Sunday given in honor of their granddaughter, Miss Ann Marie Auten, at the home of her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Fox in Athens.

Miss Auten graduated August 11 from the School of Engineering at Oakland University at Rochester, Mich. She was the only girl in the graduating class, and graduated with honors.

GUESTS OF CITIZEN PATRIOT — Among couples attending the Jackson Citizen Patriot Golden Wedding Club's annual picnic last week were Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Driscoll of Tecumseh. There was a visit with the old Herald editor, Tom Riordan, who is currently a columnist for the Jackson paper with his articles appearing Wednesdays, Fridays and Sundays. During his 20-some-years writing columns, he has frequently won recognition and honors. The Riordan family moved from Tecumseh to Jackson last month. (Photo by Steve McCourtie)

Keith could care less that his glass of milk costs Mom only about 5 cents, or that he's enjoying more food value than any other single food could give him. To Keith it just tastes good. Milk is nature's most generous contribution to robust good health. At any age. Milk takes only about 18% of our food dollar, yet it's the source of 28% of our food. No food costs so little and gives so much.

TRAIN CLASSES — Mrs. Theodore Golat recently completed her training in Battle Creek for instructing others in managing Civil Defense shelters. She receives her certificate here from Edward Sears, school director. Mrs. Golat will head a Lenawee County training program.

QUESTION:
"Do you recommend private services?"

ANSWER:
The type service requested is the undisputed prerogative of the individual family. However, we must admit that death is not really a private affair. If the funeral is not publicly announced and only those receiving personal invitations may attend the services, the family is considered very selfish.

Two Families Observe Reunion Day at Park

BRITTON — Sunday, August 11 was National Family Reunion Day, and the Britton Village Park was used for two area reunions.

The 30th annual Kuster Reunion was held there, with 37 in attendance for a cooperative dinner and social afternoon.

William Kuster of Britton was reelected president, and Mrs. Arnold Breckel of Cleveland was elected secretary.

Owen Kuster came the longest distance to attend, from Denver, Colo.

The Kusters will meet next year the second Sunday in August in the Britton park once again.

Fifty members attended the annual Fairbanks reunion, also held Sunday afternoon in the park. A cooperative dinner was served at 1 p.m., and the afternoon was spent socially.

Holden McElroy of South Bend was elected president for the coming year, and Phyllis McElroy was chosen for secretary-treasurer.

Myrlen Fairbanks journeyed the longest distance to attend, from Florida. Other members arrived from Toledo, O.; Lambertville, Dundee, Tecumseh, Adrian, Blissfield, Tipton, and the Britton area.

It was voted to invite the Davis family to next year's reunion, which will be held the second Sunday in September in the Britton Park.

BRITTON BRIEFS

The Dorcas Class will meet for a noon luncheon Thursday in the Fellowship Center of the Congregational Christian Church.

The Ladies Guild of Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Ridge Highway will hold a rummage and bake sale the next two Saturdays; August 17th and 24th, at the church, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sweet Sixteen

BRITTON — Cindy Ivan and Linda Seagert were the honored guests at a 16th birthday party held at Wamplers Lake recently.

Twenty-five friends and classmates enjoyed an afternoon of swimming.

Mrs. Raymond Seagert and Mrs. Ivan assisted Mrs. Anthony Ivan in serving refreshments of sandwiches, punch, and a guitar-shaped birthday cake.

The girls each received nice gifts.

Rev. J. Calhoun To Speak Sunday

BRITTON — The Rev. James Calhoun of Jackson will be the guest speaker at the Bethel Baptist Church Sunday morning at 11 a.m.

Called But Not Chosen

Ah politics, where is thy sting? More than likely in defeat. During the coming months the citizens of histrionics will supplicate the subjects of a proposed Camelot. Our heads shall be annointed with the oils of the self-appointed apostles.

An old story traveled much of Europe centuries ago, among the Yiddish people concerning the Thirteenth Apostle. The story concerned a young fisherman who heard of The Coming and traveled always a step behind. He arrived too late for The Last Supper, he looked in the window but was forced back at the door. "He who was called but not Chosen."

In a strange way all of the dreamers and do-gooders who liven up the political spectrum are Thirteenth Apostles. Called but not chosen. Somehow out of this the people are strangely becoming unaware of the self-evident truths which this country was founded for.

Flag-waving is an extravagance these days in most quarters even antiquated, it belongs in the Smithsonian Institute. While this isn't true, neither is it true that we have anywhere to go except down.

When are we going to learn what a self-evident truth is?

Just what is this thing called a self-evident truth? Well, it's something you know isn't right, it is something that belongs to your nature, a longing to be free when you are bound, a someplace to be, a need to love and be loved regardless of who you are and to do without restrictions. It's learning or pursuing a niche in life that belongs to you. Self-evident truths are the sum and substance of human nature.

Personally I don't want anyone anointing by head with anything, save a bit of knowledge now and then or wisdom if ever I'm bright enough to comprehend it.

Despite tragedy and torment and struggle this country manages to stay on top. How long that will continue is difficult to say. Here we are, the most powerful country in the world staving off battles against an army no bigger than Pancho Villa's, and yet we can't, after four and a half years, say we've won anything.

Havelock Ellis wrote, "What we call progress is the exchange of one Nuisance for another Nuisance." If we had performed at the Alamo as we have in Vietnam, Texas would be the largest state in Mexico.

And what about the progress in civil disorders? How long has it been since people feared traveling to a large city in summer? How long has it been since Americans spilled the blood of other Americans on their own soil? Tragically speaking, one awfully long time.

No one would undertake being a carpenter without training, you would not hire an electrician that did not know AC from DC. No man would seek employment where he knew not the job, even the meanest, and yet in government, the most difficult of all tasks, everyone knows just how its done, in relation to himself.

We live in a world which has for a long time been struggling against its own environment. We are no different. A little more naive perhaps naive enough to believe ourselves immortal.

We exist on the face of the earth for such a short time, we begin in an eternity and leave the earth to return to another. Would it be nice to see life as an endless dream glimmering listlessly on the tide? It wouldn't really, that is why our environment controls us, haunts us with its endless and timeless scheme.

Surely there is good to be done, but also there is something else to retrieve from the sands of time, a little bit of a thing called human kindness. How tired the handshake has become, how listless the dream of some creation?

Sometimes I wish the whole lot of politicians would go jump in the lake after taking lessons in drowning. But that would bring on anarchy and despots and there we'd be, right back where we started, with those self evident truths. Those forgotten ones like freedom to think, to speak, to just take a walk in the sunshine without fear; something men or people in Vietnam can't do.

When equalibrium is restored to America and to the world for that mattre, the anointment will continue. But maybe someday when all this is over and we are too old and too tired to fight wars, too sick of hating, one way or the other; and here in America both sides of the race question wind up in hate. Hate is hate whether it be justifiable from a moral question or not.

The day that happens some politician can walk up and try to tell the plebesites how great they are then they'll know there are no great men, only men who have to make uncommon decisions.

Mr. Politician, anoint me not, for I'd rather sit on a pumpkin all by myself than sit on a high velvet throne and be crowded by people I don't like.

A CREW OF ADVENTURESOME YOUNG LASSES FROM CLEVELAND CHALLENGE THE RAISIN RIVER.

Ah! Wilderness and Tip-a-Canoe

The undaunted enterprise of the female gender was displayed when the Red Mill Pond was invaded Monday by a cruising group of canoers.

The group of teen-age girls were seen by Robert Moore as they flexed their muscles on the paddles. The girls are from a private camp located near Cleveland, Red Raider.

Accompanying the tanned Pocohantises from Ohio were three counselors. A bus provided transportation when necessary and Archie Tucker the male counselor's driving kept up with the girls' paddlework.

The journey was to start on the River Raisin in Clinton and continue through to Deerfield. However, in Cleveland they had not heard of the dam condition in town and were forced to take their boats out of the water at the Evans Street bridge and be transported to Deerfield by bus.

The oft mentioned bus was a nemesis for the young adventurers, enroute to Clinton two flat tires provided certain frustrations and apprehensions for the girls. One layover at a gas station stretched into three hours.

The girls left Clinton on the river in the afternoon last Saturday, stopping twice to camp out alongside the river in fields and meadows.

One exasperating experience ocurred on the river just north of Tecumseh. One boat tipped in the water and began to fill. The counselors had the girls head for the shore and abandon ship, so to speak. As they were doing so, the one canoe filled with water and started back down stream. The counselors jumped in the water to retrieve it.

The young people seemed to be enjoying their adventure on the Raisin River and are typical of many such adventures young and old people alike remember of going down the local river.

The girls were in good spirits as only young people can be when participating in something of youth.

All of the girls in the group were from Ohio with the exception of Miss Jacobs who is from Philadelphia. The boys from the camp went further north to travel the Rifle River. They met Monday in Deerfield to wind up their weekend jaunt.

The scene was reminiscent of many an August adventure, where young people see for themselves that one last feel of youthful freedom before school starts in the fall.

DEATH SCENE — This innocent looking intersection is proving to be a death trap for motorists. Looking north in this photo on M-5?, drivers have an excellent view of traffic, east and west, on M-50. Unfortunately, they disregard - or fail to see - both a stop sign and red flashing light. This undoutedly happened Saturday afternoon when a 29-year-old Toledo woman was killed and her passenger critically injured.

City Offered Ponds for Only $15,000

An offer by Perry Satterthwaite to sell Globe Mill Pond, Standish Pond, raceway, water rights, and approximately 17 adjoining acres was made to Council Monday night. An option on the property was authorized.

Mr. Satterthwaite, president of Hayden Fuel and Supply, told officials that he would sell for $15,000. The low sale price led some officials and others present to thinking that he is practically making a gift to the community.

Nearly 90 acres is involved, and before the Globe Mill Pond dam went out, approximately 43 acres were under water.

Council has indicated that it would like to see a new dam and the pond filled. Several officials have inferred that it could be the city's source of water in the future.

Early in the discussion, City Clerk Vera Zornow read a report from an Ann Arbor engineering firm, estimating cost of replacing the dam at $175,000.

Mr. Satterthwaite, an engineer himself, questioned the estimate and inquired from Council if the firm weren't primarily involved in construction of sewer and water mains. Officials confirmed that it was.

The estimate listed concrete at $62,500; piling, $8,400; remove old concrete, $3,000; sheet piling, $18,000; slide gates, $20,000; earth fill, $16,200; raceway, $5,000, miscellaneous, $6,900; and contingencies and engineering, $35,000.

Mr. Satterthwaite said the property had been in the family since 1856 and told Councilmen he would like to retain a couple of lots on Burt St.

He related several past events about the property, including construction and rebuilding of the dam which was washed out, how the Globe Mill Pond received its name and other historical information.

When officials asked if his sale offer included the hydro plant for making electricity, Mr. Satterthwaite said it did and assured them that it was in good working condition.

He has been selling electricity to Consumers Power for many years. Officials discussed briefly about using the plant for some of its power.

If the city exercises its option, Federal funds may be available for constructing a new dam. Mr. Satterthwaite said such funds could be available from three different agencies.

Several residents, including some who live in Herrick Park, attended Monday night's session. They've been concerned with the Globe Mill Pond since the June flood ripped out the dam and left the basin practically dry.

MIS Work Is Rolling

Michigan International Speedway is swiftly moving ahead with plans for the October 20 opening of the most modern race complex in the world. In a visit to the race site, west of Cambridge Junction on US-12, the scenery has greatly changed from the rolling countryside which once greeted travelers between Chicago and Detroit.

The way is quickly being paved from all directions to the race site, the serenity of the hills has been shattered by bulldozers and other large earth moving equipment which are burgeoning ahead with clearing and preparing the track.

At present grandstand is being built of pre-cast cement on steel girders. The girders individually weigh better than a ton apiece. The grandstand when completed will seat some 25,000 spectators.

The retainer wall which is built around the oval track has been completed. The walls are of reinforced concrete.

Parts of the pits, where the racers go to prepare for a race or to refuel, has been partially paved. A certain portion of the tracks primarily on the turns have been paved with bituminous asphalt. The infield has been seeded and straw has been blown over the new seeding to protect it.

The infield will be landscaped and manicured to give a spectacular view of the racing facility. While the finishing touches are being applied to the track and the grounds, speedway officials have set aside observation points which give a composite view of the entire operation. Travelers can stop and view the work being done.

The construction armada has moved over 2,000,000 yards of dirt in preparing the oval course and the road course. The amassed machinery of the construction companies involved, made it one of the large undertakings in Michigan construction.

Annexation Is Approved

Annexation of a small lot, including a house, just east of Les Dallas, Inc. on W. Chicago Blvd., was approved by Council Monday night, but not until after usage was confirmed for the property.

According to Mayor Harold Easton and Gregg Forsthoefel, attorney, the land has been sold to a Jackson resident who plans to operate a restaurant-tavern here.

Before such inofrmation was revealed, a motion to approve the annexation by Councilman William Holmes was dropped due to a lack of a second. Councilman Dr. Carlton Cook objected to the annexation because rear boundary lines were not straight with existing city boundaries.

Councilman Gene Tuckey said he wanted to be sure what purpose the property was to be used for. At this point, Mayor Easton and Mr. Forsthoefel assured him of its intended purpose.

A second motion was made and passed with Dr. Cook dissenting.

The property, owned by Harvey Wilson, has already been sold, according to Mr. Forsthoefel.

Intersection Claims Another Fatality

Billington Corners — intersection of M-50 and M-52 — continued to take its toll Saturday with one dead, on critically injured, and a Tecumseh family of three injured, but not seriously.

It was the third fatality of the year at the intersection. Many others have been seriously injured with permanent disability to several.

Killed here mid-Saturday afternoon was Mrs. Amanda L. Holmquist, 29, of Toledo. She died at the scene

Her passanger, Donald Coverett, 45, Sylvania, suffered multiple fractures of the legs, internal and head injuries. He was rushed in the sheriff's ambulance to University Hospital, Ann Arbor, where his condition is still critical.

Local folks who fortunately escaped serious injury were Mr. and Mrs. Melvin J. Purple and son, Clifford, at 509 N. Evans St.

Mr. Purple and his son suffered lacerations and bruises and were released from Herrick Hospital early this week. Mrs. Purple suffered a broken collar bone and was released Tuesday.

According to the Clinton State Police report, Mrs. Holmquist was traveling north on M-52 and ran the stop sign and blinker light. She was struck in the left side by the Purples, who were returning from their vacation and were headed east.

The Holmquist car, a small imported auto, was crushed by the impact, and skidded about 285 feet on its top. Mr. Purple stopped about 136 feet after the impact. Both autos were traveling about 60 mph at the time.

The accident, one of many which have occurred at the intersection, has drawn the attention of Tecumseh Council, Tecumseh Township officials and Sheriff Dick Germond and Representative Robert Stites.

Council Monday night approved a resolution to be sent to the State Highway Department. Officials here are urging the state department to study the intersection for improvement.

Art Eaton, Tecumseh Township Supervisor, contacted both Sheriff Germond and Rep. Stites Tuesday and sought their help in eliminating the number of accidents at the site.

According to Mr. Eaton, both Mr. Stites and Mr. Germond will recommend additional traffic signals for motorists traveling on M-52.

Librarian Is Hired By Board

Mrs. Joyce Woods of Ypsilanti has been hired by the School Board to succeed Mrs. Murray Day as head librarian at the Public Library, effective as of Nov. 1.

She started working here full time on Aug. 12.

Mrs. Wood graduated from Western Michigan University in 1961, and last April she earned her master's degree from the University of Michigan. For the past three years she has worked in the Ann Arbor Public Library.

Youths Accused of $8 Robbery

Willard Southwell, of 4707 Rogers Hwy., reported to police last Wednesday night that he was robbed of $8 in the vicinity of E. Chicago Blvd. and Wyandotte St.

He told the police that two youths threatened him unless he gave them money.

Two youths, about 20, were picked up later but denied the charges, including even being in the area. However, they were identifed by Southwell.

Both were released pending further action.

Tecumseh Needs A Clean Sweep

Bids for a new street sweeper have been sought and will be opened here Aug. 29, Council learned Monday night.

Present sweeper has proven to be inadequate.

8 Warned by Police

Eight Tecumseh families have been warned about allowing their children—under 18 years of age—to be on city streets after curfew hours.

Police Chief Murell Clark says the parents will be warned the first time and then arrested if youngsters are picked up a second time.

Local curfew is 10 p.m., Sunday through Thursday, and 11 p.m. for Friday and Saturday nights.

School Bells Ringing Sept. 4

If there's any doubt that summer is passing, it's the announcement that Tecumseh schools will open for the 1968-69 term on Sept. 4 for all students except kindergartners

Kindergartners do not report until Thursday, Sept. 5.

For the past several weeks, officials have been preparing for the new term. On August 29, Principals Neville Hart and David Dick will begin registering new students for the high school and junior high.

Mrs. Rose Anne Vollmar is registering pupils in kindergarten through the sixth grade at the Board of Education office on W. Chicago Blvd.

Teachers will assemble and hold a general meeting on Tuesday morning, Sept. 3, in the cafeteria at the high school. Conferences and other sessions will follow throughout most of the day.

As protection for Tecumseh pupils the Board and the county and state health department requires all staff members to have tuberculosis tests each year and these are done by the Lenawee County Health Department. All staff members must have these tests or necessary X-rays before school opens September 3, 1968.

A hot lunch program will begin Sept. 5 in the high school. Milk will be available in all other buildings, and children will be expected to bring their own lunches. Junior High pupils may purchase luncheons at the high school if they prefer.

Eligibility of elementary children to remain at school for lunches will be determined by the same rules as last year. Children living within .7 mile of school will be expected to walk home for lunch. Special arrangements may be made, if both parents work away from home. Such parents should contact the principal of the school that their child attends.

The hot lunch program and the milk program will both be operated this year. The fee at the cafeteria for pupils will be 40c. Federal and state aid, both in money and surplus foods, have in the past enabled our schools to provide a wholesome lunch at this reasonable price. The school is not allowed to operate at a profit nor is it expected to lose money.

Pupils bringing lunches may buy milk at 4c per carton for white, and when available, chocolate milk, except in the Junior High which uses vending machines and the charge is 5c.

Bus service for pupils will again be on a "safety first" basis. The State Law, stating that pupils in the grades kindergarten through sixth, may be required to walk up to one-half mile to scheduled bus routes and pupils in grades seven through twelve up to one mile, is used to determine the length of bus routes as well as to group pupils so that fewer stops may be made.

Backtracking has been eliminated unless absolutely necessary. Parents of pupils requested to join groups at pick-up points are again asked to give their cooperation.

This year the state will again pay for the transportation of parochial school children to parochial schools on public school busses. All parochial school children who meet the requirements for transporation will be bussed by the Tecumseh Public Schools.

Only 1 Teacher Needed for Staff

Tecumseh schools are only one teacher short for the 1968-69 term - a second grade teacher for Macon - but Supt. James McDowell is confident of filling the position before school starts Sept. 4.

New teachers hired by the board Monday night were: Mrs. Sandra Balhoff, English, High School, from Adrian.

Mrs. Jean Burns, sixth grade, Tecumseh Acres, from Lake Forest, Ill.

Mrs. Marie Mason, assistant librarian, Public Library. She is from Deerfield and formerly operatd the Lenawee County Book Mobile.

In other School Board action, Rufus T. Gillam's resignation as Patterson School Principal was accepted, and Earl Greene was appointed his successor.

25,000-SEAT STADIUM — Michigan International Speedway's 25,000-seat stadium is nearing completion and will be ready for the inaugeral race on Oct. 13th. Ticket sales are reported above expectations and a crowd of 50,000 or more are being predicted. First entries for the race came in this week with Bobby and Al Unser signing. Both are well known drivers with Bobby taking first place on Memorial Day in the Indy 500. Speeds are expected to surpass those of Indianapolis by 10 mph. Practice and qualifying will be held Saturday, Oct. 12 starting in the morning.

BOB OSBURU STANDS BESIDE THE CHART OF COUNTY RAINFALL

Rainfall Patterns are Studied

One of the most unusual 4-H projects at last week's Lenawee County Fair was the "Project Rainfall" display, coordinated by Bob Osburn of Tipton Jets 4-H Club .

Developed this past Spring, "Project Rainfall" is a summer-time project for Lenawee County 4-Hers, who, at various locations around the county, record the rainfall daily during the summer months. These observations are then sent to Bob Osburn, Jr., project coordinator, of Tipton. These are compiled and isohyetal maps are drawn. Isohyteal maps are "lines of equal rainfall" maps. The purpose of the project is to attempt to learn what rainfall patterns exist in Lenawee County. For example, does it rain more in the Britton-Deerfield area than in the Irish Hills?

Helping Bob to coordinate the project was tSeve Church, also of Tipton, who acted as assistant coordinator. The two recently traveled over 250 miles around the county attempting to get the pictures of those in "Project Rainfall." Bob and Steve sincerely appreciated the efforts and time of the 4-H observers, some of whom entered individual weather projects in the fair.

This year, 21 Lenawee 4-Hers kept records of the rainfall daily, from May 5 to July 27. They were Nancy Hiftline and Pat Herr, Fairfield 4-H; Bill Ziss, Mulberry Willing Workers; Roger Sherman, Adrian 4-H; Marcia Snead and Curtis Parsons, Onsted Sweet Clovers; Elfie Buell, Steve Church and Bob Osburn, Jr., Tipton Jets; Keith Schaffer, Chuck Irwin and Meryl Eaton, Britton-Macon 4-H; Doug Pickles, State Line Hustlers; Diane Meyers, Raisin Slickers; Bill Hodgins and Debbie Gray, Mulberry Willing Workers; Lou Ann Goodlock, Addison Stitchettes; Barbara Powers, Rita Bennett and Paul Gautz, Madison Kitty Hawks; and Donna Poling, Riga Junior Homemakers.

Helping Bob to coordinate the project was tSeve Church, also of ipton, who acted as assistant coordinator. The two recently traveled over 250 miles around the county attempting to get the pictures of those in "Project Rainfall." Bob and Steve sincerely appreciated the efforts and time of the -H observers, some of whom entered individual weather projects in the Fair.

Bill Walters and Pat Johnson, Lenawee County 4-H agents, and the secretaries of the Coun Extension office were extremel helpful and without them th project could never have gotte off the ground.

As yet, results of the proje are incomplete. However, on th basis of the observations of th 4-Hers, during the month of Jun 1968 rainfall was heaviest ove the northwestern quarter of th county and lightest over the e treme southern portion of th county. The official "Proje Rainfall" report with the result and conclusions of the projec will be issued through the Cou ty Extension office sometime i September, 1968.

It is expected that "Proje Rainfall" will be undertake again next summer, thoug these plans are not yet definit One thing seems certain: Th 1968 version of "Project Rai fall" was a success.

Dancing Party Says Farewell

BRITTON—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Covell of Britton hosted a party for their son, Paul, who is leaving August 27 for Vietnam with the Army.

Friends and relatives attended the party in the Tecumseh Community Center, Sunday afternoon.

YOU TOLD US

Dick Shirley, Publisher of th Tobacco Valley News in Eureka, at the far northwest corner of Montana, just below the Canadian border, surprised us when he recognized the name of our home town paper. Then he showed us a stack of reprints of Tom Riodan's articles from the National Publisher magazine, Small World.

Tobacco Valley, a town of less than 2,000, got its name from the Indians who followed tobacco raising experiments of the missionary Priest.

No evidence of tobacco raising now in the valley of the Kootenay River, covered in prehistoric times by an enormous ice sheet. Kootenai is the Indian word for deer robes.

Lots of lumbering here and yesterday we saw a real live grandaddy moose. WOW!

Ft. McLeod, just south of Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

Travel worn and weary from a day of looking, looking, looking, in Glacier National Park, we limped in here on our way to Banff. Two fingers of red table cordial and a hot bath make life rosier as Pa watches football on TV.

No bears in Glacier, no deer, no moose, only beautiful, magnificent mountains with beargrass and other wild flowers galore, blue, blue sky and dozens of hungry chipmunks.

Hungry Horse Dam is a story by itself. Two horses, Tex and Jerry, nearly starved from spending a month in the snow on the mountains. They survived and the dam, a mountain and a town were named for them.

Mr. and Mrs. John Seay, of Adrian St., are entertaining visitors for two weeks. They are Mr. Seay's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Weaver and family of Amarilla, Texas, and his parnts, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Seay, of Miami, Okla. The families visited Windsor, Ont., and the Detroit Zoo, Friday, and Greenfield Village Saturday.

Visitors for the week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Hippert were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Insley of Rock Falls, Ill., and her aunt, Mrs. Nellie Bonnell, of Rockford, Ill. Joining them for dinner Sunday, were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Insley and family and Linda Williams of Rock Falls, Ill., and Mrs. Leland Ackley and daughter, Pat, of Adrian.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Todd and son, Robert, have returned from a trailer jaunt around the circle tour of the Gaspe Peninsula in eastern Quebec Province. They returned home by way of the Trans - Canada Hwy., around Georgian Bay Hwy. to Sault Ste. Marie.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hiser and son Gary visited East Tawas for a week and then traveled to West LaFayette, Ind., to visit other son, Allen, a student at Purdue University. Son Gary was home on leave from the Air Force and he is presently stationed at Omaha, Neb.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Preston have returned from a visit with their son, Petty Officer Barry Seidel, who recently completed basic training with the Navy at Great Lakes Naval Training Station, Ill. They spent a few days in Wisconsin, also. Petty Officer Seidel is expected home this week for his first leave.

OFF the TOP

By CHRISTINE FAIRBANKS

Our ten-year-old daughter, inspired no doubt by recent Campfire Girl outings, has been stricken with tenting fever.

All summer long she has busied herself every few days making makeshift tents in the backyard, or over the clothesline, or on the side porch. These carefully contrived shelters have been built with the aid of old bedspreads or blankets; with lawn chairs and tray tables, and even once the barbeque grill used to prop up the draped blankets. And one gloriously colored tent, which she put up right on the side porch where visitors make their entrance 99% of the time, featured our entire collection of gaudy beachtowels festooned around the chairs.

I shuddered to think what the neighbors or passers-by thought of these weird contrivances, but daughter didn't mind in the least. She was having a blast, playing house, and hospital, and school with her friends, and couldn't care less about public opinion. I decided that I, too, should adopt a "What the heck!" attitude, and let her go on her merry way. After all, that's part of growing up.

Then, she began saying that she wanted to sleep out all night in one of her tents.

I tried to dissuade her at first, being pretty sure in my own mind that she wouldn't last the night out, but she was persistent, so I finally said, "Okay, you can try it."

She went out the first night just as it got dark, full of happy anticipation and perhaps a few inner qualms, but she was back in the house in half an hour, saying it was cold out there.

Dad and I exchanged knowing glances, but we agreed that it probably WAS too cold out there, and I figured that was the end of that.

But no — in a few days, she worked up enough courage to want to try again. She struggled all one afternoon constructing just the perfect shelter, and just as it got dark, she trudged out, loaded down with blankets and sleeping bag, and I thought, "This time she'll make it."

"You'll never stay out there alone all night," teased her brother, "There's liable to be a bear out there." You know how big brothers are. But she vowed that she would too.

Well, she lasted about an hour and a half that night. Dad and I had gone to bed, but not to sleep, for who could sleep with the youngest camping out alone in the backyard? Finally, I heard her tip-toeing into the house. I called to ask her why she had come in, and her honest answer was "I kept hearing funny noises."

A good enough reason — I'd come in too if I were out there by myself.

A couple of weeks later, she was ready to try again, this time in a friend's backyard tent. The two girls would keep up each other's courage, we reasoned.

Big Brother, however, was still taking odds that they would not stay out all night.

And when she came home the next morning dragging her sleeping bag, I knew before she reached the door, by the discouraged look on her face, that once more she had been kept from her goal.

"So," teased Big Brother, "the Great White Camper chickens out again!" provoking the tired little girl to tears.

By this time, camping out was a constant topic of conversation. It had become almost an obsession — a sort of self-set goal she must reach. Then Dad and I thought, perhaps if she had a real tent, which was roomy, and snug and secure, it would help; so we ordered a sturdy umbrella tent. As soon as it arrived, it had to be set up in the backyard.

My, how splendid it looked! Especially after the makeshift tents which had graced the yard the past weeks. It was duly admired by all, and of course, daughter wanted to sleep out the very first night.

But it seemed her friends were busy, or away at the fair, or visiting grandmother, and she wanted so much to sleep out, that guess who was a reluctant volunteer to join the youngest for a night in the tent? Good old Mom, of course.

"You mean you're going to leave me and the innerspring to curl up in a sleeping bag?" queried Dad.

"Somebody's gotta do it," was the reply.

We began taking in supplies, including cookies and potato chips to stave off starvation; and as it was Tiger baseball night, and Mom is a real fan, we ran an extension cord out the back window into the tent, and plugged in the radio. Then we thought we might as will add a clock and nightlight.

Are you sure you don't want the portable TV, too?" said Dad, but we decided we'd gone far enough, and so hied off to bed.

It was really kind of fun, lying in the tent, watching the darkness of night descend, and the stars begin to twinkle. Cars and kids on bikes went by for an hour or so, and now and then a dog barked. We talked a bit, then it was quiet, save for the chirping crickets, and we slept.

Morning brought Dad to the door of the tent, checking on his "girls," and especially one happy little one, who had finally stayed out all night in the tent.

Since then the tent has seen a succession of friends, and camp-out pajama parties have proved to be really fun. Daughter has passed the test, and is now a full-fledged "backyard camper."

Three B & E's Investigated

Three minor breaking and entering incidents were investigated here by the Tecumseh police during the past week.

A portable TV was taken from the Ben McWilliams residence Monday after a thief, or thieves, broke through a rear screen door.

What might seem like pop art or op art at first glance is really a composite of the high flying rides that gave many youngsters and oldsters thrills during the fair.

Too Many Accidents

A second, thorough look is needed for the intersection of M-50 and M-52, commonly known by folks here as Billington Corners.

It's been the scene of too many nasty accidents, some claiming lives. Unless some thing is done, more and more lives apparently are doomed.

We applaud Council's resolution Monday night, the action of Art Eaton and the cooperation offered by Rep. Robert Stites and Sheriff Dick Germond.

The more attention focused on the intersection, the sooner action will be taken - we hope.

Michigan's State Highway Department certainly has many experts in reviewing and correcting high fatality intersections Billington corners is becoming one. We're not offering any suggestions, just a plea for help for folks here, our friends and neighbors, and the tourists who visit and pass through our section of Michigan.

Action is needed!

Thanks, Perry

In this era of inflation, it's almost unheard of for anyone to sell property at the rate of $250 per acre. It's even more startling when one realizes that of 60 acres involved, 43 acres is normally under water.

Perry Satterthhwaite offered the city a "gift" Monday night when he suggested $15,000 for the Globe Mill Pond. Standish Pond, raceway and adjoining property.

Council indicated it would buy the property - an option was authorized - and the community should whole heartedly approve the purchase.

The new dam to replace the one washed out in the June flood could be costly, but benefits from Globe Pond could be many - including a source of water for Tecumseh in the future.

As to construction of the dam, we may be able to acquire Federal monies, lessening local costs. City officals were successful not too many years ago in obtaining Federal aid for expanding the disposal plant

The benefits will far outweigh the cost. "Thanks Perry."

The article written by my aunt, Mrs. Margaretta Brisbin, contained some errors she was not aware of. If you wish, I would appreciate the following information be included in the Herald verbatum.

On July 20, Yeoman 3rd Class Robert G. LaPrad and Mrs. La Prad (Formerly Jacqueline Cunkle of Britton) took up temporary residence at Coronado, Calif. where YN3 LaPrad underwent three weeks of counter-insurgency, gunnery and survival school. The young couple then drove north to Travis Air Force Base where YN3 LaPrad boarded a jet for Cam Ranh Bay, Republic of Vietnam for a 13-month tour of duty in country with Coastal Squadron One (Navy "Swift" Boats).

Mrs. LaPrad then drove cross-country back to Milan, where she will reside with her grandmother, Mrs. G. M. Ferrington, while she resumes her studies at Eastern Michigan University.

An added note, while I was in transit to Saigon, I noted a conspicuous absence of enemy action. Since I have been in country in Saigon, Ca. Pamh Bay and Danang, I have learned that, except for Viet Cong terrorist attacks, all our military bases are extremely secure. I hope this will reassure the families of the men of our area.

Yeoman LaPrad's address follows:

Musings

by Bill Sanford

What is Significant?

Blow winds of yesterday across the stripped sands where youth once stood looking out upon a sea. The vestment of life is the vestment of death and we wear it as best we can. Last week a former teacher of mine died. In his death I remembered much about myself I had forgotten, it often happens that way.

Being an inconsistent student Lloyd Latchaw and I were never friends. It seemed we could not agree on the way I should be taught. Nevertheless, by mutual agreement and consent I graduated with his somewhat skeptical blessings.

That age we lived in was one of make-believe, sheltered and I suppose you could say ignorant of the reality other people know.

We were great builders of castles in the air, those airy structures put to shame the architectural genius of Sir Christopher Wren, King Ludwig of Austria would have envied our "simple" contrivances.

In such an age, you could throw your ideas and dreams out upon the wind without fear of them being stoned by the hand of cynics or bludgeoned by the cudgels of dissent. Our elders were our friends and amused at the disobedience which dreams inspire in youth.

When Lloyd Latchaw died last week, I started remembering many of the dildos of those years in my life. The last time I saw him was almost ten years ago in Lansing. I was working for Sen. Porter in the State Senate at the time and Lloyd was superintendent of schools at Bath. He was in town on business and we met on the street.

He reminded me of a time or two when in dignified self-righteousness I quit school to save getting kicked out. The Latchaws' lived next door to the old high school at Sand Creek and he had a dog that did not in any way like me. Of the five hundred students of Sand Creek I was the only object of his human hatred. In protest with Lloyd I quit school.

I was at the shop holding a wrench, a heavy wrench, for protection against my lone dissenter, during the discourse which prompted my outburst.

In the torrential outpouring of my hatred for school life, I flung the wrench in grand Shakespearean fashion. It landed, of all places, on five of my appendages. I would often feel stupid and ignorant after that, for things I had done, but none was ever quite so bad.

I was chauffeured to school the next morning and forced to do a form of discertation on apologies and how to give a proper one. From that day forward I knew that the Greeks had never considered themselves ancient. That same day I sent my ego out to the pest house to have it restored and for the three weeks following, as it recuperated, I was the epitome of deportment.

Even at graduation it seemed something happened. All names were in alphabetical order save two, Sanford and a friend of mine who shared an occasional escapade. In the fall I left for the Marine Corps and distinctly remember not liking their ways of retaining my individualism either.

I seldom see any of my classmates anymore, things happen along the line that force you apart. In the three ages of man, a sere translation of the life-time edict, we shared only one. It ended that warm night in May several years ago; I shall be. That sere translation of the three ages of man is; I shall be, I am, I was.

Taking on years has been fun. Once I believed Abelard had rocks in head and that Marcel Proust wrote heavy tomes with his head stuck in an inkwell. I have learned why those and other men have done the things they did. In short I know what they are talking about now.

Lloyd's death reminded in different ways of who I am. I remember being with Mike Hare at a military ball while we courted two girls, girls named Carol and Valerie. I remember being with a young man when he met a girl and talked about her constantly for at least a year, then married her. I remember one Saturday afternoon in summer three years ago, when he came home early and found her dead by her own hand. I remember a young man who had nowhere to go; he was coming home from Toledo, he never made it. I remember a young girl who was beautiful and fun one day, the next she was in Ford Hospital dying.

I remember the prettiest girl at the college, I had asked her for a date at least fifty times, my friend had asked her friend an equal number of times. We met the girls in a department store on a Saturday afternoon in winter, exchanged pleasantries and in a weekly ritual, to show we were still infatuated, asked them out. They accepted. Mr. Hood and I had exactly 27 cents between us. We explained our plight, lack of resources, they accepted anyway. We bought a cup of hot chocolate and went to a park and window shopped, and we were young.

A balance of our lives we spend in insignificant days. Happiness is given out in small doses, like the rare and beautiful thing that it is. A Swedish novelist once wrote, "You can tell by looking at a man's face what he has done with time, you can see written in lines on that man's face what time has done with him."

Sadly, all too sadly, we spend too much of our time living for the insignificant day and less and less looking for that one that will stand out in our personal histories. Too many people in this day and age make their jobs or profession the significant and forget about writing a personal history of their lives. True the twenty-four hours or the life-time of an individual is a hard anvil onto which you can beat a history considering the meagre tools we possess, but how often do you hear "What's the use?" That isn't a question, that's a decision of someone who has already decided to quit.

I remember Lloyd once remarking that we were all a bunch of Pilgrims looking for a new country. True it is, true it is. Once when I was walkink in the woods I could almost hear it, "Pilgrim, what have you done with your dreams?" Times like that you want to turn around and say "Go way you, I've got enough troubles without that."

Blow winds of yesterday, blow across the stripped sands where youth once stood looking out upon a sea, and what a sea it is.

The Tecumseh Senior Girls Softball team headed for Milan last weekend in hopes of becoming the new state softball champions. The Amateur Softball Association of America was holding the women's slo-pitch double elimination tournament.

Saturday the girls drew a bye for the first game and let Monroe battle Milan for their first victory. Tecumseh then took the field against Monroe, losing to them 11-1. Leading Indian hitters were Loretta Vogel and Pam Sweet both getting two singles and Emily Manwaring with a double and a single. Teresa Wells suffered the defeat on the mound.

Sunday the team started the day with an 8-7 victory over Milan, eliminating them from the tourney.

After the first inning Tecumseh had a four run deficit to overcome and did so by banging out six hits for three runs in the next inning. Four more runs in the fourth and a single run in the sixth ended Tecumseh's scoring. However Milan wasn't to be denied. With two out in the last inning the girls capitalized on hit sand errors to gain three more runs.

The winning pitcher was Jackie Rodgers and the hitters were Loretta Vogel and Linda Young, Mary Jo Rosencrans, Peg Martinus and Rodgers with three hits each.

In the final game Monroe challenged the Tecumseh girls for the second time. Monroe scored first on a series of singles but Tecumseh equalled them in the second on a three bagger by Teresa Wells and a single by Jackie Rodgers. The Indians took the lead in the fourth on a hit by Brenda Watson who scored from first on Linda Young's single and an error.

Any hopes of an upset were dashed in the sixth inning when Monroe charged ahead with six big runs.

The final score was 10-2, Monroe. Big hitters in the contest for Tecumseh were Rodgers and Manwaring with two singles and Young with three hits.

The Monroe Team won the right to travel to Cincinnati, Ohio over Labor Day weekend to represent Michigan in the Women's world softball tournament.

QUESTION:
"Why is it necessary to purchase a casket when the deceased is to be cremated"?

ANSWER:
Most families who choose cremation prefer having the customary visiting period and the religious service before cremation. Practically all crematories have regulations requiring that the deceased must be brought to them in a casket with side handles.

Old Tavern Spans Era Of History

By MAXINE CALHOUN

Brick Walker Tavern, built in 1854, remains today as a colorful reminder of another era when Cambridge Junction was the hub of activity on a busy turnpike.

From stage coaches to the world's fastest racing cars—the historic landmark has spanned more than a century of change. The new Michigan International Speedway is fast nearing completion on busy US-12 near the old building.

It was on this same route in the 1800's, that four stages daily, two each way, ran passengers from Detroit to White Pigeon, onward to Chicago, which was only a trading post inhabited mainly by a few soldiers and fur traders.

Sylvester Walker built the frame Walker Tavern at the corner of Chicago and Monroe Turnpikes in 1832, and 22 years later, when traffic increased considerably, he built the new, four-story Brick Walker Tavern, across the road. It is reported to have cost $6,000.

The basement was used to store buffalo robes, sleighs and cutters, which arrived during the winter snows. The old iron meat hooks can still be seen imbedded in the massive timbers. The travelers and local residents must have fared well from the provisions of wine, vegetables and meats stored there.

On the first floor there was a taproom, spacious dining room, and a kitchen and two huge pantries.

Like the "mountain coming to Muhammed" Flea Market dealers bring their wares to one handy spot at Brick Walker Tavern — for the convenience of customers, so they won't have to travel far to find a particular antique object. Precious glassware, china, books or coins — whatever it is one wants, someone will have it for sale at the Flea Market every other weekend. There's no charge to look, even if it takes all day.

Sleeping rooms of various sizes stretch along a wide way on the second floor. Among the notables known to slept there were Henry Ward Beecher, Daniel Web- and James Fenimore Cooper.

Many a dancing party was held in the top floor ball- and some of the actual dance admission tickets found e are evidence of those gala times.

The Rev. William Lyster, pioneer pastor of the Irish , held many a Sunday church service here before he his church nearby in 1856.

Another Episcopal minister, the Rev. Frederick Hewitt hased both taverns about 1920 and for more than forty s he sold antiques.

Owned since 1966 by the Schmidt Brothers of Ypsi-, the historic old building provides an appropriate set- for the display of a vast array of antiques.

The interior decorator or the antique collector will reciate the opportunity for uninterrupted browsing ng the beautiful artifacts.

The Schmidts specialize in clocks and there is an en- ting assortment of grandfather, wall and mantle clocks elect from.

Visitors may savor the beauty of rare old cranberry glass, crystal and china, hanging lamps, and bric-a-brac in profusion.

Upstairs rooms are filled with handsome old chests by 18th century craftsmen, elegant Victorian velvet- sofas and chairs and all sorts of tables.

Jovial Charles Green and his wife, Sharon operate the business and reside in an apartment in the rear of the building.

The Brick Walker Tavern is open daily from 9 to 5 and Sundays from 11 to 5. Admission is 50c.

In the parking area beside the Tavern, an Antique Flea Market is held on alternate weekends. The next one will be Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, starting at 11 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Patterned after a European custom, particularly in Paris, flea market stalls are set up and dealers bring in displays of antiques. The dealers come from Ohio, Indiana, and all over Michigan.

Each dealer seems to have a specialty. It may be stacks of old books, quaint turn-of-the-century prints, rare coins, colorful bottles or glassware.

It's all so fascinating you'll want to visit Brick Walker Tavern often.

Paula McKenna Weds Dennis Bowman

CLINTON—The nuptial vows, which united in marriage Paula McKenna and Dennis Bowman, were solemnized by the bride's father, the Rev. Paul McKenna, retiring pastor of the United Church of Christ.

The double-ring ceremony was performed at 2:30 p.m. Saturday, before an altar graced with bouquets of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums. Garlands of white honeysuckle entwined the candelabra, and matching baskets of honeysuckle decorated the sanctuary.

The parents of the couple are the Rev. and Mrs. Paul McKenna, W. Franklin St., and Mr. and Mrs. George Bowman, 128 E. Michigan Ave., Clinton.

Mrs. John Fox played a prelude of nuptial music and accompanied William Heimerdinger, the soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Carl McKenna, of Ellwood City, Pa. She wore a Chantilly lace cage dress, styled with long sleeves and a cathedral train. Her pearl necklace was a gift of the bridegroom. A cluster of flowers held her veil. The bride's bouquet of white orchids and honeysuckle were carried on a white Bible given to her by her grandmother as a child.

Maid of honor Ruth McKenna, sister of the bride and bridesmaids, Mrs. James Curth of Clinton, and Mrs. Gary McKenna, cousin of the bride, of Ellwood City, Pa., wore identical gowns of pastel tangerine chiffon White flowers accented the slited side of the cage overdresses. Matching veils were held by bows on their headdresses.

The attendants carried cascades of deep tangerine roses pinned to white fans.

James Curth was the best man. The ushers were Dwight and Ivan McKenna, brothers of the bride; Gary McKenna of Ellwood City, Pa., cousin of the bride; and Tom Cey of Clinton.

The reception was held in the dining room of the church and was attended by 200 guests.

The bride's table was skirted in tangerine cloth and tall, tiered bouquets of tangerine gladioli and tinted carnations flanked the wedding cake, beautifully decorated by Mrs. Clyde Greenfield.

Matching tangerine covers were placed on the small tables about the room, and centered with rose bowls.

Bernadine Baisch poured coffee at the reception, which was arranged, by the Mary Martha class of the church.

The bride and groom are graduates of Clinton High School and are attending Western Michigan University. The bride will receive her degree in December in secondary education, and Mr. Bowman is a senior studying political science and philosophy.

The bridegroom's parents entertained at a rehearsal dinner at the Country House, Friday evening.

Following a wedding trip to Stratford, Ont., for a week, the couple will reside at 810 Clinton St., Kalamazoo.

CHICK-A-DEES — MALLARDS — SWANS

August is not the best month for bird-watching. The courting fun is over, most of the nest building and family raising has been done, the adult birds are enjoying a bit of 'rest and relaxation' after a hectic spring and early summer and this year's crop of youngsters is busy practicing the newly developed grown-up skills. Yet, we three Duncans and one Austin have just finished some most exciting bird-watching.

You were right, the EXCITING goings on did not happen here where Logan Street meets Evans Creek. For a few fun-packed days we exchanged our usual window-looking-through post for a porch perch overlooking pretty Intermediate Lake. Located in the northwest corner of the state, Intermediate is one of the long narrow lakes so typical of the area. My Aunt and Uncle have a summer place there — we thought it a shame if they should get lonesome way up there in the northland and so off for a short visit we trouped.

But getting back to the birds — along the south side of the property is a several-tree-thick row of long needled pine-trees which was busy, busy, busy. Chick-a-dees primarily. They were constantly flying from the pines to the other trees in the yard and back again. When we could not see them bouncing in and out, we could hear their squeaky chick-a-dee talk. Here in Tecumseh these are winter birds. We expect them only when the temperatures start to drop and the cold winds roar in from the northwest. Last winter was disappointing, too — our chick-a-dee population was far, far below usual. It was therefore an extra thrill to be able to sit on a porch, watch water-skiers zip by, sip ice-tea and be entertained by chick-a-dees. They are just as cute in summer as they are during the winter!

In front of the cottage, just at water's edge, there was also much activity to enjoy. Two families of mallards were doing an excellent job of pan-handling. As they worked up and down the shore, tasty tid-bits came from everywhere. I really believe that everyone had bread or corn for the ducks. As the George Gershwin's song says, "Summer-time and the living is easy."

One family of free-loaders numbered 11 and, as the youngsters were close to being full-grown, it was impossible to tell parent from child. The other family was apparently a much later hatch and they were just out of the 'follow-the-leader' stage. Occasionally they would form a single file and 'train' out behind Mrs. Mallard, but usually they swam in a non-definable bunch. They were just as adept at gobbling down the hand-outs as were the larger ones. It was great fun to watch and my, when someone started towards the beach with a promising looking plate or sack it certainly did not take the duck clans long to gather.

For sheer grace and beauty in the water nothing can surpass swans. Each day we thrilled to see four of them come gliding along. The mother and father and their two half-grown offspring. Quite a sight. Whereas the ducks were often funny, especially when they tpiped bottom-side up, the swans were so dignified that they even made begging respectable. One evening for example, the lady next door was a bit late with their dinner but, instead of protesting or leaving in a huff, the foursome simply waited patiently. The message was loud and clear — the woman hurried down with a heaping plateful of bread chunks.

The next evening was our turn with the swans. They are not the least bit afraid of people and, when Dad walked out on the dock with a sackful of food, they came right up to him. An adult swan is big — the dock was not far above the water and my goodness, when the largest swan stretched his long snake like neck to its full height, he was practically taking the food right out of Dad's hand. With those strong bills that could be hard on fingers. After the bread was gone, Dad tipped the sack upside-down to shake the crumbs out and started to walk away. The swans apparently felt the Duncan's feeding had been a bit on the skimpy side. The loud hissing was easily heard by Mom and me on the porch and there was no mistaking its meaning. When no more dinner was forthcoming, the swan family turned and swam away. Their haughty dignity was as much a rebuke as was the hissing.

So it is that although August may not be known as a good bird-watching month, we certainly had a fine time with Aunt and Rog watching the chick-a-dees, mallards and swans.

NEXT WEEK — GOOD TO BE HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Chapman, of Mancelona, are observing their 40th wedding anniversary, Sunday, Aug. 25. READERS WRITE

To The Editor;

I received the Heraid the other day with the letter that I wrote Mr. Withrow. I was very surprised to see the letter in the paper. But I am also glad that Don was thoughtful enough to have put it in. At least this way we, the men here, know that our efforts are not going unnoticed. And we appreciate all the support that we receive from people back in the states.

You wouldn't believe the morale that it brings to see what the people in the states are doing to help us.

The ones that really do not understand are the demonstrators. I believe that these 10% don't really understand the full meaning of what we are preserving here. And for the most part, they are only going along with the others just to be "in."

If they would only stop and think for a minute, that what they are doing is only hurting the morale of thousands of men here. And a lot feel that our efforts are at times wasted. Because all they hear and see in the papers are these people having riots all of the time. They dont stop to think that all the mess in the United States is only feeding the Communist morale.

For the present time we can only hope that the people will change for the better.

Well, I have taken up enough of your time. Keep sending the Herald. I deeply appreciate it. Thank you.

Respectfully yours,
James O. Wallace

FORWARD MARCH — This group of eight boy scouts from Monroe went down the road for quite a distance last week, walking from Carleton, six miles east of Monroe to Lake LeAnn. The boys are all from Monroe.

Long Way To Lake LeAnn

An expedition of eight Boy Scouts reached Tecumseh Thursday afternoon. The scouts, aged 11 to 14, were traveling from Monroe to Lake LeAnn. They are members of Peck 97.

The journey started at Carleton 6 miles west of Monroe at 7 a.m Monday. The young scouts strapped their packs onto their backs and headed for the lake in Hillsdale County.

Prior to their departure on their 60-mile hike, the fathers of the boys traveled the roads to Lake LeAnn shopping at farm houses to seek permission for the boys to stay overnight on their property.

The boys carried packs weighing from 62 pounds to 36 pounds in which they had their tents and tent poles, extra clothing, cooking utensils and other items necessary for camping out.

They stayed in tents overnight. While in Tecumseh area they stayed at the McClure farm on W. M-50. They traveled a distance of 10 mile per day, with the exception of Saturday, the final leg of the hike was 20 miles.

The young adventurers were in good spirits when they stopped for doughnuts on the outskirts of Tecumseh. They were filled with good humor and looking forward to the arrival at Lake LeAnn.

Weary Campers Return Home

By Barbara L. Kempf

BRITTON—After great anticipation camp time finally arrived. Twelve teenagers and four adults from Bethel Baptist Church, left Britton at 10:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 11.

We ate breakfast at 3 a.m. and arrived at Lake Ann Momentous Day Camp at approximately 5:30 a.m Monday. This camp is located about 17 miles west of Traverse City.

After a long night our beds really felt good.

The schedule for each day included a 6:30 a.m. polar bear swim for the more daring before reveille, flag raising, breakfast, cabin cleanup, chapel and class time, with a choice of music, Christian ethics, bible study or marriage counseling.

A freetime before lunch followed by a rest period.

A recreation priod for swimming, handi-craft or activities preceeded supper. The flag was lowered before Chapel Services.

A free time followed by cabin devotions with lights out at 10:30 concluded the day's events.

Monday was a busy day. We met the kids in our cabins and tried to get settled down to the routine of camp. The speaker for the evening chapel service was the Rev. Glenn Williams of Sault Ste. Marie.

Tuesday was our first full day at camp. We had the privilege of hearing the Rev. Robert Howder, missionary to Japan and the missionary speaker of the week for morning chapel.

Wednesday was a day of much anticipation. Dune buggy rides were on the agenda. Everyone enjoyed the tremendous scenery, especially that of Lake Michigan.

Thursday was the day of counselor vs camper activities. The counselors put up a good fight but both the men and the women counselors lost to the campers.

All day Friday we looked forward to the campfire. The camp fire was a time of great spiritual blessing to everyone as many people told of their dedications to Christ.

Saturday was spent in packing, saying good-bye to our friends, and departing for home.

Another week of camp has come and gone. Even though we had a lot of fun each one of us received a spiritual blessing.

The outstanding feature of the week to me was the glorious presence of Christ. I thank the Lord with all my heart for the privelege of being able to spend that enjoyable week at camp.

Book Rental Fees To Be Increased

BRITTON — Families having children attending the Britton-Macon Area School are requested to come to school and pay their book rental fees during the week of August 26-30. The office will be open from 9 to 12 in the morning, and 1 to 4 in the afternoon.

The book rental rates have been increased for the 1968-1969 school year to offset the rising costs of textbooks. This is the first increase in textbook rental since 1963. The new rates are as follows:

Kindergarten — $3.50
Elementary grades — $7.00 (includes workbooks)
Junior High — $5.50
High School — $6.50

Junior High and High School workbooks will not be covered by this book rental fee, but will be purchased directly by the student from the teacher. Lab fees will also be paid directly to the teacher.

Sunburn Ends Fun On Vacation

BRITTON — A vacation trip to the New England States was cut short for Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hoagland after Mr. Hoagland suffered second degree burns on his legs while sunning at Portland, Maine. The Hoaglands had visited Niagara Falls and several New England States, including Santa's Village in New Hampshire, before reaching Portland. They returned by way of Montreal, Quebec.

The bride is a niece of Mrs. Goetz.

OUR READERS WRITE

To The Editor:

I am writing this letter as an open appeal to the service organizations and individuals of the Tecumseh area.

Today, after two days in Vietnam, I became involved in Medcap (Medical Civilian Aid Program) operations to an orphanage about 2 or 3 miles from our base. Three Catholic nuns of a French order are in charge, helped by about 20 other women. They must care for 300 students and over 4000 children.

Those children were seldom seen today free of disease. To quote our doctor, "How the hell can you even start? Where do you begin?" These children range in age from 3 months to 12 or 13 years.

One crib of young children contained children with extremely bad infections on the head. These children each had 50 to 100 flies crawling on their faces, with few if any dressings applied to their open sores.

Those in charge of this orphanage try hard, but they need help.

The medical department with a Navy doctor and corpsmen are able to assist medically, but there is a need for many yards of mosquito netting (for the cribs), clothing for the children (mainly pre-school age), sheets, diapers, soap, etc.

If there are any in the Tecumseh area who may be able to help these orphans, please send your gifts to me at:

P.S. Please include notation to persons responsible, as thanks will be forthcoming.

(NOTE: Michael Murphy, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, 4055 Monroe Rd., Tipton, has spent the summer with a family at Glanerbruggeweg, 65, Enschede, Holland. He writes with enthusiasm about his adopted "family" and his experiences as a Youth For Understanding exchange student. Michael is expected home Saturday.)

TO THE EDITOR:

I arrived in Amsterdam on the 18 of June after a pleasant flight on which I sat with Tom Rohrer, who was bound for Belgium.

Late that afternoon I was picked up at the YFU meeting place by two of my sisters and a cousin. That evening we arrived at my new home, situated in the country, near Enschede, a city of approximately 150,000. We live very close to the German border.

I live with a family of eight (eleven including my mother, father, and myself). There are four boys and four girls, the oldest being 22 and the youngest is nine. You can't imagine a happier family; everyday I find myself looking forward to dinner, when the whole family is together — not only because of the happy conversation but also because my mother is such a wonderful cook.

I think that I have been very fortunate because I have had the opportunity to travel so much. I have been on several one day excursions to see the sights close to Enschede. The two I enjoyed most were a day in Bentheim, Germany, where we visited a castle, and a trip to Anheim where we saw a very fine exhibition of paintings by Van Gogh.

Another interesting aspect of my vacation is that I have spent one month of my two-month vacation living in a tent! For two weeks I camped with my brother Jan, 17, and his friend, Tony, in Priezland, the northernmost province of Holland.

I am now on the last leg of the two week trip, with my sisters, Hermien and Hanny, my cousin, Jan, which has taken me through Holland, Belgium, Luxembourg, France and Germany (I am writing this letter from Koblenz, Germany.)

I would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the people who have written to me; and given me that "touch of home" which seems so good when you are far away from your family and friends. My biggest regret is that I haven't been able to answer all of them.

In closing I can only say that as much as I hate to leave my wonderful family and friends here I will be glad to see everyone from 'back home' again — I have such a wonderful story to tell.

So long for now,

Mike Murphy

School to Open on September 4

The doors will officially open at the Britton-Macon Area School on Wednesday, Sept. 4. A teachers conference and organizational meeting will be held at 9:00 a.m. in the school cafeteria on Tues., Sept. 3.

School will start for pupils on Wednesday, except for the kindergarten. School will be dismissed at noon on the first day.

Parents of kindergarten children who did not register their child last spring will be able to do so on Sept. 4.

Regular classes for the kindergarten will start Sept. 5. All children living southeast of the Wabash Railroad tracks will attend classes in the morning and those living northwest of the tracks will attend in the afternoon.

The school suggests that mothers of kindergarten children put them on the buses the first day. Those who bring their children are requested to leave them in the room with the teacher and not remain. School officials have found this method makes it easier for the child to adjust to school on the first day.

New students are being asked to enroll at the principal's office the week of Aug. 19-23. The time for registering will be from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Cafeteria lunches will be served beginning on Thursday of the first week for all pupils and teachers.

Pupils will be restricted from driving automobiles during the lunch hour, anyone wishing to must gain approval from the principal.

The Mark Twain Travel the Mississippi reading club will come to a close Saturday, August 24. A party will be held Tuesday, August 27th at 2 p.m. for those children who have read and reported on ten books. Mrs. Lyle Riddell of Clinton will be at the library to tell a story or two.

Products Union Votes 1,728—130 for Strike

By an overwhelming margin of 1,598 votes the United Products Workers Union voted to strike the Tecumseh Products Co. at the expiration of the contract on Saturday. The vote was 1,728 to 130.

Daily negotiations are continuing in hopes of averting a strike. However, sources close to the situation declared the "progress disappointingly slow."

The by-laws of the local union call for a strike vote as a vote of confidence for the bargaining unit.

The Tecumseh Products which has never been struck by an internal union, is close to a strike for the second time in five months with the latest development. In March workers at the Products voted to strike over certain grievances. An amiable solution was reached at the last moment and the strike called off.

Since the disputes which occurred in the spring, a new president has been elected by the union. Ray Jackson defeated Stanley Samonek who sought re-election to the union post. Several other key members of the hierarchy of the union were defeated along with Samonek, thus giving a completely new bargaining force for the Products Union.

The Products, one of the area's largest employers, hires over 3,000 persons who would be affected by the strike. Fourteen months ago for two days sporadic picketing appeared at the Products when a dispute arose with the over-the-road truck drivers.

This marked the closest that the local concern previously came to a strike. Management-labor relations at the company in the past have been noted for their ability to solve working and economic troubles.

Jail, Fine for Shooter

Tony Gasea, 63, of 706 Clark St., was lodged in the county jail for seven days and fined $115 for careless use of firearms within the city limits.

A report came from the sheriff's office last weekend that shots were heard at the end of Clark St. An officer of Tecumseh Police with two deputies from the sheriff's office went to the scene to investigate.

Officers had trouble understanding the suspect but he admitted that he had been shooting. He said he had fired at a cat near the east boundaries of his property.

Officers went in the house and found a 30/30 deer rifle and a combination .410 - .22 shotgun-rifle, both loaded. Seven empty casings from the deer rifle and one from the .410 shotgun were found near the rear door.

Police had received previous reports of incidents in the area a week before.

Proposals Offered For Judgeships

Offers are still being considered for space to be used for the new district judgeships in the county. Several proposals have been received by the Board of Supervisors concerning the purchasing of the proposed sites and the leasing of the Kerby Building in Adrian.

Sites offered for sale are the former Millers Ice Cream Parlor, and the Raymond Auto Sales Garage. The garage is being offered at $90,000 while the Miller property has a price tag of $67,000 plus it would be necessary to purchase an additional lot which has been offered at $8,500.

Some supervisors favor the Raymond property as it is contiguous with presently - owned county property. In an over-all picture of government office space in the future, some feel that this property would be of value as the plans have been drawn up for a city-county building and this would tie-in with the present county property.

Other sentiments lie with the rental of the Kerby property in that the yearly rent includes all utilities and maintenance thus affording less immediate taxing of a county budget which is being strained by services added this year, including a new medical care facility, ambulance service provided by the sheriff's office, and other increased costs to government.

The new judgeships will hold court in Tecumseh once a week as is ordered by the state amendment which authorizes the establishment of the lower court.

The judges will be elected in the November 5 election and will assume their duties after January 1.

At present there are four candidates for the office, John Timms of Hudson, Kenneth Glaser of Adrian, Paul T. Betz and Yale Leland Kerby also of Adrian.

The next meeting of the board will be held on Wednesday, September 11.

'Get Acquainted' for Local Jaycees

Tecumseh Jaycees are sponsoring "Operation Get Acquainted" project this week with six families hosting disadvantaged white and Spanish - American youngsters.

The children, between the ages of eight and 12, are experiencing normal life and are being treated to excursions, including a group picnic and swimming party.

Families participating include Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gerards, Mr. and Mrs. Darrel Staup, Mr. and Mrs. James Bashore, Mr. and Mrs. Dike Helms, Mr. and Mrs. William McCrumb and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Schuler.

Services Held for Ex-Coach "Red" Wilson

Services were held Tuesday in Youngstown, Ariz., for Melbourne B. Wilson, 69, long-time Tecumseh High School coach and later a director of industrial relations at the Tecumseh Products Co., who died Saturday at his home in Sun City, Ariz. He had just returned there from Michigan on Friday.

Death was the result of a cerebral hemorrhage. Burial was at Sun City.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson had been in Michigan since May, coming early for their annual visit to relatives and friends and especially to attend a reunion in June at Central Michigan University, Mt. Pleasant, honoring former football players.

"Red" came to Tecumseh in the fall of 1929, from Three Rivers and coached and taught at the high school for nine years.

He started at the Products in September, 1939, as a foreman and was promoted to employment manager in 1941.

He became personnel manager and industrial relations director in 1945, holding that position until he retired in 1964.

Mr. Wilson was one of the three or four founders of the Lenawee County Personnel Directors' Association, an organization of some 60 members at the present time.

He also started and was the first editor of the TP Broadcast, a shop paper.

The Wilsons have been living at 10619 North Crosby Dr., Sun City, Ariz.

Eight grandchildren and a sister, a Michigan resident, also survive.

5 Motorists Are Cited

Seven accidents were investigated here by Tecumseh Police the past week with five motorists cited for violations. None of the mishaps involved personal injury.

A resume is:

Aug. 20 — Ronald C. Nichols, 20, of 414 Adrian St., was cited for driving left of center after colliding with Judy Ann Fetty, 18, of 807 Russell Rd. Mishap occurred on Adrian St. after Miss Fetty had backed out of a driveway.

Aug. 20 — Franklin J. Opel, 55, of 909 Murray Dr., was charged with failure to control his car after ramming a small trailer behind a parked car. Accident happened on Adrian St.

Aug. 22 — Mrs. Mary Powell, 316 N. Pearl St., reported another car had knocked over a parking meter into her car.

Aug. 23 — James A. Kish, 16, of 6911 Green Hwy., ran into a parked car, owned by Keith Bailey Olds, on Adrian St., near W. Pottawatamie. He was arrested for failure to control his car.

Aug. 24 — Joseph Dee Weaver, 18, of 2217 E. Monroe Rd., was charged with failure to yield the right of way after an intersection accident with Howard H. Hartford, 49, Monroe. Mishap occurred at W. Chicago and Union St.

Mike Hichok, 610 W. Chicago Blvd., reported to police that an accident had occurred near his home when a car apparently jumped the curb there and struck a tree. Driver is unknown, but police believe there to be considerable damage to his automobile.

Fines Total $345 Here for Sines

Justice Ernest Oliver levied one of his heaviest fines here ever when he handed Donald E. Sines, 31, Adrian, fines of $100 and $15 costs each for three violations.

Sines was charged with two reckless driving infractions plus an attempt to elude a police officer. Total fines were $345 and 60 days in the county jail for the Jackson parolee.

Tuesday, Justice Oliver placed him under $5,000 bond after Sines demanded examination on a felonious assault charge.

Sines on Aug. 12 led local and state police on a merry chase before being captured on E. Munger Rd. Prior to the chase, he attempted to run down a small boy on a bicycle in Adrian. He reportedly made two passes with his car at the boy and once hit the bike without seriously injuring the youngster.

Distribution at Lakes Ends

This issue of The Herald ends the annual summer distribution of papers each week to resorters in the Irish Hills.

For the past 10 weeks, carriers have dropped off nearly 11,000 free copies at cottages at seven different lakes.

Expect About 3,400

Mom won't have to hustle next Tuesday morning — no ears and neck to check nor the backs of any hands — as the first session of the 1968-69 school year will not start until Wednesday.

Approximately 3,400 youngsters will begin school here next week with grades one through 12 starting Wednesday. Kindergarten classes will start with regular clases on Thursday.

Although there have been few physical changes in the school sites, one noticeable improvement will be obvious at the high school. Since last spring, a new road has been cut in north off of E. Shawnee St.

It runs in behind the high school buildings and will be the loading area for junior and senior high students. This entire area has been blacktopped, including Jane St. and the parking area for the buses by the bus garage.

Other physical changes, less noticeable, will be the general painting and cleaning by school personnel.

Dr. Willard Hart, high school principal, expects little change in the upper four grade enrollment. Last year, the enrollment was 1,040 and it is expected to remain about the same.

Mrs. Rose Anne Vollmer has been registering kindergarteners and pupils in the first six grades for the past few weeks. As of Tuesday, the kindergarten enrollment was just over 240.

Unless there's a sudden rush of parents registering youngsters, the kindergarten class will fall far below the 300 figure recorded for the 1967-68 term.

Although school will not officially open until Wednesday, teachers and other school personnel will report for work Tuesday. General meetings and sesions between principals and teachers are planned.

The late start for classes is the first in many years here with school normally opening on Tuesdays after Labor Days.

Rotary Invites Purdue Scholars

Purdue University research team will present a special program for Rotarians and friends on Tuesday, Sept. 3, at the Country House Restaurant.

C. M. Brown is host for the evening and he urges all rotarians and friends to attend this special program.

Meeting will begin at 6 p.m.

Arrangements of flowers and hurricane lamps flanked the altar.

PAR FOR AUGUST

Even though we were only gone for a few days, it does seem good to be home. We had a marvelous time 'up north' but my, Tecumseh is a nice place to live.

Things are going along much as usual—since getting home we have had typical August activity to watch. And we have watched it through a typical August hot spell, too. The one exception to this business as usual is the creek. All of the heavy rains have kept Evans Creek rushing along at the highest level we can remember. Remember at this time of year at least—always before, our little stream has been hard pressed by the middle or last of August. '68 is different though and, as of this writing the creek is high, fast and terribly muddy.

The squirrel family has apparently broken up and the kids have scattered. Oh, there still are squirrels to watch but, instead of watching the youngsters' puppy-like play, we now laugh at such things as a full grown squirrel finding a shady spot on his favorite limb of the big tree and sprawling flat. They say that actions speak louder than words and certainly squirrels have marvelously expressive ways to shout, "IT'S HOT!"

The bluejays, so far we have counted three, are going through what must be a most trying period for them. To us it is funny to see a baldheaded bluejay but I doubt that they get many laughs out of their predicament. We have never been able to track it down for sure but I believe that when some jays molt their juvenile feathers and start donning their adult plummage, their heads are slow to feather out. The new feathers, the wing, tail and body features are beautiful. They are brilliant of color and perfectly marked. However, when on top of this gloriously garbed bird is a naked, round head—well, it is slightly more than ridiculous.

We have long since passed the peak of "Serenade Time by the birds." After all, the courting and family-raising is over for the year and with no lady friends to impress, why knock ourselves out singing? It is really not that bad — there is still much nice bird talk to hear. The cardinals continue to seek the topmost branch in the tall tree by the porch and whistle just for the sheer joy of it. A kingfisher rattled his greetings as he flew up the creek the other day and, while he certainly flunks all tests for musicianship, we were glad to hear him because kingfishers have been rather scarce this summer.

The woodpeckers are freeloading at the hanging suet feeder as much as ever. Downys, big hairys and even the red-heads are daily visitors. One day a young downy had serious problems. He could not get over the idea that there must be something worthwhile in the frame of the open casement window. The trouble is that the frame is metal and the poor silly bird would not give up. He went up and down the edge of the window banging away just as he would on a tree trunk. I wonder what birds take for headaches?

So it is that in the bird and squirrel world everything is perking along much as it should be, things are just about par for August.

QUESTION:
"What reason is there for suggesting that "PLEASE OMIT FLOWERS" not be published in obituary notices?"
ANSWER:
Most friends of the family are embarrassed by not having the privilege of sending flowers as their personal token of friendship. Experienced families greatly appreciate the personal sentiment expressed through floral bouquets.

20 TAR's Attend GOP Convention

Twenty Tecumseh area teenage Republicans traveled to Grand Rapids where they spent Friday and Saturday at the Republican state convention.

They served as official pages at Friday evening and Saturday morning caucuses and assembled and distributed resolution committee booklets.

In an effort to earn money, the TARs sold bumper stickers, GOP neckties and elephant pins. Club President Tom Rohrer presented Mrs. Romney with one of the elephant pins on behalf of the Tecumseh group. Governor and Mrs. Romney were also given honorary memberships to the club.

The teens heard vice-presidential hopeful Spiro T. Agnew and received special recognition from him and Governor Romney when they demonstrated on behalf of the Nixon-Agnew ticket.

Due to the tight security recently placed on all presidential and vice-presidential candidates, the TARs were given special badges to allow them on the convention floor.

TARs attending were officers Tom Rohrer, Jan Snyder, Bob Osburn, Nick Rohrer and Jackie Rodgers and members Tracy and Shelly Mengerink, Cindy, Sandy and Linda Steadley, Harvey Schmidt, Kathy Mead, Leslie Otter, Betsey Bock, Paul Hamilton, LaRue Stewart, Mike House, Kristen Vollmer and Marilyn Morden.

Mrs. Robert Murray chaperoned the girls while Prosser Watts of Adrian was the boys' chaperone.

YOU TOLD US

By DOROTHY GRIGG

The Coake City highway and Yellowstone Park provided thrills aplenty for us, far more than Glacier.

From Red Lodge, Montana to Yellowstone there are so many switchbacks one wonders if he will ever reach the summit where Granite Peak, highest in the state, touched the ceiling of God's living room at more than 12,000 feet above sea level.

Moose, cows and calves, bear and cubs, elk, the yellow bellied marmot, buffalo and lots of squirrels and chipmunks posed for our camera. Some thrill to stomp right up to more than 1,000 pounds of buffalo and snap his picture, all the time ready to run.

Then there's that small world, bit. We drove up beside our neighbors, the Eddie Johnsons, with Kim and Juva at one of th Point Pots in Yellowstone. Their Lenawee license loomed up big way out here in the hills just a little higher than the Irish ones at Home.

Mary Lou Harvey, 607 Adrian St., has arrived home after spending 7 days with her husband, Sp 4 Ronald D. Harvey, in Honolulu, Hawaii. Ronald will be released from the service the first of October.

Scouts Attend Conference

By CHRIS GREEN

Danny Rodehaver and Randy Disbrow of Tecumseh, Frank Connolly of Erie and Chris Green of Temperance, were among the 2000 delegates representing over 300,000 high school age boys belonging to the Exploring Program of Boy Scouts of America, to converge on Colorado State University in Fort Collins, Colo., to take part in the Fourth National Explorer Delegate Conference. All of the boys are Eagle Scouts and represent the Wolverine Council Boy Scouts of America.

The conference was opened with a keynote address by Cadet William Waller, Jr., of the United States Air Force Academy and Past Explorer Delegate Conference Chairman. He challenged the delegates to take up the torch of freedom, duty and courage and to carry it as men.

The theme of the conference is "Keys to Tomorrow" which exemplifies the ideals of Exploring. "Today's young men are the keys to tomorrow's bigger and brighter future."

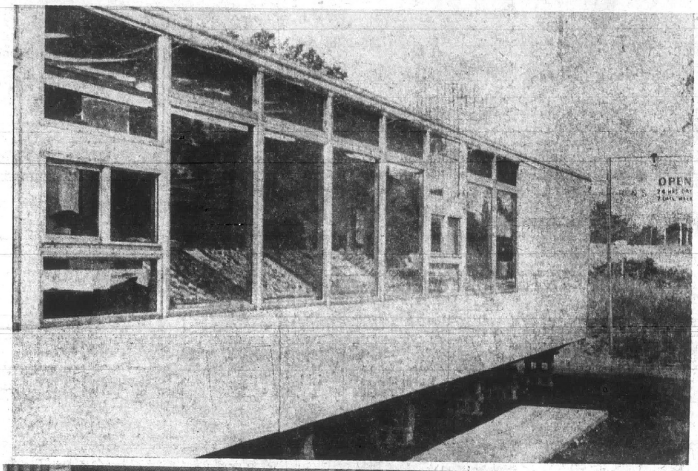
"Air Conditioned for Your Comfort"



The history of a doughnut is hard to come by, but doughnuts aren't, not if you go to Rene's Doughnuts on US-12 in the Irish Hills. The best doughnuts around are prepared daily and sold 24 hours a day, seven days a week. A new trailer greets the customers this year. History of a doughnut? Come now, a pair of infatuated cupcakes? Must have been some historian that thought that up. Of course there are other historic interpretations of the advent of the cakes with a hole in the middle but, for the most part, little history is needed when they taste as good as those at Rene's.

A&P

Let's talk about budgets!

Budgeting is tough these days.
It seems that every time you turn around the cost of something is going up.
The economists tell us it's to be expected.
Maybe so, but it sure makes running a home difficult.

We wish we could tell you that A&P has the answer to all your difficulties, but we can't...no store can.
We can tell you this:

There is one guaranteed way to cut your food bill without sacrificing quality; buy A&P's own brands.
Hold it...don't scoff...we're serious.
We don't have our own private national brands just to have low prices.
If it isn't a quality product, it can't carry the A&P Seal.
Take A&P Brand Canned or Frozen Vegetables for example.
They're GRADE "A"...you can't buy better.

If you buy A&P Brands, we guarantee you'll reduce your total food bill.
We also guarantee every A&P product you buy...unconditionally.

MRS. TERRANCE E. AUTEN

Dale-Auten Nuptials Spoken in Ann Arbor

BRITTON — Lighted tapers, greens and satin bows marked the aisle at the Zion Lutheran Church, Ann Arbor, August 24 as Linda Louise Dale was escorted to the altar by her father to become the bride of Terrance Edmund Auten.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm W. Dale of Ann Arbor and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond B. Auten, 529 N. Main St., Britton.

Large vases of white chrysanthemums, gladioli and daisies were used on the altar for the candlelight double ring service performed by the Rev. Ralph B. Piper.

Wallace Schonschack of Ann Arbor was the soloist, accompanied by Carol Muehlig.

The bride wore a floor length sleeveless empire gown of cloud white silk faced peau. The bodice featured the wedding band collar with removable jacket of imported re-embroidered Alencon lace. Her matching train was chapel length and her veil of silk illusion was secured by a Dior bow centered with a rose.

Sheryl Lynn Dale, sister of the bride, was maid of honor in a lime green empire styled gown of peau de soie and Mrs. Russell Lutton, sister of the groom, and Marilyn Mosier of Ann Arbor, were the bridesmaids. They wore similarly styled gowns of avocado green.

All wore yellow daisies in their hair and carried bouquets of the same blossoms.

Norman Auten served as best man for his brother and the 300 guests were seated by Allan Steed, Oak Park, Ill., James Campbell of Ypsilanti, Walter Korican, Britton and Kenneth Storm, Ann Arbor.

White linen covered the cake table centered with a four-tiered square wedding cake decorated in yellow and green for the reception at the Statler Hilton Inn in Ann Arbor following the ceremony.

The maids placed their bouquets around the cake which was served by Mrs. Larry Sekaros and Mrs. Richard Leslie of Ann Arbor.

Mrs. Norman Spring and Diane Graf served punch and the guests were registered by Mrs. E. R. Dale, Jr., while Eileen Service and Mrs. Lawrence Wren received the gifts.

The bride is a graduate of Ann Arbor High School and attended Eastern Michigan University for two years. She is employed by Edwards Brothers in Ann Arbor.

Her husband is a graduate of Britton High School and attends EMU. He is affiliated with Theta Chi fraternity.

Following a trip through Michigan and to the Wisconsin Dells, the couple will live at 1305 South Congress, Ypsilanti in apartment 106.

En route home they plan to attend the wedding of Allan Steed and Virginia Fox in Chicago.

The rehearsal dinner was given Friday evening by the groom's parents at the Lord Fox Restaurant in Ann Arbor.

Strike Hits Tecumseh Products; No Negotiations Are Scheduled

Tecumseh Products went on strike at midnight Saturday, making the first time in the company's 34-year history that the plant had been shut down by striking employees.

Approximately 3,200 members of the United Products Workers Union are involved in the dispute. A statement to Union members was issued Friday saying that a strike was inevitable. Negotiations to keep the plant in production failed about 10:30 Saturday evening.

Both Union and Company representatives hope that negotiations will be renewed this week, but no bargaining sessions had been scheduled as of Wednesday noon.

Ray Jackson, Union president, says differences are great, and unless the company offers a fair and reasonable contract, he inferred "the strike could be a long one."

Apparent issues involved are wages and fringe benefits, but other problems are evident, too. There is also disagreement in regards to negotiations.

Ed Rapin, director of Industrial Relations for the Products and chief negotiator, says the Company is willing to negotiate at any time. He also says the strike could have been averted if the Union had accepted a proposal to extend the old contract while a new one was being negotiated.

Mr. Jackson says the Union offered to negotiate Sunday and Labor Day in an effort to avoid the strike, but was told "the company is too busy."

In reference to a long strike — a week, two weeks or a month — the union head said it would depend entirely on the company and a contract fair and reasonable for the Union.

Mr. Rapin said a fair, reasonable and economically sound agreement for the employees, company and community, had been offered to the Union and rejected.

Since negotiations started last month, approximately 20 sessions have been held. Specific information as to the problems and differences have not been released for publication.

Tuesday morning, hundreds of Union members milled around at the Union Hall and in front of the Products on Patterson St. An attempt to enter the Company by about 120 foremen was thwarted when the foremen — who have a separate agreement with the company but also are members of the Union — were told that they would be dropped from the Union and lose their seniority.

No other trouble was encountered and no violence is anticipated. Mr. Jackson said the Union would do everything possible to avert any violence and reported that both the Union and Company had met with Murell Clark, Tecumseh police chief.

The United Products Workers Union does not have a strike fund and the 3,200 workers will have to forego any compensation while out on strike.

At the present, the Union is picketing with approximately 20 members on four-hour shifts — toting signs on Patterson St. and entrances to the Products' parking lots. All gates are padlocked.

Negotiating for the Company, besides Mr. Rapin, are Robert Robinson, his assistant, and Lloyd Rhorbach, Stuart Costigan and Jack Curtiss.

Mr. Jackson is joined on the Union's bargaining team by members of the Union Board: Al Thomas, vice president; Guy Cox, secretary; Jim Chapman, treasurer; and Andy Fisher, Bill Fowle, Don Schultz, Howard Rathke and Jim Green.

Union Statement

Statement by Ray Jackson, President of the United Products Workers Union, Tecumseh Products Company.

Approximately 3,200 employees of the Tecumseh Products went on strike at midnight, Saturday, August 31, the termination date of a three-year contract.

Ray Jackson, UPW president, reports that a complete contract package was presented to the management on July 11, and that the company made no response to the economic issues until Aug. 29.

Negotiations were conducted until 10:30 p.m., Aug. 31, at which time an impasse developed, and management advised that they would not engage in further talks until Tuesday, Sept. 2. The union advised that it was willing to meet every day, including Sunday and Labor Day, to get an acceptable and reasonable contract for its members.

Pickets are now installed at all gates on a 24-hour basis, and will continue to picket the Tecumseh plant until settlement has been reached. Area merchants, friends and families have generously contributed supplies, food and services to the Union Board and to the several people who are assisting in the strike.

The Union Board has expressed sincere appreciation for the generous aid and assistance offered by so many people.

This is the first strike at Tecumseh Products. Mr. Jackson stated that the company has denied supplemental unemployment pay, denied retirement pay for 30-year seniority men, denied paid lunch hours unless there are three shifts running, denied standard improvements in wages, holidays, vacations, severance pay, sick pay, bereavement, cost of living and pensions.

The Union Board consists of Al Thomas, vice president; Guy Cox, secretary; Jim Champion, treasurer; and Andy Fisher, Bill Fowle, Don Schultz, Howard Rathke and Jim Green. They all affirm that unless the company shows good faith and grants a fair and reasonable improvement in the labor contract and conditions, it will be a long strike.

FOREMEN GO HOME — Approximately 120 foremen here reported for work Tuesday morning at the Tecumseh Products but refused to cross the picket lines. Union officials told them they would be dropped from Union rolls and also lose their seniority. At the present time the foremen sign a roster each morning at the Community Center.

Another Crash at Billington

By BILL SANFORD

Two little boys sat in the rear seat of a state police cruiser. Beneath the eye of the smaller boy was a cut, a small cut. His eyes were blurred as he stared at the floor, he was stunned. The older boy sat clenching and unclenching his fists. He, too, stared at the floor. They had just been in an accident at the corner of M-50 and M-52. It happened last Friday afternoon. No one was hurt seriously but they could have been.

The intersection is known in the area as Billington's Corners, but it is time to stop calling it that. No man's name belongs to a corner that is becoming so bloody and infamous.

The William Norton family was returning home to Jackson and headed west on M-50. They were pulling a travel trailer. They had been to Ohio on vacation. Irving Gove of Clinton was headed north on M-52.

The Gove car had stopped for traffic. He was proceeding through the intersection when he struck the Norton vehicle. Mr. Gove explained that traffic on M-52 which was turning east on M-50 obstructed his view of traffic. When the cars along side of him pulled onto the highway, he started to pull into the intersection and struck the Norton car in the left front. He was ticketed for failing to yield the right of way.

The auto spun around in the road, the travel trailer remaining hitched to the car. Persons who witnessed the accident from the Country House Restaurant said the car spun so quickly that they were certain it had rolled.

That has been the case with so many accidents at the corners. Many of the autos and drivers involved have not been from the area and were unaware of the dangers which have caused so many serious accidents. Most reminiscent is the one of two weeks ago which took the life of a Toledo woman.

Investigations and surveys of the corner have been taken by the Michigan State Police, Traffic Safety Division and by the State Highway Dept., which is responsible for warning devices at the intersection.

Last week, recommendations went into Lansing from officials of the department in Jackson, along with a State Police survey. No official announcements have been made in Lansing concerning improved safety measures at M-50 and M-52. A solution is expected from the Lansing office soon, but no one can be sure.

Local State Police, supervisors, county and township officials have been concerned about the situation and have appealed for increased safety warning devices to be installed at the corner. Several surveys have been taken in recent years.

Luckily, no one was injured in last week's accident. It could have been different. Thomas Norton, age 10 years, and David Norton, age 7 years, could have been statistics rather than cuts and a black eye.

Earlier Friday state officials announced studies were being made for a $100 million domed stadium at the fairgrounds in Detroit. No one has estimated the cost of improved safety at the corner of M-50 and M-52.

TWO YOUNGSTERS TENSE AFTER BILLINGTON CORNER CRASH.

Two Motorists Cited

Two motorists were cited last week by Tecumseh police who investigated four different accidents.

A resume of the mishaps is:

Aug. 31 — Mary L. Freshcorn, 115½ W. Shawnee, reported her car damaged while parked along the side of Dick's Tavern. Other driver is unknown.

Aug. 31—Ray Freshcorn, 5652 Holloway Rd., reported to police that he struck a young boy on a bicycle at N. Evans St. and Shawnee. The boy, 12-year-old Larry R. Bird, 12, of 404 Outer Dr., came in afterwards with his father to report the mishap. The father told the police that the boy apparently was not hurt, but he was taking him to the hospital for an examination.

The scrimmage is expected to start between 6:30 and 7 p.m.

Union Member Hit by Bottle

Melvin J. Self, sergeant-at-arms for the United Products Workers Union, suffered minor injuries Saturday morning at the Unions general meeting, relative to striking the Tecumseh Products.

Self suffered lacerations on his head and arm after being struck with a beer bottle. He had ordered another Union member to discard the beer or to leave the Union Hall.

A warrant charging assault is pending.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Walter Stutesman, 113 S. Maumee St., and the late Mr. Stutesman, and Mrs. Esther Sutton of near Kansas City.

Pink gladioli were used on the altar for the ceremony performed in the presence of the immediate families.

A reception was held in the Britton Baptist Church Fellowship Center featuring a three-tiered wedding cake made by Mrs. Clark Pearson and a matching groom's cake made by Mrs. Robert Hunt.

Marcia Lord-Robert Lemon Speak Vows

Marcia L. Lord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy E. Lord, 914 River Acres Dr., became the bride of Robert R. Lemon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy F. Lemon, of Southgate, in a ceremony at the United Methodist Church Saturday.

The Rev. Donald Porteous officiated and Mrs. Donald Bush accompanied the soloist, Mrs. James Danforth.

White tree roses faced the seven branch cathedral candelabra and outlined the kneeler. Garlands of boxwood and ferns marked the chancel entrance. Lighted candelabra enhanced with foliage and white roses marked the carpeted aisle.

Her veil of illusion was secured to a forward headpiece of petals and bows of nylon organza trimmed with sequins and pearls.

A cascade design of Snow Supreme roses and stephanotis edged with pink velvet forget-me-nots was carried by the bride.

Carol J. Dahn of Imlay City was maid of honor in a floor length gown of pink cotton blend with empire waist and puffed sleeves. A sash of cranberry velvet with streamers from a large bow at the back extended the full length of her gown.

A matching bow held her brief face veil and she carried dusty pink carnations outlined with American Beauty roses and clusters of cranberry velvet.

Elena Leathers, Sue Smith and Sarah M. Jonchkeere were the bridesmaids and the bride's sister, Michele S. Lord, was junior bridesmaid. All were attired as the maid of honor.

Robert May, of Southgate, served as best man and the 200 guests were seated by David T. Lord, brother of the bride, Richard Hodges, James Nocella and Richard Armstrong.

Mr and Mrs. Robert Cisco, aunt and uncle of the bride, were the hosts for the reception dinner in the church social room. Pink candles and the maid's bouquets decorated the bride's table.

Pamela Cisco, cousin of the bride, registered the guests.

Mrs. Ned Tucker cut the cake and Edith Radant served the punch.

Both young people are students at Eastern Michigan University. She is affiliated with Sigma Kappa sorority and he with Delta Sigma Phi fraternity.

Following a trip to the Upper Peninsula the new Mr. and Mrs. Lemon will live at College Park Estates, Mott Rd., No. 35, Ypsilanti.

Neither Want Strike

For nearly 34 years the Tecumseh Products has been, and will continue to be, the most influential and dominant factor in our community. It is not only Tecumseh's largest employer, but it is also the largest employer for Adrian and other communities in this area.

In the past, the United Products Workers Union has talked strike at contract time, but issues were always settled before such a blow fell. This year it was different.

A long strike? We hope not.

After talking to representatives of the Union and the Company, it is apparent that neither wanted the strike. Both appear sincere in their willingness to settle. Both want a fair and reasonable contract.

For the good of employees, the company and the community, we join thousands of other folks in hoping for a speedy settlement — one which is beneficial and fair to all concerned.

A long strike? No!

The company, employees and the community cannot afford it.

Gunnell Likes People

By BILL WHITING

"I like people. People fascinate me by all being so different and yet so alike each other."

This is the way Miss Gunnell Bergstrand introduced herself to her "adopted" American family, Mrs. Alfred Jewell and daughter, Kathy.

Gunnell is a native of Goteborg, Sweden, and will be spending the next year living with the Jewells and attending Tecumseh High as a senior.

The 17-year-old visitor has spent two years studying at the Swedish Gymnasium majoring in languages including Swedish, English, German, French and Latin. She is looking forward to utilizing them in the teaching field.

Gunnell is no stranger to travelling. In 1956-58, she lived in New South Wales, Australia, with her ship's captain father and her family. It was during this period that she gained an excellent background in the English language, which she speaks fluently.

She is a very active person, enjoying bicycling, swimming, sunbathing and riding. As editor of her school newspaper, she does quite a bit of writing, including her own stories and poetry.

Occasionally, she enjoys being alone and finding a release through her guitar and singing, for which she is already gaining modest fame.

Gunnell was met by the Jewells at Metropolitan Airport on August 16 to begin her American journey. This week she will join the other members of the Class of '69 as they start on their last "journey".

Off The Top By Christine Fairbanks'

By CHRISTINE FAIRBANKS

Each year, on the first of June, the summer seems to stretch forth endlessly, inviting us to plan all sorts of outings and good times as we look forward to a more relaxed and casual approach to life.

Then overnight, the last heat wave gives way to a definite chill in the air, the stores are plugging "Back to School" specials, and all too soon, Labor Day arrives and the summer is over.

Where did all the time go? And what of all the planned activities which, somehow, we never got around to doing? We never took that trip to Cedar Point, never went on a bike hike, never got daughter's bedroom painted, never went to a Tiger ballgame, never visited all the people we intended.

And now, many of these things must be left for another summer. Our thoughts turn to the resumption of school and the awakening activity of various clubs and organizations of the town.

Teachers who have spent the summer months working or attending classes themselves, or just loafing, must now prepare for their efforts of the next nine months to instill some knowledge into sometimes resistant little heads.

Mothers with all school-age children look forward to long days unmarked by arguments of the kids or soilled milk on the living room carpet. Now she can clean the house in the morning and it will stay neat, at least until three o'clock!

The kids have mixed emotions about the whole deal; on the one hand, they are eager to see old friends, meet the new teacher, and show off new clothes, pencils, crayons, and perhaps a new lunchpail.

On the other hand, the youngsters know they are putting behind them the long, lazy days of the warm summertime, and must now resign themselves to sitting for hours on end on hard classroom seats. Gone are the days filled with play: the swimming trips, the impulsive picnics, the "goofing around" time, which children need as much as they need organized play.

Bathing suits and picnic baskets will soon be packed away until the next summer. Baseballs, bats and gloves give way to footballs and helmets, as kids get together for a game; and the hint of autumn in the air moves Mom to bring out jackets and sweaters long unused. Barefoot sandals are replaced by sturdy new leather shoes, which confine toes tanned by the summer sun. And now, after a summer of staying up and sleeping in, suddenly bedtime must come much earlier.

A strange quietness hovers over the neighborhood, broken only by a crying pre-schooler or the lonesome bark of a dog. The days are getting shorter, the nights cool and longer. The occasional hum of the furnace on chilly mornings replaces the whir of the fans.

Summer is over.

Two Positions Open

BRITTON — Two elementary teachers have been hired recently, announced Supt. William Saxton, thus completing the elementary staff.

Marlene Miller will be teaching sixth grade, and Marian Meier will be a fourth grade teacher.

Still needed to complete the high school staff are a girl's physical education teacher and a counselor.

Also needed, stated Supt. Saxton, is an adult safety patrol for the Main Street and M-50 corner. The crossing guard is needed for one-half hour each morning and afternoon that school is in session, at approximately 8-8:30 a.m. and 3-3:30 p.m. Applicants may see Mr. Saxton in his office.

The high school will be operating a six-period day this year, as opposed to the seven-period day in use the past years. This will give longer class times, and eliminate one study hall a day per student. Additional class time will be given to preparation of the next day's assignments.

Another new feature will be a staggered noon hour for the junior high and senior high students. The students will go to lunch in three blocks, between the times of 11:43 a.m. and 1:13 p.m.

9 Persons Baptized At Evening Service

BRITTON — Nine persons were baptized by the Rev. Duane McNeil of the Bethel Baptist Church at the worship service Sunday evening.

Those receiving the sacrament of baptism included the family of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Randolph and daughters, Jackie and Vickie.

Others were Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Bishop, Elizabeth Wolf, Jeff Parker and Bruce Preston.

Entry Deadline Set for Activity Day

The Cabana Girls will have a booth to sell food, drinks and treats during the entire day with profits going toward their trip to Mexico.

The final meeting of the Cabin Assoc. will be held Sept. 12 and it is important that all Scout leaders attend, stated Mattoon.

Seek Answers Not Problems

By MAXINE CALHOUN

They weren't all sitting on the streets of Chicago.

The young people I saw didn't have time to sit down this summer. They were too busy finding the answers, instead of creating the problems.

Many boys and girls spent their vacation days lugging feed, water and bedding, and performing endless, grubby tasks of cleaning livestock pens.

It takes persistent hours leading around a balky animal until it learns to stand precisely as the judge requires.

Morning comes early when there are animals to scrub and groom on show day.

Blue ribbon or white — the lessons learned in the show ring prepare a youngster to accept, gracefully, a lifetime of little defeats and eventual success — the reward for increased effort.

Young people served their country this summer in every imaginable way with their young minds and bodies.

They carried groceries, pumped gasoline, dug ditches, picked up golf balls, pitched hay, babysat with toddlers, mowed lawn, guarded swimmers, served meals, stuffed papers — and delivered them.

These youth, by treasuring their hard-earned resources, will make dreamed-of college a reality.

Some youth sought greater understanding by studying in foreign lands, while others worked in playgrounds in city ghettos.

Each did his own "thing".

Vacation for some meant a week at band camp. They spent tedious hours in stepped-up cadence, marching on a sunny, dusty field getting in shape to provide the musical tempo for football fans this fall.

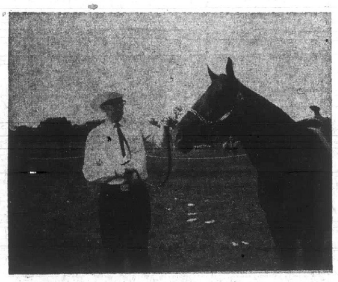
If they were politically alert, they may have joined the youth group of their favorite political party. At seminars, on sultry summer days, they sat through length- speeches, trying to learn what makes democracy work.

These young people know where the "action" really is. They've already learned the secret—

Democracy will continue to work — as long as America's youth work for it — by serving their fellowmen in every way they can.

It's A Girl!

CLINTON—A daughter, Cheryl Jennifer, was born Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ensign of Ypsilanti, at Beyer Memorial Hospital. The newcomer weighed 8 lbs., 13 ozs. Mrs. Ensign, nee Joyce Service, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Service of Clinton. The Ensigns have another daughter, Phyliss, three years old.



Gary Easton was awarded second in the Halter Mare class during Thursday's Horse Show at the State 4-H Show. Pleasure horse entries for this one-day show have increased until it is one of the largest events of its type in the state. Gary's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Easton, 710 Center Ct.

County Farm Bureau Hears Guest Speakers

Meryl Eaton spoke of America's challenges to Lenawee County Farm Bureau board members and wives and guests at a cooperative supper meeting at Madison, Tuesday evening. Several area ministers and their wives were guests.

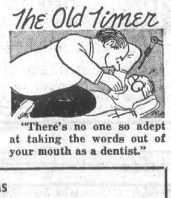
Meryl has participated in State and national 4-H events and a Farm Bureau Citizenship seminar, and will begin his studies at Michigan State University this fall where he plans to major in political science. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Eaton of 5695 E. Monroe Rd.

Stressing America's beautiful landscape and abundant resources, Meryl described our country as a dynamic nation, whose youth are not afraid to challenge old ideas. He recited the meaningful words of "America, the Beautiful," and concluded, "It's great to be an American."

Dean Taylor and Kirk Onweller gave reports on the Farm Bureau Citizenship Seminar which they attended at Camp Kett this summer. The Master's Men, quartet of gospel singers, sang several hymns.

The Rev. John Brantingham, who has recently returned from five years in Taiwan, where he and his wife served as missionaries, gave a tribute to youth of America. He spoke of the world's image of American youth as distorted, and reminded his audience that this nation's real leaders come from young people who have been raised in America's heartland — the rural areas. He concluded his remarks with a moving recitation of Rudyard Kipling's "If."

Mrs. Wilson Sawyer had charge of the program.



"There's no one so adept at taking the words out of your mouth as a dentist."

Junior Showmen Take Prizes

The FFA Chapter also won a third place and $400 for an artistic fruit display. It was comprised of apples forming an Indian with an animated arm reaching for an apple.

Those who worked on the displays were Tim Martin, Douglas Van Sickle, John Ebbert, Jack Mullally, Tom Wolford and Gene Kershner. Jim Welch and Jeff Wise helped on the display's finishing touches.

Chip-off-the-block Ruth Vincent, 10, showed the reserve champion Berkshire sow in the junior show.

Competing for their first time, in the Junior division sheep shearing contest, Tom Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Moore, earned a first division ribbon; Mark Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wegner, third division; and Jim Woodward, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Woodward, fourth division.

Tom Moore also entered the senior shearing class and a special shearing contest, placing third in both events.

A few minutes after she was shown, Johnny's sow went into the barn and farrowed the "first litter at the fair" for an award of $25.

Barbara Vincent won the swine barrow judging contest, in competition with adults. Later in the week, Barbara had an opportunity to show one of the little pigs from the first litter to Governor George Romney, and photos of that appeared in several newspapers.

Terry Calhoun, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Calhoun, showing Landrace swine, had the grand champion sow, junior yearling and senior champion sow, reserve junior champion sow and junior champion boar. He also received the Landrace premier breeder award. The Landrace gold cup trophy was presented for his junior champion boar.

Brakes Fail

CLINTON — A rear-end collision occurred at 12:30 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of Tecumseh Rd. and US-12 in the village.

William Shelley, 40, 109 Gibson St., northbound, stopped for the traffic signal and his automobile was struck in the rear by an automobile driven by Arthur P. Mann Jr. of 9108 Austin Rd., Bridgewater.

Mann told officers he applied his brakes to stop, but his brake line broke and he was unable to prevent the collision.

Both vehicles were damaged, but there were no injuries to passengers.

Mann received a summons for no proof of insurance.

David M. Shulters, 22, of Adrian, was given a summons for improper passing when he collided with a car driven by John Sussex, 59, of Nortley Hwy., Tipton, at 4 p.m. Sunday.

The mishap occurred on M-50 one-half mile west of Tipton Hwy.

Faulty Signal Causes Crash

CLINTON — Cars driven by Roger Horne, 28, of W. Michigan Ave., Clinton, and Fred Snauble, 74, of 13830 Able, Clinton, collided at the intersection of Church St. and Tecumseh Rd. in the village, Saturday at 11:05 a.m.

Horne stopped on Church St., then proceeded to turn right into the path of a car driven by Snauble, who was westbound on Church St. and turning left.

Horne was slightly bruised, but sought his own treatment. He was given a summons for no proof of insurance and no right turn signal.

CLINTON—Mark Froelich, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Froelich of Springville is a patient at Herick Memorial Hospital, recovering from cuts near the eye and bruises. He was injured Friday evening, when he lost control of his car and struck a tree on Laird Rd., south of M-50.

Communications in this country are supposed to be the best in the world but they just won't work themselves. Somewhere behind the scenes a human being has to push the button. It's high time the American citizens pushed a button or a pen and let the Washington officials know their feelings concerning the Pueblo.

The Marvin Leismers had a dividend added to their vacation last week when a little girl, Kristine Marie, 6 lbs., 12 oz., was born to their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Smith, last Monday morning at the hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith of Island Drive are the paternal grandparents.

Betty Bishop of Ann Arbor spent last weekend with Mrs. Joseph Guy in Kalamazoo. Both girls are former Tecumseh residents.

Mary Heavener and son, Gene, and Shirley Wagner spent two weeks in the western states, visiting Yellowstone National Park, Las Vegas, Nev., and Mary's brother, Frank Shea, in Simi, Calif. While there they visited Disneyland. Mrs. Heavener stated that the only rough part of the trip was riding out and back in a Volkswagen. (Everyone to his own opinion. This columnist completed a 6000-mile trip to Yellowstone, Glacier and Banff Parks in a VW fastback Aug. 23 with no adversities, plenty of comfort and 28 miles plus to the gallon. On top of that, the sun roof afforded a perfect place to take pictures of the bears in Yellowstone in safety.)

Clara Waldron is feeling somewhat better and able to be up and about her room at the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cornell spent the weekend at Boyne City as guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. McWain and daughter. The group joined nearly 16,000 others in walking the four and one-half miles across Mackinac Bridge. Skate boards, roller skates and baby carriages as well as children carried piggy back were among those in the parade.

Twenty-nine other area folks were camped in the Mackinac Campgrounds along Lake Huron on Route 23 to make the bridge walk Labor Day. They were the families of John Hamilton of Worthington, O., with Joyce Preston of Lansing and James Barton who take this trek annually, the Clifford Deaners, Jody Goller, the John Hopsons, Pat Weigle, Mrs. Curtis White with two daughters, Sally and Barb, Joan Bovee and Cindy Grosshans of Stockbridge, the Russ Hyatts along with Sharon Dull.

Tom Barton arrived home Thursday from McCord Air Force Base at Tacoma, Wash., in time to go with his folks. The family arrived home Tuesday afternoon just in time to pick up Glenn Barton at the airport, home from Long Beach, Calif. Tom will return Sept. 17 to Tacoma and Glenn will report to Lakehurst, N. J., for training Oct. 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gross and sons and Mr. and Mrs. Owen Merrill and family were hosts for a coffee break after the bridge walking jaunt at the Ray Puffer Jr. residence at Mackinaw City.

Mrs. David Simpson and children, Bobby and Sandra, 4130 Allen Rd., have returned from a summer visit to her homeland, Japan. She visited her mother and sister in Tokyo for the first time in eight years, since coming to America with her husband. Much time was also spent visiting other relatives and touring Japan.

Mary C. Bell and son, Winn Schwartau, have returned to New York City after spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haughn at Evans Lake, Mrs. Anna Haughn and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Gillam have moved to 1558 Glastonbury, Ann Arbor. Mr. Gillam has accepted a position with the Ann Arbor Public Schools.

David Grigg left Sunday for Hackley School of Nursing at Muskegon. He was a medic for four years in the Air Force and has recently been a surgical orderly at Beyer Hospital, Ypsilanti. The surgical crew had a charcoal broil in his honor Aug. 26 and a chocolate cake the following day as a farewell gesture.

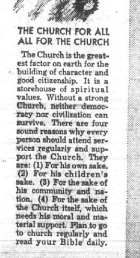
THE LAND AND THE PEOPLE



THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Jim has a college degree in agriculture—Helen, a diploma from junior college. And they're back on the land.

Less than five miles from the farm where they'll start their married life is a church. They'll be part of it.

For they know the greatness of the nation in which they were born; a greatness rooted in the land and the people.

It's the same land their forefathers tilled.

It's got to be the same kind of people.

That's why there's a church less than five miles away . . . and why they'll be part of it.

HIT 'EM HARD — JV Coach Jim Curth shouts instructions to some of his upcoming gridders as they prepare for a hard fought season. Past JV teams have proven to be tough competitors.

Chuck Aces 6th Hole

R. C. "Chuck" Osburn scored his first ace in nearly 30 years of golfing last Thursday when his five-iron plopped in the cup on the 120-yard sixth hole of the Silver Lake Par 3 Course.

Playing partners and witnessing the shot were Tobe and Rod Brown and Karl Schneider.

Johnson Scores Three TD's

Jim Johnson, 1963 graduate of Tecumseh High, put on a pass-catching display last weekend with the Ypsilanti Viking football team. Johnson caught three touchdown passes in leading the Vikings to a 37-15 win over the Ft. Wayne Tigers of the Midwest Football League.

Craig Kirby, quarterbacking the Vikings, completed touchdown passes of 72, 19 and 16 yards to Johnson. The local speedster also caught a pass for a point after touchdown. He played the first half at split-end and flanker back. The second half he devoted to running at the halfback slot.

Kirby tossed the 72-yarder to Johnson on the second play from scrimmage to start the game. With less than two minutes gone in the first quarter and after a Viking recovery of a fumble, Kirby passed to Johnson for 19 yards and the second TD.

Golf Winners On Guest Day

August was Guest Day at the Tecumseh Country Club. Ladies who were guests of the Tecumseh club were from the Lenawee Country Club and the Monroe Country Club.

Guest winners were: low gross, Mrs. Donald Nettleman; low net Mrs. Pat Hollar. Low putts, Mrs. M. Garrison and Mrs. A. Carpenter.

Most over handicap: Mrs. S. Hammond; chip-in, Mrs. H. Hickman and blind hole, Mrs. J. Clark.

Winners of the Ladies' flights were: first flight, low gross, Mrs. N. Wynn; low net, Mrs. Robert Moore; low putts, Mrs. Willis Porter.

Second Flight: low gross, Mrs. Merwyn Blanden; runner-up, Mrs. S. Bassit; low net, Mrs. Arthur Snyder; low putts, tie, Mrs. Maxwell Smith and Mrs. Kenneth Herrick.

Indian Team Termed "Respectable"

Just one week from Friday night and the Tecumseh Indians will open the 1968 football season here, and against a Hillsdale eleven which will be hoping to revenge a loss suffered last year.

Guarded optimism surrounds the local football squad, as far as coaches go. Perhaps they're right.

There are holes to be filled, particularly in the backfield. Gone are John Anderson, fullback, and quarterback Jim Mobley. Some tough ones on the line, Doug Schwartz, Jim Upell, Chuck Gillies, Mike Jackson, Joe Conklin, Rick Durkee, Richard Hale, Bob Esterline and others are missing.

Also missing in THS uniforms will be Buddy Work and Randy Robinson, both outstanding backs.

There is no doubt that the toughest position to fill will be fullback and quarterback. Larry Cote is a strong possibility if his knee holds together. An operation last year is supposed to have been successful.

Other candidates are Steve Tilton, junior, and Frank Geisenhaver. Neither have the experience of Cote — or probably the speed.

The quarterback slot is up for grabs with John and Mike Kennedy battling Jim Hunt. Both John and Hunt have some varsity experience at the post, but it's a question if Hunt actually wants to play quarterback. He [illegible] Tecumseh's best runner.

Hunt is a better passer than either of the Kennedys but not as good as Craig Smith, a sophomore, who coaches feel, eventually could be the Indians' best passer in many years.

Other backfield starters could include Ken Pieh, a starter in several Tecumseh games last year, or Gerald Girbach, Jim Collins, Bob and Jim Dixon, Marv Maynard, and Ralph Miller.

The strength lies in the line and here Coach Fagan has a host. Jim Parros, Carlo Mobley, Mick Steele, Denny Lewis, Paul Burns, Dan Anderson, Jack Greenfield, Bob Hackett, Earl Ruttofsky, Burl Ives, Steve Dalton, Dave Laidlaw, Joe Bagby, Jack Baker, Gary Schmidt, Bob Moore, Marc Travis, Bill Gibson, Jim Kane, John Roberts, Rich Roost and Jim Hemphill.

Defensively, on paper, the Indians look tougher than last year, and it could well be the defense again this season. Offensively, Tecumseh may have trouble, especially if the Indians fail to develop any passing offense.

The backfield will not be especially fast but both Hunt and Pieh can go the distance. These two should compare favorably with any other set of backs in the Huron League. Before the season is over, a couple others are expected to develop.

Although one source has predicted the Blissfield Royals to repeat as league champs this fall, with newcomer Monroe Jefferson falling in behind in second place, the Indians have almost annually been a front-runner—and should be a power in the league this season.

The Royals lost some of their finest players, and it's inconceivable that Monroe Jefferson could come off the floor — it was handed a 10-touchdown shellacking last year by Flat Rock — and managed a runner-up position in the Huron League.

Although the coaches won't predict it, a "respectable" Tecumseh eleven could be the 1968 league champions!

Bar and Grill Has New Owner

After some redecorating, Jerry Quinn has opened Jerry's Bar and Grill on the boulevard in town. He recently purchased the establishment from Bob Albrecht.

Actually the grill has been opened for two weeks now since Jerry took over. He painted the ceiling white and made some changes in the lighting. The chairs and tables were also redecorated.

The new owner has been a resident of Tecumseh for 12 years. He formerly worked in Manchester before opening his new business venture.

He is married and the father of two children, Jimmy Wayne 4, and Tammy Ann 1½. His wife, Lois, and he live on Maiden Lane.

Hours for Jerry's new place are the same as they were previously except that the grill is kept open until 1 a.m. now.

Providence Guides Family's Footsteps

The Rev. John Brantingham, oldest of the four minister sons of the local Friends pastor, returned from five years' missionary service with his wife and three children in Formosa.

The Rev. Ben Brantingham, youngest of the four brothers, has completed his student pastorship at Bethany United Methodist Church in Homeworth, O., and has assumed pastorate of the Southeast Friends Church in Salem. His wife, Linda, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly of Macon.

Further cause for happiness in the family was the Aug. 15 dedication of the Winona Friends Church, designed by a fifth son, Robert, an architect and assistant campus planner for the University of Minnesota.

The new church has much meaning for the family since the Rev. David Brantingham is presently pastor there; the boys' father began his ministry there and their grandfather and wife, Lydia, both recorded ministers, also held pastorates in the former Winona Church.

The Rev. James Brantingham is assistant pastor of the Salem First Friends Church and prior to assuming that position was pastor of the Raisin Center Friends Church here for six years.

There are 10 grandchildren in the family and the Paul Brantinghams still have Paula and Sammy at home.

The four minister sons and Robert are sons of the late Jeanne Wright Brantingham who died in 1948, leaving her husband with five small sons.

James states humbly and with gratitude, "We boys owe a great debt to our father and also to our stepmother (a term never used in the family). She has raised us as though we were her very own and in return, we give her our love and lots of admiration."

Ellen Haas of Shelby, O., met the elder Mr. Brantingham when she was teaching music at Cleveland Bible College, predecessor of Malone College.

All of the boys are graduates of the College along with their father.

James recalls that "When I went before the examining board, I was asked if it were because of so many in my family being ministers that I may have had the call?"

"This was the greatest obstacle to encounter for having lived in the parsonage as a P.K., (preacher's kid) we were aware of the hazards as well as the joys of the ministerial vocation," he continued.

"Through the providence of God, it worked out; as John set the pace for us and was then the head of the house during the day. He was the oldest but each had certain responsibilities.

"John milked the cow; Bob was shift ironer and chief cook along with Jim and Ben and could make the best chocolate cake in the world! The rest of us did what was needed. These hard times served to draw us together and cement the family."

Each one of us never ceases to marvel at the mercy and goodness of God; who has so providentially guided our every step," concluded James.

The Rev. and Mrs. Brantingham have good reason to be proud of their family and their work here. Mrs. B. is a teacher in the Tecumseh system and the local Friends Church is in the process of building a new church on their property at the north edge of the city.

They have been in Tecumseh for 11 years.

A corn Boil Sunday climaxed the Hickory Hill Christian Camp which was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, on property owned by Robert Rupert, Sr., on Newburg Rd.

W. H. Driskell, minister of the Church of Christ, conducted the camp, which was attended by 27 campers. He was assisted by Carl Rupert and Mrs. William Terry of Adrian.

Highlight of the Corn Boil, which is sponsored by Robert Rupert, is the ritual of boiling the corn in a steaming antique copper kettle on an open fire. Attending the tasty meal Sunday, were 94 persons who consumed nearly 30 dozen ears of sweet corn.

Graduate Study Offered at Siena

Opportunities for graduate study at Siena Heights College in Adrian are being offered at the opening of the fall semester beginning Sept. 9. The graduate levels which are in the offering at the school are opportunities for in-service of both elementary and secondary teachers in the area. The goal of the courses are for those who wish to satisfy certification requirements, pursue masters' degrees or for personal knowledge desires.

Sister Rose Terrence will offer a course in Creative Dramatics at both graduate and undergraduate levels. Students will study the nature of creativity and will acquire skill in techniques to develop sensitivity, bodily freedom and growth in self-confidence. The theoretical knowledge will be applied to practical situations in laboratory experiences with children.

Richard Wilson, principal of Adrian Senior High School, will join the Siena faculty to teach a graduate course in School Organization and Administration.

Sister Hilda Marie will offer a specialized course designed for cooperating teachers, supervisors and administrators who are concerned with the direction of student teachers. Sister Hilda Marie's background of supervising the Siena Elementary Teachers made her ideally suited to offer guidance in this field to teachers seeking their master's degree.

Advanced study in reading at both elementary and secondary levels will be taught by Sister John Louis, reading specialist. Additional courses are available in guidance, English, history and philosophy. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Graduate Division, Siena Heights College. Classes begin Sept. 9 in the evening.

PRETTY ANY TIME OF YEAR

I wonder if cardinal lovers are all the same? I, for one, fall into the dreadful trap of thinking cardinals and snow. I know I have been guilty of raving at great lengths over how breathtakingly beautiful a brilliant male cardinal is when, on a cold winter morning, he sits on a drift of fresh fallen snow. There is something memorable about the combination of morning sunshine, white snow and scarlet bird.

However, cardinals can put themselves into a beautiful picture anytime of year. This August, for example, our yard was as lush and green as springtime. The many rains kept it growing as fast, too, but that is beside the point. When Papa C. and his lovely lady dined on the scratch feed which we scattered along the top of the creek bank, their colors, his brilliant and hers subtle, stood out so nicely against the rich green.

And speaking of summertime red and green, I believe August 3rd afforded a sight which I shall never forget. This was the day we were leaving on a short trek into northern Michigan.

The morning had been a hectic blur of packing but about one o'clock everything was under control. I was in the car waiting for the last piece of luggage to be stowed away and for the folks to take a final walk through the house to check lights, stove, faucets, etc. Ordinarily these last few minutes seem to drag into hours — waiting can be nerve-straininglly tedious.

THIS PARTICULAR Saturday though I minded the wait not the least bit. In fact, I was almost surprised when Mom and Dad locked the front door and jumped into the car. I had cardinal fun to watch, I had not even noticed the time.

First it was Mama C. She came winging around the back of the garage and lit on the topmost limb of the Flowering Rose of China bush. The bush grows at the side of the garage and was directly in front of the car. My view could not have been better.

After a quick check to see that nothing was amiss, the cardinal hopped down into a dense part of the bush. Ho ho, so this is where their last nest of the season was. We had suspected and how nice to be proved right.

She came out almost immediately, there had been just about time for her to make sure that the kids were still tucked in well.

The big handsome male cardinal appeared next. He was more cautious. Flying first to the crossbar of the clothes post, he very deliberately looked around to make sure no one saw where he was going.

This inbred sense birds have of keeping the location of their nest secret never ceases to amaze me. When Papa C. decided everything was as it should be, he flew to the bush, perched on an outside branch and had another look around.

THIS MOVE made our never-to-be-forgotten red and green summer cardinal picture. The bush itself was a dark, lush green; the bird was our most brilliant male, his scarlet was almost flaming; in Papa C's. red-orange bill was a bright green worm.

The worm was long enough so that it was looped twice — quite artistically but that is hardly the way to describe how a bird holds a worm.

It took several moments before he was satisfied — moments which I shall never forget — but finally deep into the bush he went. The baby cardinals must have been very young because I could hear no squeaky screams and the car was close enough so that, if they had been grown to within a day or two of leaving the nest, their begging would have been easily heard.

Pappa C's stay in the bush was longer than his wife's, after all he had lunch to deliver. When he flew away he was empty billed — I hope the kids enjoyed the special treat their father had brought them.

So it is that my thinking must change, the ideal picture of a cardinal need not be a snow scene, they are pretty any time of year.

Musings

by Bill Sanford

How Young Are You?

I am a year "older" now. Seldom can you pick up a magazine that it doesn't state, if you are over 27 you are among the world's elders. "Youth rules the world." But, Ah! My Friends and Ah! My Foes (if Miss Edna St. Vincent Millay will allow me the phrase) a dull, dull life these writers must have lived.

Youth is not a time of life, one you can place in decimals. It is above all a state of mind. It is not a matter of ripe cheeks, red lips and supple knees nor a continual infatuation with golden-tressed girls. It is a temper of the will, a quality you give to your imagination, it is a vigor in the emotions that keep you young. Youth is a continual refreshing of the springs that pump the blood through your veins and make you feel alive.

No one in all the world has ever grown old by merely living a number of years. People grow old by deserting their dreams and ideals. Years, it is true, can wrinkle the skin, give up enthusiasm for living and the wrinkles grow on your soul.

Worry, doubt, self - distrust, fear, despair, these are the long hard years that bow the heart and turn the spirit to dust. You can stay young so long as you have faith, grow old when you doubt; stay young with hopes and dreams, grow old in your despair.

Somewhere deep in the central part of your being, there is a sort of receiving station. It receives messages of beauty, hope, cheer, grandeur, courage and power from the Infinite, from the earth, from men. So long as you can receive and perceive of these powers, so long are you young.

When all of the wires which lead to this receiving station are down and irrepairable, and your heart is covered with the snows of cynicism and the ice of pessimism fills your veins then you are grown old, tho' your age be but 20.

One of the many hats of Consumers Power COMMUNITY PROMOTION

Just to keep up with its growing population, Michigan needs 100,000 new jobs each year. Many of these new jobs develop with the natural growth of industries in Michigan. But many more jobs are created when plants and offices move into the state from outside.

That's where the Job-Makers of Consumers Power come on the scene. They are a small group of highly-qualified Michigan boosters, industrial experts whose heads and briefcases are crammed with information. We call them our Area Development Department.

Through personal visits and advertising in national business publications, these energetic men urge industry managers to move to Michigan. They tell about the many advantages our state offers to industry, and they help businessmen find sites here, year-in, year-out. The Job-Makers of Consumers Power help keep Michigan's economy booming.

As one of the largest utility companies in America, Consumers Power knows about growth. By promoting Michigan and the communities in it, we are all growing and prospering together.

The Elmer Chapman's Married Forty Years

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Chapman of Mancelona were feted Sunday afternoon at an open house honoring their 40th wedding anniversary at the Raisin Presbyterian Church, Holloway.

Nearly 85 friends greeted the couple during the afternoon. They were from Adrian, Monroe, Saline, Britton, Clinton, Wayne, Ypsilanti, Manchester, Sand Creek, Holloway and Tecumseh.

Arrangements for the event were made by officers of the Centennial School Reunion, President Mrs. Ted Golat, Secretary Mrs. Gail Austin and Treasurer Mrs. Helen Williams.

Mrs. Williams served coffee, Mrs. Elwyn Green, punch and Mrs. Golat, a three-tiered cake that she had made and decorated with white icing and red roses. Three white wedding bells surrounded a red rose on the top.

Tables were covered with white cloths accented with ruby bows and streamers.

Mr. and Mrs. Chapman were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Gillespie over the weekend and attended the wedding of Sue Austin to Warren Leemgraven Saturday afternoon.

New Books

The following books are awaiting you at your library:

THE PYRAMID, by William Golding. Set in the superficially placid village of Stilbourne, a contemporary English community, The Pyramid presents three episodes in the life of one young man, Oliver.

ALL MEN ARE LONELY NOW, by Francis Clifford. A chilling classic of suspense and deception featuring a unique and shattering change of identity that takes place before the reader's startled eyes.

RETURN OF THE SPHINX, by Hugh MacLennan. Around two generations in conflict this story is woven. It takes place in the problems fermenting in Canada and the ways of politicians in a very real drama.

ONCE AN EAGLE, by Anton Myrer. Here is the dramatic story of the making of a soldier. More than that, it is an urgent examination of the shift in American power and values during this century.

THE KOREAN WAR, by Matthew B. Ridgeway. In this well-organized and challenging book, General Ridgeway tells his own story of the way in which he took over a bewildered and dispirited army, rebuilding it in a few short months.

Mystery readers take note of the following books.

THE EWE LAMB, by Margaret Erskine.

LET'S CHOOSE EXECUTORS, by Sara Woods.

Pack 32 Enjoys Treasure Hunt

Pack 32 of Birdsall met on the wooded grounds of the Conservation Clubhouse on Sutton Rd. for their August meeting.

The Scout Committee laid out two courses and planted clues in advance around the setting of the new pond. The Cub Scouts were divided into teams for an exciting Treasure Hunt. It took the boys far less time to negotiate the course than the adults expected! Prizes were awarded at the finish line.

Hamburgers were grilled and a potluck dinner served.

Kerry Skinner earned the Webelos activity badges in forestry and geology and these were presented by his father, Cubmaster Chuck Skinner.

A baseball game will be the feature at the Sept. 16 Pack meeting to be held at the Conservation League Clubhouse.

Cub Scouts Camp At Big Portage

Assistant Scoutmaster Rob Sager took the members of Troop 32 of Cub Scouts on their monthly campout 1st weekend. The boys traveled to the large camp ground on Big Portage Lake in the Waterloo area. It boasts the only lady ranger in the State of Michigan as its director. She is Anne Rednarski, who commutes from Ann Arbor.

The Troop set up camp in the specially-reserved group camping area and several Troops were camped nearby.

The beach and waterfront were extensively used by the boys Saturday and Mr. Sager was joined in the afternoon by Scoutmaster Dick James and Committeemen Glen Richard and Bob Cisney.

Sunday noon the parents arrived for a potluck chicken dinner with the troop. The facilities of the lake camp ground, including the hiking trails and popular camp store, were well used before the Troop embarked for home.

Measure Fields Before Planting

Frank Light, chairman of the Michigan Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee announced today that measurement services are available to farmers who plan to participate in the 1969 Wheat Program. The reason this service is being made available earlier this year is so that farmers can have their fields measured prior to planting time.

The new wheat program offers price support certificates on 43% of the allotment acreage if the farmer decides to plant this acreage, and it also offers a diversion payment if the farmer decides to divert more than the minimum required diversion for participation in the program.

The cost of this measurement is only $5.00 plus 10c on acre and can save the participating farmer many times this amount at harvest time.

Gary Frankhouse Near Dau Tieng

Army Pfc. Gary L. Frankhouse, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Frankhouse, 705 Seneca, was assigned Aug. 17 as an infantryman in the 25th Infantry Division near Dau Tieng, Vietnam.

Gary completed nine weeks of advanced infantry training July 19 at Ft. Polk, La., with the last week of training spent in guerilla warfare exercises.

During his guerilla training, he lived under simulated Vietnam conditions for five days, fighting off night attacks and conducting raids on "enemy" villages. He was taught methods of removing booby traps, setting ambushes and avoiding enemy ambushes.

Other specialized training included small unit tactics, map reading, land mine warfare, communications, and firing the M-14 rifle, M-60 machine gun and the 3.5-inch rocket launcher.

Stationed Off Vietnam Coast

Machinist Mate Third Class Thomas D. Meyers, USN, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard J. Meyers, 1008 Red Mill Dr., and husband of the former Sharron L. Boos, 8918 Waruqle, Pico Rivera, Calif., is serving aboard the destroyer USS Maddox (DD-731) off the coast of Vietnam.

As a member of the crew, he recently took part in attacking a bridge over a river more than 30 miles north of the DMZ.

Together with the heavy cruiser USS Boston, crewmembers of the Maddox fired on enemy coastal defense batteries.

The Seventh Fleet destroyer Maddox is a long-time Vietnam veteran. She was the first ship attacked in the war.

Board Authorizes Uniform Increase for School Events

The Tecumseh Board of Education has authorized an increase in admission for school events, following the policy suggested by the Huron League last spring.

Prices have been uniformly set at $.75 for students and $1.25 for adults.

In addition to the desirability of uniform prices which eliminates confusion and misunderstanding between schools, the primary reason for the increase is due to the substantial increase in the cost of athletic equipment and supplies in recent years, according to Donald B. Brazee, Tecumseh High School assistant principal.

Mrs. Luda Holcomb of Hamilton, Ala., became a great-great-grandmother Aug. 27 when a baby daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Grant O'Dell of San Diego, Calif. Mrs. O'Dell is the former Rebecca Engle of Tecumseh.

Mr. and Mrs. I. V. Engle are the grandparents of the baby and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman H. Isom of Hackleburg, Ala., are the great grandparents.

QUESTION:
"Why do funeral directors charge the full price when the religious service is conducted in a church, instead of using the mortuary?"

ANSWER:
Most funeral directors are very co-operative in arranging for a religious service anywhere the family chooses. However, a church service actually requires greater detail planning, extra employees and more specialized equipment.

TP Negotiations Start but Strike Goes On

First week of the first strike in the 34-year history of the Tecumseh Products is past.

A solution or agreement? Not yet.

Last Friday, the Company and Union renewed negotiations for the first time since the United Products Workers Union went on strike. Talks continued Monday — about six hours — and the two parties sat down again Tuesday for less than two hours without reaching or even approaching any settlement.

Both the Union and the Company were scheduled to go back to the bargaining table Wednesday.

Ed Rapin, Products chief negotiator, and Ray Jackson, Union president, refuse to discuss any details of the discussions, even to the extent of whether they're optimistic or pessimistic about reaching a settlement soon.

Union members received a letter and a copy of the company's offer via mail last Friday. Comments, relative to the letter and offer, vary by the workers from, "let's go back to work" to "it's just like the Union board told us."

Mr. Jackson expressed little doubt about reaching a settlement this week and a posible return to work next Monday. He said that it would take a couple of days after the Company and Union agreed at the bargaining table to collect all the information and call a mass meeting of the 3,200 workers.

Mr. Rapin says the Products settled its eighth contract this week at Sheboygan Falls, Wis., and is near settlement of another contract at Elkhart, Ind. One other contract will still be involved at the Indiana plant, leaving it and the one here as the only major contracts to be completed by the Company.

Effects of the strike here have already been felt by some merchants and undoubtedly by some families. Union members received a paycheck last Friday, but will receive none this week. If settlement is reached this week — and it appears unlikely — the next paycheck will be Sept. 23.

Several local and area suppliers of the Products have cut back production.

In the meantime, pickets are still located at the Products, picketing the plant on four-hour shifts, 24 hours a day. Foremen, members of the Union, but signed to a Company contract, remain out of work, refusing to cross the picket lines.

Official: City Dump Closing Here Oct. 1st

Landmarks usually attract the photo bugs. But, not all landmarks.

Most Tecumseh residents will not be interested in photographing the local city dump, but it's passing from the scene.

Effective Oct. 1, the dump will be closed to all residents. Council, forced by state regulations in maintaining the local landfill, ruled that the dump must close at last Wednesday night's meeting. There was little if any choice.

After Oct. 1, residents must use the Lenawee Disposal landfill — or dump — located about one mile east of Adrian and west of Palmyra on N. Ogden Hwy. City permits, which will be free, will be issued at City Hall to residents, beginning Sept. 20.

On and after that date, residents are asked to register and pick up their permit cards.

Officials are participating a rush by residents to rid themselves here of trash, rubbish and other debris — no garbage — before the Oct. 1 deadline. The city, however, is not planning on a general cleanup whereby city trucks would pick up refuse at the curb before the closing deadline.

Lenawee Disposal will accept refuse on Mondays from 8 a.m. till 4:30 and on Saturdays from 8 a.m. till 12 noon. Permit cards will be necessary and will be checked at the landfill's entrance.

City government is footing the bill — $200 a month for residents and a charge of $540 for commercial and industrial users. The industrial and commercial plan is on a three-month experimental basis.

Also last week, Council approved an agreement with M. H. Weaver of Onsted to haul city refuse from trash cans in the downtown area and on city property.

Water Trial Court Costs Are $6,000

Council last week approved payment of $6,000 for court costs in the recent condemnation suit against George Underwood, local resident and Clinton auto dealer.

Prior to these court costs, city expenditures exceeded $40,000 in test wells and surveys.

Tecumseh sought approximately eight acres from Mr. Underwood, who did not want to sell. The city eventually withdrew during the trial and lost its attempt to acquire the land for a new well field.

At the present, new well drillings are taking place in other areas north of town in the city's search for water.

Areas now being tested are under option.

Enrollment Hits 3,396 in Schools

Although the kindergarten enrollment fell off over 50 pupils, Tecumseh schools still showed an increase in attendance for the opening days with 3,396 students enrolled.

Supt. James McDowell says the increase amounts to 14 over the official enrollment last year of 3,381. The official enrollment is taken the fourth Friday of September for state aid purposes.

Breakdown of the attendance figures shows 1,793 in the elementary; 515, junior high; and 1,088, high school.

Kindergarten enrollment is 259, compared to over 300 for last year.

Although Tecumseh neared the 1,100 mark in the upper four grades, a recent change in the requirements for being rated Class A makes it unlikely for the school to switch from Class B for some time.

Schools now between 500 and 1,199 are ranked as Class B.

While the kindergarten class is down, the fourth grade is bulging, forcing officials to transport a few youngsters from town to Tipton.

Business Woman Hurt in Mishap

Edna Mae Heilman, 84, of 214 N. Union St., long-time Tecumseh business lady, suffered minor injuries Tuesday when her car crashed into a passing automobile on N. Evans St. at Shawnee.

She was taken to Herrick Hospital for x-rays and treatment and then released. Injuries included bruised and possibly broken ribs.

Also taken to the hospital was Mrs. George Anderson, [illegible] 420 N. Evans.

She was a passenger.

Mrs. Louis E. Fairbanks, 26, driver of the other car, suffered bumps and bruises but did not seek treatment.

According to the police report, Mrs. Fairbanks was headed south on N. Evans when Mrs. Heilman missed the brake pedal and instead hit the accelerator. Mrs. Heilman was charged with running a stop sign.

Both cars sustained extensive damages and were towed away by wreckers.

In other accidents, Richard Clewis, 16, of 708 Seneca St., attempted to cross the railroad tracks behind Wright's Pharmacy, and in doing so, damaged the front end and underneath of his car on the rails. Mishap ocurred last Wednesday.

Last Thursday, Simeon Spencer, 9301 N. Union St., reported his car damaged while parked in the downtown area. Other driver is unknown.

Annabelle Pickford, 41, Clinton, was cited for failure to stop within an assured clear distance after she ran into the rear of a car driven by Mary Weakly, 19, of 206 S. Oneida St. Accident happened on S. Adrian St.

Government Aid Sought for New Dam

City officials briefly discussed a recent offer to buy the Globe Mill Pond, Standish Pond and adjacent property—total amounting to approximately 60 acres — at last week's Council meeting.

The property, offered by Perry Satterthwaite, is available for $15,000 and the city has taken a 90-day option on it.

Problem confronting officials is the replacement of the Globe Mill dam, washed out this summer. An estimate last month was $175,000, although some, including Mr. Satterthwaite, an engineer, feel the estimate is high.

Cal Zorn, city manager, is seeking financial assistance from the Federal government and has met with representatives of the Soil Conservation Service.

He will meet officials of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, a department administered by the State Conservation Department, this Friday at city hall.

Another source of assistance could come from the Army Corps of Engineers and Congressman Marvin Esch.

Mr. Zorn says he has been discouraged in obtaining aid for flood control purposes. If the city is successful through recreation purposes, as much as 50% of the dam's cost could be financed by Federal funds.

CITY'S PROBLEM — This photo shows the wreckage — and some ancient timbers—in what was the Globe Mill Pond dam. City officials have expressed interest in buying the pond but are hesitant over the high cost of constructing a new dam.

Precinct Two To Play Part in CBS Coverage

Voters of Precinct Two in Tecumseh will play a small part in the general election coverage in November when CBS feeds data into its computer.

City officials have learned that the city has been selected to help the media predict the outcome of the election — well in advance, usually, before all the returns are in.

Unless there's information to the contrary, it is the first time Tecumseh as such has been used in a general election. In essence, early returns are fed into the computer, and based on past returns, the computer is suposed to predict a political winner.

Survey Turns to Big Pitch

By ALMINA HUNT

They're at it again. The telephone solicitors, that is.

My evening was interrupted by a sweet voice on the other end of the line telling me she was taking a television survey. Did I ever watch the 11 o'clock news? Did I ever watch the Johnny Carson Show?

Because I had been so nice and answered her questions, I would receive a surprise gift from the Johnny Carson Show, which I never watch.

I would receive 60 weeks of the Life Magazine absolutely free along with Good Housekeeping, Field & Stream and one other. However, they asked that I would pass these on to someone else when I had finished with them.

Sound good? Here comes the pinch.

However, she added, I would be responsible for the postage which would amount to 35c per week. Not for each magazine, but for all four. Then I was asked when their representative could call on me to sign the contract.

Ah! Now I had her. "I'm sorry, but do not want him to call as I am not interested." At that she hung up.

Now to do a little figuring, 35c for 60 weeks amounts to $21.

I believe I could subscribe to those four magazines for that amount, don't you?

Don't be fooled by that sweet voice, should she contact you.

Board Discusses Dump Problems

The question of what to do for dump facilities was the main topic of business at the regular meeting of the Franklin Township board held Sept. 3 at the township hall.

The dump in Tecumseh will be closed Oct. 1 and no longer available to residents of Franklin Township. Arrangements were made on a trial basis to use the facilities at the Lenawee Disposal Service located on Ogden Hwy., just off the Adrian-Deerfield Rd. Considering the fact that several companies are picking up in the township it was decided that residents who use the Lenawee Disposal Service will have to pay the minimum fee of $1.50.

The dump will be open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. every day except Saturday when it will be opened from 8 a.m. to 12 noon. Any resident in question about this matter contact one of the township board members.

In other business of importance, Wesley Whelan was appointed trustee to fill the vacancy left by Richard Platt, who is now serving as supervisor. Rolland Horton was appointed to fill the vacancy on the township zoning board.

The next regular meeting will be held on Oct. 1.

"Go-See" — Fun, Exciting

By DENISE CRISS

The last thing you could say about the United Methodist Youth Fellowship's "Go-See Expedition" is that it was uneventful. I mean, if you put three automobiles and campers, 16 teenagers, and four sponsors together, and you send them west for two weeks, then something is bound to happen.

And it did. From Aug. 2 - 17, 20 people had the time of their lives.

It all started at the unthinkable time of 5:30 a.m. on Friday, Aug. 2, when the 'menagerie' gathered at the church. Everyone said their last farewells to family and friends and the experience began.

It was a learning experience. On Saturday afternoon we arrived at the North-East District Center in Muskogee, Okla. We were hosted by the Rev. George Miller, who told us much about life on the mission. Sunday morning he invited us to attend the service at the Creek Methodist Church. The sermon was Creek and the lay leader was kind enough to translate it into English for our benefit.

We were then the guests of the Creek people for lunch. Each family invited three of us into their homes to share their afternoon meal. Some of the youth found the menu "interesting" to say the least. After all, not too many of us partake of catfish (including heads), a squirrel and rice casserole, or a dish called 'sofke' at our everyday meals.

The food, for the most part, was good, but the hospitality was excellent; as it was everywhere we stayed.

The next stop was the Bobb-Myers Church in Antlers, Okla. We were greeted by the Rev. Pipkin Gibson who prepared a question and answer session which allowed us to get better acquainted. Several of the Indian youth from the Chawktaw and Chickasaw tribes in the area asked questions of us, and we learned a great deal by talking with them.

On Monday we arrived at the South-West District Center in Anadarko, Okla., where we spent the night and talked with the Rev. Steve Chibitty.

The next night we were in Tucumcari, N. M., and then we stayed at Mesa Verde National Park. On Thursday we went to Farmington, N. M., and visited the Navajo Methodist Mission. The people there were kind enough to give us a tour of the mission, including the school, dormitories, and the church. The church is simple but very beautiful and has many hand carvings on the inside. It is to this Navajo mission that we gave the $100 so generously given to us by the North Blissfield Lutheran Church.

It was also a fun experience. Some of the other places we visited were the Petrified Forest, the Painted Desert, the Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City, Yellowstone National Park, and Mount Rushmore.

Of course, we had our problems, but other than a couple of flat tires, a little brake trouble, and a bear who decided to eat our breakfast, everything went well — considering, of course, that we travelled 5,889 miles through 14 states.

If you have any questions about the trip, contact Mr. and Mrs. Robert Meads and their daughter, Gail, or Mr. and Mrs. William Davis and their son, Craig, or any of the rest of the group: Pamela Zorn, Sonja Sprague, Richard Skinner, Helen Schooley, Mary Records, Donald Porteous, Judy Packard, Andrea Oeamb, Teresa McClain, Larry Mauer, Luanne Hand, Richard Hale, James Hale, or Denise Criss.

Empty Leash — Lost Man

By BILL SANFORD

The ad reads "Lost Saturday evening one female dog, part Corgy and part Pomeranian. Light tan color, weighs about 20 pounds, short legs, curly bushy tail, has red collar with Utah Rabies tag. liberal reward. Answers to the name of "Ginger."

Tom Phillimore and wife are from Pittsburgh. He has retired and is visiting in the area for a place to settle down with his wife. He likes the vicinity and what it can offer to someone who wishes to relax and live the September years in a sort of contentment.

Last Saturday night their little dog Ginger disappeared. It was a hot night in the apartment in Adrian where they were staying. The little dog preferred to be outside where it was cooler. Someone left the door ajar enough for the bushtailed dog to leave the apartment and go down the stairs and outside. She disappeared.

Tom Phillimore looked all night for the dog without any luck. He called the police to watch for the small tan animal, but they did not have any luck either.

During the month's stay at the apartment at 122½ E. Maumee in Adrian, it was a familiar sight to see Ginger and her master sitting on the entrance steps to the apartment over Crown House of Gifts. Tom would sit drinking coffee while his little dog ran up and down the street.

Saturday night it was a lonely sight to see a man walking the streets with an empty leash.

The Phillimores were due to leave Adrian on Monday to return to Pittsburgh. They could not leave without knowing of the whereabouts of a little dog that adopted them in Provo, Utah, in September of last year.

Her previous masters had "kicked" her out along the way. She had ambled up, hungry and dirty, to the motel where the Phillimores were staying. She had been living on garbage and whatever else she could find. She looked at them with a "Buddy can you spare a dime" look and they took her in. She was cleaned, fed and nursed back to health.

She came down with a case of distemper and Mrs. Phillimore nursed Ginger by hand, feeding aspirin to her.

When the little dog had regained her stature in the canine world again, the Phillimores set out to find the owners. They finally found them. They didn't want the dog and told the Phillimores they could keep her. The Phillimores replied, "They already had her."

She was given her shots. The couple go to Canada occasionally and so Ginger became a part of the family, complete with shots and papers. She was a bonafide member of the Phillimores. She took to traveling like a veteran.

Late Saturday night when Tom Phillimore was looking for his dog a carload of teenagers stopped and asked how his dog was, they had often seen him during the past month sitting by the sidewalk with the little animal. They asked if he had had her at Tecumseh Park that afternoon. The man and his dog had not been. Another carload stopped shortly after that and asked if he were looking for something.

Whatever became of a little dog on Saturday evening is still a question. Mr. Phillimore has offered a liberal reward for any knowledge of Ginger, dead or alive, he can't go back to Pittsburgh without knowing.

Should you walk down E. Maumee, a slight frail woman standing in a doorway might ask, "Have you seen a little dog about so high and so big?"

If you look down the street you can see a short man with greying hair walking to the corner in his vigil for a dog nobody wanted. In his hand he carries an empty leash.

(Editor's Note — On Monday dog Ginger was found and the ad will not appear in The Herald. The Rev. C. L. Crenshaw of Adrian saw the little dog on the street Saturday night and believing it lost, took it home. Rev. Crenshaw and Mrs. Albert Caesar and the Pet Watchers of Tecumseh work together to find lost pets and to care for those abandoned. Rev. Crenshaw heard the announcement over the radio of the little dog's disappearance and the contact was made.

Tom Phillimore was out searching for the little dog at the time. His wife and Etta Kull went to pick up the dog. When Tom returned home Ginger was asleep in the living room, tired from her ordeal. He broke into tears. He had had many experiences in this area in the past, business-wise and on visits. He was soured on the people and the vicinity. Things are different now, several people aided in finding the little lost dog, including Mrs. Caesar and the Pet Watchers, Rev. Crenshaw and a little Spanish boy who didn't leave his name. Tom's outlook on the area has changed, he is looking forward to returning he likes the people, and all because of a little dog nobody wanted.

Monday night Mr. and Mrs. Tom Phillimore walked down the street with a little dog with short legs, light tan in color, and a bushy tail . . . .)

November Vote On Saving Time

The Michigan Farm Bureau is urging a "No" vote on Proposal 2 to be on the Nov. 5 ballot.

In their publication, Michigan Farm News, for Sept. 1, 1963, it reads:

Election Day — Nov. 5, 1968 — farmers will have an opportunity to correct the wrong done when the federal government mandated Daylight Saving Time. In Michigan this meant (in effect) "Double Daylight Saving Time" in that most of the state is now two hours ahead of "sun time".

The proposal on the ballot will read:

Proposal No. 2 — Referendum on Act 6 of Public Acts of 1967 (Daylight Saving Time)

Public Act 6 provides that Michigan shall be exempted from observing daylight saving time. The purpose of this referendum is to approve or reject this act.

Shall the State of Michigan observe daylight saving time

Yes_____ No_____

The News article continues:

The November 5 vote will be our last chance to determine the time that Michigan will observe in the future. The opposition is extremely strong. Michigan farmers probably will have a greater financial stake in this issue than anyone else. This could be the last summer that farmers will be on Double Daylight Time. It is not too early to begin urging a "no" vote on Proposal 2.

OUR READERS WRITE

TO THE EDITOR:

Do you visit loved ones in the hospital? Do you smoke? Are you so compelled to smoke that you can not wait just one-half hour to do this? Do you realize that doctors have no smoking signs up in their offices? Yet you go visit that same person in a small room, and puff away like it was going out of style. You leave after a half-hour or so, because you "don't want to tire them", boy! What's left to breathe, but stale cigarette smoke filled air.

Suggestion for every hospital room, visitors, no smoking. Now, if the patient smokes at least you need not feel guilty of destroying the good clean air left after they smoke. This is no joke — it is a very serious problem for smokers and especially non-smokers and those few like me, "cranks" I guess we are called, but I like me that way.

Signed: Concerned.

ASC Elections Next Week

Third week in September has been set as the period during which elections of community ASC committeemen will be held throughout the country, according to Roland Russell, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

Elections in Lenawee County will be conducted at meetings held in each designated ASC community at 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 17.

Listed are the communities and meeting sites for this area.

Cambridge Community, Onsted Fire Hall, Onsted.

Franklin Community, Town Hall, Tipton.

Clinton and Tecumseh Community, Tecumseh Grange Hall, on Milwaukee Rd.

Macon Community, Macon Township Hall, on Welch Rd., west of Ridge Rd.

Raisin Community, fire hall at Holloway.

Ridgeway Community, Britton Fire Hall, Britton.

Last year was the first year for a uniform voting period for community committeemen elections. Officials view it as a means of increasing voter participation by focusing greater attention on the important election of some 75,000 committeemen in about 25,00 rural communities.

Community ASC committees assist county committees in the local administration of such ASCS farm action programs as the Agricultural Conservation Program, the voluntary Feed Grain and Wheat Programs, the Sugar Beet Program, the Price Support Loan Program, the Wool Program, the Conservation Adjustment Program and the Farm Storage Facility Loan Program.

All farmers who are eligible to take part in one or more of the farm programs administered by the committees are qualified to vote in the community election. Lists of eligible voters in each community are available in the county ASCS office. Eligibility to vote or to hold office as a committeeman is not restricted by reason of sex, race, color, religion, or national origin.

Almost any farmer who is eligible to vote and lives in the community is eligible to run for community committeeman.

The community ASC committee to be elected will consist of a chairman, a vice-chairman, and a third regular member, as well as two alternates. The regular members of the committee also will serve as delegates — and the alternates as alternate delegates — to a county convention, where farmers will be elected to fill vacancies on the ASC county committee.

The county convention will be held at 9:30 a.m., Thursday, Sept. 26, in the Lenawee County Court House.

Goodwill Industry Explained to WSCS

By KAY STEELE

Mrs. Ray Soreghy, executive director of the Adrian Goodwill Industry, presented an informative and enlightening talk on the Goodwill facilities to the opening meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Tecumseh United Methodist Church.

Mrs. Soreghy, explaining that the handicapped are no different than anyone else except in opportunity, praised the fine program in this county, ranking it among the finest in the country. This was attributed to the excellent cooperation which the Goodwill receives from schools, business, industry and the general public.

According to Mrs. Soreghy, the purpose of Goodwill is to train the handicapped person for independent living with dignity as the most prized possession. In doing this, Goodwill offers two distinct programs — the sheltered workshop where industrial tasks and other skills are performed adequately by the handicapped without the pressure of the normal industrial situation. The second program is the rehabilitation services program, Adrian's being the only successful one of its kind in the nation, where the Goodwill provides and sells service.

The Adrian concept, for which the local industry just received national recognition, offers six programs — home aid, handihelp, mechanical and electrical, contract shop, sales training and clerical.

Following the program, the Rev. Donald Porteous installed the officers of WSCS. This was followed by the business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. William Steele Jr.

Three new directions are being taken by the Society this year.

The Bible study will be held in the circles allowing more to participate.

Second, each circle has adopted three women from the Chelsea Home as honorary members.

Third, the annual Fall Festival is being planned for Nov. 13.

Greeters for the evening were Mrs. Lorena Johnstone and Mrs. Larry Kimble. Devotions were given by Mrs. Harry Farley and Mrs. Wilfred Waldron. Mrs. Gerald Rendel and Mrs. Julius Vincze were in charge of refreshments.

Rev. Jerry Towne Elected President

Sixty-two attended the 56th Lenawee County Florida Reunion Saturday at the IOOF Hall in Jasper.

Eighteen attended for the first time. The ladies aid of the United Brethren Church served swiss steak dinner followed by a meeting.

Leo Wagner gave the invocation, followed by group singing led by the Rev. Jerry Towne.

New officers elected are:

President — The Rev. Jerry Towne.

Vice-president — The Rev. J. J. Nofzinger.

Secretary - treasurer — Mrs. Herbert Munger.

Assistant secretary — Mrs. Roy F. Willnow.

Program chairman — Mrs. Charles Howe.

A memorial service was held for deceased members, Glenn Kemp, vice-president for 1968, Mrs. Grant Snedeker, past president, Mrs. Willis Palmer, Elmer Pocklington and Mrs. Benjamin Gurin.

Mrs. Albert Gilhouse played the piano and the Rev. Towne read "Crossing the Bar."

Mrs. Lyle Bailey presented the program. Mrs. Bailey read the history of the reunion from 1910 until the present.

Allen Gilhouse played the accordian and Mrs. Munger gave two humorous selections. Mrs. Howe and Mrs. Ezra Nuroth also gave readings.

Members decided to meet the Tipton Community Church for the 1969 reunion.

Ruhl's Citgo Is Slo Pitch Champion

In Slo Pitch Softball action, Ruhl's Citgo grabbed the Tecumseh Slo Pitch championship with two wins to end the season.

Last Wednesday, C. E. Locker and Mario Sanchez were the winning battery over Bart Thilo and Roger Waldron of Wagon Wheels.

Locker pitched his team to an 11-6 victory. He got a hit in the fourth with Sanchez getting a walk. Vern West came to the plate to hit them home.

Friday's action found Citgo ahead, 10-4, over Kemp-Murphy, as Locker and Sanchez were again the winning battery.

Doug Ives and Ed Martin were the losing pitcher and catcher.

West got a hit in the fifth with Alan Vallad coming to the plate to hit a triple — enough to give Citgo the game and the championship.

Farm Bureau Says 'No'

By M. L. WOELL

of the Michigan Farm Bureau

Apparently this summer's experience with daylight-saving time has done nothing to convince Michigan farmers that it is a good idea. According to Livingston county farmwife, Mrs. Andrew Jackson, (Claudine) — "Sunday morning we were really wishing some of those who support 'double daylight' time would volunteer to come and get the cows in. At 5 a.m. it was dark, wet underfoot and raining. The cows knew it just wasn't time to go to the barn in all that darkness, so it meant going around the pasture and inviting each one to get up. By the time over 70 had received their personal invitation, we were soaked and had lost almost an hour, and needless to say, it didn't improve our outlook in the day or the farming business.

"One can't help but wonder which is the most important — an extra evening hour to play golf, or milk for the baby? To the golfers, it probably would be golf . . . "

Farmers call it "Double-Daylight Time" because the federal Act placed most of Michigan two full hours ahead of "sun" time . . . giving them a too-early start in the day on work such as hay, fruit or grain harvest which cannot begin until the day dries off. "As we finished the hay, we came to the conclusion that we haven't been able to start baling a single day before noon. Any hired help we have wants to live by 'community' time, so we often lose them just when our work is going best . . . " Mrs. Jackson says.

It appears that most farmers have tolerated daylight saving time as a somewhat silly nuisance and something to be done away with as soon as possible.

That opportunity, farmers are quick to point out, will come election day, November 5, when the question of federally mandated daylight saving time will appear on our Michigan ballots. The proposal on the ballot will read:

PROPOSAL No. 2 — Referendum on Act 6 of Public Acts of 1967 (Daylight Saving Time)

Public Act 6 provides that Michigan shall be exempted from observing Daylight Saving Time. The purpose of this referendum is to approve or reject this act.

Shall the State of Michigan observe Daylight Saving Time?

Yes or No.

Fed up with the whole idea, farmers are urging all-out support for a "No" vote.

Youths Seeking U. S. Appointment Must Apply Soon

Michigan high school students seeking appointment to one of the U. S. military academies should apply to their senators or congressmen no later than Sunday, Sept. 22, U. S. Senator Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., announced this week.

Reason for the new deadline, Griffin said, was due to the Navy Academy's request that nominations be submitted a month earlier than previous years.

As a result, the Civil Service examination, usually held in November, will be held Saturday, Oct. 5.

To qualify for appointment to one of the service academies, an applicant must be a resident of the State of Michigan, unmarried and a U. S. citizen. He must be at least 17 years old but not yet 22 on July 1, 1969.

Applicants are asked to notify Senator Griffin of their interest by writing him in care of the Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. 20510.

. . . . . TO DO THESE THINGS

The dark ugly shadow of Chicago doesn't fade much, does it? There is no escaping the fact that we are a troubled nation. The events of Wednesday, Aug. 28, brought many of us up short. The TV coverage of the riots and the convention — well, did they not bring home the fact that now is the time when we must all become concerned!

As Mom, Dad and I watched what was happening in Chicago that evening, it was hard to believe that such things were truly going on. To see policemen swinging billy clubs as they waded into the mob was shocking and frightening.

Our first reaction was NO — not in this country. Then the cameras showed the crowd. The upraised right arms and the chanting of the Nazi slogan left us aghast. Was this Chicago in the sixties or Europe in the thirties?

The crowd was reacting to the police tactics but their way of protesting was unexcusable. The police, on the other hand, were reacting to the crowd violence and, while law and order must be maintained, is this the way?

ON THE NEWS program Thursday morning, Barbara Walters repeated a conversation she had had with a Chicago policeman. He said that maybe the police had handled the situation poorly but, after all, they were trained to deal with criminals . . . . . to be in the middle of an unruly and excited mob was frightening . . . . . perhaps' things looked different at street level than they did from the hotel windows. Should possibly our police forces be trained in riot control — I thought some of them were. How dreadful though that it must even be considered.

Why are such demonstrations so much a part of the present scene? Peaceful and nonviolent are two words usually used to preface the word demonstration and that is sheer mockery. They stay peaceful and non-violent only as long as nothing and no one interferes. Observance of the law and respect for private property are ignored. Perhaps the key word missing today is RESPECT.

On this same Today program, they were discussing the explanation one youthful demonstrator gave as to why he was in Chicago. He was there protesting because it was something he believed in.

The reporter's response was that perhaps he had a point because after all, one of the important things we try to teach our children is to be strong and stand up for what they believe. Agreed — but I wonder if there should not be equal emphasis placed on letting the other person have his beliefs.

And this brings us to the convention. Time and time again there were delegations who got up and walked out. The explanation was, of course, protesting.

The action always received publicity and thus focused attention on their causes. But what exactly did that accomplish? I kept thinking about the 'little spoiled brat' who, when the game does not go his way, picks up his playthings and goes home.

IN A 'morning after' interview Hubert Humphrey stressed that people who disagree with a theory or policy must realize that, once they have had the opportunity to express their theories, they cannot cry foul if everyone else does not give in or rally to their side.

He was speaking primarily about the convention — but can it not be transposed into everyday life? And does not this bring us right back to the word RESPECT?

No society has ever existed without law and order. Admittedly, there are many things wrong today and many injustices, but is rioting and breaking the law any way to correct them? Our form of government provides ways of changing laws.

The process may be a bit slow and extremely frustrating, but it works. Obeying only those laws which at the moment one agrees with or finds convenient just won't work. All of our laws must be respected — when they aren't, look at what happens. Look at Chicago.

So it is that the Democrats selected their nominee and the protestors had their say but certainly, in this great country of ours, there must be better ways to do these things!
